BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

"Dear Miss Glad: I know it's a decided confession of ignorance—but I wish you'd tell me just what the difference is between cold cream and cleansing cream. I suppose I should know, but I don't. I'll be eternally grateful if you'll tell me if both these preparations are used for the same purpose, or if their uses differ. KATHIE."

There really is not a great deal of difference between cold cream and cleansing cream. Cleansing cream is usually light in texture and melts to an oil at body temperature. And while cold cream is, as a rule, of a stiffer consistency, there also are a number of light, fluffy cold creams. Both types of cream may be used for cleansing the skin. However, cleansing cream is usually used for this purpose only, while cold cream may also be employed for nourishing and softening the skin, and for protecting it against the elements.

"Dear Miss Glad: That reducing course in your 'New Figure' booklet sure is effective. About two months ago I was a good 30 pounds overweight. But I've been following the course in your book, and now—well, my boy friend's been paying me all sorts of compliments since. He likes 'em slim, you see. However, I've heard that hair-pulling is very good for the hair. Can you tell me if this is true? THERESA."

It is indeed true that pulling the hair helps to improve the health of the scalp and hair a good deal. This, however, does not mean that the hair should be yanked any old way. The hair must be pulled evenly and carefully. The proper way is to take small strands of hair and give them quick short tugs, pulling the hair all over the head in this manner strand by strand. This procedure stimulates the circulation in the scalp, and helps to make the hair thicker, healthier, and stronger.

"Dear Miss Glad: Although I have a very oily skin, my complexion is very clear. However, I've been told that cleansing cream is beneficial for cleansing an oily skin. Do you think that a skin of my type would really benefit from cream cleansings? ROWENA."

I personally do not think it harmful to submit an oily skin to one cream cleansing daily, providing that the correct sort of cream is used. A heavy cream shouldn't be applied to an oily skin, as it is likely to aggravate the oily condition. A thin, liquefying cleansing cream may be employed, however, if it is well removed afterwards. Dirt and grime sink deep in the pores of an oily skin. And a thorough cleansing method is necessary. It is a good plan first to apply a pure liquefying cleansing cream when cleansing the oily skin at night. This will soften the skin, open the pores and loosen the embedded particles of dust and dirt. Then remove the cream and scrub the skin well with tepid water and a pure, bland soap. Finish up with the application of a good astringent, to close the pores and to remove any remaining vestige of grease. Try this treatment. You soon can see if it benefits your skin or harms it.

Regent Park Theatre Open Summer Season

LONDON, May 10.—(C.P.)—The loveliest theatre in London—that is the open air in Regents Park—will begin its summer season of Shakespearean plays at Whitsuntide with "As You Like It."

The theatre's success in its first year encouraged Sidney Carroll to make it a permanent institution. The stage has been enlarged and raised and suitable "rakes" given to both stage and auditorium, after the shifting of 100,000 cubic yards of earth. This year there will be no complaints from people unable to see, and more than 3,000 will be accommodated in comfort.

To a large extent the enterprise is a gamble with the weather. Last year conditions could hardly have been better, but the management are taking no risks with 1934. Plays can be quickly transferred under cover to a large marquee which is one of their fixtures.

SAVE ½ THE WORK and have the Same Fine Looking Floors!

Constant "going over" Unnecessary

Smart housewives everywhere are proving that weary hours of waxing, rubbing and polishing floors CAN be cut in half.

There's an easier way, a quicker way to care for floors. The SHINE and SHUFFLE TEST proves there is a difference, that there is ONE floor wax which enables you to have good looking floors all the time and save one hour's work in every two.

THE SHINE AND SHUFFLE TEST

While you still have some of your present polish left, get from your dealer a tin of Poliflor and test them both side by side. Use Poliflor on any one floor in your home where the finish must be right. Then take a floor where wear is extra hard and do this with Poliflor Wax.

Then on the balance of your floors use the polish you always have been using. Test the results you get from both finishes over a period of time—we leave the decision to you.

LIFE OF ABRAM KEAN, SEAL KING ONE OF THRILLS AND ADVENTURE

Newfoundland's Famous Skipper Has Brought in Million Seals.

ENTERED POLITICS

By W. B. TEMPLE
Central Press Canadian Correspondent

SAINT JOHN'S Nfld., May 10.—Newfoundland's sealing industry, with its perils and hardships, strikingly illustrated three years ago in the Viking disaster, has ever appealed to the imagination of the world, and when the veteran of all sealing captains, Hon. Capt. Abram Kean, his four score years only one lap away, was able to record the rounding out of a million seals' pelts brought in by ships under his command, the picturesque and personal side of the industry captured the popular fancy.

As one sat and talked with Capt. Kean in the comfortable parlor of his home it was difficult to realize that he answered to 70 years, and most of them years of a seafaring life i n northern waters and amid Arctic icefloes.

The early years of this veteran sealing master's life were rigorous enough. He was born in 1856 of Bonavista Bay, two small isolated islets, separated from each other by a channel of 100 yards, lying ten miles off the coast. His parents could not read nor write, but young Kean was sent to school for four years.

Iceberg Turned Over

At 13 he went cod fishing with his father on the inshore grounds and later to the Labrador coast in a fishing schooner, becoming master of a vessel at 23. But even before this he had been "to the ice." At 17 he shipped on board the brig "Peerless" under his uncle's command and for ten successive springs made voyages in this sailing vessel, advancing to "second hand," or chief officer, by the end of that time.

Of his voyages in this vessel, before steam made the sealing voyage more or less a matter of calculation, Capt. Kean tells one thrilling experience.

It was frequently the custom for these sailing vessels to tie to an iceberg. These heavy and deep-floating ice masses are less affected by wind than field-ice, and a berg will plough its way through the more rapidly drifting floe, giving shelter to a ship in its lee. Mate Kean and a group of men were sent out in boat to prepare a "score" on the berg. A "score" was a horseshoe-shaped trench cut in the ice in which a looped cable from the vessel was laid, both ends of the cable being taken aboard. When it was desired to slip from the berg one end was let go, all sail hoisted, and the rope pulled free. While Kean and his men were chopping the "score" the field ice drifted past and the berg broke out into open water where a heavy swell was heaving. On the swell the huge berg began to roll, and Kean called to the men to tie themselves to the ice. Three times the berg rolled them all under water. "We did not get wet," declared Capt. Kean in describing the incident, "for the ice water froze immediately on our clothes and made a water-tight coating." Fortunately all held on, and as the berg was again surrounded by field ice within a quarter of an hour its rolling ceased, and their ship was able to approach and rescue them, coated in a mail of ice, from their perilous plight.

Ship Breaks in Two

In 1889 Capt. Kean secured his first sealing steamer command, taking out the "Wolf" in which he secured in successive voyages a total of 155,579 seals until that brave little ship was broken in two by rafting ice off Fogo, in 1896. How suddenly the might of these drifting Arctic floes may wreak disaster on human construction is graphically told by Capt. Kean in the loss of the "Wolf."

The ship was going northward in open water in moderate weather on a fine March afternoon just outside the edge of "standing ice," that is, ice which had frozen to the headlands and was not drifting. Without warning hundred-mile-wide ice floes began to pack on the land and the "Wolf" was caught between the rafting and the standing ice, and within 20 minutes "buckled like my elbow," as the captain described it, her back completely broken. Nevertheless, such is the nonchalance of these sealers, the crew remained on board their doomed ship all night as it was held up by the pressure of ice, and at daylight, taking their clothes bags, food and gaffs, assembled on the ice in preparation for a walk to land eight miles distant. Before they left the scene the ice pressure relaxed and the "Wolf" quickly sank. Without much adventure her crew reached Fogo that evening.

Entered Politics

Politics early attracted Capt. Kean. At the age of 30 he was a candidate for the district of his birth—Bonavista—and was elected, representing the district for three years as Conservative. His political career was temporarily abandoned thereafter until 1897 when he was elected for Bay de Verde district and sat with the Winter-Morine government until the stormy scenes which followed the famous Reid railway contract, and was defeated in the subsequent debacle. Although continuing his interest in politics he was not again elected, but in 1927 was appointed to a vacany in the upper chamber by the Monroe (Conservatitve) administration, thereby taking the life-title of honorable.

Capt. Kean's political ideals inevitably made him enemies. When three-score men from his son's ship "Newfoundland" perished in the 1914 seal fishery, Capt. Kean was the target for very severe criticism on the part of opponents lead by Mr. (now Sir William) Coaker, then president of the Fishermen's protective Union. The victims of the disaster had been on board Capt. Abram's ship during the morning and had been fed, shortly after starting to return to their own ship a few miles distant. Not long after a terrific blizzard came on and overwhelmed them.

Meantime Capt. Kean's son Westbury, on board the "Newfoundland," presumed his men were still on board his father's ship, while the latter believed they had reached their own, and was worrying about getting his own crew safely on board. Not until too late to aid, even had aid been possible in the roaring blizzard and grinding ice, did the two captains learn by radio that some of the "Newfoundland's" men were still on the ice. Capt. Kean suffered much mental torture from the cruel and exaggerated criticism — most of it for political purposes and most of it unjustified.

The total of seal pelts brought in by Hon. Capt. Kean in his various commands makes an imposing list. It was in the "Terra Nova," which ship sill holds his deepest affection, that he secured during 15 years a total of over a quarter of a million pelts. It will be recalled that the "Terra Nova" accompanied Scott on his last and fatal Antarctic expedition.

Naturally Capt. Kean's record of 1,007,319 seals is to be marked by presentations. The Newfoundland board of trade, of which the captain was president in 1930, will honor him with an official presentation of a replica of the "Terra Nova," in addition, Bowring Brothers, whose ships he commanded during most of his voyages, and who were owners of the "Beothic," in which he has recently completed the million, are also making a presentation of a statuette and a gift of $1,500 to mark their appreciation of his work.

Capt. Kean, while what is known among his men as a "driver," and insists on strict discipline and action, is deeply religious and confided to the interviewer that he had never "called any of his men out of their name"—and never used an oath in his greatest annoyance. He is also a tetotaller and non-smoker. Verging as he does on 80 years, his comparatively youthful bearing would point to many more years of active life. In fact he confidently hopes that he will next spring again command a sealing ship and continue to add to the second mil-

Lazy John Gets Spring Fever

By SPINSTER JANE

By SPINSTER JANE.

There's something comes o'er us in spring
That makes us different, quite;
An inner urge, as natural
As flowers turn to the light.

I've always found it mighty hard
To gratify this urge.
The heap of work to do chants out
My wishes' funeral dirge.

This year, things worked out fine for me,
Because my Mary Ann
Lost all her bees. They froze to death,
Though packed up, spick and span.

Into her hands, and cried.
What could I do but comfort her!
So, sitting by her side,

"Cheer up!" said I. "Don't feel so blue!
Now listen what I'll do;
I'll give you money, here and now.
Send out and buy a few."

She raised her head and smiled at me.
"You mean that? Honest, John?"
"Of course, I mean it. Dry your eyes!
Our slogan's 'Carry On'."

She bought her bees. Then yesterday
That spring urge bothered me.
It said as plain as anything,
"Bull-heads are biting! See?"

I left my plow and went inside.
Said I, "I'm always wishing.
But here, to-day, it's got me bad.
I feel I must go fishing."

She scowled at me. "And spring work on!
Why, John!" And as I stood
A thought struck me. I paused and said,
"Don't those news bees sound good?

"I've missed their humming just as much
As you could, Mary Ann."
At that, her laugh trilled gaily out.
"I'll go look up a can,

"And dig your worms, you silly man!
Go put your horses in.
You've kept at work quite steadily,
A day off is no sin."

It almost took my breath away,—
I could but stand and stare.
"Why, Mary Ann!" I blurted out.
"And won't you really care?"

She shook her head, and pointed out
To where the new hives stood.
"I've got to even things a bit,
By being extra good."

It's all because of honey-bees
That used to make us fight,
Or has that spring urge come to her?
I wonder which is right.

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

NOW THAT the bang tails have been running for four days at Kenilworth, the form players are beginning to get a fairly good line on the hides and the regulars are burning the midnight oil scanning the charts in the hopes of raking in a few of the shekels. Everything has been fine at Windsor so far except the attendance which has dwindled from a fair opening day crowd to well below the 1000 mark. These kind of crowds would be considered immense at some tracks across the line, but in a racing hotbed like the border city, they are not nearly as large as expected. But the season is still young yet.

Sir Byron is gradually rounding into shape according to the latest inside stuff. He was not taken south this past winter as usual but was rested up at the home farm so he may be a little later than usual rounding into tip top condition but he will account for his share of purses without too much delay. We suppose you notice where Art Halliwell reached in and claimed Sun Shadow and Style Corner the other day. He obtained two mighty sweet horses in the deal and will get what they cost him right smartly. One thing about Halliwell, he always claims live horses and he knows the proper place to spot them.

LLOYD GENTRY figures on Lady Hockberger being a good meal ticket for him this year. She finished a rapid running second to Canny Scot at Kenilworth on Tuesday and about next time out should do the necessary . . . . Wentworth looks headed for a successful season in the Canadian bred ranks. He sure can turn on the juice when in a running mood . . . . A trick called Butter Beans who has been knocking them dizzy down around Baltimore is up this way now and should just laugh his way around in those one and one eighth mile affairs. . . . . Don Tasker is another newcomer in our midst but has been a successful campaigner across the line for the past couple of years. One thing to remember about this one is that he likes a little mud under his feet but is no slouch on a dry track either.

BEARS BUNCH HITS TO WIN FROM TORONTO

Wings Blank Chiefs 2-0 to Deadlock Albany and Syracuse for 5th Place.

MILD SHAKE-UP.

(By The Associated Press)

Along with the now-historic recalled forfeit which marked the season's opener between Albany and Toronto, the first tie game of the International League season now is a matter of record, and a rather costly affair to the teams involved.

Montreal Royals and Albany Senators battled through 11 innings of a slugging spree to a 7-7 draw yesterday before darkness halted their efforts. As a result, Montreal lost a chance to go into a virtual tie for third place in the standings when Toronto took a 4-1 trimming from Newark Bears and Albany wound up deadlocked with Syracuse for fifth instead of being ahead after Rochester blanked the Chiefs 2-0.

Except for the lack of a decision it was an exciting game, marked by two of those rarities in the Montreal park, home runs. In the first inning Jimmy Ripple hit for the circuit with one on and started the Royals off to a 3-0 lead. The Senators got those back only to have Billy Rhiel send Montreal out front again with a homer.

Albany rallied again against the flinging of Johnny Pomorski, recently returned to Montreal from the White Sox, and went into the last half of the ninth with a 7-5 lead. Hal King's double wiped that margin out and neither team could score again as the ace flingers, Ray Fritz and Alms Hearly, finished the duel.

9th Straight Win

Rochester's Red Wings, losers of only three games this season, rang up their ninth consecutive triumph and the second shutout for John Berly.

Second place Newark Bears did an effective job of bunching their hits off Walter Hilcher and Jimmy Pattison, a pair of Cincinnati farmhands, to score in four separate innings while Floyd Newirk allowed only one Toronto run on seven safeties.

The Baltimore Orioles, who scored 23 runs against Buffalo in a seven-inning clash Sunday, cut loose with the same sort of hitting to win 20-6 in the regulation nine frames.

FOUR TEAMS IN SOFTBALL LOOP

Clerks and St. Andrew's Will be in Field With Two New Squads.

GAMES START TUESDAY

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 10. — When the Campbellford Softball League swings into action on Tuesday next, there will be four teams in action for the season. The Clerks, last year's champs, will again take the field with more or less of their regular line-up. St. Andrews Club this year will play in the place of the old St. Andrew's team of last year, although this team will feature some of last year's players.

The Aces will be a new aggragation in the league and promise to put into the field some real good ball players, while the fourth outfit is being sponsored by Ernie Wilks, and will comprise players from the mill as well as other locals.

A ruling passed this year calls for a maximum of fifteen players allowed to sign on each team,three of whom must be new players to the league. Vince Farrell was named chief umpire of the games, the first of which will be played on Tuesday next between the Aces and St. Andrew's.

SEVEN HOMERS 28 OTHER HITS CHICAGO TANGLE

GIANTS, PIRATES LOSE.

(By Cahadian Press.)

Chicago's Cubs went back into the National League lead when they came through with a 10-9 victory in their opener against Brooklyn, while St. Louis handed the Giants a 4-0 blanking that dropped them a half-game into second place.

Dizzy Dean was responsible for New York's first whitewashing of the season, holding the world champions to five hits and fanning seven. The Cubs and Dodgers loosed a blast of home runs, seven in all, with Chicago piling up a big early lead on a 20-hit attack.

Pirate Streak Ended.

Pittsburgh's five-game winning streak came to a sudden end when young Curt Davis of the Phillies pitched his team to a 6-2 triumph. Davis stopped Gus Suhr's hitting streak after it had reached 17 games to duplicate one by Carl Reynolds of the Red Sox which ended on Tuesday. Paul Waner, however, managed to keep going through his 16th straight game.

Boston Braves had a hitting field day at the expense of Cincinnati pitching, all of them but Pitcher Ed. Brandt figuring in the 18-hit assault which brought a 10-3 victory.

WALTER MARTIN IS RATED HIGHLY

Player Around Whom Canadian Davis Cup Team for 1934 Should be Built.

C. H. PETERS COMMENTS

In a series of articles entitled "Canada's Davis Cup Prospects," in the Montreal Gazette, C. H. Peters rates Walter Martin highly. He says: "Walter Martin of Toronto and Regina would appear to be the man around whom the Canadian Davis Cup team of 1934 should be built. First ranking player in Canada and one still capable of considerable improvement, he is a big, strong and aggressive hitter whose game is well developed for both singles and doubles.

"Well over six feet and built in proportion, Martin is a husky athlete and he had made use of this power in developing a hard-hitting game. His forehand and backhand strokes are cleanly hit, he has an effective service and overhead, and his volleying tactics are sound...in the last couple of years he has managed to place his whole game under much better control. His main trouble now is his temperament which he is also endeavoring to adjust more effectively to his tennis needs.

"Besides being a likely choice for singles, Martin would also appear to be the best doubles prospect. The problem would seem to be to find him a partner...one who would fit in with Martin and would be able to develop some kind of teamwork before the matches against the United States."

NINTH INNING COMEBACK WINS FOR ST. LOUIS

WHITE SOX IMPROVE.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

Judging by the very first result, which may be quite misleading, it appears possible that Jimmy Dykes, whose name seldom is mentioned without the adjective "peppery" being attached, is just what the doctor ordered for the Chicago White Sox.

Turn on Senators.

The Chicago line-up has had a somewhat dangerous look all season with such clouters as Al Simmons, Mule Haas, Luke Appling and the flashy rookie, Zeke Bonura, but it was not until the first game after Lew Fonseca was ousted and Dykes installed as manager that the Sox turned in a really high class performance. Then, with Simmons still on the side lines, they broke out with a 13-hit attack on three Washintgon pitchers while the ancient Milt Gaston hurled three-hit ball and defeated the league champions 8-1

The triumph didn't even come near to hoisting Chicago out of the league cellar as St Louis Browns, after losing five in a row to eastern clubs, turned on the league leading Yankees and blasted out a 9-8 triumph with a five-run rally in the ninth Even Babe Ruth's seventh homer of the season didn't make any difference to the battling Browns once they got started on Russ Van Atta.

Philadelphia and Boston, still tied in the standing, moved up a notch to make third place the subject of their argument as they defeated Cleveland and Detroit respectively. The A's had to go 10 innings for a 5-4 decision after O'Dell Hale had clouted two home runs for the Indians. The Red Sox won in regular time when Rookie Fritz Ostermueller turned in a great relief pitching job after taking the hill in the seventh with the bases loaded and none out.

W.O.W. RECEIVES HOPE CUP, EMBLEMATIC OF LOOP HONORS

Champions Boast Total of 108 Points, Ten Above Runners-up.

ST. JOHN'S 19 SECOND.

With the presentation of the Hope Cup, symbolic of the city carpetball championship for the year, to the Woodmen of the World, the City Carpetball League wound up its season last night. A banquet in St. Luke's Sunday School attended by one hundred and fifty persons, among whom were representatives of twenty-two teams, marked the occasion.

Boasting a total of 108 points on the season's play, the champions enjoyed a ten-point lead over the runners-up, St. John's No. 19, who took second place with 98 points. Third position went to St. George's No. 17, with 97 points, and fourth to All Saints' No. 1 with 96 points. Loyal Orange Lodge No. 2 team was tied with St. John's No. 10 for fifth place, both have 95 point totals. The award went to the L.O.L. team by reason of a seasonal average of 55 as compared with the St. John's average of 51, St. John's taking sixth place.

A special prize provided by an anonymous donor for the team with the best average outside the prize winners, was awarded to the Knights of Pythias No. 18. The St. George's No. 3 squad took the Reach Trophy, a donation of the Peterborough Softball Association. Posession of this trophy was decided in a straight elimination series with St. John's No. 12, the runners-up.

The presentation of a new annual challenge shield to the league by Dr. N. H. Sutton was an outstanding event of the evening. In memory of the late Larry Beasdell, who was a brother-in-law of the donor and a carpetball enthusiast, the trophy will be known as the "Larry Beasdell Memorial Shield" and will be at stake in competition next season.

Chairman David Leeher, in an address to the gathering, declared the season just concluded to have been one of the most successful yet enjoyed. Despite the fact the play commenced last October 10 and continued until May 5, the six winners were decided only in the last week of play, he pointed out. The membership in the league showed a great increase and apparently would be even greater next season. Each of the twenty-two teams played eighty-four games.

Presentation of the awards, which bore with them handsome prizes for each member of the winning teams, was carried out by Rev. G. J. Bousfield, Rev. E. R. James, Rev. J. L. Hughes; F. J. Parsons, vice-president; and C. W. Wiggins, past president. Among those who contributed to the musical section of the program were Miss Phyllis Starr, Miss Muriel Davies, Jimmy Sands, R. R. Payne and George E. Groombridge.

W.O.W. No. 8.—C. Murray, G. Dixon, C. Ross, F. Murray and A. Murray, skip.

St. John's No. 19.—H. Burrows, A. E. Kelsey, C. McDermid, T. Williams, and J. H. Cridland, skip.

St. George's No. 17.—R. King, Mr. Cole, D. Macfarlane, W. Stephenson and D. Leether, skip.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

One of our leading golfers recently stated that he always got a good shot—when he shifted his weight properly.

His statement was no doubt intended as a boost for proper weight shifting. But the real story back of it all is this—any player who has learned to shift his weight correctly never fails to get off his left foot in the backswing.

This part of the swing should be made a habit, so that it will be positive at all times.

LARGE SCORES ARE FEATURE CHURCH LOOP

GAMES TO-NIGHT.

Large scores marked the three Church Softball League games played last night. All Saints' Juniors took a 15-7 nod over St. John's, George Street Juveniles beat St. Andrew's 20-3, and St. John's walloped Trinity Bantams, 31 to 16. Rain caused the first game last night to be called in the sixth. G. Seabrooke pitched steadily for the winners, with Young and Patterson alternating for St. John's. Worsencroft and Loescher played well. All Saints' got six runs in each of the first and fifth, and one each in the other frames. SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. P.

Yesterday we purchased a 1934 baseball rule book. We used to think we knew all the rules in baseball, but have long since decided that no one knows 'em all—grizzled managers, protest committees, or umpires. And players and fans even less so. A scorer is supposed to have a pretty fair knowledge of the "scientific game", but we'll tote our little book to games in the hip pocket and whenever anything tough comes up, we'll sneak a look at it and make sure. A guy can spend a lot of hours studying the sixty or so pages in the rule book with the seventy-one rules, each with a flock of sections to it. But he'll still be tripped up by the unexpected that makes baseball the game it is.

• • • • • •

A casual glance at the diamond layout figures shows that the bases this year will still be ninety feet apart—that is, if Orme Gambay isn't laying out the diamond! If Orme does the job, second base may be parked in somewhere back of the pitching box where a weak-armed catcher can get his peg down in time to nick a base-stealer. We see also where a coach is forbidden, and players, too to incite by word or action the fans to demonstrations, nor use language which will in any way reflect upon a player of the opposite club or the umpire. We're going to dust off that old expression: "Oh, yeah?" in a minute and use it. When Kingston comes here, all the rules in the books won't' stop the local players from insulting 'em with gusto and frequency. And they'll hand it back!

• • • • • •

And so it goes. The book covers pretty nearly everything but certain situations arise which give the umps a severe headache, and cause a new ruling to go into the next year's book. We don't care how long a chap has been connected with the game, nor how well he thinks he knows the rules, he can be tripped up. We've got a number of oddities concerning baseball rules kept on file and if anyone thinks we can't stick him, why he can make himself maybe a finif or so by proving it to us. Here's one a lot won't be sure about: Does a thrown glove have to come in contact with a batted ball to entitle a runner to advance three bases? The answer is "Yes." And there are dozens trickier than that.

Rube Brady, who is running a bantam ball team this year and calling it the Leafs, wrote to Manager Ike Boone of the Toronto Leafs telling him about it. Ike wrote a very nice letter back, part of which read: "I sincerely hope that your bantam team comes through in fine style and that I may have the pleasure of reading about them as Ontario champions this fall. Peterborough is famous for its championship minor teams and I have seen several of them perform during the fall season in and around Toronto."

The Kingston scribe makes a rather silly remark when he says, The conviction grows that the Ponies are not going to miss McQuaide and Compeau as much as expected." No not any more than a gal would miss her lipstick! Clark, Scrutton and Jerry Arnell will likely make up the outfield, with Vince playing at home. Boyd is expected to take Da Mick's place at short and may be fairly effective but will lack Compeau's color by several buckets. Eddie Foxton and Jimmy Arnell will do the catching while the twirling staff will include, Jamieson, Fournier and a bird named St. Louis.

We are awaiting with much interest the announcement that Knotty Lee has hired his bat boy for the season. This is a highly important position. "Whitey" had the job last year and may get it again. The duties of a bat boy are many. Sometimes known as the "squidge", he must be prepared to have the can hung on him at least ten times through the ordinary schedule and maybe four or five times during the playoffs. If one of the Petes pulls a costly error in the field, or does some dumb base-running, what happens? The bat boy is immediately fired by an irate coach. If the umpiring is terrible, somehow the blame falls squarely on the shoulders of ye bat boy. If a ball goes over the fence or into the river, the bat boy must use discretion. He must throw out a soggy or roughened ball if the visiting team is at bat; but if the home team is "in", then the ball must be glistening white and brand new. He must keep from under the feet of the coach and players, yet the same time be handy in case he is to be bawled out. Yeah, verily his duties are manifold. Oh, yes, and he must also take care of the bats!

Lasses Large-ball League—or the gals' softball circuit, if you insist—will be made up of six teams this year, Sixth Line being the latest enery, Bolstered with a couple or three damsels from Warsaw the Lang charmers' only worry now is another pitcher. If we looked anything like a gal, and could pitch, we'd get a clean shave, done a pair of beach pyjamas and apply for the job. Maple Leafs, Westclox, Keene, Omemee and C.G.E. are the other entries. They start a week from Monday, and will play a double-schedule in two halves. The Kenesky ball was adopted. With two teams less than last year entered the brand of ball dished up should be better.

Belleville is running a big sporting program in connection with its Centennial on June 17, 18 and 19. It may run all week with baseball, softball, hoss-shoe tossing, golf, fishing bowling, tug-of-warring and what have you? The Petes will be playing a C.O.B.L. game down there that week. All athletes taking part get special medals. Should go over okay. At least, it ought to be as good as the Centenial sports in Toronto this year—or didn't you know they were on?

Between yawns (in this lazy weather): Tuesday church softball games resulted in a 22-19 smirk for Knox Juveniles over Trinity, and a 23-22 squeeze for St. Paul's Bantams over Mark St. . . . . E.P.L. holds a soap-box session, a short one, at eight Sat'day eve in Duffus' . . . . Nothing more on the proposed lacrosse game here this weekend . . . . School games tomorrow are: Kng Edward at Queen Mary, King George at Prince of Wales, and Central at Queen Alex . . . . C. G. E. men softballers workout tonight at 5.45 in Central, and it's Fashion-Crafts there tomorrow e'en . . . . Gardner and Foley have signed with this latter crew . . . . And we hear Brintons may drop one or two of their twirlers, still having several left.

THE CLASS of horses at Mr. Orpen's Oval this year is a little above the average and it looks as if we will see some high class ones perform on our circuit this season. We note that Fore Erie is taking advantage of the new amendment and is running a full fourteen day meeting in July. This is the first Ontario track to try this experiment.

Calchas, the wild horse which George Hardy of the Harber stable claimed last summer at Montreal is quartered at Thorncliffe and on Saturday last went three-eights of a mile in five seconds flat. Hardy claims he has taught him post manners and that this year he will not be putting on rodeo performances every time he faces the barrier. In speaking of Thorncliffe we might mention that this track is in better condition right now than any track in Canada . . . . Norman McLeod has his good sprinter Candy Man training at this oval and when the Toronto season opens a week from this Saturday he will be ready first rattle and roll. Word comes from Windsor that Don Vern is on razor edge and is just rarin' to go. As one colored hide skinner remarked to another after a workout the other morning. "That Don Vern sure can circulate." This nag also comes from the Halliwell barn.

SPIRIT OF RICKARD RETURNS, COL. HAMMOND BACK IN OFFICE

Organizer of Pro Hockey in Gotham Plans to Carry on Work of Late Promoter.

ASSOCIATE OF "TEX."

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP)—The tall, white-haired West Pointer, Col. John S. Hammond, is back in Tex Rickard's old quarters, and Madison Square Garden looks more like its former self than at any time since the death of the great promoter over five years ago.

Hammond, who led a syndicate that bought control last week of the $7,000,000 structure he helped Rickard build nine years ago, moved into the very office on the third floor where Tex planned his greatest achievements. The only thing missing was Rickard's old bronze desk, once the workbench of President McKinley.

Hammond helped Rickard organise the financial structure of the Garden, and was the first to bring professional hockey into New York. He was president of the Rangers until 1932.

"I was forced to resign then, fired actually," he said, "but I swore I'd be back. I haven't stepped into the Garden from then until to-day. In the meantime I had lots of leisure to think. And the more I thought of Rickard, the things I saw him do and helped him do, the more I realised his genius. All I can do is try to do things as I think he would have done them. I feel in a way as though Rickard were back again."

NEWCOMERS CRASH BIG SOX CIRCUIT

Kiki Cuyler and Sam Leslie Threaten Reign of Carl Reynolds.

Two new names crashed the ranks of the Big Six today to threaten the reign of Carl Reynolds, Red Sox outfielder, who continued to maintain his big margin over the small and select group.

While Reynolds only hit once in four trips to the plate to give him a 19-game average of .467, Kiki Cuyler of the Chicago Cubs entered the circle as the leading National League batsman with 19 hits out of 48 times at bat for a .396 average. Sam Leslie, a Big Six in-and-outer, belted his way back into the fold.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Elsie M. Gates,
5 Dunlop St., City.

Your handwriting for analysis represents artistic qualities. You should be very fond of romance, and also be somewhat of an idealist. You are gentle and kindly, feeling attracted to suffering humanity. You are sensitive, and rather inclined to hide your feelings from the world at large, but were you to make a real friend, you would confide your hope, doubts and ambitions. You are a neat and refined person, and you love to dress according to your own individual standards. You prefer quality to quatity at all times. Office work should interest you. This, of course, covers a wide field, but as you are so intelligent, you will no doubt understand why it is almost impossible to wish just one line of endeavor upon you. Your 't' bar crossing illustrates a fair share of will-power and determination, but not too much of either qualification. Travel should have an appeal to one of your keen perceptions, in that it would bring mental respite and new thoughts to your agile brain. Your general character is fine and agreeable. You are adaptable and considerate. You are born under the sign of Cancer the Crab, and you are ruled by the Moon. February and September are your most fortunate months. Mondays seems to be your lucky day. Nine is your lucky number.

Joseph M. Garvey,
R.R. No. 1, Doure, Ont.

Your handwriting for analysis reveals keen ingenious intelligence. It shows introspection and genuine application to the work in hand. You have a tendency to worry over detail, and yet you do not appear to carry out detail, or else you do not like to engage upon detail or routine. It is rather a contradictory propensity, and I feel sure you will appreciate what I mean. I might describe at length this trait of yours, but will say, that many officials of note who are in a position to govern others, worry over the details, yet are quite incapable of carrying them out. You are secretive when necessary, but have a happy faculty of knowing when to be, and when not to be. Your capital letters with their printed formations indicate that you can be sharp, and it gives you possibilities along draughting lines. You do not seem the type of person to 'mix' well in society, yet on the other hand, if you have something in common about which to converse you can be delightfully interesting and friendly.

Evelyn Johnston,
Campbellford, Ont.

Your handwriting denotes 'insecureness' of consecutive thought. It would seem that the wires, which connected your thought waves to your brain were distorted. Perhaps you are dissatisfied and do not know what you really want to do, at present. There are many worthwhile occupations which you could undertake with merit and much credit to yourself. But you would have to be in a well organized house of business, and pay strict attention to the smallest detail. You do not like routine but in your present condition of unrest, routine and discipline are absolutely necessary in order to bring out the real you. You have unbounded talent and the ability to finish any task you undertake, provided you accept facts as they are, and not as you want them to be. A love life is preferable to you, because kindness and protection among congenial surroundings would create a pleasant atmosphere and lift the weight of indecision from your timid disposition. You asked for number and lucky day, but only gave me December as a date upon which to work. If from November 23rd to December 22nd your sign is Sagittarius. If December 23rd to January 20th it is Capricorn the Goat. I advise you to learn all that you can about household science.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, May 11

A day of stirring events, with much commotion and excitement, is the augury read from the predominant lunar aspects. There may be a sudden disruptive influence bringing about sweeping changes, calling for new environs, fresh interests and probably strange associates and contacts. All should thrive with industry, diligence and the support and encouragement of superiors or employers. But be alert to petty enmities, treachery and loopholes for fraud or malice.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for an eventful and exciting year with an unexpected change sweeping in its bearing on the future life and fortune. Radical change, new environs and associations with entirely new opportunities are offered, and these should thrive with the co-ojeration and friendly support of employers or those in power. But restrain undue excitement and beware subtle enmity, duplicity or envy.

A child born on this day may be independent, original, inventive, adventurous and may travel far and attain consplouous position, although eccentric and willful.

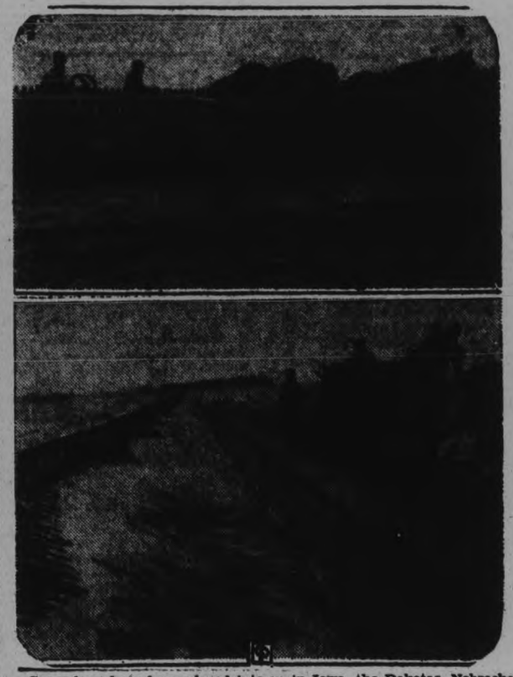
Western U.S. Deluged By Dust Storms



Snowplows have been placed into us in Iowa, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Minnesota and surrounding states as a result of terrific dust storms which have swept fine particles of dust into huge drifts on the highways and farms. The dust also has been disastrous to stock, scores of cattle having died as a result of eating dust-covered food. The photos show farmers plowing away the dust near Spencer, Ia., where the drifts were heavy.

EXPECT FAVORITE TO MAKE RECORDS FOR NATIVE TURF

Horometer's Trainer Looks to His Horse Continuing Victorious Career.

ON VARIOUS TRACKS.

By D. E. BURRITT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, May 10 (C.P.)—Courageous, mild-mannered and responsive to the least incentive, Horometer, a three-year-old gelding from the stable of R. S. McLaughlin, appears destined to ascend the throne of Canadian turfdom.

Thoroughbred quality in Canada admittedly is an all-time peak and, as they predict around Woodbine Park where the King's Plate has been run for the last half century, the bay son of Hourless and Star Pal, will develop into possibly the best Canadian-bred ever produced.

Not since the colorful St. Bass captured the King's Plate in 1911, has trainer Harry Giddings seen such impressive style as displayed by Horometer, which gained easy victory in every start as a juvenile. If it were not for the McLaughlin nominee, the 76th running of North America's oldest continuously-run fixture might develop into an uncertain race.

But the jovial Giddings, reputed to be the finest conditioner and trainer of horseflesh in the Dominion, and known in the United States for accomplishing what he undertakes, can see only the McLaughlin color-bearer this year. If Horometer fails to break the unequalled mark of 1.55 1-5 set by R. W. R. Cowie's Queensway over the mile and an eighth course two years ago it will be for lack of competition, in the opinion of Giddings. He trains a half hundred horses for the McLaughlin stable, and has another 30 under preparation for the Woodbine opening, May 19.

And Giddings should know all about King's Plate competitions. He has been training horses for a quarter century and six times has saddled a winner in the historic fixture, worth 50 guineas from the King with $7,500 added by the Ontario Jockley Club. In both 1931 and 1932 he prepared Cowie's Frothblower and Queensway, easy winners of the trophy. His proteges also have captured every important stake in Ontario, and Giddings, twice holder of the Plate before sale of his father's Oakville stable in 1922, is counting on Horometer to repeat these feats—and more.

"You can't tell definitely what he'll do in older company," said the trainer, "but Horometer is by far the best horse I've seen entered in the King's Plate. He's sounder than St. Bass, Queensway, Hearts of Oak, Frothblower or Beehive, and does everything asked of him."

The only other serious contender in the race, as far as Giddings is concerned, is Pitchblende, Cowie's three-year-old Chestnut gelding that won its three starts as a youngster. But Giddings, with both nominees as his entry, thinks the Cowie horse can run second at its best. Beyond that it's an open race between the rest of the company which he described as equalling that of "an average year."

If Horometer fulfills expectations of his trainer and, incidentally, the racing public which has made him top-heavy favorite for the King's Plate, he probably will travel with selected company in the United States. Giddings knows those ovals, too.

City Bowling League Championship

Duffus' Recreation Academy team won the championship of the city when they defeated the Y.M.C.A. bowlers in a six-game series, three games being played at each alley. Although the "Y" took four of the six games they lost on pinnage the Duffus crew winning by over two hundred pins.

Good scores were turned in by both aggregations, the highest single game going to the "Y" with a score of 1258. Weese was high man for the night with a great total of 1491. He was closely followed by Fred Martin and Jack Playford with 1454 and 1419. The "Y" outfit used the sub system, having the low man drop out, so their scores are given on four and five games. Nels Routley hit 1158 for five games and Bill Stanbury 1137 for the same number. Lewis had 1077 for five and Gimblett 926 for four.

Fred Martin's 320 was the highest single score with Bill Stanbury's 294 next.

TREND TOWARDS ADVISORY BOARD IN GOVERNMENT

MULTIPLY IN CANADA.

TORONTO, May 10 (C.P.)—Out of a world-wide depression has come the "Brain Trust," an institution devised by President Franklin Roosevelt of the United States to wield, in some instances, government power and in other to assist the administration to make up its mind. The "Brain Trust" is making headway in Canada.

It has become a significant factor in government in British Columbia and Alberta. In each case it crept in beside NRA legislation. The city of Montreal acquired a "Brain Trust" when it recently elected Camillien Houde mayor, and the country at large may have such a board shortly.

The Federal Government's Marketing Bill went before the House of Commons with a clause that would set up a board with wide powers over distribution of natural products. Liberals have attacked the measure heatedly, declaring it contravenes provincial rights and places an unfair government direction over private business.

Should the Marketing Bill emerge intact from parliament, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett would be in a position to appoint the first Federal "Brain Trust." How its duties would compare with those boards that surround Washington governmental branches, dealing with monetary, trade and domestic business problems, remains to be seen.

Mayor Houde's seven-man Advisory Finance Committee is composed of both English and French-speaking members. They are "dollar-a-year" men. The committee's appointment was Mayor Houde's first step in his campaign to rehabilitate Montreal financially.

When Premier T. D. Pattullo put his Special Powers Act through the British Columbia legislature this year he opened the way for establishment of two "Brain Trusts." One, the Economic Council, he quickly set up with Dr. W. A. Carrothers as chairman. This body advises the government in monetary matters.

The act also gives the premier authority to appoint a board to advise the administration on labor and wage questions. Hours of labor, minimum wage acts and such problems will be dealt with by this committee, known as the Board of Industrial Relations.

When the Alberta Legislature passed the Natural Products Marketing Act, it paved the way for appointment of an administrative board which would work hand-in-hand with the marketing "brain trust" named by the Federal Government. In addition, Premier J. E. Brownlee contemplates an industrial advisory board, similar to that of British Columbia.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

MONTREAL PRODUCE

After holding steady for several days, butter prices advanced on the Montreal produce and dairy market yesterday.

Due to decreased supplies, fresh No. 1 butter in carlots or less advanced ¾c to 1c at 20c to 20c½ a pound. Receipts were only 142 boxes. To retailers solids were 21c and prints 22c a pound.

Egg receipts were heavy, totalling 4,210 cases, but graded shipments in carlots or less were steady. 'A' large were quoted at 19c to 19½c a dozen, 'A' medium at 18c to 18½c, 'B' at 17c to 17½c, and 'C' at 15½c, with Western shipments being sold at ¼c above the maximum of the general prices.

Potatoes were firm at 85c to 90c for Quebecs per 80-pound bag, 90c to 95c for New Brunswick Mountains per 80-pound bag, and $1.10 to $1.20 for Prince Edward Island Mountains per 90-pound bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Sensationally aggravated drought whirled wheat up yesterday to 2¼c above last week's low, but big profit-taking sales led later to small net losses.

Dust storms were reported over wide areas both in the United States and Canadian wheat territory, with no moisture of consequence anywhere, and the official forecast pointing to likelihood of rainless skies ahead. Temperatures, however, promised to be lower and frost was looked for in Nebraska and South Dakota last night.

Wheat closed nervous, ½c-⅝c under Tuesday's finish, corn ⅝c-¾c down, oats ⅝c-¾c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2 cents.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, May 10. M A late reaction yesterday robbed wheat prices of an early gain of more than 1 cent, but left the wide advance of Tuesday dnimpaired. Closing quotations were ¼c lower to ¼c higher.

May wheat closed at 69c, July at 70¼c, and October at 71¾c. A good demand for wheat sent all futures up over 70c in the early stages, but speculators tossed their commitments back on the market near the close.

With the Government agency filling most requirements, exporters took wheat in the neighborhood of 750,000 bushels, giving the market a sound undertone. Traders viewed light rains in Western Canada as insufficient to do much good to seeded crops. A large volume of wheat changed hands during the day.

Beer Restaurants For City Opposed By T.P. Lancaster

Opposed Clause in Caucus and Will Continue to Oppose It.

PREMIER HENRY SPEAKS.

Erection of the New Bridge Over Otonabee Announced.

Announcing his stand on the beer and wine question, T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P., in addressing the huge rally of the Peterborough Liberal-Conservative Association in the Legion Hall yesterday afternoon, at which he was the unanimous choice as candidate for the newly-formed riding of Peterborough in the coming provincial election, stated definitely his opposition to the granting of beer and wine licenses to any restaurants or cafes in this city.

"I opposed the restaurant provision in caucus," he told his audience, "and I shall continue to oppose it as it respects this city. I am of the opinion that such licenses, however necessary they may be deemed in other sections of the province, are not at all necessary here."

He supported the policies of the Henry Government fully in all other respects, he stated, but if elected he will insist that any wider distribution of beer in this city will be through a limited number of standard hotels only. He pointed out that the beer legislation will not affect the county district, since it is a district that voted "dry" local option, and will remain "dry" under the new legislation.

Mr. Lancaster announced that the erection of the proposed new drawbridge over the Otonabee River at the locks, on the southern extremity of the city, would be accomplished for certain this year. He stated that he had interviewed Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, and secured the definite assurance of the Minister that work on the bridge would be started at once. He had obtained the assurance of the Ontario Department of Highways that its share of the construction of the bridge would no longer be delayed, difficulties concerning the financing of its erection having been erased.

Mr. Lancaster won the acclaim of one of the most enthusiastic political meetings ever held in Peterborough as Liberal-Conservatives throughout the riding pledged him their whole-hearted support in the coming campaign. The large hall could not contain the crowd, estimated at more than 700, and it

SHOWDOWN NEAR UPON WAR DEBTS

13 COUNTRIES INVOLVED.

WASHINGTON, May 11. (AP). President Roosevelt, because of four little words tucked into the Johnson Act, has called for a showdown in the war debts problem.

Word circulated through diplomatic channels to-day that further token payments on June 15 would fail to ring up a "No default" sign on the treasury's register. The doors of United States money markets under the Johnson Act are closed on all defaulting nations.

The Act bars financial transactions with any country "in default in the payment of its obligations," and adds the four words: "Of any part thereof."

Envoys of at least five debtor nations, it was learned in authoritative quarers ,have been informed by William Phillips, under secreary of state, that although this country would be delighted to receive any payments they cared to make on June 15, tokens would be accepted merely with "thanks."

The decision means that unless there is a new deal in the debt lineup—and the president left the door open for negotiation—13 nations must pay $175,000,000 due United States on June 15 as coming within the purview of the new law.

Stratford Relief Men Quit Stone Pile

STRATFORD, Ont., May 11 (CP) Unemployed workers on the city's stone pile threw down their sledges this morning and refused to continue operations on this phase of the city's relief program About 15 men are involved. While there has been an undercurrent of discontent among the stone pile workers for some time it was brought to a head as a result of a serious eye injury to one of the workers, when struck with a chip of stone.

The men further claim that other workers have been injured. They point out that the city has a stone-crusher and therefore this phase of the work, in addition to being dangerous, is not necessary. The stone is being used for road repair work.

After the walkout the pile was picketed, but to avoid trouble the men were assigned to other work.

New Beer System Is Not Wide Open, Declares Premier to The Examiner

"What I particularly want to stress is, that it is not to be a wide-open system," stated the Honorable George S. Henry, commenting on the proposed beer and wine legislation in a statement to the press last evening. "It is merely an extension of the present system, under control, with the thought that the greater use of beer will discourage the use of hard liquor."

Interviewed at the Empress Hotel and asked if he had any comment to make on the "beer and wine" question, the Premier readily consented to speak. Explaining that it had been his intention to discuss the issue at the Liberal-Conservative convention in the afternoon, but that he had become side-tracked on a discussion of other matters, he said: "There has been a good deal of conjecture as to what is intended by the amendments in beer and wine legislation. The amendments are intended to widen the powers of the Liquor Control Board with the thought that the greater use of beer will discourage the use of hard liquor. In that way I believe lies the true step towards temperance progress."

Mr. Henry remarked there would be those who were opposed to the measures and would say that the increased use of beer would not discourage the use of hard liquor, suggesting that people who drink beer do not as a rule drink hard stuff. "I cannot argue with such extremists," he declared.

He promised that the same consideration under the amended legislation would be given to dry sections as had been hitherto shown. "No liquor whatever," he said, "will be introduced into sections where opposition is shown to it."

Asked if he was prepared to announce the date of the election, Mr. Henry replied, "I have not decided upon that yet."

"When are you likely to make announcement?" he was pressed.

To that Mr. Henry stated he was withholding his decision in order that he might be better able to decide upon a date for the election that would not seriously interfere with the farmers of the province. "The season is late," he commented, "and the farmers have a lot of work to get caught up on."

INSULL REFUSES TO ENTER PLEA ON FRAUD COUNT

Council Challenges Ex-Utility Magnate's Arrest at Instanbul, Turkey.

CLAIMS IT ILLEGAL.

CHICAGO, May 11 (AP)—Samuel Insull was freed from custody of the Federal Government to-day on $200,000 supplied by a surety company after he had declined to plead guilty or not guilty to the indictments that accused him of fraudulent use of the mails and violating the bankruptcy laws.

CHICAGO, May 11 (A.P.).—Samuel Insull refused to-day to acknowledge the jurisdiction of the United States District Court and uttered no plea to the charge of violating the Bankruptcy Act and using the mails fraudulently in selling his company stocks.

Brought from the county jail for his formal arraignment before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan, the elderly prisoner remained silent and aloof while his counsel entered a plea challenging his seizure in the harbor of Istanbul as illegal and refusing to plead him guilty or not guilty.

His fellow-defendants on the bankruptcy charge, however, entered their pleas of not guilty, and Judge Sullivan, without discussing the value of Insull's contention, postponed the hearing until next Tuesday.

Bail Arranged.

Insull immediately retired to the Judge's chambers, and his attorney, Floyd E. Thompson, announced that surety companies were scheduling the $200,000 bond which would make unnecessary his return to the county jail.

At noon a surety bond for $200,000 already signed by Insull himself, was approved by U.S. District Attorney Dwight H. Green and signed by Federal Judge Sullivan. The bond was furnished by the Fidelity and casualty Company of New York.

Insull was taken in hand by deputy sheriffs, who served warrants, alleging larceny and embezzlement from funds of the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment Company, and took him to criminal court building on the west side.

There property had already been scheduled toward the $50,000 bond required on the State charges, so that release was in sight.

PALESTINE ASKS 10 MILLION LOAN

Sum Asked from Britain to be Used for Water, Farming Schemes.

(By George Hambleton—C.P. Staff Writer).

LONDON, May 11 (C.P. Cable).—The Holy Land is marching with the times.

A resolution authorizing the British Government to guarantee a $10,000,000 loan for Palestine, which is administered by the United Kingdom under league mandate, was introduced in the House of Commons to-day by Leslie Hore-Belisha, financial secretary to the Treasury.

Nearly half of this sum, or $4,665, 000, will be used for water supply and drainage schemes in Jerusalem, Haifa and Hebron and other places. Another $2,035,000 goes for public buildings, including a new post office and telephone exchange in ancient Jerusalem.

A sum of $1,000,000 is earmarked for agricultural credits, to enable the Government of Palestine to assist long-term credit scheme for Arab and Jewish cultivators alike in the plains, and Arab cultivators in the hill districts.

Another $1,250,000 will be employed in the re-settlement of Arabs displaced by the increased Jewish settlement—partly caused by the exodus of Jews from Nuzi Germany.

For construction of an oil work and reclamation scheme in Haifa, the remaining portion of the loan of $1,050,000 is set aside.

FRANCE IS PERILOUSLY NEAR GOING OFF THE GOLD STANDARD

Italy Selling French Bonds Anticipating Lowered Franc Value.

ENORMOUS DEFICIT.

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

PARIS, April 28.—France is struggling desperately to remain on the gold standard. Behind France stands the entire European gold-block consisting of Switzerland, Belgium, Holland, Germany and Italy. As far as gold is concerned these countries are indissolubly bound up with France. If France goes off gold, they must inevitably follow suit. Should this happen it would mean nothing less than a monetary revolution, not only in France, but a complete overhaul of the world's monetary systems with unavoidable and deep-going repercussions everywhere.

The question is now: Can France hold on? Will the Cabinet of M. Gaston Doumergue earn its name of "a government of national salvation" in so far as the national currency is concerned? Government spokesmen and high officials of the Bank of France interviewed to-day, were unanimous in their affirmation that the franc is safe and sound and that it can withstand some rude shocks yet. Following a long conference yesterday, Henderson and Barthou, accompanied by their advisers, met again this morning at the Foreign Office, and after Henderson had left for London to acquaint the British Cabinet with views of the French Government.

COUNTY JUDGE OF PETERBORO' FOR 25 YEARS

Death Came Suddenly at Midnight From Heart Attack.

NATIVE OF PERCY.

Called to Bar 1886 and Appointed to Bench in 1909.

Ontario's legal fraternity today mourned the death of Judge Edward Cornelius Stanbury Huycke of this city and one-time Mayor of Cobourg. He died from a heart attack at his Engleburn avenue residence at midnight, in his 75th year.

His Honor, it is learned from a member of his family, was stricken with a heart seizure shortly after one o'clock yesterday afternoon, from which he failed to rally.

On Monday last he presided at Division Court here, and as recently as on Tuesday presided at a court sittings in Norwood, while on the day following he was in his chambers at the Court House for a greater part of the morning, and in the evening entertained at his home, Mr. Justice McEvoy, who was presiding over the recently completed sittings of Supreme Court, and other friends.

Judge Huycke suffered a previous heart attack about two years ago, but despite that fact he resolutely resumed his judicial duties as soon as his weakened state of health would permit. Not only did he preside at sittings of the County Court of Northumberland and Durham, but he also filled the breach caused by the lamented death of Judge Richard Ponton, on the Victoria County Bench following the interval of some months that elapsed before the vacancy was filled by the appointment of Judge J. A. McGibbon.

Born In Percy

Judge Huycke was born in Percy Township, Northumberland County on March 16, 1860, and was the son of the late James Kempt Huycke, and Annie Stanbury.

Commencing his education in Campbellford Public and High Schools, he passed to Victoria University, Cobourg, where he took the degree of B.A., 1883, (and LL.B. 1887), and afterwards taught classics in Cobourg Collegiate Institute.

Deciding upon law as a career, he studied with the late Hon. William Kerr of Cobourg, and with the firm of Smith and Rae, Toronto. He was called to the bar and commenced practising law in Cobourg in 1886. He was created a K.C. in 1902, and in April two years later, he was appointed Junior Judge of Haldimand County but for private reasons declined the appointment.

He married Rose Meredith, youngest daughter of the late J. C. Field, ex- M.P.P. in 1887. She predeceased him some few years ago.

Before accepting his judgeship here, he had been a Liberal in politics, was ex-president of the local Liberal Association, and aided his party on the public platform and in campaign work. He was a member of Cobourg Town Council for some years, sat in the Counties Council, and was Mayor of Cobourg from 1899-1902, and was also president of Northumberland Historical Society in 1901.

Prominent Churchman

Besides being regarded as one of the leading lawyers of Cobourg in his day, he was also reputed as an influential Methodist layman of the Bay of Quinte Conference. He was superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School at Cobourg for a number of years, and was always active and interested in all forms of church work.

At the time of his appointment as County Judge for Peterborough in succession to the late Judge Weller, on July 6, 1909, he was on the Board of Regents of Victoria College.

On Bench 25 Years

He was formally sworn to office as local judge of the High

Retired Musician Is Slain In His Home

NEW YORK, May 11 (C.P.). — A retired musician, Richard Becher, who used to play in Sousa's Band, was killed just before dawn to-day and his wife seriously wounded by an unidentified man who escaped without leaving a trace behind him or a clue as to his motive.

No one has been found who even heard the shots.

Becher was 61 and his wife is 49. She taught a sewing class at a nearby school.

Historic Date

PORT ARTHUR, May 11—(C. P.)—Alex Anderson today recalled an historic date.

Forty-nine years ago yesterday—May 10 1885 — Anderson connected the rails which joined the east-west links of the Canadian Pacific Railway 1½ miles west of Jackfish.

Connecting the two links was rushed to permit the passing of the first through train from the east to Winnipeg, carrying troops to quell the Riel Rebellion. Trains had prevously been operating on both links.

JULIAN BURIED IN PINE COFFIN NEAR SHANGHAI

Girl Who Tried Suicide at Same Time as Promotor is Only Mourner.

WEEPS BITTERLY.

Ex-Manitoban's Body Taken From Luxurious Casket as Funds Fail to Appear.

(By Morris J. Harris—A.P. Foreign Staff).

SHANGHAI, May 11 (A.P.).—C. C. Julian was consigned to the elements to-day in a beggar's coffin.

The body of the Manitoban promoter, whose meteoric career careened to great heights in California and Oklahoma oil fields and ended in suicide here March 25, reached its final resting place in an obscure corner of Shanghai's foreign cemetery.

Miss Leonora Levy, the Spanish Jewess who sought to accompany Julian in death by taking the same kind of poison, but who recovered, was the sole mourner.

Dressed in a snow white ensemble, Miss Levy appeared at the cemetery as Julian's body began the last pilgrimage to the grave.

When the cheap, unadorned pine casket entered the earth, the young woman wept bitterly. Then, alone, she trod dejectedly away.

Pastor Attends.

The Rev. Emory Luccock of Oak Park, Ill., pastor of a Shanghai American Community Church, who granted Julian a religious funeral service March 28, completed his task this afternoon.

In the brief commitment service, Mr. Luccock prayed that Julian's "life eternal may be comprised of experiences different than those making up his earthly career."

From the time of death to the grave, Julian's body occupied three coffins—the first two being luxurious caskets provided in anticipation of shipment for burial in the United States.

As no funds were received, except a modest sum from his wife in Winnipeg, the promoter's body was relegated to the cheapest pine box available.

The only means of identification on the coffin was a brass plate, nailed to the lid. On it was inscribed merely, "C. C. Julian."

SUIT IS GRANTED IN LEBRUN CASE

PAYMENTS BEHIND.

Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy in concluding the non-jury sessions of the Supreme Court yesterday granted the suit brought against Stephen J. Murphy, Ashburnham blacksmith by Marie Louise LeBrun and John Corkery executors of the estate of the late Honore LeBrun, to foreclose a mortgage on Mr. Murphy's blacksmith establishment.

It was shown in the evidence that in January, 1931, J. R. Corkery, solicitor for the LeBrun estate had advanced Mr. Murphy a loan of $500 from the estate monies, Mr. Murphy giving a mortgage on his property as security. Interest on the mortgage, payments on the principal and maintenance of insurance on the property were in default and the executors of the estate sought foreclosure of the mortgage.

F. D. Kerr, K.C., was counsel for the executors, and W. J. Arthur Fair for Mr. Murphy.

WHEAT PARLEY BREAKS DOWN DELEGATES QUIT

MEET AGAIN JUNE 27.

Big Four Exporters Are Unable to Reach Agreement.

LONDON, May 11 (CP)—The World Wheat Conference to-day adjourned until June 27, failing to get agreement that would permit putting into effect a minimum wheat price agreement in the near future.

The break over the price pact, drawn up at Rome last month, came among the Big Four exporters themselves—Canada, Australia, the United States and the Argentine.

One of them—name not announced but assumed to be the Argentine—was unable to support the scheme.

Other members of the conference felt that in view of the lack of unanimity among the exporting countries, further consideration of the plan in its present form is unnecessary.

That means the Rome Pact for minimum prices for world export wheat, designed to afford an increase up to 10 per cent over present levels, is dead in its present form.

Sub-Committee Named

But the conference appointed a sub-committee which will carry on the work. It will meet in London Monday to consider alternative plans.

The following official communique was issued at the closing of the sitting:

"The Wheat Advisory Commission, reinforced by representatives of those countries signatory to the TRIBUTE FROM BAR.

The sudden death of Judge E. C. S. Huycke cast a pall of sadness over Magistrate Langley's court this morning.

At the opening of the court, Magistrate Langley and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., referred feelingly to the unexpected death of Peterborough County's chief judicial officer. "He was a man who showed great ability as a lawyer previous to his appointment as judge, and on the bench he fulfilled that earlier promise of outstanding ability by his excellent work."

Stating that he was speaking on behalf of the local Bar, Mr. McElderry drew attention to Judge Huycke's interest in community affairs during this long residence in this city. "He was known and respected by everyone throughout the county," he stated. "He earned a prominent place among the county judges of the province, having been president of the County Judges' Association for several terms, and he rendered valuable services in the administration of justice.

"He was chairman of the Police Commission and he was the friend always of the returned soldier. He played a prominent part in community efforts during and after the war and his death is a serious loss to the whole county."

CIGARETTE TAX CHANGES KNOWN AHEAD BY FIRMS

Tips Given to Party Fund Contributors Says Macdonald Head.

NEW TURN TO PROBE.

Stewart Would Question Three Ministers on "Buying for the Gov't."

OTTAWA, May 11.—(CP) — Political campaign funds and their alleged value in obtaining favors from governments have been injected into the parliamentary mass buying committee's probe of the tobacco industry.

They caused one of the liveliest sittings yet held by the committee yesterday when Walter M. Stewart, president of the W. C. MacDonald Tobacco Company of Montreal, took the stand and launched an offensive against the government prior to being examined as to the profits of his company and its tobacco buying policies.

MacDonald's was the second largest tobacco company heard from. For several days before the officials of the Imperial Tobacco Company have been questioned by the committee.

Mr. Stewart started his testimony by asking leave to question three unnamed ministers on "buying for the government." When told he was there to answer questions not to ask them he alleged he had been solicited for a contribution to the Conservative campaign funds in 1930 by one Ward Pitfield of Montreal "a man close to the present Prime Minister."

Tips in Advance

He then alleged at least one rival company had advance information of the reduction in the excise duty on cigarettes made in the budget of 1932 and suggested this was the reward of campaign fund contribution. He had learned, he said, the Tuckett tobacco plant at Hamilton, owned by the Imperial Tobacco Company had been idle on the eve of the budget anticipating the tax reduction.

The Macdonald Company got no such tips, he said, because they made no contribution and maintained no lobbies at Ottawa.

The tobacco magnate, however, proclaimed his independence of other tobacco companies as well as of government and political parties.

"I am not going to discuss anything with my competitors," was his reply to a suggestion that tobacco manufacturers join in a plan to raise prices paid the farmers. The Macdonald Company, he explained bought no tobacco direct from the growers, but made its purchases through the Hodge Tobacco Company, a subsidiary, and other dealers.

Plow Up Fields

Over-production was the cause of the 50 per cent drop in tobacco prices since 1930, said Mr. Stewart. He said growers might be well-advised to plow up their fields.

The sole owner of the Macdonald Company, Mr. Stewart said he and his brother were willed the business by the founder, the late Sir William Macdonald, who died in 1917. Since then, he had bought his brother's interest. He drew no salary, but since 1930 withdrew $5,000 a week accumulated profits from a fund of $2,500,000 withdrawn from the capital of the company in 1930. This payment was not subject to income tax.

Keys!

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—(C.P.)—"A key to the city? Of course. Just a minute...."

Mayor J. Hampton Moore fumbled in his pockets for the key he was to present to Mrs. J. Hampton Moor at a function in her honor.

But the Mayor had changed his suit and the key to the city was at home. From his pocket came a chain of keys, and one was removed.

"Hmmpf," said Mrs. Moore. "Since he can't give me the key to the city, he gives me the key to the cellar. I'd rather have the key to the safe."

He read of a 50-year-old Easter egg, held by Charles W. Harvey of Eldorado, Kas., and promptly produced one he has been treasuring for 56 years.

It was given to him in 1878 by Carl Drummond, a playmate, who is ready now to appear as a witness.

LONG LIST WORK BEFORE HOUSE

Expect Public Works Bill to Come Up First of Week.

INVOLVES $4,000,000.

OTTAWA, May 11 (C.P.)—With the prospect of a fresh lot of Government Legislation coming before it next week, Parliament reassembled to-day after a day's recess. The Government's Public Works Bill and the measure to assist farmers in freeing themselves from debt will likely be introduced early next week.

The Public Works scheme is designed to provide employment and give impetus to the improvement in business which the Government believes is now definitely underway. It is believed it will involve an expenditure of between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 on the public works in the various province, and that the sum will be apportioned to the provinces roughly on the basis of population.

The sessional program is still far from completion. The highly controversial Marketing Bill is still in Committee of the Whole in the House of Commons without a single section having been approved. A number of Government amendments will be introduced to-day.

Considerable progress was made in the Banking Committee this week with putting the finishing touches to the new Bank Act. When it reaches the House it is likely to pass without prolonged debate but the committee still has the Bank of Canada Act to approve, and Opposition members are prepared to stage a fight for public ownership of the proposed Central Bank.

A long list of members who intend to speak in the budget debate remain to be heard. The Public Works Bill is certain to occasion much discussion, as it carried with it a schedule naming the works to be undertaken. Members are likely to have many suggestions of works in their own districts.

WOMAN IS HELD IN KIDNAP CASE

Los Angeles Police Expect Solution of Oil Man's Abduction in Few Hours.

SIX OTHERS TAKEN.

LOS ANGELES, May 11 (A.P.).—The sheriff's office to-day announced the detention of a woman in connection with the kidnapping of William F. Gettle, millionaire oil man.

The woman, described as a brunette about 30 years old, and fairly well dressed, fell into a police dragnet early this morning along with six other persons, who also were questioned.

After apparently examining the woman at some length, Capt. Norris Stensland, sheriff's office extortion expert, and a figure behind the solution of a number of other kidnapping cases here, said:

"It looks hot, boys! I think we have something. It is possible that we will have this solved within five hours."

To Stensland's declaration, Blayney Matthews, chief of the district attorney's investigators, added that their inquiries gave "promise that we might have something important."

Significantly this development came several hours after Ernest E. Noon, lawyer for the kidnapped oil millionaire, upon returning from a 35-minute trip, said at his offices he had obtained "very important information which may lead to the identification of the kidnappers." Whether there was a connection between the woman and his statement remained unanswered.

Hepburn Challenges Henry to Ask Price if He is Whiskey Agent.

TORONTO, May 11. (CP).—Conservative candidates in the running for the Ontario general elections to-day reached 53 as the government supporters continued forming their ranks for voting day. Two more Conservatives were placed in the field last night with the Liberals selecting another candidate to bring their number to 75.

T. H. Lancaster was unanimously chosen Conservative candidate in Peterborough riding yesterday where Premier George S. Henry addressed the convention. The other Conservative candidates to be nominated was E. Fred Singer, chosen by Toronto St. Andrew's Conservatives: The Liberal candidate is Albert E. Lyon of Perth who will contest Lanark.

Mr. Lancaster, editor of The Havelock Standard ,at present represents Peterborough county riding in the legislature but he was selected for the new riding when J. F. Strickland city, member, and five other nominees withdrew. Mr. Singer also is the present member for Toronto St. Andrew's.

Hepburn Challenges Henry

Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, addressed the Lanark convention at Perth and renewed his charges against the government regarding operation of a "toll gate" system in the Ontario legislature. He challengel Premier Henry to ask Ray Price, Conservative candidate in West York, if Mr. Price had been or was still Ontario agent for Teachers' whiskey.

Ray Price's brother Harry is present member for West York but is not running in this election and has denied connections with agencies for distilleries that sold to the Ontario Liquor Commission. Mr. Hepburn alleges British distillers are forced to obtain agents before placing their liquor with the Commission.

Toronto St. David's Conservatives meet to-day to choose a candidate. Premier Henry speaks at Marmora while Mr. Hepburn will appear with Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King before the Toronto Women's Liberal meeting. South Essex Conservatives meet in Kingsville to select a candidate and Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Minister of Highways, will be the speaker.

THAT "LIKE THE DICKENS" FEELING IS LIVER

Wake Up Your Liver Bile. Feel Fit. You Needn't use Calomel To Do It.

It's your liver, failing to pour out the vital two pounds of bile, daily, into your bowels, that makes you feel so off-colour.

Lack of bile means poor digestion. Food stays too long in your bowels and decays. Your system is poisoned. You go through the misery of gas, bloating, pain, heartburn. You have a dark brown abominable taste in your mouth and bad breath. Your skin's unhealthy and often your head aches. Your whole system seems out of kilter.

How can you reasonably expect to clear up a condition like this by merely taking salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage? These only move the bowels, and that's not enough. You must wake up your liver bile.

Avoid calomel (mercury). Take Carter's Little Liver Pills. They're purely vegetable, gentle, sure and safe. They'll make you feel a hundred per cent better in a very short time.

Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name—and get them! Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. 25c. at all druggists. 49

A WOMAN IN TROUBLE

Muddy Complexion—Rheumatism—Overweight—Too Tired to Work

If this woman had taken a different remedy for each of her complaints, she would have been kept very busy! Imagine too the length of time that would have been required to effect an all-round cure!

In actual fact, she took only one medicine. And she took that medicine for but six weeks before she saw every one of her complaints fading away. The simple explanation is that all her troubles arose from one common cause.

In a letter she says:—"Since I started taking Kruschen six weeks ago, my health has greatly improved. My complexion, which had a muddy appearance, is changed to a clear and healthy look. My rheumatism has almost gone. My weight two months ago was 160 lbs., and yesterday, when I was weighed by the same scales, I weighed 148 lbs. This decrease has helped me wonderfully, for I don't feel half so tired, and am able to work better than I have done for months. I shall never be without Kruschen after this."—(Miss) A. L. R.

Half the complaints that afflict humanity—from simply feeling "off colour" to acute rheumatism—can all be traced back to one root cause—internal sluggishness.

There is one sure, safe way to keep yourself regular inside—the "little daily dose" of Kruschen Salts. Kruschen is a scientific combination of six mineral salts which keep your eliminating organs in proper tune and so clear away the waste matter that clogs your system and poisons the blood.

Mother's Day Work Subject Of Address

ROSENEATH, May 11 (Examiner Correspondence)—Mrs. Reg Crego entertained the ladies of the Women's Missionary Society at her home on Tuesday afternoon with a fairly good attendance.

The president, Mrs. A. Nill presided over the entire meeting. Some time ago the W.M.S. decided to use the "hymnary" at their meetings instead of the Sunday School hymn books and they find it very satisfactory. The scripture lesson wos taken from St. John 17, and was followed by the Lord's prayer in unison. The secretary, Mrs. M. Davey gave her report and it was approved by the president.

On motion by Mrs. Crego, and seconded by Mrs. Beecher Hogg that the Mission Band unite with the W.M.S. and sell ice cream on May 19th, this being the date set for the sale of aprons and home cooking by the society.

Mrs. J. A. Nichol, treasurer reported $11.96 had been sent to the branch secretary.

The program included a devotional leaflet "Jesus and His Friends" read by Mrs. William Mouncey.

Two verses of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" was then sung.

Mrs. Reg Crego gave a splendid article on "Mother's Day Work." Leaflets from the study book were read by Miss Gladys Blodgett, Mrs. Lily Turner, Mrs. Alfred Braithwaite, Mrs. Alfred Sherwin, Mrs. Beecher Hogg and Mrs. John A. Nichol. Mrs. Alfred Sherwin kindly offered her home for the June meeting, with Mrs. W. Smith, Mrs. M. D. Brown, Mrs. A. Sherwin and Mrs. Delbert Brisbin as lunch committee. Mrs. George Mouncey will be responsible for the program.

Miss Worboy told a most interesting story of the work of the Anglican Sunday School Mission Van in Saskatchewan. She spent six months last summer in the West, accompanied by another girl in Sunday School mission work.

O. Denyea, town, was admitted to the Ross Hospital on Wednesday, suffering from a broken hip. A chair on which he was sitting accidentally overturned at his home, throwing him to the floor.

The sudden death took place this week at Manilla of Robert Hodgson, aged seventy-six years. His death occurred shortly after the departure of his son, John, of Fort William, who had been visiting in Manilla.

The town council of Lindsay will advertise for 110 cords of wood to be delivered this summer for use in the civic buildings next winter. A comparison of costs show that the average for coal two years ago used in the municipal buildings and that of wood used in the winter of 1933-34 is almost identical. The council felt that in buying wood the money remained in Canada and was circulated in Victoria County.

HAVELOCK BOARD INSPECTS SCHOOL

Members Decide on Special Session to Decide on Staff Changes.

HAVELOCK, May 11.—(Examiner Correspondence.) —The regular meeting of the village school board was held in the school room on Thursday evening. Chairman Bernard Smith presided. The following trustees were present: Charles Taylor, Wiliam Copp and H. W. Roche.

Percy Yuill, principal of the Public school, suggested the supply of necessry stationery for the mid-summer examinations be purchased in good time. Some of the supplementary reading books had been purchased while anther list was being perused by the lady teachers.

Trustee Wm. Copp askel the principal if the recess periods of the Public and Continuation schools were still kept at the same time. The teachers answered in the negative, but gave as an excuse that the present schedule best suited the equal division of work periods.

Physical training in the schools was the subject for considerable discussion. Trustee Copp asked if the principal couldn't arrange to have the boys perform for the trustees some afternoon. This will be done in the near future. Trustee Roche asked if the north end of the school basement might not be utilized as a gymnasium. It was thought by other members of the board who considered this question at one time, that it would be an expensive piece of business.

On motion of trustees Taylor and Roche Miss Whitton will be authorized to purchase the examination requirements for the entire school taking advantage of the reduced rate for quantity buying.

Robert Buchanan, caretaker, reported the antiseptic sprayer as having been used several times when a scare went through the school recently. The bell had not yet been completely repaired and Trustee Copp will look into the matter.

A copy of the secretary's letter to the Minister of Education concerning the appointment of a committee by the board to look into the changing of the Continuation school grading was read. A reply that a meeting of the committee had not yet been received. It asked that a meeting of the committee and inspector might be arranged at some future date to delve into the matter.

On motion of Trustees Taylor and Copp, the secretary was instructed to interview Miss Whitton as to who would be the best one to receive the results of the departmental examinations in August. This was after the reading of a letter from the department requesting the addresses for the forwarding of results before May 25th.

On motion of Trustees Taylor and Roche, the remaining correspondence was ordered fyled. The following accounts were ordered paid on motion of Trustees Copp and Roche: Village of Havelock, for work, $81.25; Meyers Transport, oil delivery, $3.19; C. C. Snowdon and Co., oil and supplies, $76.82; for repairing school fence the following received cheques for $5.40: Wm. Rice, Wilbert Barton and Carman Emory.

Friday, May 11th at 4 p.m. was the time set by the board to make a tour of inspection of the school for the purpose of ascertaining what was required in the line of paint, repairs, alterations, etc.

Mr. N. L. Small, assistant in the Continuation school told of some needed alterations in the laboratory. It was suggested that stools be placed along the work benches and these removed to permit of a better view by the instructor. The present tables are along the wall and the ttacher must look over the students' shoulders during experiments.

Trustee Taylor reminded the board that any changes in the staff or salary reductions must be made before the next meeting. The teachers' contracts on the other hand have until July 1st to notify the board of any changes.

Chairman Smith was in favor of leaving any staff changes until a special meeting before the first of June when all the members might be present to deal with the subject.

The fuel problem will be left until the next meeting and the board, on motion of Copp and Taylor, adjourned.

COUNTY JUDGE OF PETERBORO' FOR 25 YEARS

Court of Justice of Ontario and as County Court Judge of County of Peterborough by the late County Registrar, B. Morrow on July 29, 1909.

The late L. M. Hayes, K.C., as president of the Bar of Peterborough read the two commissions, before a large assembly of prominent citizens at a special session of the court in the County Council Chamber at the Court House.

Speeches of welcome were made to Judge Huycke and Mrs. Huycke on that occasion by the late Mayor Rush; the late Magistrate Dumble, the late Sheriff Hall, father of Sheriff F. J. A Hall, and the late County Clerk and Treasurer, Edward M. Elliott.

Among others present at the ceremony were: G. A. Gillespie, J. J. Turner, E. A. Peck, K.C., M.P., F. D. Kerr, K.C., Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., S. T. Medd, B. D. Hall, R. R. Hall, K.C., J. H. Burnham, W. F. Johnston, S. R. Armstrong.

In thanking the Mayor and Sheriff for the warm welcome extended to him, the late Judge Huycke stated: "I have come to be a citizen of the county and a citizen of the city, and anything that I can do that will effect its welfare, I will most gladly do."

Promise Well Kept

How well he fulfilled that promise through the passage of time, was exemplified in the manner in which he unfailingly discharged many important duties of civic service which fell to his lot, not only by virtue of his elevated status as County Judge, but more particularly because of his remarkable gift of oratory and ready wit. He was in constant demand as a public speaker and he gave of his services in that regard freely and willingly.

During ten years of his term on the bench, he was leader of the Ontario Judges' Association, and in 1927 was elected as honorary vice-president of the Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion (B.E.S.L.).

Interest in Ex-Servicemen

The late Judge Huycke's sympathies were ever with the ex-serviceman and his dependents and on their behalf he had delivered many eloquent pleas at Remembrance Day observances and similar functions. As chairman of the War Memorial Committee, he was largely instrumental, in securing for Peterborough the memorial in Confederation Park erected to the memory of those who gave their lives during the Great War in the service of King and Country. A son of the late Judge—Arthur Frederick Huycke—paid the supreme sacrifice overseas.

Another important civic duty which His Honor discharged capably for a number of years, was as chairman of the local Police Commission.

A Great Loss.

In the passing of Judge Huycke, the district suffers the loss of an esteemed and honored citizen, while the judiciary loses a man who had always striven to uphold the dignity of the law, and to administer justice impartially.

While the many difficulties that beset a judge in the impartial administration of justice may not be always apparent to those unschooled in law, Judge Huycke enjoyed a distinction for justice and integrity which had always marked his administration.

In his administration of criminal jutice a deep appreciation of the weaknesses and failings of human nature had always been shown by Judge Huycke ever since his elevation to the bench in July, 1909. He had always tempered his judgments with justice and mercy.

Paternal Interest.

His almost paternal interest and unfailing courtesy towards the legal fraternity, and particularly towards the younger and more inexperienced members of the profession, in their daily contacts with him, was but another example of the kindness and gentlemaily qualities always shown by His Honor.

Surviving him are three sons and two daughters: Wilfrid F. Huycke, a barrister practising in this city, and Douglas and Meredith Huycke and Mrs. James Blaiklock all of Toronto, and Mrs. William Duffield of London, Ont.

Jailed Sundays

ROCHESTER, N.Y., May 11 (C.P.)— Frank Gallipeau, 32, is sure he will stay out of trouble on Sundays—for six weeks at least.

He was convicted of public intoxication after a Sunday of conviviality, but told the Judge he was the sole support of his family.

THE DRUNKEN DRIVER.

Judge Millar, the Hull magistrate, has announced that henceforth drunken drivers convicted before him will receive fifteen days in jail instead of the minimum of seven, and his statement is being hailed with approval by newspaper commentators.

While The Examiner feels that the stiffer jail sentence is a step toward safer driving conditions, we have some doubt that it will prove as effective as might be desired.

Our own opinion in the matter that the best weapon to use against motorists who attempt to mix gasoline and liquor is to deprive them of the privilege of driving for a sufficiently long enough time to act as a deterrent and a warning to others.

If it were generally known that to be convicted of being drunk while in charge of a car meant the loss of the right to operate an automobile for at least six months on the first offense, we have an idea that not so many drivers would drink or so many drunkards would drive.

Stepping up the jail sentence does not fill the bill, for if the fear of seven days' confinement does not curb the evil it is scarcely probable that a fifteen-day term will prove much more effective.

The one way to keep drunken drivers off the road is to take away their privilege of driving; and to take it away permanently on the second conviction, for surely anyone who is foolish enough to repeat the offense after a jail term is not fit to be allowed to drive at all.

WILL THIS WORK, EITHER?

The attempt that is being made by organized labor in the United States, through the medium of the Connery bill, to bring about a working week of 30 hours is the aftermath of the failure of the NRA to reduce the number of the country's unemployed to a figure below ten million.

The shorter hours provided for under the present code have not had the desired results, and it is now claimed on behalf of the new move that it will have the effect of placing three million more men back to work.

It is difficult to understand how it can be asserted that when industry in the United States has found it impossible to meet the NRA codes and carry on profitably it will be able to further reduce working hours and increase the cost of production and keep out of the red.

The NRA was designed to regulate industry, to increase production and give more employment by cutting down working hours and raising wages.

The theory was that with the purchasing power of the workers increased commodity prices would rise, and everything would be rosy for all concerned.

Unfortunately, while production costs have jumped, there has not been a similar increase in revenue, and the situation is far from good.

The proposal therefore that a still shorter working week and still higher wages should be adopted in order to put more men at work is not likely to be hailed with any great degree of enthusiasm by American industry, which will not welcome this being treated with a "hair of the dog that bit it."

THE GOVERNMENT CANDIDATE.

The selection of T. P. Lancaster, of Havelock, present member for Peterborough County, as the Conservative nominee in the combined city and county ridings in the coming election was not in the least surprising.

With the withdrawal of J. F. Strickland, K.C., M.L.A. for Peterborough City, announced some time ago, it was almost inevitable that Mr. Lancaster would be the unanimous choice of yesterday's convention.

The county member, it must be admitted, even by his political opponents, has earned his spurs, for he has taken his responsibilities seriously, has worked at the job of representing Peterborough County in season and out, and has been successful in pressing upon the Government the need for action in many matters affecting the welfare of this district. He has been, in fact, tireless in his efforts to see that his constituency was not overlooked by the powers-that-be.

With Mr. Lancaster in the field for the Government and ex-Warden James Hawthorne, of Dummer Township, the Liberal nominee, the first election in the new riding of Peterborough will be fought out between two county candidates, with the city riding unrepresented in the fight.

Whether this condition will mitigate against local interest in the outcome remains to be seen as the contest develops; in any case, however, the urban vote will be a most important factor in determining the result.

With men of the calibre of Mr. Hawthorne and Mr. Lancaster in the field, the campaign, it is safe to say, will be conducted on gentlemanly lines and will be devoid of personal abuse.

FARE CUTS BRING MORE BUSINESS.

The Examiner commented yesterday upon the advertising campaign launched by the Canadian National Railways as a commendable drive for new business.

At the same time as this publicity effort is being made, however, Canada's railways, in the opinion of many people, including not a few railwaymen, might do well to consider the advisability of seeking the same result from another direction, that is from the angle of lower passenger rates.

Excursions in recent months have done much to popularize rail travel, and there is every reason to think that if every-day rates were reduced there would be a gratifying increase in the number of passengers carried.

Across the border western railway lines have been successfully experimenting with lower rates, and the results have more than justified the change, inasmuch as railway travel has been materially boosted.

The passenger revenue of these western lines during March of this year was 14.43 per cent. greater than in the same month in 1933, and the improvement has been so marked that the railways have asked that they be permitted to continue the lower rates for four months after the present expiration date, May 21.

The percentage of increase in the western districts was about twice as much as the revenue passenger percentage gain made by all the American railways, which is a logical explanation of why the extension has been requested.

The western rate reductions are from 3.6 cents a mile charge to a 2-cent charge in coaches one way, 1.8 cents a mile round trip, 3 cents in sleepers one way, 2½ cents round trip, and 2 cents a mile in sleepers on a limited trip.

THE WAR VETERAN'S CASE.

(The Toronto Globe)

In the course of an address delivered at the Military Institute, Toronto, yesterday, Brig.-Gen. Alex. Ross, K.C., D.S.O, of Yorkton, Sask., Dominion president of the Canadian Legion, threw new light on the problem of the unemployed war veteran. The main point made by General Ross was that this problem of the returned man is something apart altogether from that of the general ranks of unemployed. Even with the return of vastly improved conditions many veterans will not fit in.

Thousands of these men left for the war as youths or in their early twenties, and returned with a loss of at least four years of civilian life. The average age of the returned man, said the general, is 46 years, and, with his lack of specific training and the terrible effects of war strain, he cannot compete with vigorous and well-trained younger workers. "These men," he continued, "are entitled to something better than a dole or a mere handout. They are entitled to the opportunity of feeling that there is behind them a body of men—their comrades—and that they are paying their way and maintaining their self-respect."

Referring to a movement in Britain, headed by the Prince of Wales, by which 39,000 ex-service men had been placed in suitable employment, the general said: "This has been made possible only by the most complete co-operation of all ranks, and it is my desire that this effort should be duplicated in Canada." He declared it to be the duty of that portion of the veteran body that has succeeded in re-establishing itself, in co-operation with sympathetic civilian bodies and the Government, to study this problem, "with a view to securing for the veteran the maximum of profitable occupation with the minimum of charitable assistance."

The war may have become an old story, but the problem of the men who fought and suffered through it—and who still are suffering its results—remains. General Ross is right in asserting that these war veterans should be considered as presenting a case for special study. Canada must not forget so soon the sacrifices made by her soldier sons. It is not enough to provide a war veteran with a small pension and let it go at that. He is entitled at least to peace of mind, which can be secured only by "a maximum of profitable occupation with the minimum of charitable assistance."

SOME WILL PAY BACK.

A recent news item from Lindsay told of an Italian, now profitably employed, paying back to the Women's Institute money advanced to him two years ago when unemployed. On hearing this news the Toronto Star states that it made inquiries and learned that in Toronto since last September twenty-four persons had refunded $1,000 as payment in full or part of the direct relief which they had received, and that altogether about $2,000 has been paid back by persons who had been on relief. The Star remarks:

> There is no obligation upon anyone who accepts direct relief at such a time as this to feel that he must pay it back—the blame for conditions does not rest on these people—yet there will be many who will feel that they can never rest, should prosperity return, until they have squared this account. There is a pride in men that may be unreasonable and on which vultures may prey, but there is something about it which increases one's respect for the ordinary human being.

In the early days of relief there was the odd suggestion of putting relief aid on some basis of repayment; chiefly, perhaps, to meet the reluctance of some persons to accept it. Any ideas of this sort vanished as the depression lengthened out. It is not to be expected that voluntary repayments will ever occur on any considerable scale. It will, indeed, be a long time after they regain employment for many people before they will have any money to spare. They will have arrears in clothing and furnishings to make up which will absorb their savings. But that some will desire and attempt to repay is a refreshing fact to balance against the readiness of others to obtain unneeded relief.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Premier Henry has come and gone, and still we do not know the date of the provincial election.

Tobacco companies are receiving a huge amount of free advertising, but it is not very likely that the executive heads are gratified over the gratuitous publicity.

The marketing bill is having a rough time in its committee stage, and a good many people are beginning to wonder if the opposition to the measure is not being unduly prolonged.

The Toronto Star is endeavoring to select a successor to Premier Bennett as Conservative leader. It is not very probable, however, that the Star's endorsation would help prospective candidates.

Every day in every way charges against the Ontario Government are becoming more numerous. The barrage will probably keep up until polling day.

CHAPTER 1

The imperial city of Frankfort in Prussia about the year 1780 was composed of a town within a town, a fortress within a fortress. Throughout the growth of the city during the middle ages one fortress after another had grown up within the walls of the town itself. The Jews were segregated within the Jewish quarter which was enclosed within the ramparts but shut off from the rest of the city by high walls and heavy gates.

The Judengasse, known as "Jew Street" was the main thoroughfare of this section. It was a very narrow street which would barely accommodate a sizeable ox-cart. The houses, likewise, were very narrow and extended up three stories, punctured here and there by short, narrow windows and crowned by steeply gabled roofs. Three or four steps marked the entrance to the average house where inside one would find small, low-pitched rooms. The lower floors always consisted of small shops where dealers in old clothes, shoemakers and dealers in trinkets plied their trades. A red shield sign decorated the entrance to one of these houses. It was this house that was destined to be the birthplace of the House of Rothschild.

At the heavily gated entrance to Jew Street was a huge chain, and above the gate was a dirty sign, which if one regarded it closely he was able to read the inscription:

"The Jew Street"

All Jews Must be Inside the Jew Street by Six O'clock in the Evening.

Signed: Chancellor of Prussia.

"Six o'clock! All Jews inside!" he shouted. "All Jews inside the Jew Street!" he shouted. "All Jews inside the Jew Street!" Then in lower tones, "Go on, hurry up. Let's get these chains up."

Inside the house with the red shield was Mayer Rothschild and his wife, Gudula, anxiously awaiting the arrival from Hamburg of Aaronson, a money messenger with ten thousand gulden.

"He'll be here in the morning," said Gudula consolingly, "the roads are dangerous. But Aaronson's a brave lad. Tomorrow morning he'll be here. We should be thankful, Mayer, business is good, eh?"

"They're playing in the cellar. And Amschel and Solomon are still making up the monthly accounts. Nathan should be in by now."

"Ah, Nathan's a great boy. Not yet 15 and trading outside the Ghetto already," Mayer smiled, shaking his head in satisfaction at the accomplishments of his son.

There was a pounding at the door and the voice of Nathan shouting excitedly, "Mama—quick! It's Nathan. The tax collector, Mama! He's down the street."

As Mayer quickly admitted Nathan he called out in a low voice, "Boys! Quick! The tax collector. Down to the cellar; quick!" He handed the boys the cash box and the account book. The youngsters streaked to the basement, and after moving a wine cask, they removed the bricks from the wall and placed the book and money box within, closing up the opening and placing the wine cask back in position. Mayer already had pulled out a similar account book and had it on the table preparatory to receiving the tax collector.

James hastened to get himself a crust of bread and slumped in a corner of the room. Gudula put on a well-patched shawl. Mayer got his tattered robe from the clothes closet. A roast was removed from the kitchen pot and a soup bone substituted. Everything was done to impress the tax collector with the poverty of the family.

"Open up, Jew!" the collector bellowed as he pounded on the heavy door.

Mayer quickly looked out the window "Why it's my good friend the tax collector. Open the door for the gentleman, Nathan."

"Bring out your books, Rothschild," the tax collector demanded brusquely. Mayer complied, bringing forth the dummy book, and deploring the fact that business was so bad.

The collector took a quick glance at the book. "What do you take me for?" he shouted. "Now bring out the real book."

"Rothschild, you're doing more business than any Jew in Jew Street. You've never paid more than two hundred gulden tax and each time you tell me the same story. This time it won't work. This time you're going to pay two thousand gulden!" The collector turned to his bailiffs, "Go upstairs—pull the beds apart. Search the house. Find the real books!" The collector stalked toward the cellar entrance.

"We have a little wine down there—not very good wine, I'm afraid, but then good wine costs money," Nathan smiled.

"But no account books, no gold, no jewels, I suppose," said the collector wryly.

In the basement the collector noticed that the boy, Nathan, stood most obviously protectively in front of one of the wine casks which was in front of the hole.

"Wine?" said the collector bitterly. "Let's have a cup."

Nathan hastily grabbed a cup and turned the spigot. The wine flowed freely. "Oh, it had wine in it, after all, did it?" The collector took the cup from Nathan and gulped the wine, then spit it out. "Slop!" he exclaimed and then pulling himself erect and facing Mayer he said, "Rothschild, apparently you've been telling the trut h So do you know what I'm going to do? I'm going to charge you two thousand gulden just the same."

"But, Excellency," exclaimed Mayer excitedly, "there's not that much money in the whole Ghetto."

"You'd like to pay 200 gulden again, wouldn't you?"

"Yes, Excellency—if it could be arranged . . ."

"Now what would it be worth to me if I put you down for 200 this time?"

"A very handsome present for Your Excellency—say 100 gulden?"

"Talk sense, Rothschild. I want a thousand."

"Then we'll make it five hundred."

"All right. Have it ready for me tomorrow," said the collector gruffly and turning to the others in the room he continued, "and if any of you breathe a word, I'll have your house burned to the ground."

"Luckily, I'm expecting a little money from Hamburg," said Mayer, "so I can pay you in the morning."

"Luckily—Ha!" exclaimed the collector, "I'd rather have your luck than a license to steal!"

"My friend, that's the license you've already got," said Mayer under his breath as the collector stalked out the door.

That evening a stealthy figure slipped up to the Rothschild house. The man was admitted through the partially opened door. "What news?" said Mayer quickly.

"They held up Aaronson! Outside the City. They got the money, Rothschild, all of it."

Mayer burst into a rage of anger, "Do you hear that, Mama? Do you hear that, all of you—why doesn't the Almighty strike them dead? They forbid us to trade. They keep us in chains. They send men here to rob us. Listen, children, you are young—your lives before you. You've got to fight! Fight for our people. Money is the only weapon the Jew has to fight with. Work and strive always for money. Money is power! Money brings freedom from oppression!" The excitement and agitation was too much for the old man. He collapsed, grasping his heart. His sons carried him to his room.

It was a considerable time before Mayer was able to speak. He asked to be propped up in his bed. Then in a weak voice he addressed his sons who stood grouped about the bedside anxiously watching their father.

"My sons," Mayer struggled to speak, "I leave you in your mother's care. Consult her always. She is wise—far wiser than I am—and good.

"Much money is lost by sending gold from one city to another. I want each of you boys to start business in a different city. One to go to Paris—one to Vienna—one to London—choose the most important centres. So when money is sent from here to London, let us say, you won't have to risk life and gold. Amschel in Frankfort, just sends a note to Nathan in London saying, 'Pay so and so' . . ."

Mayer gasped slightly. Breath was coming hard. He coughed and asked to rest a moment. Slowly he revived and faintly he spoke, "Remember, my sons, unity is strength. All your lives you must stand by one another. No one brother must be allowed to fail while another brother succeeds." The old man spoke with difficulty, "Remember this before all: That neither business nor power nor all the gold in Europe will ever bring you happiness . . . until we . . . our people . . . have equality . . . respect . . . dignity . . . To deal with dignity!—to live with dignity!—to walk the world with dignity." His voice stopped abruptly. He tried to swallow. A faint struggled cough and the figure of Mayer Rothschild slumped back on the pillow, lifeless.

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

WHO IS YOUR FRIEND?

Who is your friend?

He is that man who makes you do what you can.

She is that woman who makes you do what you can.

That one is your friend.

Your friend wakes you, stirs you, stimulates you, drives you, persuades you, rebukes you, challenges the energies that are in you....Your friend brings out the best of you.... That is your friend's business. It is your business as your friend.

None other can be or is your friend....Only that one.

Your friend does not nag you with words. He does not sneer. He does not domineer. But because he is your friend standing close within the circle of your nature, he makes you do what you can. And you cannot betray that expectancy, that faith, that is in his eyes when he looks at you.

A father, a mother, a brother, a sister, even a son or a daughter may be that friend. A wife or a husban may be the friend who makes you do what you can....You may be loved without that deep understanding of what you are and what you can accomplish and become. But you cannot be befriended.

The friend looks deep into you and says: "You are loafing, you are cheating yourself, you are letting yourself go to pieces. There are rich qualities within you that you are allowing to gather dust. You are not using yourself as it should be used. You are wasting life. You must not do this. We are here for such a little while, and, for all we poor mortals know, we shall never have another chance to rise or to fall, to dream or to dare....In your friend's eyes is this reproach, this challenge. He does not say You have failed ME. Rather, he says, you are failing yourself. You are not doing what you CAN, you are doing only what your weaker self desires. So your friend asks you, for your own sake, to live as in your heart you know you were meant to live.

Look over the ranks of the men and women whom you know....Is there ONE among them who demands this of you?....Then that one is your friend.

A Thought

Character is like bells which ring out sweet music, and which, when touched accidentally even, resound with sweet music.

* * *

Life is our highest gift and should not be wasted. It must be made to serve the purpose of the Lord of life who gave it.

One-Minute Pulpit

His own iniquities shall take the wicked himself, and he shall be holden with the cords of his sins—Proverbs 5:22.

Foreign Affairs

Out of Widespread Calamity Some Men Rise to Fame or Affluence; Others Lose Their Footing.

(By H. W. L. MAHOOD)

DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

In the world's eye are three men who are sharply in contrast. One of the three has plucked success out of the mouth of adversity. One rose to distinction and then lost his footing. The other is now battling with the impossible. We write of Father Charles E. Coughlin, the success, first. Just outside of Detroit lies a beautiful suburban area. It will not long be outside. As it settles all the conveniences of the city will be in demand. In this adjoining part of the city a goodly number of Catholics have built fashionable homes. The suburban area will soon become a notable part of the city. It will be residential. In 1926 a little frame church met all the needs of the Catholic worshippers.

Rev. C. E. Coughlin Of Royal Oak Shrine.

Then one day a young priest by the name of Coughlin, gifted with eyes, quick to recognize an opportunity, came that way. By intuition he saw the possible for that suburban community. As if in a flash he saw rise a stately shrine with hundreds of worshippers. His impressions were made known to Bishop Michael J. Gallagher of the Detroit diocese. The outcome was his appointment to be priest of the Royal Oak parish. Father Charles E. Coughlin has the ability to kindle folks. That is a great gift. The effect of his presence among his people soon was evident. Action is the natural reaction from true worship. His first sermon awakened enthusiasm. The congregation discovered an eloquent and sane preacher. Within a few weeks a larger church was imperative. This is only the beginning of the story, it is our purpose to write, of the priest who turned depression into success.

RUSSIA.

Trotzky dreamed a new world. A bloody world-wide revolution would usher it. He had in mind a vast pre - revolution program. The people were to be led into revolt against organized government in every nation. The enterprise would be costly. Trained Communist revolutionists were to be commissioned to every country. The end of all government would be ample repayment and glory. The idea was so grim and abhorrent that it failed before well started.

Trotzky, Most Tragic Personality in the World.

Trotzky has the ability, if it had been guided aright, to stand in the company of the few greatest leaders of this century. He is a living dynamo. Blessed with as much energy as a dozen men put together, he might have led Russia into greatness. He has more ideas in a day than many a leader has in a lifetime. His mind is analytical. The analytical mind is not always a constructive mind. Thomas A. Edison was par-excellence analytical. But he was equally constructive. In this combination lay his power as an inventive genius. Trotzky courted failure because he was naturally destructive.

His analytical ability had the keenness of a surgeon's knife as he operated on Capitalism, and Monarchism, and Democracy. For a statesman to succeed, to build is as necessary as to pull down. Trotzky could do the one, the other was beyond him. Constructiveness is largely an accomplishment. Destructiveness seems to come naturally to so many. The persistence of even quite decent people to short-cut the city parks reveals how deep-seated is this character trait. All evil is destructive.

Compassion is awakened at the sight of most commendable qualities when blended with opposites. Trotzky has a most magnetic personality. His relationships are intensely pro, or intensely contra. He is as repulsive as he is magnetic. His quarrels are hatreds. His journalistic ability has given him reach. Like, but different from, Victor Hugo, he is an exile. Addenda again.

GERMANY.

The Nazi movement is without distinguished political leadership. They are common, ordinary folks. That the leaders have risen to position without any previous political experience may all be to the good. People get set. What they do must be done as they have been. Men become static. Political parties lose their plasticity. Adjustment to the needs of a rapidly changing world is lost. Hence the sure coming of the iconoclast. The revolutionary springs from neglected growing human demands. When the neglect becomes chronic the revolutionary arrives.

Reich Bishop Ludwig Mueller.

Reforms have long been needed in Germany. They can be no longer slighted. Profound reforms are due in France. If they do not come speedily France will be unable to stave off a radical revolution. The internal conditions in both Germany and France are critical.

In Germany the Nazis have the technique of government yet to master. The stage of procedure calls for the utmost wisdom. Whether the men who are now in the key positions will be equal to the task is seriously questioned. Fifty men hold in their hands the future of Germany. The majority of these men are either professional soldiers or veterans. It will be difficult for them to adjust themselves to civilian tasks.

The Reich Bishop, Ludwig Mueller, was during the Great War an army chaplain in the German formation that fought with the Turks. When the war ended he was appointed chaplain with the East Prussia division of the Reichswehr. It was Mueller who persuaded this part of the army to embrace Hitlerism. For this act he was rewarded for his services with the Bishopric. He is a thorough going militant Bishop. As soon as he was invested with official authority he announced that "unchristian pacifism" would be rooted out of the church. He began boldly. How far he will proceed is problematical. Obstinate obstacles are in his path.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

VANCOUVER, B.C.

It is generally known that Vancouver received its name from Capt. George Vancouver R.N., who sailed into the harbor of Burrard Inlet, June 13, 1792, but the identity of the person responsible for actually choosing the name has been lost in obscurity.

The Spaniards had been there the year before and named the place "Boca de Florida Blanca," in honor of an eminent Spanish statesman, learned that it was known to the Indians as "Sasaamat," a cool place.

Almost a hundred years later, William C. Van Horne, announced at Victoria that the new city his railway proposed to establish would be named Vancouver. In the absence of information to the contrary, Sir William must be given credit for naming the city.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, May 11 (A.P.). — Light selling appeared in the stock list in the last hour to-day, following earlier steadiness. Some of the rails yielded substantially. Santa Fe lost nearly 2 points. New York Central, Case, U.S. Steel, and American Smelting were off fractions to a point. U.S. Smelting held steady. Transfers approximated 900,000 shares.

TRUCK KILLS TOT

TORONTO, May 11. (CP)—Ten-year-old Mary Stafferny was instantly killed to-day when she was struck by a truck while running home from school. Frank Collard, driver of the truck, nearly turned the machine over, police said, in trying to avoid the child.

UPWARD MOVE GENERAL TODAY MINING GROUP

GAINS IN SILVERS.

TORONTO, May 11 (CP) — A strong buying movement in Sudbury Basin and a recovery for Eldorado on heavy turnover, stimulated the Mining section of the Toronto Stock Exchange this afternoon, giving the board a good representation in the advance column at the close. Silvers and Base Metals generally had a majority of gains for the day over losses and the golds broke about even.

Washington report suggesting early action on another mark up in the price of gold was not taken seriously and the yellow metal group barely held its ground on small volume. Dome, Hollinger, and Lake Shore were unchanged, while losses of about 5 cents each appeared in Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves.

Buying, which has been evident in Sudbury Basin for some time developed into heavy volume to-day and a price gain of 11 cents to 1.96. Noranda recovered an early loss to close unchanged.

SHARP REACTION WINNIPEG GRAIN

Decline Interpreted as Natural Setback After Brisk Advances of Mid-week.

WINNIPEG, May 11 (C.P.).—Reacting sharply after early peak levels, prices in the Winnipeg pit toppled to-day for net losses of two to 2¼ cents. The decline, interpreted as a natural setback after brisk advances of Tuesday and Thursday, carried May wheat back to 69¾, July to 70¾-⅞, and October to 72⅝.

Bullish conditions had little influence on the market as traders hastened to gather in profits. The government agency, too, was on the selling side. A five-hour rainfall in south-eastern Alberta was an exception to the dreary weather picture.

WINNIPEG, May 11.—Market opened very strong on accumulated buying orders but faded badly after these were filled. Export from here was very small but reports from abroad say large trade put over in Argentine and Australian wheat Coarse grains were steady and there were few loads oats worked for export.

LONDON, May 11.—The international wheat conference has decided to abandon the present plan for minimum price because of the failure of one of the exporting countries to agree to the proposal.

A sub-committee has been appointed to consider an alternative plan which will begin its discussions on Monday. The conference has adjourned until June 27th.

CHICAGO, May 11.—High winds and dust storms from Saskatchewan to Ohio, covering a width of 850 kilos., followed abnormal heat and bone dry soil conditions. In the Dakotas and Minnesota high temperatures and droughts are making seed conditions precarious. High winds have made spring wheat reseeding necessary in some of the worst sections. In winter areas western Kansas and Nebraska will produce little wheat. Because of drought, the general condition in winter wheat states is low. Rain is needed to prevent rapid deterioration.

RUMOR CANADIAN CHEESE SOLD AS ENGLISH CHEDDAR

BROCKVILLE, Ont., May 11. — (C.P.).—Investigation of a report that Canadian number one cheese was being sold on the British market as Scottish and English Cheddars, thus bringing as much as 20 shillings per hundredweight more than Canadian cheese in the same market was the request before the South Leeds branch of the Ontario Cheese Patrons' Association to-day.

Speaking last night at Lansdowne when the branch was formed, S. L. Joss, of Belleville, urged that the report be investigated. D. W. Hutchison, Escott, was elected president of the South Leeds branch with Kenneth Warren, Rockfield, vice-president, and Stanley Leeder, Junetown, as secretary-treasurer.

KIWANIS PLANS BIG CONVENTION

Sympathetic Reference to Passing of Judge Huyke Made by President.

JACKSON PARK CAMP.

Sympathetic reference to the sudden passing of Judge E. C. S. Huycke was to-day made by President A. B. Gates at the Kiwanis luncheon meeting at Empress Hotel.

"Judge Huycke was well-known to almost every member of us, and had spoken to us on numerous occasions. We deeply regret his passing," the president of the club remarked.

A report recently presented to the executive by a special committee under chairmanship of John Harper was read by the president. The report was of a survey recently made by the committee in anticipation of the opening of Jackson Park Health Camp, and it recommended certain repairs to the camp property and replacement of equipment.

"Friend o' Mine" and the "Happy Song" presented as an encore were two delightful numbers rendered by Miss Geraldine Collins as guest soloist. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss V. Scollard.

Isaac P. McNabb, member of Kiwanis International Trustee Board, gave a brief address in which he presented strong arguments as to why Kiwanis in general and the members of the local club in particular should attend the forthcoming Kiwanis International Convention to be held in Toronto commencing June 10.

One of the reasons, Mr. McNabb advanced why Kiwanis should attend the convention was "to get first hand information about the great work that is being accomplished by our organization throughout Canada and in the United States."

The convention, he predicted, would combine a gathering of about four thousand Kiwanians all concerned with the advancement of the ideals of Kiwanis which mean so much in the preserving and advancing of our civilization.

Harry J. Boyle outlined arrangements that have been completed by the host clubs for the accommodation of the visitors to the convention, and urged members of the local club who are planning to attend the convention to make early registration.

Lawyer Says Liquor Charges "Nonsense"

TORONTO, May 11 (C.P.).—Geo. A. Grover, Toronto barrister, today termed as "nonsense" allegations by Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, at Perth, that he was implicated in an Ontario Liquor Control Board "toll-gate" practice.

Mr. Grover referred to a liquor transaction which he was connected with as "merely a private deal between myself and another man." He gave no details of the transaction but said it did not concern the Ontario Liquor Control board or the Government. Mr. Hepburn mentioned Mr. Grover as one of the men whom the liquor manufacturers were "forced to appoint" as being "acceptable to the Tory machine."

Three years ago Mr. Grover was president of the Ward Four Conservative Association and is still connected with the organization.

WEIR AGAINST QUICK ACTION ON GARNET WHEAT PROPOSAL

SEPARATE GRADING.

OTTAWA, May 11 (CP)—A difference of opinion between two members of the Cabinet on the desirability of separate grades for Garnet wheat developed to-day in the House of Commons Agricultural Committee. Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of Trade and Commerce, favored the proposal, while Hon. Robert Weir, Agricultural Minister, said careful study should be given before the step was taken.

At present, Garnet wheat, which is an early ripening variety and of good yield, is not allowed in No. 1 hard or No. 1 Northern, the two top grades, but is allowed in No. 2 Northern, No. 3 Northern and the lower grades. The Board of Grain Commissioners had been recommending that since the presence of Garnet in No. 2 grades brought complaints from millers and other buyers, separate grades should be provided for this variety.

In supporting the bill, Mr. Stevens stated that there was a danger to Canada's wheat market in the United Kingdom and other countries unless Garnet was kept out of No. 2 Northern. The shipments through Vancouver contained a large proportion of Garnet, since most of the variety was grown in the northern portion of Alberta and Saskatchewan, and this had reduced Vancouver grain prices.

Should Be Shown Injury

Referring to the study given this question in previous sessions, Mr. Weir said no action should be taken until the committee had been shown that the presence of Garnet in number two was a real injury to that grade. The price spread between number one which contained no garnet and number two which contained garnet was less in Vancouver than in Europe, he contended. Yet the bulk of the garnet was in the Vancouver shipments. Further when two years ago the committee decided against the separate grading of garnet, the spread between number two and number three narrowed considerably immediately afterwards.

No expense should be spared to get all information as to price spreads and proportions of garnet, before a decision were reached to establish separate grades, Mr. Weir stated and the committee adjourned until next Wednesday. Statistics will be prepared in the meantime. It was argued the separate grading of garnet would be profitable to Canadian millers.

During today's discussion it was brought out that 14 percent of the entire wheat crop of the west is Garnet. C. M. Hamilton of the board of grain commissioners did not think Garnet should be kept out of number three grade for the present. The general objection to Garnet was that it was too brittle not that it was low in protein although as a rule it was not as good milling quality as Marquis or Reward.

DRAGGY SESSION IN INDUSTRIALS

Seventy-five Per Cent. of Active Stocks Show Fractional Losses at Close.

BANK ISSUES IRREGULAR.

TORONTO, May 11 (C.P.). — A draggy session of industrial share market closed with a generally soft tone and with 75 per cent. of the active stocks showing fractional losses. Metal, oil, beverage, steel and food issues were on the downside while the construction shares were up and utilities and bank issues irregular and quiet.

International Nickel failed to improve a 25-cent recession, and Consolidated Smelters weakened a full point. Ford "A" lost ground and C.P.R. was off ⅛ at the close.

The main volume was in the distillery group, with prices holding within a narrow range and closing slightly down. Walkers Common came out in good volume.

LAWYER MADE K.C.

QUEBEC, May 11 (C.P.).—J. F. Gallagher, Ottawa lawyer, was today created King's Counsel by the Provincial Government of Quebec. Hon. E. L. Patenaude, newly-sworn Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, signed the Order-in-Council.

A Trimmer

TORONTO, May 11.—(CP)— "King Soloman" was fined $100 and costs or one month in jail when he appeared in court today charged with "undertaking to tell fortunes." King Soloman, who is actually Cecil L. Halloran, described himself as the "world's most famous palmist and astrologist," but a sceptical magistrate called him a "gypper" and imposed the penalty.

"What's his occupation?" the magistrate asked.

"He's a barber.'

"A trimmer, you mean. It will be $100 and costs or one month."

Mr. Everett Castle, inventor of the Castle motor and president of the Castle Motor Company, Windsor, was in the city to-day visiting his father, Harry Castle. The company has a plant at Newmarket, and Mr. Castle is well pleased with the prospects.

FINN WOUNDED BY NEIGHBOUR

Victim Shot Down as He Attempts to Batter Door in—Farmer Arrested.

WINE DRINKING CLIMAX.

MATTAWA, Ont. May 11.—(CP) — Wihlo Maki is in the Mattawa General Hospital with serious gunshot wounds in the thigh and his neighbour, Matt Orkarinen, on the Finnish settlement near Burritt, in Cameron township is in jail here following a shooting fracas said by police to have broken out last night following a grievance of long standing between the two farmers.

According to provincial police, who investigated the shooting, Maki made a trip to Mattawa yesterday morning and purchased a gallon of wine. On his way to his home he attempted to enter a farmhouse but admission was refused and Maki went on to his home.

Towards evening he is said by police to have called at Orkarinen's home. Orkarinen objected to the visit and Maki is alleged to have attempted to break in the door.

Okarinen, according to his story told to Provincial Constable Porter who made the arrest, then seized a .25 calibre rifle and fired one shot through the door, intending, he said, to scare the intruder.

Shooting Stories Differ

He insists that only one shot was fired despite a statement to police from a neighbour who witnessed the shooting say that Maki fell following four shots from Orkarinen's rifle while Maki was running across the field.

The neighbour claims that the wounded man was 200 yards from the house at the time he dropped to the ground.

Investigation at Maki's home revealed that half the gallon of wine purchased at Mattawa in the morning had been consumed.

Police also found a gallon of home brew in the house. Okarinen will face a charge of wounding.

WHEAT PARLEY BREAKS DOWN

(London) Agreement but not members of the commission, resumed consideration at to-day's sitting of the minimum price plan recommended to the governments following the Rome meeting.

"At the previous sub-committee of the present session a number of matters of technical details have been dealt with. At to-day's sitting representatives of the governments stated their attitude regarding acceptance of the plan in principle.

"With one exception the exporting countries expressed their approval. Others felt that lack of unanimity among the exporting countries rendered unnecessary any further consideration of the plan in its present form.

"The Wheat Advisory Commission appointed a sub-committee consisting of representatives of Britain, France, Germany, the United States, Canada and Australia to meet forthwith and consider fully possibly alternative plans to stabilize and improve wheat prices. The sub-committee will prepare recommendations to be forwarded to the governments prior to the next session of the Wheat Advisory Commision, which meets in London on June 27."

Loan Refused

It was learned the Argentine delegates had been refused the suggested "loan of a portion of export allowances by the other three big exporters. The latter had been reported contemplating turning over about 20,000,000 bushels of their share of the world limit to Argentine in this crop year in an effort to save the conference.

The Argentine, with a bumper crop, has already used up more than 96,000,000 bushels out of her quota of 110,000,000, and the indications are that she will exceed her quota by 20,000,000 bushels at the present rate.

The Argentines all along have held the price scheme would not work in practice. Neither of their delegates, Tomas Le Breton and A. Fernandez Beyro, attended the final meeting, communicating definite refusal of the plan through the Argentine Embassy.

In addition it was surmised that among the big importing nations Britain might have expressed reluctance to join the scheme, in view of remarks about too much government in the grain trade made outside the conference by Sir Herbert Robson, British delegate and head of the London Grain Exchange.

Herriot Challenges Radicals To Oust Him

CLERMONT-FERRAND, France, May 22. —(AP)— Edouard Herriot launched a flat challenge to the "young turks" to throw him out as chief of the Radical Socialists, France's dominant political group at the opening of the party congress today.

"I will quit the presidency of the party rather than quit the cabinet," Herriot declared in a secret session of Radical Socialist leaders.

The "young Turks"—militant left wing adherents of the party— are opposed to the radicals' sharing cabinet power with parties of the right. Herriot is a minister of state in the cabinet of Premier Doumerque.

Blood Stains Found In Temple's Hideout

ST. THOMAS, Ont., May 11 (CP) Officers investigating the story of Frank Templee, alleged slayer of Constable McGregor last Monday, that he hid in Norsworthy foundry, one block from his home, all day Monday reported that they had discovered dried bloodstains in the cupola and motor room of the foundry.

Also at this spot they found the blood stained covering of a tobacco package, crumpled cigarette papers and burnt matches. A pair of black socks, heavily encrusted with blood shows that he had used these to stem the flow of blood from his hand, wounded by a bullet from Sergeant McKeown's revolver.

His hiding place was right at the top of a narrow stairway, which would have aided him in keeping officers at bay had they searched the foundry.

USE BLOODHOUND IN HUNTING BOY

DROWNING FEARED.

SHEET HARBOR, N.S., May 11. A bloodhound was turned loose in the woods near here to-day to search for five-year-old Billie Copping, but at noon no trace of the missing Ottawa youngster has been found.

The dog was followed by scores of woodsmen and mill hands given a holiday to join other volunteers from the village.

The child's cap was found yesterday on a bank of the West river not far from where he was seen last and belief was expressed he had been drowned.

Last night what sounded like a child's cry in the Sheet Harbor woods revived hope and the searchers turned into the thickets.

"It sounded like 'Mummy'" a 15-year-old boy said as he raced to Royal Canadian Mounted Police headquarters with the news. Police and volunteers searched all around the spot where the cry had been heard, however, without success.

Montreal Herald Published 123 Years

MONTREAL, May 11 (C.P.). — The Herald to-day celebrated its 123rd birthday, and in its news columns drew attention to the fact that it has never missed an edition since it was founded.

In 1811 when the first edition, a single sheet, was laboriously set up, Napoleon was forming the National Guard in France and was preparing for the Russian campaign the next year which ended disastrously for him.

In Canada the question of self-government was agitating the people, but the issue was delayed because soon the country was plunged into the war of 1812.

PROF. REYNOLDS AT MILLBROOK

Address to Women's Institute on Social Injustice in Business.

ALSO MILK PROBLEMS

MILLBROOK, May 11.—An address by Dr. Reynolds, former principal of the O.A.C. at Guelph, featured the public meeting held in the Town Hall on Wednesday at 8 p.m., under the auspices of the Standing Committee on Agriculture of the local branch of the Women's Institute, Mrs. R. J. McKnight, convenor.

The guest speaker was introduced by A. E. Summers, Agricultural Representative for Durham, who stated that personal acquaintance with Dr. Reynolds had been both a pleasure and a privilege in his life for some years. Born at Solina in Darlington township, where he had been brought up, the doctor had been Professor of English at Guelph for twenty-two years; then he had filled the position of President of the Manitoba College of Agriculture for seven or eight years, returning to the O.A.C. at Guelph as its president until his retirement after eight years of honored holding of this high office. "We are fortunate now in having him as a resident of Durham county, near Port Hope, and still active as an agriculturalist."

The lack of men in the audience to the extent he had expected made it necessary for Dr. Reynolds to change the address he had intended making, and he spoke instead on the fact that social injustice in the conduct of business has led the governments, both provincial and federal, to feel that something practical must be done to correct conditions even in private business enterprises.

"It is a British idea that the government should leave business alone considering that it is conducted solely as a private enterprise; but have you noticed how the government is getting after the profiteers these days? Honorable H. H. Stevens started something when he initiated this investigation, and now we have a committee appointed to look into the subject of the prices paid the agricultural interests."

Illustrating his point the speaker quoted from the daily press regarding the fact that one and one half millions dollars had been divided as profits between four head officials of the Imperial Tobacco Company in five years, while girls employed in making cigars were given but three dollars per one thousand. "The government's aim is to have the workers share a little in the huge profits of the business. Truly the social conscience is awakened; had it not been the government would not have ventured on this probe."

Pasteurization of Milk.

In the concluding part of his address Dr. Reynolds, who is a director of the Milk Producers' Association, dealt with the importance of the pasteurization of milk to prevent disease spread, and pointed out that for some unknown reason the bill intended to be introduced into the last session of the Ontario Legislature for the compulsory pasteurization of this food product had been blocked before it ever reached the House. "I don't know why."

"Pasteurization simply means heating the milk to a temperature of 140 degrees, keeping it there for thirty minutes, and then cooling. Lack of knowledge on the part of the public evidently explains why it is not general and not compulsory. In Port Hope the first time we had one dairyman try pasteurization unfortunately he got it too hot and milk distributed had a burned taste; then the idea spread that this scorched taint must always be associated with milk that had been pasteurized. The chance of infection from milk that has not been pasteurized is much greater in towns and villages than it is on the farm, because should the supply from only one farm be from diseased cattle, when all is pooled the whole quantity distributed becomes infected with the germs. And on farms, speaking generally, I think that there is not more than one herd in twenty that has actually diseased cattle."

Commending the Milk Control Act which puts into the hands of the Board the whole milk industry in Ontario, as the speaker affirmed it better for the producers, the consumers, and those who handle the milk between these two and are trying to do a fair business. If the Federal House passes the Natural Products Marketing Act it will be the greatest kind of interference in private business that any government has entered upon yet. We didn't use to realize it but in the past four or five years it has come to be known that the welfare of this country, and of every country, but of Canada in particular, is bound upon agriculture. Since 1929 the farmer's income has decreased by forty-five per cent; that is, the farming population has less to spend, by more than half, on merchandise, etc., than it ahd five years ago. This is one cause of the widespread depression because agriculture is being recognized as the largest industry in the Dominion, and so the prosperity of the people at large is increased or diminished according as the farming population prospers, or the reverse."

Dr. Reynolds was warmly applauded for his constructive address, and following a selection by the community orchestra, Mr. Summers showed a number of moving pictures depicting insect pests that attack vegetables; the remedies to be applied and how; the value of attendance, comfort and health of the hot lunch in rural schools at the noon hour, and how readily, with the help of the pupils and the co-operation of the homes, this may be accomplished; and a reel of comics showing Charlie Chaplin in the pawn shop especially for the boys and girls.

Mrs. Byam, president of the local W.I., was in the chair for the opening ritual, Mrs. H. Lang, associate convenor of the committee on agriculture, presiding for the remainder of the program, and giving a paper on milk pasteurization that appropriately preceded Dr. Reynolds' information on this important subject.

Mrs. George Fallis, secretary of Millbrook branch, read a paper on "Farm Beautification", and Miss Bernice Smith gave a reading, "Mrs Brown's Change and Rest." "Hiram blows into the city", was the title of the humorous reading by George McKnight, and the community singing, from the W.I. song sheet, was led by the orcehstra which had also played while the audience was gathering. A heavy electric storm passing over during the program interefered with ability to hear clearly and with the nervous tranquility of the audience.

K. N. Chowdbury, an attorney of Calcutta, and author of several books on big game hunting, was killed recently by a wounded tiger in Kalahandi Forest, in India.

"MOTHER"

The noblest thoughts my soul can claim,
The holiest words my tongue can frame,
Unworthy are to praise the name
More sacred than all other.
An infant, when her love first came—
A man I find it just the same;
Reverently I breathe her name,
The blessed name of Mother.
—George Griffin Fetter.

MOTHER

"MY MOTHER"

If I were asked to give a thought which in one word would speak,
A unity of brotherhood, sympathy complete,
A hundred happy, cheery ways, a mind that knows its own,
Contented midst a throng of folk, yet peaceful, when alone,
A heart that sheds its silent glow, to brighten many another,
Without a moment of delay, I'd say "You mean my Mother."
—Author Unknown.

TRAP THEFT CASE

MILLBROOK, May 11.—Suspended sentence, allowing until next Wednesday, May 16, to pay a fine of ten dollars each, and costs, or spend ten days in the county gaol, was the penalty meted out by Magistrate Davidson, of Cobourg, in police court held here yesterday afternoon, when Fred and Bill McIvor pleaded guilty to stealing traps from Roy Hunter, Fallis Line. The offence occurred on April 27, and the charge was laid by Provincial Police, W. J. Carey of Cobourg, and the local constable, E. C. Richards.

Gilbert Jones, who has been employed by Norman Lowery, and was to go to the McInnis farm to work, was fined one hundred dollars and costs, or three months in the county gaol, when found guilty of having liquor in his possession without a permit. He took the three months. On another charge of assaulting a police officer when the arrest was made on April 30 by E. C. Richards and W. J. Carey, Jones, who pleaded not guilty on both counts, was given six months suspended sentence. He is a man of about forty, and the liquor was moonshine whiskey. He refused to tell where it had been procured.

Edmonton Extortion

At first believed to be the product of a distorted mind, but later taking on serious proportions as the police were called in to assist, a note, signed "A Cousin of Dillinger," demanding $5,000 or they would kidnap his daughter, was received by Rev. Canon J. M. Comyn-Ching, Anglican church rector, Edmonton. His daughter, Margaret, 23, (ABOVE), is being closely guarded while the police seek to trap the writer of the strange missive. Two notes have been received by the rector; one which came through the mail with no postage attached and another left on the church steps.

shook their heads dubiously. But they did not want to be quoted as expressing doubt on the stability of the national currency. At the moment that M. Doumergue is proceeding with his shattering reforms, the universal slogan in France seems to be: "Let Gaston have a try!" and "Don't rock the boat!"

Foreign observers who naturally take a more detached attitude, have a far less optimistic view of France's financial situation. They feel, almost without an exception, that M. Doumergue's present reforms are but a prelude to a devaluation of the franc. No matter how drastically the Premier reduces expenses, in the end he will be compelled to have recourse to inflation. They are backed up in this estimate by the action of several foreign governments, notably Italy, which has been getting rid of French francs and French Government securities as speedily as possible in the last few months.

Italy Sells Securities.

It is now recalled in this connection that Italy pursued a similar course with British pounds and American dollars on the eve of the abandonment of the gold standard by these two countries. "In the course of the summer, surely before next winter, France will go off gold," an Italian banker said to me. "She can't hold out. Her present position has become untenable."

A sober glance at France's financial situation shows that only the most heroic measures can save the franc, while on the other hand, it goes without saying, that if France does give up the gold standard, immense hardships will follow. The middle-class "renters," that vast section of the French population who live from the interest of acquired capital, are faced with disaster. But what is involved in France is this: whether working capital is to get preference over acquired capital or whether wealth is to be defended even to the detriment of the activity and life of the country.

France has a deficit at present of four billion, five hundred million francs (300,000,000). Revenues for the first three months of this year are fully 600 million francs (40,000,000) below the estimates. During the year 1934 the French treasury must meet enormous maturities as well as the carryover of last year's budgetary deficit. In July and October bonds for more than seven billion francs fall due. In addition, it is felt that something must be done immediately about increasing military equipment in view of the phenomenal sums set aside for similiar purposes by the German Government.

Must Retain Superiority.

The general staff, which has hitherto taken a calm view of the German situation, but which has kept close tab on Germany's military movement, now judges the hour come to proceed more drastically. This does not mean that there is alarm in France over Germany's new militarization policy. Everybody knows that France is still by far the master of Germany in the matter of armament and that France could crush Germany in a few weeks time. The general staff is merely anxious that France retain this position of military superiority at all costs.

To meet the expense, those who work for the state and those who draw their income from the state are being asked to make a sacrifice. This does not go without a splutter of protest and even without resistance. Civil servants' pay has been reduced by two billion, five hundred million francs. Ten per cent. of the Government's functionaries have been discharged. This is the most drastic and daring move ever undertaken by any French Government in the history of the third republic. No Cabinet Minister has ever dared to touch the interests of the civil servants' organizations with their enormous voting power, but no Government, it is also true, was ever faced with so great a dilemma as M. Doumergue's Cabinet.

Must Leave Standard.

Can the Government by slashing expenses and cutting wages all around avoid the devaluation of the franc? No, says the left wing press and it points out that cutting expenses in that way places the burden squarely upon the working-class, while leaving the rentiers free from making any sacrifice. Yes, says the right-wing press; cut wages, reduce the personnel in the administrative branches and in the state railways, anything rather than a devaluation of the franc, which would mean the ruination of tens of thousands of middle-class families. The issue is therefore between those who draw their income from the state by working for it and those who draw their income from the state by investing in it.

The Government of M. Doumergue is plainly on the side of the latter and may be forced to proceed to an authoritarian, or semi-fascist method of enforcing its policy. Already it rules by decree. But the French Parliament is not a dead letter yet. The Chamber is merely on vacation, but comes back in a few weeks' time. Then, faced by the opposition of the left, the Government of M. Doumergue will stand before the choice of riding rough-shod over the opposition, or manoeuvring in such a manner that part of the opposition comes over to it. The third alternative is to resign. This is the most likely thing to happen.

The fall of the Government would shake public confidence and would endanger the franc sharply. Sooner or later France must therefore leave the gold standard. "Two months, three months, but I don't see any chance for a continuation of the present financial policy beyond summer," said a Dutch banker to-day.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

BEER RESTAURANTS FOR THE CITY ARE OPPOSED BY T. P. LANCASTER

overflowed every entrance and exit, scores being forced to stand throughout the rousing meeting.

There was no need of a vote in electing Mr. Lancaster as candidate. While five others were nominated for the honor by the convention, all graciously withdrew and pledged their support to him. Others nominated were: Reeve Richard Sanderson, of Havelock; ex-Warden W. H. Montgomery, of Norwood; W. H. Bradburn, ex-M.P.P.; Dr. J. R. Fraser, of Lakefield, and J. F. Strickland, retiring member for the former constituency of Peterborough City. Colonel R. E. Birdsall, of Asphodel, president of the Peterborough Liberal-Conservative Association, presided at the convention.

Premier George S. Henry addressed the great meeting and gave a comprehensive review of his Government's administration during the past five years. He outlined the economic benefits the province will derive from his redistribution bill, the successful manner in which the finances of the province have been administered. Clearly and concisely he enunciated the Government's policies on relief and highway building.

One unplanned feature of the meeting was the heckling several speakers received at the hands of a quartet of members of a local unemployed organization. These four, three women and a man, sat in the second front row, and midway through the meeting continuously interrupted the speakers. Not only did they ask questions, but rose from their seats to air their views on relief matters and "Section 98" in loud voices that at times drowned out the speaker. They began their disturbing tactics during Mr. Lancaster's address, continued during two brief speeches by Mr. Strickland, but were silenced by Premier Henry.

Mr. Lancaster

Making his announcement in regard to the Lock's Bridge, Mr. Lancaster said, "I am happy to announce that the installation of the new Federal drawbridge across the Trent Canal is now an absolute certainty. The project has been held up for some time because the money required for the undertaking had not been provided in the Federal estimates. Some weeks ago I took the matter up with Hon. Dr. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, pointing out the urgent need for employment in our county. The Ontario Department of Highways received an assurance last week that the work on the bridge would be undertaken at once."

He made public his stand on the beer and wine question in no uncertain terms. "I do not intend going into political issues this afternoon because I will have that opportunity again," he said. "But I do want you to put myself on record here and now that in respect to the new beer and wine amendments to the Liquor Control Act, I am absolutely opposed to the granting of any licenses to the restaurants of Peterborough city. I opposed the restaurant provision in caucus, and I shall continue to oppose any such suggestion respecting this city because I am of the opinion that such licenses, however necessary they may be deemed in some sections of the province, are not at all necessary here.

"In all other respects I am in accord with the policies of the Henry Government. If they think it right that the right to sell beer and wine should be extended it is no doubt a response to the wishes of the public. But I am not in favor of granting many licenses. The licenses should be granted only to the high class hotels.

County Dry

"If I am elected your representative I shall insist that Peterborough shall only come under the new regulations respecting the wider distribution of beer in a limited number of standard hotels." He reminded that the county section of Peterborough riding is 'dry' and stated that it will remain dry unless the residents demonstrate their wishes otherwise by a three-fifths majority in accordance with the local option provision of the L.C.A.

Mr. Lancaster spoke of his representation of the County during the past five years as a tremendous responsibility and pointed out that his responsibility if returned to office will be even greater. "The past five years have been crammed full of hard work and trouble for men in public life, many of them passing away under the burden of their duties. The task of adequately fulfilling the duties and obligations of an additional riding makes one rather fearful of the demands it will necessarily make upon one's time, health and pocketbood. Believe it or not, sessional indemnity of $2,000, and not $4,000 as a lot of people think it is, has vanished every year in expenses of activity on behalf of my constituents as far as I am concerned. Had I been content to sit at ease during the recesses of the Legislature, I could have saved some money every year, but I am not that kind of a representative, and instead, have worked week in and week out for my riding and for my people."

The candidate won the attention of a small group of unemployed hecklers seated near the front of the hall as he declared that he has always served his constituents, whether they be Liberal, U.F.O., C.C.F. or Conservatives, "without fear or favor." A cry, "How about an open voucher system?" was to be heard.

Heckling

"I want to tell you people that the biggest problem I have had in my five years is the poor chap out of work," he continued, directing his remarks to the hecklers among whom Mrs. William Childs and Mrs. Frank Lundy were the more prominent. "I have done everything possible trying to get those chaps employment."

"That's Federal stuff," Mr. Lancaster replied. "The trouble with you is you know nothing about what you are talking."

He asserted that the project of the trunk highway between Burleigh Falls and Bancroft was directly the result of his persistent activity in the interests of the unemployed of Peterborough County. He spent two months on the Department of Highways' doorstep before securing the project, he said. "The men in the road camp were paid ten dollars a month and board," he declared. "I defy our friend here (pointing to the heckler) to go and find one out of the nine hundred men in the camps who objects in any way to the treatment he is receiving."

Asking the co-operation of Conservative workers throughout the riding, Mr. Lancaster a Conservative victory by "the biggest majority in history."

Mr. Strickland

Both Peterborough ridings have been served by outstanding men in the past but none has shown more energy and activity in behalf of his constituents than Mr. Lancaster, declared Mr. Strickland as he rose to decline his nomination. He said that after five strenuous years he found it necessary for personal reasons and believed it in the best interests of the party that he should withdraw his name.

"Mr. Lancaster has a knack of making himself heard in the Legislature," he said. "You need only look around the county to see what he has got for his constituents in the last five years. And at the present I think we particularly need somebody familiar with our doad system if we are going to get the representation we need."

The governments of both Ontario and the Dominion have just come through the most strenuous years which governments have ever been called upon to face and deserve credit, he continued. "The people of the country do not realize the difficulties under which governments labor at times like this."

"Nor do they realize that there are people starving right in Peterborough," Mrs. Lundy cried.

The speaker ignored the interruption but was stopped again by Mrs. Childs as he was about to continue.

Mrs. Childs

"May I ask you one question?" Mrs. Childs queried.

"Certainly," Mr. Strickland replied.

"Have you any children?"

"I have."

"Well, they can't live on twenty-five cents a week."

"Even that is better than nothing at all," Mr. Strickland said.

"It is not. They might as well have nothing as twenty-five cents. They might as well starve right."

Mr. Strickland paused a moment and then with pointed irony remarked: "You look like a perfect specimen of a starved lady." The gathering heartily applauded the sally, the point of which was a compliment to the natural bloom of Mrs. Child's healthy appearance.

As the speaker turned to praise the administrative record of the Henry Government, he again encountered heckling from Mrs. Childs.

"We don't want beer. We want food and work and better wages," she shouted. "Children are actually starving in this city."

Cries of "Shut up!" "Sit down!" and "Throw her out!" came from the audience as she persisted.

In reference to the beer and wine matter, Mr. Strickland said, "There has been a demand for change but when all is said and done, the question is a very small issue. The question before the people is good government."

The Conservatives went into power after the Drury Government had "mangled and disrupted" the affairs of Ontario, he continued. He declared that the people of Ontario have too much common sense too entrust the Government again to such hands.

E. A. Peck, M.P.

In a short address, E. A. Peck, M.P., was forced to cross words with one of the hecklers. "In Mr. Bennett we have one of the finest types of citizens and statesmen," he was saying.

"Why doesn't he repeal Section 98?" a male member of the audience shouted, referring to Criminal Code.

"I think it would be the grossest foolishness to do away with Section 98," Mr. Peck retorted. "You people have been gathering in your hall whenever you please. Has it prevented any of your meetings? You are not as badly treated as you think you are."

Mr. Peck's reply met with hearty applause.

Withdrawing his name from the nominations, Richard Sanderson declared his confidence in Mr. Lancaster and praised the Government leadership of Mr Henry. In short addresses, both William Montgomery and W. H. Bradburn offered active support of Mr. Lancaster and expressed confidence in the ability of the Tories to win the new riding. Dr. J. R. Fraser of Lakefield, the other nominee, declined, saying that he believed it in the interest of constituency to make way for Mr. Lancaster.

Premier's Tribute

A glowing tribute to Mr. Lancaster's abilities in the House and his indefatigable efforts to forward the progress of his Peterborough constituency was expressed by Premier Henry at the outset of his address. "Mr. Lancaster proved a valiant fighter when he won his seat in 1929 and he has grown in favor ever since," commented Mr. Henry. "His influence has strengthened greatly during the five years of his apprenticeship in the House and I am confident that the electors will recognize his abilities and return him as their representative."

Discussing his position as regards redistribution, the Premier stated, that there was possibly some misconception in the minds of his audience as regards the Bill which had combined the ridings of Peterborough into one. In 1925, it was his responsibility to bring in a redistribution of seats which increased the number from 111 to 112. "At that time Mr. Raney charged me with closing 11 dry seats and opening 12 wet ones," he related.

Standard of Ridings

The real result of the redistribution of seats in 1925 was the setting up of a standard of population for ridings with 15,000 as the minimum. His own riding of East York with its population of 115,000 persons was split into three ridings, because in that riding there were as many people as in some 15 ridings in other sections of the province. At that time no ridings were eliminated but some had sections added to them. Most city ridings, he explained, were more populous than rural ridings because the difficulty of representing the larger area of rural sections was fully recognized.

Last year he had recommended to the Legislature that as an economy measure the representatives in the House be reduced 20 percent in number. To accomplish this a minimum standard of 25,000 population was fixed as the standard size for ridings, although two, Kenora and Rainy River, were less than this owing to their vast area and the sparseness of their population.

Emphasizing the fact that every consideration was given to rural ridings, the Premier emphasized the fact that no purely city riding had now a population of less than 50,000 and most far exceeded this in population. In causing the redistribution to be made he made it known that Howard Ferguson, former premier, had urged the necessity of such action in 1923.

"There were many things about the redistribution that I did not like," he confessed. "It meant the cashiering of a good many of my friends, because many have seen their seats disappear. This is true in Peterborough and the same situation exists in other places throughout the province. I am proud of the manner in which the members got together so wholeheartedly and overcame any difficulties that may have existed. They realize the importance of this redistribution; its importance in cutting the expenses of administrating the affairs of this province."

Financial Position

The importance of good Government could not be over-estimated, he declared in moving on to discuss the manner in which his government had conducted the affairs of the province during the past five years. "The thinking people of Ontario are not going to be misled by the many cure-alls of the day offered to them by some well-meaning but most impractical persons who have no grasp of the importance of responsibilities of administering the affairs of this province," he declared.

The Opposition was making much of the increased debt of the province, but this so-called debt was an investment to develop the country and was bringing rich rewards to the whole population as time went on."

Answers Hecklers

At this point the three women and the man in the second front decided it was time to again force themselves to the attention of the meeting. One of the women arose to interrupt, but before she could get fairly started, the Premier said, "I'm going to make a speech and if you don't want to listen there is the door. I have come here to make a speech and these good people have gathered here to hear me and not to hear you. When I get through I would be glad to answer any questions you care to ask."

He turned to continue his address, but again was interrupted by remarks from the front quartet. Turning to them again, he stated, "I have persons of your ilk in East York, but there they conduct themselves more as ladies and gentlemen than you have here this afternoon." Pointing his finger at the male heckler, the Premier demanded, "What are you doing here? A paid agitator from Toronto!" The man did not reply, the audience cheered and the heckers subsided and remained quiet.

Hon. Mr. Henry continued to outline the province's financial position, maintaining that the Government's expenditures were definitely investments, and the province was well able to carry them. He said that $290,000,000 had been invested directly or indirectly in the great Hydro system, $30,000,000 in the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway which has uncovered more than a billion dollars in wealth and in direct earnings has already paid back half of the money expended on it and the rest will be returned in the future years. The Government had loaned $60,000,000 to 30,000 farmers to assist them in their farming operations and another $10,000,000 was advanced to improve the housing situation in several centres. In rural power lines the Government had invested $10,000,000.

Investments Described

"We have invested $180,000,000 in highway development, and previous to the depression the tourists who drove on those highways spent in one year as much as $150,000,000 in this province. You have heard of tourists being attracted to Quebec because there they could have a glass of beer, which they could not have in Ontario. I never listened to such argument. Do you know that seven times as many tourists come to Ontario as go to Quebec? And why? Because of our splendid road system. In an hour's drive along one of our important highways I counted license plates of 35 States on license plates of passing cars.

"The development of our highway system is not yet complete. It is more or less complete but in the northern sections we are opening new and finer roads. Here in the north and eastern sections of Peterborough county you see an example of our road development. The land there is not suitable for agriculture but it is splendidly suitable as a tourist playground and we are opening it up for them. It is being developed for all citizens. All residents of this district will benefit directly and materially from these new highways."

He urged that these investments by the Government were not open to true criticism because they are investments from which the people of the provinces are getting very definite returns. Providing good smooth roads for motor travel means a saving annually to each car owner of $100 according to engineers who have made a study of road conditions and their effects on cars, he said. To maintain these roads the motorist pays annually about $45.

No Burdensome Taxes

By general budgeting the Government had reduced its annual expenditures to $50,000,000 annually, successfully keeping expenditures within its revenue. He refuted the charges of Opposition leaders that the Government had burdened the people with taxes, stating that of the $50,000,000 only $5,000,000 could be classed as direct taxation, the other $45,000,000 being secured by payment by those who use Government services. Motorists, who use the highways, contribute $20,000,000 in gasoline and license taxes, $8,000,000 is secured from succession duties and $6,000,000 from the sale of liquor.

"If you do not drive a car and do not drink liquor, you do not pay one cent toward about $40,000,000 of the Government's revenue," he stated. "Most of the taxes from which you are suffering are municipal taxes and these municipal taxes are placed on you to pay for improvements done within your municipality."

He explained the annual expenditures of the Government as follows: $16,000,000 for carrying charges on the provincial debt; $10,000,000 for education; $3,000,000 for mental hospitals; $1,500,000 for mothers' allowances; $1,750,000 for public hospitals and sanitariums; $1,750,000 for the administration and $3,000,000 for highways; and then payments made to municipalities.

"The Opposition were very disappointed that the Government succeeded in living within its means and finished the year with a surplus," he commented. "They are trying to prove that there was a juggling of the figures. There has been no juggling of figures."

Not Charged Relief

However, he explained the Government had not charged into its current expenditures the $13,000,000 expended for relief last year. "No other province charged itself with relief expenditures and the Federal Government is not doing so," he added. "During the last three years Ontario has spent $30,000,000 on relief and this has been charged to the hospital account, and must be taken care of when things are more buoyant."

Despite the fact that it had been predicted that the Government would finish the year with a $3,000,000 deficit, a surplus of $476,000 was achieved. "This was done by strict economy in administration of the affairs of the province and because the people continued to use the services the Government had provided for their use."

Cheap Borrowing

Because the Ontario Government had been successful in living within its income, he said, it resulted in Ontario being able to borrow money more cheaply in 1933 than did Quebec. He admitted that the loan raised by the province at the beginning of this year could be raised more cheaply now than then, because of the change in financial condition existing in the money markets.

"A good many groups are now appealing to you for their support in the forth-coming election," he said. "They haven't anything in common except their desire to get into office," he declared and continued by saying that Mitchell Hepburn's one contribution to country progress was his attack upon the Sun Life Insurance Company which had jeopardized the life savings of thousands of Canadians and embarrassed all insurance companies.

"All Mr. Hepburn has done in the province is make his repeated statement that he will reduce expenditures by 50 per cent. Ask him, if he comes to Peterborough, what he is going to do without and just where he is going to cut down?"

Outlines Relief

The Premier then announced that he would discuss the Government's greatest problem, relief, and proceeded to outline the various work programs adopted to alleviate the situation. During the past 13 months the numbers on relief has decreased by at least 20 per cent. The system of direct relief was set up in 1932 and the schedule of amounts was fixed on the food values at that time. From time to time costs of food were checked by Government officials.

"In fixing the relief schedules the Provincial Committee on Relief had the guidance of the Department of Health," he declared. "I have many times discussed relief with doctors and I have yet to find a doctor who will state that families on relief have not adequate food allowances." It was found in a recent survey that costs of food had increased approximately 22 per cent over the 1922 figures, and that was the reason he had recommended the 25 per cent increase in the relief amounts for food, he explained.

In conclusion Hon. Mr. Henry expressed his appreciation of the splendid behaviour of farmers of the province during the past three trying years. "Never once has a farming community expressed any direct criticism of the Government for its expenditures on relief and yet these relief expenditures must be borne by them and is practically mortgaging our future," he stated.

8 GREAT HOCKEY TEAMS ACCORD SWEEPING ENDORSATION TO OLYMPENE LINIMENT

Canada's national game—hockey—hands out bumps, bruises, strains and sprains aplenty. Isn't it a splendid tribute to Olympene that 8 of the greatest hockey teams use this wonderful liniment exclusively to relieve hurts and soreness and keep players fit. What Olympene does for athletes it will do for you in your own home. Look at the wide range of benefits this all-purpose liniment confers. Then read what famous hockey coaches and trainers say about Olympene.

Toronto Maple Leafs
"Olympene is invigorating and soothing used as a rub-down and excellent for giving prompt relief to sore muscles, bruises and strains; it has my recommendation." (Signed) CONNIE SMYTHE, Manager, "Maple Leafs".

Montreal Canadiens
"The team members of last year used Olympene exclusively and with great satisfaction. They are using it this year and will continue to use it, because it gives the required results as a rub-down and gives such good results in taking out pain and stiffness from damaged muscles. I can recommend Olympene to all who take part in athletics of any kind. It's good." (Signed) STEVE DAVIS, Trainer, Montreal "Canadiens".

Montreal Maroons
"After twenty-eight years as a professional trainer of almost every line of athletics known, I can truthfully and without hesitation say that Olympene, properly used, works miracles, especially in cases of athlete's foot, bruised and tired muscles, sprains, also toothache and sore gums. For the above mentioned ailments, I can personally vouch for Olympene, as I have given this wonderful liniment a rigid and thorough test." (Signed) WM. J. "BILL" O'BRIEN, Trainer, Montreal "Maroons".

Detroit Red Wings
"I have been using Olympene, as trainer of the Detroit Red Wings, and want to say I have had great satisfaction with it. It's the greatest liniment I ever used, believe it would be hard to beat at any price. I use Olympene in all cases where a general purpose liniment is used. It heals open cuts and wounds quickly, and aches and pains rub away with light massaging. In every instance, our players have got prompt relief from its use and I would not think of travelling without it." (Signed) FRANK "HONEY" WALKER, Trainer, "Detroit Red Wings".

New York Americans
"I am glad to endorse Olympene for myself and on behalf of the players of my team. Olympene is the best liniment to be had at any price, and I assure you it will always occupy a front row seat in the first-aid equipment of our team. I find it has many uses; it is great for all the aches and pains hockey players are subjected to. As a rub-down it just cannot be beat." (Signed) PERCY RYAN, Trainer, "New York Americans".

Moncton Hawks
"As trainer of the Moncton Hawks I can sincerely endorse Olympene as the most unique type of liniment available today. It has my endorsation for use on behalf of our Maritime Association. Olympene is excellent for treatment of muscular aches and pains, bruises, cuts, sprains, etc. As a rub-down it is unequalled, and I commend your concern for the creation of this product." (Signed) H. M. SMITH, Trainer, "Moncton Hawks".

St. Michael's Juniors
"Olympene has my endorsation because of the personal knowledge I have of its effective uses by the members of my team. They use it as a rub-down and like it; they like it also because of the way it takes soreness from bruises and injured muscles. The results are always good. I like it in my personal use of it and I am glad to recommend it." (Signed) DR. JERRY LAFLAMME, Manager and Coach, "St. Michael's College Juniors".

Ft. William Blue Boys
"This is to tell you the Fort William Blue Boys Hockey Club like Olympene better than any liniment they have ever used. They like it because it rubs in quickly, and because its effect is so good. Olympene is used exclusively in our Club as a rub-down, for sore muscles, and for application wherever a liniment is used, and we will boost it to the limit." (Signed) C. F. SEABROOK, Trainer, Fort William "Blue Boys".

BUILDING PROGRAM

Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir.—I read in The Examiner a few nights ago where our City Council turned down flat a very reasonable and entirely justifiable proposition to have a building program started in Peterborough, their only objection being that a special act of Parliament would have to be passed before such a proposition could be accomplished. Now a special act of Parliament for such a worthy purpose could be obtained without much trouble if our city officials went after it in the proper manner, but it is quite apparent they have no desire for such useful improvements by the curt manner in which they dismissed the whole proposition. Such a building venture would give Peterborough men work in nearly all trades for a long time, so why the council objected to so a legitimate proposal is very hard to understand indeed. At the same time they passed favorable comments on the probable purchase of a 10 acre plot to complete one of our parks.

It must be quite evident to a lot of people in Peterborough that something is wrong in the City Council chamber of late, not long ago such a building suggestion would have received careful consideration, and perhaps would have been acted upon, now such things are like poison. What is the matter? Were they introduced at the wrong time or what? Surely Mayor Denne and the City Council have not lost the interest in the unemployed man there have had until now. Surely a healthy, happy people living in decent houses are of more concern to civic authorities than additional acreage to unproductive parks at this time.

The best thing would be to have this question re-introduced at the next council meeting. In the meantime perhaps the mayor and council will see where they made a hasty, questionable decision, and rectify it by giving the building proposition the consideration it justly merits.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for this space in The Examiner,

W. S.

BUYING AT HOME

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Editor,—The public in general all believe that in purchasing homemade products it helps one's own community and in reference to the Weston Bread Co., we hear quite frequently arguments about this company not baking in town. Weston's staff which has increased here in number considerably since they opened up are all local boys, most of them being born and raised in Peterborough and I must say Weston's did this city a good turn when they came here. Their products are of the very best and they do not cut prices, which enables them to pay their employees an honest living wage.

Now in referring back to only buying Peterborough products what would become of a large percentage of our working people if other cities and towns, Toronto included were suddenly to stop purchasing, cereals and woollens and countless other products which this city ships out.

We would have to close up half of Peterborough. Also Weston's are one of the largest independent bakeries in Canada owned and operated by Canadian out of town firms. So dear public, live and let live and think of the neighboring cities and towns that are helping to build Peterborough and the Dominion of Canada.

A Peterborite.

NOT LINKED WITH C.L.D.L.

Dear Sir,—Re men's only hope, in the Voice of the People of May 8, by A. Murray. He complains it is difficult to understand the forming of an organization in this city that will link itself up with the Canadian Labour Defence League. If Mr. Murray is referring to the Unemployed Organization he is wrong, because the U.W.F. is not linked with the C.L.D.L., but the workers of Peterborough as elsewhere are looking to the C.L.D.L. as the shield which protects them in court from the capitalist onslaught in their struggle to better their work and living conditions. Therefore it is not a political organization, as Mr. Murray wants us to believe. It is, this explains, the fact that memberships in the C.L.D.L. are of various shades of political opinions, including Conservatives, Liberals, C.C.F., Socialists, Communists, etc. As to the advocacy for a Soviet Canada, it means for a Canada governed by workers' and farmers' councils. For Mr. Murray's information, permit me, sir, to say that the "International," song of the working class has these words in it, "The International Soviet, shall be the human race." What does it mean, if not universal brotherhood, Mr. Murray? In view of the above, it is ridiculous to accuse the C.L.D.L. of advocating force.

Now, Mr. Murray, do you really think that the people are so dumb as to believe that man's only hope is in the C.C.F. Is it not a fact that the C.C.F. members in parliament have voted with the Conservatives in giving the government a blank cheque for "Peace, Order and Good Government?" Is it not a fact that the Alberta C.C.F. Government is just as oppressive as are the Ontario and Quebec Governments?

Space does not permit me to go into details. Your C.C.F., Mr. Murray, is a federation of disgruntled Conservatives, Liberals and Ultra-Reactionary labor bureaucrats, like Jimmy Simpson, Tom Moore and company. Therefore it is not a working man's party, but a third capitalist party which hides itself under a bunch of demagogic phrases.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space in the Voice of the People. I am,

Yours truly,

A. Benson.

REAL ADVERTISERS SEE NO DEPRESSION

Dodds Medicine Company Reports Increase Over All Previous Years.

The Dodds Medicine Company Limited, proprietors of Dodd's Kidney Pills and other well known medicines, report that their sales for the past six months have far exceeded any similar period in the history of the company.

The whole credit for this remarkable record is attributed to advertising. Mr. John McKee, the president of The Dodds Company, says that his company has turned the deaf ear to all talk of depression, and has continued a policy established half a century ago, under which Dodd's advertising appears practically daily in every worth-while daily and weekly newspaper.

"We may be a little old fashioned"—says Mr. McKee — "but it seems strange to us that so many companies cut down their advertising when business falls off. We do the very opposite. When business shows any signs of slacking, we increase our advertising."

"Of course, we know that Dodd's Kidney Pills and our other medicines must be medicines of real merit to have survived for over half a century with increasing sales each year."

Suffering intense internal pain, Alexander Juco, a Filipino appearing with the Chinese Syncopators, persisted in holding to the tradition of "on with the show," and died after the performance in a Glasgow, Scotland, theatre.

ON THIS DATE
A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY
By Fred Williams

THE FIRST HIGH COMMISSIONER

On this date, in 1880 Sir Alexander Tilloch Galt, who had been the first minister of finance of the Dominion, was appointed as commissioner of the Dominion in London. It was an important and significant appointment, the first demand of a self-governing colony to be represented by a semi-ambassador. Some of the officials in London did not like the idea; considerable red tape was ravelled about the commissioner's status with the colonial office; and in 1883, Sir Alexander got disgusted and forwarded his resignation to Ottawa. Sir John A. Macdonald was much perturbed and in a confidential letter to Galt urged him to remain at his post. He admitted that he had expected opposition from the Gladstone government and told Sir Alexander: "It would be a grand thing for you to survive them. With Lord Carnarvon at the colonial office your status as one of the corp diplomatiques would soon be recognized."

Sir John appealed to Galt to realize the important questions he was abandoning to a successor, among them the treaties with France and Spain, the financial situation and the fisheries exhibition. One paragraph of Sir John's letter was characteristic and amusing:

"After years of ill-concealed hostility of the Rothchilds against Canada you have made a great strike by taking up the old cl' cry and going in for a Jew immigration into the Northwest. By following up this subject and establishing a Jew colony here, whether ultimately successful or not, a link—a missing link—will be established between Canada and Sidonia. I should prefer you (underlined) to write another epistle to the Hebrews rather than a new comer."

As to the fisheries exhibition of 1883 "Canada must be fully represented and our wealth of fish must be proved beyond a doubt. The high commissioner must be the biggest toad in the puddle there—for we will show Atlantic, Pacific, stream and lake fish."

The appeal was successful. Sir Alexander withdrew his resignation but presented it again at the end of May, 1883. The post was left vacant for a year when Sir Charles Tupper went over to make the office the high diplomatic office it is, and was intended by Sir John to be.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

CHICAGO GRAIN

A jump of 5c, the maximum limit allowed for wheat in any one day, was witnessed. Oats also rose the limit—3c for that grain.

Sensational unofficial crop-damage advices and prospective widening of draught areas were back of the buying.

The day's maximum advance for wheat was held at the last, with the close feverish, 4⅞ to 5c above Wednesday's finish; corn 1⅞ to 2⅛c up; oats, 2⅛c to 2¾c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Trading was light on the Montreal Produce and Dairy Market yesterday owing to the Ascension Day holiday. Butter advanced, while cheese was slightly lower.

Fresh No. 1 butter in cartons or less gained ¼c at 20¼c to 20½c a pound. To retailers solids were 22c and prints 23c a pound. Receipts were 102 boxes.

Western eggs in cartons were quoted at 19½c to 19¾c a dozen for A-large, 18½c to 18¾c for A-medium, 17½c to 17¾c for B, and 15¾c to 16c for C. Arrivals amounted to 2,749 cases.

Potatoes were unchanged. Quebecs per 80-lb. bag selling at 85c to 90c; New Brunswick Mountains per 80-lb. bag at 90c to 95c, and Prince Edward Island Mountains per 90-lb. bag at $1.10 to $1.20.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, May 11. — In the broadest trading since the bull market of last summer, wheat prices stepped up to register gains of 2¾ to 3⅜ cents on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday.

Pessimistic crop and weather reports from wheat areas of the United States, Western Canada, and important sections of Europe engendered aggressive purchasing that whirled prices higher.

May wheat ended at 71¾c, July at 72⅞c, and October at 74⅝c. The Chicago market led the way to higher ground, with a maximum advance of 5 cents.

The Government agency sold quite liberally of its holdings, but the demand persisted and the market ruled strong to the finish Trade volume for the sessions ran into millions of bushels.

Demand for cash wheat was quite fair, but offerings were on the light side and sales restricted. Coarse grains values advanced steadily to show gains of from 1½ to 3 cents at the finish.

FERGUSON. — At Nicholls Hospital, on May 8, 1934, to Mr. and Mrs. George Ferguson (nee Annie Shaw)—a son.

IN MEMORIAM
LEAHY—In loving memory of Mrs. W. Leahy, who passed away May 11, 1933.
From our happy home and circle
God has taken one we loved;
She is borne away from sin and sorrow
To a nobler rest above.
No one knows how much we miss her,
None but aching hearts can tell;
Lost on earth, but found in Heaven
Jesus doeth all things well.
—Ever remembered by Husband and Isobel.

LEAHY—In loving memory of Mrs. W. Leahy, who passed away May 11, 1933.
There's a face that is haunting as ever,
There's a voice that we're longing to hear,
There's a smile we'll remember forever,
Though we try to forget every tear.
There's a sad but sweet remembrance,
There's memory fond and true,
Theres' a token of affection, dear,
And heartache still for you.
—Always remembered by Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey and son.

IN MEMORIAM
NICHOLS.—In fond and loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Steven Nichols, who fell asleep in Jesus just two years ago, May 11th, 1932.
Two years have passed, dear Mother,
Since the angels came for you;
We mourn for you, we dearly loved,
For one we could not save.
—Still greatly missed by her loving daughters, Reta, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Orr.

IN MEMORIAM.
LEAHY—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. William Leahy, who passed away May 11, 1933.
Surrounded by friends we are lonesome,
In the midst of our joys we are blue;
A smile on our face, but a heartache,
Longing, dear mother, for you.
You ofttimes said we'd miss you,
Your words have proved too true;
We lost the best and dearest pal,
Dear mother, when we lost you.
Lovingly remembered.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

HOW PARTNER FELT

Bidding went: West, 1-diamond; East, 1-heart; West, 2-clubs; East, 3-clubs; West, 3-diamonds; East, 4-clubs; West, 5-clubs.

When declarer and dummy have different suits then have commanded promised on a third suit, almost invariably the best opening lead is a trump, to cut down cross-ruffing. North led his ace of clubs, followed by a small club. Dummy's J won the second trick, and its only diamond was led. With 6 cards of that suit missing the adverse distribution probably will be 4-2. The right way to play diamonds is to win the first two tricks with declarer's ace and K, then have dummy ruff a third round. By leading dummy's ace of hearts West is assured a discard of a losing spade. Leading the ace of spades next allows West to rid the hand of the last card of that suit. West can afford to ruff a small spade. His K of clubs will pick up the last outstanding trump. He will give North his second trick by leading a low diamond. West will ruff any lead made by North and spread his hand for 5-odd.

Instead of doing this, West led dummy's only diamond and finessed the J, losing to North's Q, and giving that player his second defensive trick. North led his last trump. Dummy was allowed to hold the trick. The ace of hearts was led. Upon it West let go his lowest spade. He led the ace of spades, then ruffed himself in with a lead of a low heart from dummy. Having taken his 2 good diamonds, he had to give the next trick to North's 10 of diamonds, putting the contract down a trick, and causing his partner's uncomplimentary remark.

Before tomorrow see how many tricks West can win on his contract of 7 clubs, with an opening lead of the 9 of diamonds, provided opponents play perfectly.

DINNER

Beef Stew With Macaroni
Beet and Carrot Salad
Apple Pie Tea or Coffee

Here is a new way to serve asparagus over toast, and one well worth trying. It makes a very good luncheon dish for this season of the year.

Today's Recipes

Asparagus With Toast, Nuts—One bunch asparagus, toast, one-fourth cup melted butter, four tablespoons finely chopped English walnuts or pecans, one-half teaspoon lemon juice, paprika to taste. Cook asparagus in boiling salted water until tender. Place on toast and pour over it a sauce made by heating butter and combining it with nuts and lemon juice. Add paprika, and if desired one-half teaspoon of grated lemon rind. Serves four generously.

Date and Peanut Sandwich

Grind two cups pitted dates fine and mix with two tablespoons of peanut butter and one small cake of cream cheese. Spread between thin slices of brown or white bread.

When tinting or dyeing an article, take some white thread, wind it around a wooden ladle, and dip it in the dye. When it is the same color as the garment dyed, take out and run cold water over it. Dry and wrap on an empty spool for mending the dyed article.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

If dietetics is such an exact science—and I have been trying to show this week that it is, as physiological science go, a high rating for exactness—why isn't it possible, you ask, to keep people on a good average as to body weight?

Of all dietetic questions, the two which interest most people are: "How can a skinny person like me, get plump?" and "How can a fatty like me get thin?"

There are a great many different answers involved in these apparently simple questions. First, as anybody can observe, there is the matter of taste. I mean gustatory taste. It has even beome imbedded in a nursery rhyme. And Jack Spratt, who would eat no fat, and his wife, who would eat no lean, not only licked the platter clean but they also developed two opposite types of body build.

But the very fact that this matter of varying taste enters into the calculations shows that dietetics is really an exact science. Because in spite of all the protests from the people involved, and in spite of the invocations to the action of the ductless glands, modern dietetic science has shown that people can get plump by eating more and get thin by eating less. And especially by eating the right kinds of food.

With the overweights, we will not deal today, but we have recent proof that the proper dietetic control alone will cause the underweights to approximate a normal weight.

In a private boarding school for boys, a separate dining room was arranged and ten places set for ten boys chosen for underweight, but otherwise normal.

By giving them plenty to eat (a high calorie diet) and encouraging them to eat it, they all gained weight. Three points in the report, which is published in a well-known medical journal, are worth noting:

1. An especially rich diet did not cause a gain in weight as rapidly as an all-around "full" diet. To be particular, cream and butter were not as effective as bread, butter, milk, meat, vegetables, sugar, dessert and fruits.

2. The causes of underweight in older children are: (a) A fundamental, unexplained taste for food low in a nutritive value, i.e., a boy given a chop will eat only the lean portion; (b) when underweight begins to be evdent, nobody takes the trouble to advise the boy to eat foods high in nutritive value, naming the foods; (c) a long, thin, stoop-shouldered form of body combined with over-activity in athletics.

3. It is not enough simply to bring the food to the underweight; by the aid of psychology he must be encouraged to eat more than has been his custom. Two instances: Instead of making a boy proud of saying, "I haven't eaten a creamed potato for five years," he begins to boast of being a big, non-discriminating eater. Play on vanity; if he is robust, he will be good football material.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

The suave and sophisticated Adolphe Menjou of cinema fame, who is considered quite a connoisseur of feminine loveliness, claims that if he were a woman, he would never paint his nails a brilliant red hue. Adolphe says that he'd always keep his nails impeccably groomed. But he'd certainly shy away from brilliant red polishes.

Isn't that just like a man, though? When powders, rouges and lipsticks first came into popular use, men proclaimed just as great an aversion for them. Yet today they accept these cosmetics as natural aids to enhance a woman's loveliness. And they'll probably finally become reconciled to brilliantly polished fingernails, too.

However, I don't blame any man for raising objections if the brilliant polish shades now in use are misused. There are about six different shades of nail polish commonly used at present. They are rose, coral, cardinal, ruby natural and colorless. And none of them can be used indiscriminately, except ,perhaps, the colorless. For fingernails should match or harmonize with the shades of gowns worn, else they may form a most unpleasant contrast.

The rose shade of liquid polish is a softly feminine shade that blends charmingly with pastel pinks; blues, lavender, hunter green, black and brown. It is smart with pale or vivid dresses, and is especially suitable for blondes. Coral, another shade partial to blondes, is best worn with white, pale pink, blue, beige, gray, black and dark brown. This shade is equally good with wool daytime dresses or satin evening frocks, and also goes well with deep hues.

Cardinal is a rather deep, exotic shade, and contrasts excitingly with black, white or any of the very pale shades such as gray, pastel blues or beige. It also furnishes a smart contrast with the new Empire blue. Ruby is such a deep, true red that it can be worn both with light and dark bue shades. When worn with red frocks, however, the frocks must match it in depth and brilliance of coloring.

The natural nail polish is a shade that jjust slightly emphasizes the natural pink of the nails and harmonizes with almost all colors. It is best, however, with bright red, bright blue, bright green, the new purples, orange and yellow. Colorless is, as I told you before, very conservative, and safe for all difficult colors.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Prosperity and belated spring are coming around the corner together this year. That should mean hundreds of patient engaged people will make June tingle with wedding bells. May is the time to fete the bride, and showers are more popular than ever.

* * * * * * *

Linen and kitchen showers give the bride a few more lovely, interesting things for her home. The kitchen shower gives the professional touch for her new career and a convenient filling box for recipes is always smart. Instead of autographs, each guest brings a favorite recipe for the box—"food for rememberance."

Fresh new vegetables give the luncheon shower hostess an opportunity to combine color and flavor in a springtime fashion. Cream of mushroom or watercress soup, followed with chicken timbales and fresh asparagus, give a delicately balanced meal. Instead of bread or rolls, these new muffins are delicious.

* * * * * * *

1¾ cups cake flour; ½ teaspoon salt; 2 teaspoons baking powder; 4 tablespoons sugar; 4 tablespoons butter or other shortening; ¾ cup milk; 1 egg well beaten.

* * * * * * *

Sift flour once measure add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cream butter, add sugar, and cream together thoroughly. Add egg, then flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Bake in greased muffin pans in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Makes 18 small muffins.

* * * * * * *

Little cakes, in rainbow frostings—"petits fours"—add much to the decorative touches at luncheon and tea. They are perfect for "bride-y" parties, and not difficult to make from this recipe. It is important to use cake flour to get the proper texture in the batter so that the cake will not crumble when frosted.

* * * * * * *

1 2-3 cups cake flour; 1 cup sugar; 1½ teaspoons baking powder; 2 eggs, well beaten; 1-3 cup butter or other shortening; ½ cup milk; 1 teaspoon lemon or vanilla extract.

* * * * * * *

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, then flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add flavoring. Pour into tiny greased cup cake tins or paper cups filling 2-3 full. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 2 dozen cup cakes. When cool, frost with rainbow icings.

* * * * * * *

ORANGE PETITS FOURS

1 tablespoon quick-setting orange jelly powder; 2 cups confectioners' sugar; 2½ tablespoons orange juice; grated rind ½ orange; 1 tablespoon butter, melted; 1 egg yolk; ⅛ teaspoon salt.

* * * * * * *

Combine jelly powder and orange juice in top of small, deep double boiler, or in bowl. Place over boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add butter, salt, sugar, orange rind and egg yolk. Stir vigorously until soft and of right consistency to pour. Drop small cakes into frosting, turning until all sides are covered. Remove cakes from frosting with a fork. Place on rack to cool. Garnish with nuts, fruits, or delicately tinted coconut, in the long southern style shreds. Makes 2-3 cup frosting.

* * * * * * *

For pink strawberry frosting, use 1 tablespoon lemon or strawberry jelly powder and 3 tablespoons fresh strawberry juice. For lemon frosting, use 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon lemon jelly powder and 2 tablespoons water.

* * * * * * *

Lime jelly powder that dissolved in warm water gives a lovely green tint.

* * * * * * *

Combine 1 tablespoon lime jelly powder with 3 tablespoons warm water in top of small, deep double boiler or bowl. Place over boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add 1 tablespoon melted butter, dash of salt, and 1 2-3 cups confectioners' sugar. Proceed as with orange frosting.

* * * * * * *

These "petit fours" have a smooth, glossy appearance and the icing is of splendid flavor—not that thick sugary type.

Weddings

AMOS—DYMOND

A very pretty, quiet wedding took place at half-past two o'clock this afternoon, at the Manse of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, when Dora A. S. Dymond of Peterborough, third daughter of Mrs. J. G. Hubbell of Norwood and the late Mr. J. R. Dymond of Huntly, Scotland, became the bride of Mr. William Armstrong Amos, recently of Galt, Ontario, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Amos of Hawick, Scotland. The Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a lovely gown of Venetian blue pebble crepe, ankle length, with bands of beaded trimming. Her hat was of matching material and colors and her slippers and gloves were of grey kid. She wore a corsage bouquet of yellow Claude Pernet roses and lily of the valley.

Her sister, Miss Allie Dymond, was bridesmaid, wearing a frock of rose beige and pale pink crepe, with white hat, shoes and gloves and corsage bouquet of pink Briarcliff roses and fern.

Mr. Chester Jones of Peterborough was best man.

After the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. H. G. McKenzie of Margaret avenue, where decorations were carried out in pink and white and the table was done very attractively with a cloth of lace centered by the bride's cake, and double rose tulips.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Amos left by motor to spend the summer near Kitchener, where they will reside later.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a handbag of grey crepe, to the bridesmaid a white gold pennant and ear rings, and to the best man a morocco leather note case.

MESLEY—LIDDELL

A very interesting wedding took place at one o'clock yesterday afternoon in George Street United Church, when the Rev. J. E. J. Millyard performed the ceremony which united in marriage Edna Mildred Mesley of Toronto, youngest daughter of Mrs. E. Mesley of 499 Murray street and the late Mr. Mesley, and Mr. Elmo Liddell of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Weston of Toronto.

The bride wore a long graceful gown of white mousseline de sole, with picture hat to match and corsage bouquet of Talisman roses and lily of the valley.

The bridesmaid, Miss Gladys Schoffield of Toronto, was in turquoise blue with large Leghorn hat and corsage bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mr. Murray Kearns of Toronto was best man.

After the ceremony, buffet refreshments were served at the home of the bride's mother. Later, Mr. Liddell and his bride left for Toronto by motor, en route to Winnipeg, where they will reside. The bride travelled in an ensemble of sand and brown tweed with beige wolf collar, and brown hat and accessories.

Insull Forces Rally To Fight Government

CHICAGO, May 11 (A.P.).—Samuel Insull's legal forces tightened their lines to-day for a fresh assault on the United States Government's hold on the aged former financier.

They said they would strike at the very heart of the Government's case, dispute the legality of Insull's detention with the charge that he was shanghaied from the Greek freighter "Patris."

Asserting that unless an unexpected hitch developed he would have the necessary $250,000 collateral sometime to-day for Samuel Insull's release, Defence Attorney Floyd E. Thompson said last night that "Mr. Insull is under the vague impression he was extradited."

"If he was there was no extradition hearing. Nevertheless he was brought back on a Presidential warrant of extradition. We want to know whether it was a regular extradition, and, if so, what charges against him are triable."

RURAL GROUPS PROSPER FROM CO-OPERATION

ECONOMIC RECOVERY.

HALIFAX, May 11.—(CP).—Rise of the co-operative movement has brought new prosperity to communities in Nova Scotia's eastern counties. Two years ago the farmers and fisherfolk of these counties faced a bleak outlook; they could find no markets for their products, food and clothing were scarce, and poverty was rampant. To-day, though there is no boom, there is contentment. And the prospect is not cheerless.

Co-operation brought the change. Co-operation and the steady guidance of a far-seeing group of educators who took in the situation and set about to rectify it. Rev. Dr. M. M. Cody, director of extension for St. Francis Xavier University, had been preaching the doctrine of co-operative effort for years. With his assistant director, Prof. A. B. MacDonald, he started to convert theory into practice.

They believed that co-operative effort, to be successful, must be founded on a knowledge of its principles. So they travelled first through the communities and established study clubs. By lamplight, in little groups, the villagers studied co-operation.

When they had grasped the ideas back of the movement, there began the real work. Co-operative groups were organized in each centre. Stores, canning plants—even textile mills—were all run by community efforts. Goods were sold, and services rendered, at cost. And soon the villagers began to reap the results of their work.

Consider Little Dover, for instance. Times were hard there a couple of years ago. There were no markets for fish. There was no milk for the babies. Fresh vegetables were scarce. Now Little Dover has a co-operative lobster canning factory. Its profits for last year—one year—exceeded the total paid up capital to date.

The milk problem was a puzzler for a time. Cows found the grazing scant on Little Dover's rugged hills, and they were not very productive. The villagers just went ahead and brought in goats. As for the vegetable question, the whole village simply chartered a schooner, sent her to Prince Edward Island for a cargo at rock-bottom prices. The cargo was sold here at cost, and there are enough vegetables now to last the winter.

At Canso it was a question of shortage of clothing. The university's extension department bought an old building, installed four hand looms, and set the villagers to work. Women and girls, too, were placed at work on spinning wheels. Now they turn out tweeds, blanket material, towelling and cotton, which are sold at cost.

They are turning attention there, also, to the problem of more efficient marketing for their fish and lobsters. Demand has been voiced for Government leadership in the broadening of markets, and the fishermen hope to do away with the middle-man's profits through orderly marketing.

The co-operative movement at Larry's Rover started with the formation of a study club. This grew into a co-operative credit union. Funds came out of the union for a co-operative lobster canning plant, now flourishing. The villagers plan next to establish a co-operative store.

Port Felix already has its store, and its lobster factory, operated on the same plan as the others. A feature of the co-operative ventures is that, in every possible case, commodities are bought from other co-operatives when they are not available at home. For example, Reserve Mines Study Club bought 20 cases of blueberries from Larry's River villagers last year, and quantities of hay and graded turkeys from farmers' co-operatives.

Through the farming districts of the eastern mainland counties and Cape Breton Island are scattered farming co-operatives. They operate co-operative creameries, woolgrowers' associations and the like, and aim at a general improvement in farm procedure.

But in both farmlands and villages, they are working toward one common object. "The prosperity of a country depends in great measure on the enlightenment of its people," says one of the extension department's slogans. Prosperity is their goal, and they are working towards it, an example to Canada of what may be done by community "enlightenment" and enterprise.

NECKLINE TREATMENTS STILL HOLD STYLE SPOTLIGHT

Ties Frequent and Novel Arrangements Distinguish Many Costumes

Left, Wool knit cape ensemble; next, evening ensemble in three shades of blue; third, black cloth coat; right, redingote coat frock.

By LISBETH

Necklines still are holding the spotlight of fashion in both suits and frocks. Sleeves are somewhat modified, although still interesting and announcing the up-to-dateness of the model.

But necklines are unique. One of the most exciting things in fashion circles is the manner in which neck trimming is used, and also the treatment of fur.

The cape ensemble with the seven-eighths length cape is one of the smartest of the season's suits. The one pictured at the left of the picture is fashioned of a lacy wool knit. The frock is one-piece with a tie yoke, and is finished with gold buttons down the front. A narrow turned-back tuxedo collar tops the cape. A small, jockey-like hat of rough straw is worn with the suit.

The evening costume, next, is in three shades of blue in graduating tones, topped with a navy blue fox collar. Silver lined bugles are used on the bodice of the frock, and there is an intriguing separate jacket which ties in front.

An unusually chic coat for spring is the model of black cloth, third, with square neckline. The collar is silver fox, and the yoke with its looped closing is interestingly corded. The cording also trims the three-quarter length sleeves. A chic brimmed black straw is worn, with other accessories also in black.

The draped or cowl neckline is used for the redingote dress right. It is fashioned of sheer material, and has an insert of coral crepe in the skirt, matching the cowl neckline and the cuffs. The buttons on collar, cuffs and bodice section are of navy sheer.

SHOPPING WITH ANNE

We must all agree that the holiest earthly gift is that of—Mother. Sunday, May 13th has been set aside as the day on which our country shall pay special tribute to Mothers—Your Mother—My Mother—

"God thought to give the sweetest
In His almighty power
To earth; and deeply pondering
What it should be, one hour
In fondest joy and love of heart
Outweighing all other,
He moved the gates of heaven apart
And gave to earth—a mother."

* * *

As the day approaches a few reminders may not be amiss. Many children may be away from home who may forget to send the intended letters to mothers who would be disappointed should they fail to arrive. Even if the letter is short, don't fail to send it. Just let Mother know she is not forgotten and a short letter can convey its full message of love. Let it be in your own handwriting.

* * *

But even better than just a letter a gift will gladden her heart, especially if it indicates some well-remembered liking of Mother's. But a gift alone is so impersonal, if it would be complete it should have the warmth of words to go with it. If you are fortunate enough to be at home when you give Mother her gift speak your words of love.

* * *

Wouldn't a nice scarf of silk, in back and white, or if she is the sweet little white-haired Mother who would be so adorable with a mauve scarf and a bouquet of deepest violets, we saw just such a lovely combination to-day in one of our local stores and really the price was so attractive we were amazed....Wouldn't a real leather bag and gloves be an ideal gift.... Gloves to match her coat, black with white stitching or white trimming on a flaring cuff, lovely white gloves in kid or the new weaves that are so attractive this season. Maybe they will take her back to the days when she first knew Dad ....in those days they wore lace mittens....Flowers are so suggestive for Mother's Day .... They speak a tender language of their own....How she will fondle the petals of roses, tulips, sweet peas ....if they come from you....In one store to-day we noticed Mother Day suggestions in silver, the most exquisite pieces....priced from $1 up and to accompany each purchase was a gift of flowers....A gift of China, such attractive pieces....How about a book .... She would love a Prayer Book or Hymn Book....a lovely Rosary .... We saw the loveliest ones to-day of Mother-of-Pearl....Maybe Mother would appreciate a nice knitted suit, this year the knitted wear is charming....the new lacy weaves ....We must tell you of one we noticed to-day....Mauve silk and wool knit with a cardigan jacket and a pullover of a contrasting shade in the new lacy stitch....the skirt was very straight and tailored....Wouldn't shoes make a practical gift....if she needs special shoes....Our stores are well stocked with reliable shoes in latest styles and shoes that correct foot troubles....Something in furniture would please Mother I am sure.... a deep cushioned chair for her favorite corner....one of the new shaped lamps to accompany and brighten it....Maybe she would like a cedar chest....Mother's have so many precious things that they treasure....Maybe your first booties .... a baby sweater....Willie's first long pants....Dorothy's first long gloves....Souvenirs of your childhood days....How she treasures them....She could keep them so securely in a moth-proof cedar chest. Wouldn't she like a dress length of lovely new crepe-patterned or plain, voiles, or any of the new weaves....A hat made to fit her head and frame her lovely face ....You can have this done in Peterborough at such reasonable price too. Mother would love a permanent wave....Any of our up-to-date beauty parlors have such attractive offers and such splendid results....Wouldn't it be nice to take Mother out to dinner on Sunday .... Our restaurants are so modern, and the meals are just the last word in delicacy and so nicely served....You won't have any difficulty in selecting one....They are all so good.

* * *

Wherever you are .... Whoever you are....Don't forget Mother on Mother's Day, if you are one of the fortunate ones whose Mother is still with you....Remember after she has taken that trip to the unseen world you can only in memory do the things that will make her so happy while she is here.

"Most of all other beautiful things in life come by twos and threes, by dozens and hundreds. Plenty of roses, sunsets, rainbows, brothers, sisters, aunts and cousins, but only one MOTHER in the whole world."—Kate Douglas Wiggin.

ONTARIO
DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS
MOTOR VEHICLES BRANCH

TO THE CAREFUL DRIVERS OF ONTARIO:

Congratulations—and a Request!

There has been a gratifying decrease in the number of automotive accidents in Ontario. There were fewer deaths in 1933, fewer persons injured, less property damage. The decrease in accidents has been substantially greater than the percentage of decrease in registrations.

To those drivers who helped in this improvement the thanks of this department, the thanks of every citizen of Ontario, is due, and you have mine in large measure.

But, we have only made a beginning!

Despite the improvement shown, there were 8,634 serious accidents last year. 403 men, women and children were killed. 7,877 persons were injured!

By whom? Who were responsible for these deaths and injuries?

The drivers involved were, for the most part, honest, decent citizens; men and women who are usually careful, who only take a chance now and then. They were of no special class. Some of them live in your street, perhaps next door to you. One of them might have been you! Every one of these drivers is sorry now—truly sorry—but all the regret in the world cannot restore life or limb.

The habitually reckless, callous driver is a known, visible menace. Against him swift action can be taken. But it is to the usually careful motorist, like yourself, that this department must look for help in making Ontario's streets and highways safer for driver and pedestrian alike. Will you help?—this season more than ever before! The way is simple, the result can be far-reaching.

Careful driver, respond to this appeal! Remember that it only takes a moment for an accident to happen—one lapse from safe-driving. In that one moment may occur a tragedy which the offending driver may never be able to forget. Every time you sit at the wheel of your car be safety-conscious. Watch! Drive safely always... all the way.

WOLLASTON TRAPPER, HENRY BIRD IS DROWNED IN PAUDASH CREEK

MOONSHINER JAILED.

(Examiner Correspondence)

TWEED, May 11.—Henry Bird, 55, resident of the township of Wollaston in North Hastings County, was drowned in Paudash Creek some time on Tuesday. According to information received at Provincial Police Headquarters from Provincial Constable Morris, who investigated the drowning. It is believed that the man in company with James Wilson, set out in their canoe loaded with traps and after pushing off from shore the canoe capsized due to the fast running water. Bird was carried downstream, clinging to the craft, which sank. Men combing the river with poles have been unable to locate the body.

Lightning destroyed the barn and contents owned by John Curtis, five miles northeast of Northbrook, Thursday morning at 1.30 a.m. A number of cows, horses and hens, together with a quantity of grain and some implements were destroyed.

While fighting a forest fire near Cloyne Wednesday, Mr. Russell Train of that place met with a rather peculiar accident. While running through the bush, a small twig caught in his ear, puncturing the drum. He was brought to Tweed for treatment. Train had been engaged by the Forestry Department to fight fires which have occurred during the past week in that area.

When a chimney at the residence of Chancey Sills, Roslin, was struck by lightning early Thursday morning, the house was instantly filled with smoke, but no damage resulted.

Coming suddenly upon a herd of cattle straying leisurely along the highway Robert E. Palmateer, was forced to drive his ca r into the ditch on highway No. 37, one mile south of Thomasburg, early on Wednesday. The auto struck two of the animals before Mr. Palmateer could bring the vehicle to a full stop. No serious injuries were reported to have happened to the cattle although the car was somewhat damaged about the radiator.

Charles Genereaux, Queensboro was found in possession of a still suitable for the manufacture of illicit liquor following a search of his premises by the R.C.M.P. and the Provincial Police on Friday.

Genereaux was immediately taken to Madoc where he pleaded guilty to a charge of operating an illicit still and was fined $200.00 and costs or in default of payment serve three months in the common jail. The fine was not forthcoming and Genereaux was lodged in the county jail.

The case culminated a thorough searc h of the Genereaux property by the authorities, following which the illicit still was found secluded in a clump of bushes at the rear of the farm near Queensboro. The accused man admitted in open court the operation of the still on the night previous.

PRINTS SHOW EVOLUTION OF SILK

Gowns Displayed in Recent Fashion Parade Portray Processes Through Which Fabric Passes

Central Park Casino in New York City recently furnished the stage for an interesting and novel display of fashions in silk. The designs of the gowns displayed made the story of the evolution of silk, from cocoon to garment. Marion Stehlik, internationally known stylist, interpreted the story of silk from the gowns to the interested audience. The gowns and models are, reading from left to right: Leah Ray wearing a butterfly silk print; a thread silk print costume worn by Mardeen Hoff. Third is a cocktail silk print displayed by Marquita Nicolai; a silkworm print with Alice Lorraine as model, while the mulberry leaf on which the silkworm feeds is shown by Marian Martin. Frances O'Day, six, wears another butterfly print; Peggy Fish depicts the dyeing of the fabric in a varicolor costume, and at the far end of the line, is Hazel Grace, whose gown goes straight back to the cocoon in its design.

ETERNAL BLISS SERMON TOPIC

Reward of Happiness More Than Compensates for Earthly Struggles.

ST. PETER'S MISSION.

Quoting the Holy Gospel according to St. Matthew, "Rejoice and be glad for your reward is very great in Heaven" (St. Matthew 5: 12) as the text of his sermon, Rev. Father Howard reminded his hearers yesterday evening at St. Peter's Cathedral, that the reward of eternal happiness more than compensates for all the moral and physical struggles man must endure upon earth.

Painting a word picture of the deliverance of the children of Israel from the cruel bondage of the Egyptian Pharaohs and their consequent wanderings for forty years in the Arabian desert, Father Howard stated the above as a parallel in many respects with the journey of life toward Eternity.

"As long as the children of Israel remained faithful to their Jehovah," stated Father Howard, "their journeyings were not the wanderings of lost children, but were ever under the guidance and the protection of God. When they were hungry, He gave them manna to eat; when they thirsted, water gushed forth from a barren desert rock at the stroke of a reed. God was with His children by day and by night in their forty years' wanderings over the trackless wastes of the great Arabian desert. The symbol of His presence was ever before them in the skies as a cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night. When that cloud by day and that pillar of fire by night moved onward in the skies, they marched with it. When it rested, there they rested and pitched their tents. Although God was nigh to His chosen people," continued Father Howard, "many murmured and blasphemed and wished to turn their faces again to the slavery of Egypt. These were punished, and only those who remained faithful were permitted to enter the Promised Land. To the faithless, this was denied."

The sufferings and hardships and toilings of the Jewish people as they persevered in their quest of the Promised Land is a type of the persevering effort the good Christian must essay in his strivings for Eternity," stated the missionary.

"The unspeakable joys are more than sufficient recompense for the tears and sufferings of our earthly journey. Man, since he is not a purely spiritual being but a composite of body and soul, cannot attain to things spiritual while upon earth. Man on earth is sense-bound, and cannot comprehend the spiritual joys of Heaven. Human efforts to describe the beatific joys necessarily fall far short of Heaven's perfection. Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, nor hath it entered into the heart of man the joy of which God has reserved for those that love Him." Yet these are the joys that may be ours by preferring God's will always to our will. "Some people," remarked Father Howard, "discourage the attainment of perfection in themselves by believing that the great saints of this earth were cast in a spiritual mould different from that of the common everyday man and woman. Nothing is farther from the truth," continued the missoinary. "They, like us, were children of Adam—of the same flesh and blood—and heirs to all the moral ills of weakened human nature. But the saints were brave and fought, and won, whereas the sinner weakened—and lost. The difference between the good man and the wicked man; between the saint and the sinner, is the difference between a moral hero and a moral coward. "Like the saints," concluded Father Howard, "may the love of God, the horror of sin, and the desire to save our souls keep us from selling the true happiness of eternity for the false pleasures of sin."

HOME THEME IS PROGRAM FEATURE

Mother's Day Also Featured at May Meeting of St. James' W.M.S.

A special program with Home and Mother's Day very much in the foreground featured the May meeting of St. James' W.M.S.

Miss Hanbidge and her group were responsible for this program which proved both interesting and entertaining.

The president, Mrs. A. E. Moorhouse, presided over the opening devotional service, which opened with a hymn, and prayer was offered by Mrs. Jobe.

A short business session included several matters of importance, and encouragement was especially noticed in the treasurer's report.

The members are making their contributions toward the supply fund, and hope to have it completed by the June meeting.

An invitation, graciously offering her lovely home on Douro street, for a W.M.S. tea on Tuesday next, was extended by Mrs. Frank Stevens and unanimously accepted.

An unusually large number responded to the roll call, after which the president retired from her chair, leaving the meeting in charge of Miss Hanbidge.

The hymn, "I Am Thine," was followed by a season of prayer, Mesdames Sargent, Benson and Miss Kidd taking part. In a very appropriate and beautiful scripture lesson, concerning the mother of Samuel, and the mother of Zebedee's children, and their desires for them, Mrs. E. Benson read from the Book of first Samuel, and from the Gospel of St. Matthew.

In a most interesting talk, Miss Kidd told the story of the life of the blind hymn-writer, Fannie Crosby, and of her happy and contented spirit under so great a handicap. Although she lived in a world of darkness, she lightened it for a great many people with her beautiful hymns, of which she had a list of 8,000 to her credit.

A delightful interlude was brought in the program, when Mrs. E. R. Frost contributed a beautiful sacred solo, "Yes, There is Pardon for You."

Fitting into the spirit of the meeting was the chapter in the Study Book, capably taken by Mrs. W. D. Sargent. The theme of the study was "Marriages in China," and their resultant influence on home life.

As a suitable climax to a program about Home and Mothers, was the little playlette, "The Women of the World." The characters were all well taken, and the native costumes depicting Mexico, Japan, Korea, and Hindustan, helped to make it a quite realistic scene.

The Dreamer, a woman of the period, was done by Mrs. M. Drysdale, and represented many of our Christian women at home, until she was awakened by "Conscience" portrayed by Mrs. Ingham.

The foreign women were portrayed by Mesdames Emery, Sloane, Stevens and Davis, who made a very effective appeal for help for their people.

A hymn and prayer and the Benediction by the president brought this inspiring meeting to a conclusion.

Reports of other injuries stated none was serious.

Striking late yesterday afternoon, the storms spent themselves in quick fashion but not before damaging crops, destroying many buildings, telephone and power lines.

BEHIND the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Cal, May 11—A sub-rosa search is on for Hollywood's strangest thief, a man who plays a clarinet handles a machine-gun and has an eye for a well-cut coat.

All three of these articles were stolen from the set of "Down to Their Last Yacht," a picture now being completed at the R.K.O. studio.

The mysterious thief operated while the company was working. Sidney Blackmer discovered the first loss when he went to get his coat for a scene. It couldn't be found so the annoyed actor had to get a different outfit and retake some scenes in which he had worn the missing garment.

TOWN CRIERS INDIGNANT OVER SILENCING ATTEMPT

Champion "Oyez" Man Can Be Heard Mile Away

ARE PAID TO SHOUT

London.—Town criers throughout England received a shock when they learned that members of their ancient profession are liable to be prosecuted for making too much noise.

For generations they have shouted "Oyez! Oyez! Oyez!" at the top of their voices. Imagine their indignation when they read in the London Daily Mail that A. Brewin, who has been town crier at Gainsborough, Lincolnshire, for many years, had been accused of "brawling" and silenced by the police.

Mr. Brewin has asked the council, which employs him, for a ruling on the matter, and so important is the issue regarded in Gainsborough that a special council meeting is to be held.

The council has a difficult problem to solve, for it made the by-law dealing with brawling, and asked the police to enforce it.

One matter it will be called on to decide is this: What is the difference between brawling and shouting?

Mr. Brewin contends that he was only shouting in the usual way of a town crier. The question arises, "When does a shout become a brawl?"

H. C. Lee, a member of the Gainsborough council, said that the crier will continue to remain silent until the council decides what is to happen.

Police Stop Noise

"There have been many complaints in the town about hawkers brawling in the streets and as a result we asked the police to stop it," he said. "It is possible that the council may decide not to have a town crier in the future."

Opinions from other towns varied. The present champion crier is W. B. Angus of Marlborough, Wiltshire, and an official of the council there said: "While we have by-laws governing street noises, the question of the town crier being liable to police interference has never been thought of. "Mr. Anglis can be heard about a mile away, but there have never been complaints about his crying."

W. Abbott of Lyme Regis, who has won the championship several times, said: "I am inclined to think that the policeman who stopped the Gainsborough crier did not know that it is the duty of a crier to make himself heard. He has to shout. "Town criers, of course, can be a nuisance, although I have never been accused of it. If there is illness in a street where I am crying, I always stop. There are by-laws in Lyme Regis against street noises, but I am appointed by the council to shout in the streets."

HOOT MON! THE PIPES AND REAL WORK AGAIN

"We're Happy Enough Now, Mac," Yell Clydemen on Way to Jobs

Clydebank.—Led by Dalmuir Pipe band playing "The Campbells Are Comin'," nearly four hundred men went to work recently on the giant Cunarder No. 534 in Messrs. John Brown's yard at Clydebank.

It was a demonstration of joy, for twenty-seven months ago about 3,000 workers were forced into idleness when work on the liner was stopped.

Long before the call to work Clydebank was awake waiting for it. Wives and mothers were busy getting breakfast ready and preparing the working clothes for their menfolk.

Then came the parade.

Looking rather self-conscious in their new boiler suits and their freshly washed dungarees, the men of Clydebank marched triumphantly along the street down the cobbled pathway to the yard.

Cinematograph cameras whirred, and a photographer's injunction to the men to "look happy" brought back an answering chorus, "We're happy enough now, Mac."

After the 400 men had entered the yard they handed their employment cards to the clerical staff. They then visited the tool shed where 400 bags of tools, which had been prepared, lay ready waiting for them. Then on to the Cunarder and work.

RELIEF IN JEOPARDY AS SON GETS REWARD

Mother Spent Small Windfall on Clothes for Children

Manchester. — A fourteen-year-old boy found, and took to the police, nearly $500 in a packet and was rewarded by the owner with $25.

And then the public assistance committee heard about it—and Mrs. Reddington had to appear before the committee to explain why she drew relief.

She has been told that, in consequence of her son's honesty, she has run the risk of losing relief to the value of $25. She spent the money her son gave her on clothes for her other children.

J. Casket, a member of the firm to whom the money belonged, explained that it was only through the police that he was able to trace the finder.

"It was," he said, "when I was arranging with Mrs. Reddington for her boy to start work on a job I gave him as part of his reward that I heard of the demand that had been made on her. I was horrified and I think that such action would be a scandal. It amounts to an incitement to finders to be dishonest."

WOULD UTILIZE CAVES IN CASE OF WARFARE

90-Foot "Funk-Holes" Could Shelter 80,000

Chislehurst.—War office experts have just carried out an extensive survey of the 22 miles of caves here, with a view to using them as anti-bombing and anti-gas attack "funk holes."

The caves, which are ninety feet deep, are capable of holding 30,000 people in case of emergency. Nearby caves, not yet open to the public, would hold another 50,000.

The war office inspection was made when the local voluntary aid detachment visited the caves to carry out its annual anti-gas exercises.

MAGIC WORD 'MOTHER' MEANS ALL TO CHILD

"When She Dies, I Shall Miss Her Terribly," Writes Her Son

London.—Rev. G. R. Balleine, Vicar of St. James' church, Bermondsey, S.E., asked the boys of the neighborhood to write on "My Mother." Here, exactly as it was written, is the tribute of one young son:

"My mother is a nice lady. She is 5 feet tall and 3 feet wide. She as no force teeth, but her front teeth are broken. She was brought up rough and ready, and believes in us being brought up like it. She is married. She married my father at St. James when she was 18. She as 8 more children beside me, and she say she would not be without one of us. We have 2 bedrooms and 1 kitchin.

Office Cleaning at Dawn

"Every morning she goes office-cleaning at five, stepping soft so as not to wake us. She meets her mates at the tram. She leaves our lunch packets and milk pennies on the dresser. Dad gets our brakefast, before he goes to look for work.

"She gets home before we start for school, and sees we are tidy. Then she puts on her pinliesfore, and starts housework. She sweeps the rooms, makes the beds, does the shopping, peels the potatoes, cooks 12 dinners, one for gran who lives ten doors away.

"Mondays and Thursdays she scrubs the rooms. Tuesday is washing day. This is the only day she grumbles. Wednesday and Friday she mends our clothes which are always getting tore. Saturday she goes to the Bive to get our stores. She takes my sister to learn her the trade of bargaining with the butcher. At 7 she gets tea. If it is rare, she cooks it.

"Brings us Cocoa"

"At 8 she as to go office-cleaning again, and gets home at 9, and puts us to bed. She brings us cocoa in bed. She keeps on the go all day, and never sits down. She looks after the sick baby upstairs, while its mother is at work. She gets mad, if we are untidy. She says the Sign of her home is Spick and Span. If we throw caps on the dresser, on the floor they go. When she dies, I shall miss her terribly."

COWS ELECTROCUTED

Easington.—Fourteen pedigree Ayrshire and Shorthorn cows, worth $2,750, belonging to Gilbert Forbes of Little Thorpe Farm, were electrocuted in their byre.

The milking machinery in the byre is electrically operated and there is electric light.

Mr. Forbes was in the byre during the afternoon and everything was then in order, but an hour later the animals were found dead on the floor.

It is believed that the animals had by some means come into contact with a short circuit. Five other cows in the same byre were unharmed.

The graciousness and sympathy shown by her majesty the Queen in the Louise Margaret hospital brought smiles from the patients, old and young alike, and expressions of thanks from the staff. The Queen spent some time visiting the various wards. The picture, above, shows her majesty leaving the building with the nurses forming a guard of honor.

BRITISH POLICE NET EXTENDS TO RUSSIA

Round Up Gang Alleged Forgers of Three Nations' Securities

They were responsible for the arrest of an alleged gang of international forgers, wanted in connection with forgeries of British, Polish and United States government and other securities totalling more than a million dollars.

Eighteen men and women, including one entire family, were arrested by the Polish police under the direction of the British officers.

Two Poles, alleged to be associated with the Warsaw suspects, were arrested in London under conditions of the utmost secrecy.

The police acted following the discovery in London of unemployment and health insurance stamps valued at $220,000, and alleged to be forgeries.

Scotland Yard got to work after complaints had been made by London and United States banks of the counterfeiting of British government securities, United States securities and dollar bills, Polish government seven per cent. foreign loan and Lena Goldfields Company shares.

JEWISH WEDDING HALTED GIRL CARRIED FROM ALTAR

Marriage Abandoned as Women Interrupt Solemn Service

CROWDS WONDER

London.—A pretty Jewish bride was carried, weeping hysterically, from a synagogue in the East End. The wedding had been stopped in dramatic fashion.

Crowds who had waited outside the doors to see twenty-five-year-old Annie Nymitz emerge on the arm of her husband, were dumbfounded.

Lavish preparations had been made by the bride's parents for the wedding. The ceremony was fixed to take place in the Talmud Torah synagogue, Christian St., E.

A hall had been hired in the neighborhood for a reception, and more than $500 had been spent on entertaining guests.

Bride and bridegroom entered the synagogue when the Rev. M. J. Morgenstern and the marriage officer awaited them, with a crowded congregation.

The age-old Jewish wedding ceremony began. The chazan, or reader, began to intone in Hebrew the solemn beautiful words of the contract which would unite the couple: ". . . be thou my wife according to the laws of Moses. . . . I will work for three and support thee." ". . . and I will perform all the duties incumbent upon a Jewish wife. . . ."

The girl looked proudly into the face of the bridegroom as she plighted her troth.

Then suddenly from the doorway of the synagogue came women's voices, insistent and clamoring that the wedding must not go on.

Scenes of confusion followed. The bride fell back fainting into her father's arms. The reader broke off in his recitation. A buzz of wonder arose from the amazed congregation. The wedding was immediately suspended.

Two women who had entered the synagogue were drawn on one side by the marriage officer and the rabbi. They rapidly explained, and the marriage was abandoned.

COP DROVE RECKLESSLY

Highgate.—The driver of a police patrol car was prosecuted by the police and was fined $10 for driving without due care. He was ordered also to pay $36.25 costs. A summons for alleged dangerous driving was dismissed.

The driver, P.C. John H. Hartley, of the Golders Green division, Metropolitan police, pleaded not guilty to both summonses.

GHOST KEPT CHILDREN FROM GOING TO BED

Villager Got Close to "Monk" But Grasped Only Air

Stoke Newington.—Residents assert that every evening just before dusk a ghost walks along a path in Abney Park cemetery — a hunch-backed figure in a monk's white robes with a tall pointed cowl.

Children chase it; air-guns have been aimed at it, but it comes and goes. Its gait is normally very slow, but when pursued it runs so fast nobody can catch it and it disappears among the tombstones.

Mrs. Angers, who lives in Summerhouse Rd., which is next to the cemetery, said: "There is certainly something walking about. It does not seem human, but it keeps the children from going to bed."

Another resident chased it one night and when close enough tried to seize it. He grasped—nothing.

Crowds assemble in Summerhouse Rd. till midnight to get a view of the ghost. The crowds grow bigger each night.

Police are trying to solve the mystery, for half a dozen of them have had to be sent to Summerhouse Rd. to disperse the crowds.

RELAYS OF FRIENDS BROUGHT LIFE TO HELPLESS PARALYTIC

Mechanical Device Replaces Human Efforts to Provide Respiration

BATTLE WITH DEATH

London.—Day and night for nearly two years artificial respiration has been applied without a stop to a man as he lay in bed, paralyzed.

Relays of friends, relatives and nurses battled to keep his lungs at work from June, 1932, until September last year. Then a machine was improvised to do the work.

The patient is S. Crosby Halahan of Chidcingfold, Surrey, brother of Air Vice-Marshal F. C. Halahan. He is the father of Commander Halahan, a submarine commander.

The story of the fight for Mr. Halahan's life is told in the Lancet by Dr. Phyllis M. Tookey Kerridge of the London School of Hygiene.

She describes how the trouble started in 1926, and how in September, 1933, Sir William Bragg suggested that some mechanical device should apply the artificial respiration in place of human effort.

Experin ats Vary

"Sir William Bragg took two football bladders," writes Dr. Kerridge. "They were connected by a wide rubber tube, and while one was bandaged tightly to the man's chest the other was fixed between two hinged boards. One of the boards was fixed to the floor and the other was moved rhythmically by the foot, or with a hand lever."

But the football bladder lasted only three days. It burst. Then a hot-water bottle was used. That lasted three weeks.

Then a more substantial apparatus was made by a firm of organ builders. It proved too hard for the nurses to operate.

Once the water froze in the pipes. Hastily the old methods were adopted. Since then the device has worked admirably. That apparatus has been in use since last October.

To-day the patient is very active mentally, says Dr. Kerridge. "He lies on his right side almost continuously, as he is not comfortable otherwise. He is very wasted. He is almost completely paralyzed."

DAUGHTER'S FUTURE WORRIED AGED MAN

"Unbelievable Devotion" Is Thought Cause of Double Tragedy

Tilsworth. — The theory that a father of 82 killed his 50-year-old daughter because he could not bear to die leaving her behind is advanced to explain a double tragedy in this village.

Lieut.-Col. Martyn Fenwick, beloved "squire" of the village, and Miss Judith Fenwick were found shot dead in their home, The Rectory.

R. Kirby, gardener at The Rectory, heard two shots from the gunroom, a small building standing apart from the house, and also used by the "squire" as his study.

He ran there, to find the colonel lying in the doorway of an upstairs room with a double-barrelled sporting gun by his side. His daughter lay at the bottom of the stairs.

"The devotion of the colonel and his daughter to one another was almost unbelievable," said an intimate friend of the family.

"He had often said that when he died he did not know what would happen to 'Judy.'

"I believe that he took his own life owing to depression caused by ill-health, and that he shot Judith because he could not bear the thought of dying and leaving her."

PRINCE MAY ENTER 'PLANE IN BIG RACE

Keen Competition Foreseen in 13,000-Mile Contest

London.—World aircraft manufacturers are secretly completing the "hush-hush" aeroplanes for the 13,000-mile London-Melbourne air race for $75,000 and a $2,500 gold cup in October.

Already the race has resolved into a struggle of aircraft-making supremacy between Britain and the United States.

Five principal aeroplanes of secret design are being completed in Britain. These include the machines to be flown by C. W. A. Scott and T. Campbell Black, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith and A. L. T. Naish.

The Prince of Wales may enter an aeroplane in the handicap class.

RICH RECLUSE WORE OLD 'MORTARBOARD'

London.—A passion for the study of Greek led David Sutcliffe, a retired schoolmaster, of Hackney, to live in penury, though his will disclosed that he was worth over $275,000.

Mr. Sutcliffe, who was 83, has lived in a ten-roomed house at Amhurst Rd. E., for 30 years. Next door, his sister occupied a similar house until she died a few years ago.

Neither had any callers, and people who had lived in the street for years thought that the two houses were untenanted.

Mr. Clavell, a neighbor, said that just before last Christmas he discovered that Mr. Sutcliffe was very ill, but he refused to have a doctor.

"Mr. Sutcliffe was lying on a bundle of rags on the floor," said Mr. Clavell. "His room was like a public library — crammed with books."

Another neighbor who sometimes saw Mr. Sutcliffe looking out of the window said he used to wear an ancent "mortarboard" and a tattered dressing gown.

Joseph Sutcliffe, of Lostock Hall, near Preston, one of the beneficiaries under the will, is a schoolmaster at Balshaws grammar school, Leyland. Mrs. Sucliffe said the old man spent hardly more than five dollars a week, and had little time for anything but studying Greek. The last time she called he refused to see her. "He was far too clever to be able to mix with his fellow men," she said.

YOUTHFUL MAGICIAN BAFFLES OLD-TIMERS

Robin Hood Does His Stuff Before Professionals

London—A 14-year-old Eton boy stood on a stage and with confidence gave an exhibition of conjuring before a most critical audience—a gathering of conjurers.

This youthful magician was Robin Hood. He is a son of Robert V. Hood, a city business man.

With the deftness of a professional he executed sleight-of-hand tricks with golf balls, coins, and a lighted cigarette, and concluded with a clever illusion in which pieces of paper appeared and disappeared from the blade of a table knife.

"At home Robin has a proper stage fitted up with curtains and special lighting, and he gives two or three shows there in the holidays to our friends," his father stated.

BELGIAN WORKERS INCENSED AS SOCIALISTS "RAID" FUNDS

Find $68,000,000 Spent on Election Expenses and Strike Pay

STATE TO RESCUE

Brussels.—Belgian Socialists have been charged with "raiding" the workers' savings banks and squandering for party purposes 300,000,000 francs—$68,000,000—out of total deposits of 350,000,000 francs—$79,333,330 —in the Banque du Travail—a Socialist bank, most of whose depositors are "co-op" members.

The Banque du Travail, whose offices in Brussels and the provinces have now been closed down, was only saved from a complete crash recently by a state advance of 150,000,000 francs.

M. Vandervelde, the Socialist leader, called on the finance minister, M. Jaspar, and told him of the desperate situation of the savings bank. M. Vandervelde revealed, to the finance minister's utter dismay, that the bank was short 300,000,000 francs and was faced with immediate collapse.

M. Jaspar informed the cabinet, and an investigation was opened.

Withdrawals Cut

It was found that M. Vandervelde had not exaggerated the position, and that in many large centres workers were being allowed to withdraw no more than ten per cent. of their deposits, and then only after providing proof that the money was urgently needed.

The investigation, it is now admitted, revealed further that the missing 300,000,000 francs had been drained by the Socialist party and spent in propaganda, in colossal election expenses, in strike pay, and for other purely party purposes.

M. Vandervelde asked for an advance of 200,000,000 francs to save the bank.

The government agreed to advance 150,000,000 francs, and, as a guarantee for the loan, insisted that they should hold mortgages on all the premises of the co-operatives holding shares in the Banque du Travail.

The Socialists were further compelled to agree to the government's condition that only individual depositors would be allowed to withdraw their deposits—but no body or organization.

Fierce anger and resentment have flared up in Belgium against the leaders of the Socialist party, and the government are urged to get to the bottom of the "scandal" and to spare nobody.

COMMUNIST "SOUL" JAILED

Berlin.—"Beautiful Red Helen," alias Helen Kirsch, described as the "soul" of a Communist conspiracy to destroy the present German regime by violence, was sentenced to 33 months' hard labor. She was accused of being the courier between Communist headquarters in Berlin and branches in the provinces.

SAWDUST CIRCLE APPEALS TO GIRL

Daughter Follows in Famous Clown's Footsteps

Paris.—Miss Blanca Grock, daughter of the famous clown, is appearing at a Paris circus. She is said to have decided to do so against her father's wishes.

Miss Grock left her father's house on the Italian Riviera at Oneglia to make a runaway match at Cannes with Mr. Hall, a young music-hall artist.

Grock at first declined to agree to her marriage to a man who was not a "top-liner" on a music-hall bill.

Since then, however, he appears to have relented and it is believed that his daughter's appearance in the same program with Grock in Paris will mark a reconciliation.

LIONS SLAY WOMEN DRIVEN INTO JUNGLE

Terrorist Outrages in Liberia Brought to Attention of Three Nations

Geneva.—Driven into the jungle by their "civilized" masters, helpless women of the Kroo tribe of the negro republic of Liberia have been devoured by lions.

Menfolk of the tribes, who have refused to become enslaved as carriers for the Liberian descendants of American slaves, have been fired on by a military mission.

These facts, indicating a recrudescence of the inhuman treatment for which Liberia was condemned three years ago by the league, were revealed at a secret meeting of the British, French and United States representatives held in the league secretariat.

News of this fresh outbreak of terrorism has been flashed from Africa to the British foreign office and to the United States state department, and both governments are seriously considering drastic action to prevent a recurrence of the outrages which horrified the world three years ago.

A tragic feature of the new development is that the tribes are helpless against the Liberian authorities, for two years ago they were persuaded to part with their arms.

Liberia is a curious paradox. It is governed by 12,000 descendants of freed American slaves, who alone are regarded as "civilized."

According to information that has reached the British and United States foreign offices from various official sources in Africa, Liberian military missions are striking terror into the tribes by entering their villages and pressing the menfolk into service.

In one case where the men resisted the women were driven into the bush. In another case the mission opened fire.

Digger, Once Poor, Will Aid Others With Most of Wealth

Cape Town.—Because he found the fourth largest diamond in the world, Jacobus Jonker, a once-poor digger, is being called upon to pay $120,000 in tax.

Jonker sold the diamond to Sir Ernest Oppenheimer for $305,000. This sum is regarded by the government as his "income" for 1933, and he is taxed accordingly.

He came to Cape Town to protest against the decision.

Jonker is quite unmoved by his sudden accession of wealth. He retains the frugal tastes of the eighteen years during which he worked almost for nothing.

He has decided to invest part of his capital to give him an income of $1,500 a year.

With the remainder he will buy farms which he will give for five years to poor whites in South Africa who have never had a chance. In this five years, says Jonker, each man should get at least one good harvest, which wiwll give him a start in life.

"Mealie Pap" His Food

"At the end of thirty years," he explains, "I will have bought at least thirty farms and something like a hundred poor whites will have been given their chance."

Jonker first asked $360,000 for the diamond, but sold it for $305,000 on condition that Sir Ernest Oppenheimer would help him to get land for his farm scheme wherever he wanted it.

"Money," he said, "has made no difference to my outlook. I was a poor, decent, honest man before. I shall still live as I lived. For eighteen years I lived on mealie pap; I toiled in the heat of the day and in the cold of night. My six children grew up on the diggings with me, and I did not seem to have the luck that other men had, until the last, when my luck came all at once."

LAW PROTECTS RADIO OWNER FROM "MAN-MADE" STATIC

Electrical Appliances Must Carry Device to Prevent Distortion

FRENCH PASS RULING

Paris. — Interference with broadcast reception becomes a legal offence under a law recently passed in France. Manufacturers of electrical appliances will in future be required to fit into their goods devices that will prevent "man-made static." A long list of apparatus capable of distorting wireless reception is specified, including the following:

Vacuum cleaners, lifts and refrigerators, washing machines, calculating machines, advertising signs, cinema projectors, knitting and sewing machines, dynamos and motors, electrical heaters and wireless sets.

All apparatus must be suitably equipped within four months. The law does not define what constitutes an "anti-interference" device.

In Britain the number of complaints of interference with wireless reception by electrical machinery has reached the rate of 100,000 a year. The increase in the use of electric signs, domestic power appliances, machinery in bakeries and on masseurs' and similar premises has made the trouble widespread. In the northwestern area of England the post-office has found it necessary to set up a specially trained staff to investigate complaints and advise particular remedies.

Nine months ago the Institution of Electrical Engineers set up a committee to consider the problem in all its aspects, and a report is to be prepared for the council of the institution.

No legislative power for dealing with interference exists in the British Isles, but the postmaster-general has several times hinted in the House of Commons that it would become necessary and that the wireless license holder is deserving of protection.

STEAM WILL DRIVE GERMAN AEROPLANE

Inventor Claims 238 m.p.h. for His Machine

The invention is that of a German engineer, Herr Huettner, who uses a rotating boiler and a new form of turbine, which revolves in the opposite direction.

The Huettner aeroplane, as planned, will be 68 feet long, with a wing span of 106 feet. The turbine will develop 2,500 horsepower and will drive two propellers rotating in opposite directions. Oil gas will be used as fuel.

It is claimed the normal cruising speed will be 238 m.p.h. It will be able to climb within half an hour to 30,000 feet, where it will develop a maximum speed of 270 m.p.h. It will have a ceiling of 42,500 feet.

CODE FOR CLERGYMEN WOULD BAR GLOATING

Council Bluffs, Ia.—A code for clergymen. Such a proposal is made by Rev. J. R. Perkins of Council Bluffs. Its material provisions should include one guaranteeing all ministers a living wage, he said. Its spiritual provisions should embody the rule that "no clergyman should covet another preacher's members or gloat over receiving into his flock the sheep of another."

IGNORANCE SAVED LIFE

Denver.—Ignorance of the laws of chemistry saved the life of Don Hill, 40, of Denver. Hill, attempting suicide, swallowed enough poison to kill several men. He had mixed the poison with alcohol, which acted as an antidote. A severe stomach ache was the only result.

ENGLISHMEN EATING LESS ROAST BEEF

Meat Consumption Reduced 20,342 Tons in Year

London.—The statement that people to-day are eating less meat, made by W. Ormsby-Gore (representing the minister of agriculture) in the House of Commons, receives remarkable confirmation from the annual report for 1933 of the superintendent of Smithfield meat market.

The statistics show a steady reduction in consumption from 1931, when 476,755 tons of meat were sold through the market, to last year, when the figure was 456,413 tons—a fall of 20,342 tons. In comparison with 1932 the reduction is 10,867 tons.

Imports into the United Kingdom of beef, mutton and lamb for 1933 amounted to 903,871 tons—a decrease of 8,409 tons compared with 1932.

This decrease was not made up by increased supplies of home-grown meat, and the inevitable conclusion is that year by year the people of these islands are eating less meat.

MONGREL TERRIER GETS MOVIE ROLE

Bought Cheaply at Market, 'Lady' Barks Four Languages

London.—One of the most important characters in the new British talking picture "Nell Gwyn," now being made with Anna Neagle in the title part, is being played by an "actress" who was sold in the Caledonian market fourteen years ago for about $1.90.

This "actress" is called Lady, and admits in four different languages—Russian, English, French and Spanish—that she is only a mongrel terrier.

She belongs to Gregori Makharoff, the former Russian opera singer now living in London, who is well known to patrons of the Hungarian restaurant.

She can laugh, sneeze, and smoke a pipe, and in the film she walks on her hind legs, rubs her nose, and nods her head to show her sympathy with King Charles and Nell.

GRAIN OUTLOOK U.S. MIDDLEWEST DARKENS HOURLY

Parched Prairies, Baked by Sun, Are Swept by Blizzards of Dust.

WHEAT PRICES SOAR.

Storms Unprecedented in 20 Years—Water Short—Plane Services Halt.

CHICAGO, May 11 (A.P.).—Apprehension over crop prospects of the United States Middlewest grew hourly to-day.

Parched prairies and plains, long baked by a hot sun and swept by swirling choking "black blizzards," of dust, swelled the alarm of agrarian and city dweller alike. The only note of hope was the forecast of local showers to-night in Nebraska and North and South Dakota, and in Iowa to-morrow.

Elsewhere no relief was in sight.

"The weather," said the official forecaster, "will be fair almost generally Friday in the north-central states, but unsettled conditions are likely in parts of the great plains area, with some prospects of local showers in that section by Friday night or Saturday."

Wheat Prices Rocket.

Light showers have fallen in the Chicago area—the first in twenty-eight days—and in Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Texas, but they were regarded as of little value. The Chicago Board of Trade took cognizance of the situation and the prices of all future deliveries of wheat skyrocketed five cents yesterday.

Whipped by strong winds, the dust clouds from the vast plains of Western Canada swept across the border with undying intensity yesterday, befogging the entire area from Montana on the west, Texas on the south and the Ohio valley on the east.

So thick were the floating sheets of real estate that aeroplane service between Chicago and St. Paul was interrupted.

Pilots reported that the dust particles had invaded the upper portions of the air—as high as 10,000 feet, and were sweeping eastward at the rate of 60 to 100 miles an hour.

Worst Storm 20 Years.

Experts said the "black blizzards" were without precedent in intensity, and the area involved within the past 20 years, one estimated that some 12,000,000 pounds of dust had been swept into Chicago — four pounds for every man, woman and child in the city.

Blinded by dust, a woman was killed in a motor vehicle accident near Dupres, S.D. Another woman died at Sykeston, N.D., she was pinned beneath a chicken coop, blown over by the high wind.

Meanwhile crop experts agreed that the wheat crop had been impaired, and reports said that other crops had also suffered.

So serious was the water shortage in some localities that municipal embargoes were established on drinking water.

KINSMEN RALLY IS BIG SUCCESS

100 Kinsmen From Central Ontario Hear Premier Henry.

FIVE CLUBS PRESENT.

Peterborough Kinsmen Club not only had the privilege of entertaining a distinguished guest in the Honorable George S. Henry at dinner last evening, but also received the distinction of being the first of the clubs in the entire Kinsmen Association to have been addressed by the Premier.

Introduced by J. F. Strickland, K.C., M.L.A., the premier was accorded a rousing ovation by the gathering of 100 Kinsmen, combining a large representation from Kingston, Belleville, Cobourg and Oshawa clubs. There were also a number of guests, including T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P., and Mayor Roland Denne.

A Large Gathering.

President C. Alex Solitt presided over the gathering which constituted one of the largest and most enthusiastic dinner meetings ever held by the club. The large dining room at Empress Hotel was used for the occasion, and even before dinner was completed George Zarfas, popular producer of the "Show Boat Days" production which recently netted the club treasury a substantial sum of money for the extension of the Kinsmen service work, started the program of entertainment off with a bang.

Following the toast to "The King," Dr. Ralph Honey in making reference to the pending departure from the club of Treasurer Dave Jones who is being transferred in the service of the Bank of Montreal to Belleville, paid tribute to Mr. Jones for his services to the club both in the capacity as treasurer and as a member of the Sunshine committee. On behalf of the club, he wished Mr. Jones "God speed" and assured those present from Belleville that Peterborough's loss would be their gain.

Mr. Jones briefly responded, stating that he regretted severing his friendships and associations he had formed during over three years' residence in this city.

Welcome By Mayor.

Adrian Macdonald, voiced the welcome on behalf of the local clubmen to Premier Henry and other guests and to the visiting Kinsmen, while Mayor Denne no less ably bespoke a welcome to each of the visitors on behalf of the citizens generally.

He assured Mr. Henry, "Peterborough is coming out of the depression. We are not only showing a decreased expenditure for relief, but we are getting more men to work."

Commenting on the government work that was at present providing work for the men of this city, His Worship stated, "I would take this opportunity, Mr. Premier of thanking you for it."

President "Aussie" Peters, of Kingston Kinsmen Club replied on behalf of the visitors from that city, while suitable acknowledgment of the warm welcome accorded to them was also made on behalf of other visiting Kinsmen by "Bill" McIntosh of Belleville, President Jack Fewtress of Cobourg, and President "Cliff" Palmer of Oshawa. It is interesting to note that Cobourg Club which is the "baby" organization in District No. 1 was present in full force

Program of Entertainment.

Following the Premier's address in which he commented on the fact that it was the first Kinsmen gathering he had ever had the opportunity of attending, and in which he reviewed the educational system of the province, the balance of a fine program of entertainment was started with a neatly executed step dance number presented by the Misses Thelma Buller and Isabel Duffus.

The "Kin Quartette" composed of Messrs. Cyril Rice, George Colemen, E. A. Chalmers and Bert Lacey provided a greatly appreciat- unaccompanied vocal number entitled "The Walls of Jericho."

Miss Edna Forster and George Nicholls, the irrepressible pair who delighted the "Show Boat" audiences featured on the program in a two-act comedy, while E. A. Chalmers sang "Good Morning Glory."

George Coleman Sings.

George Coleman was heard to good effect in the song with which he almost brought down the house on the occasion of the recent Kinsmen production at the Opera House, namely "That's Why Darkies Were Born."

UNITED STATES COUPLE LEADING MORNING ROUND

Goodman and Little Capitalize on Rivals' Mistakes for 8-hole Advantage.

OUIMET TRAILING.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 11 (CP-AP)—Fine play by the pair expected to lose to-day gave United States a slight lead over the British at the end of the morning round of the Scotch Foresomes in the Walker Cup competition.

The visitors led in two matches, were all square in the third, and trailed in the other.

Capitalizing on their rivals' mistakes, the youthful American combination of Johnny Goodman, U.S. open champion, and W. Lawson Little, burly Pacific Coast star, ran up a commanding lead of eight holes over Cyril Tolley and Roger Wethered, crack British foresomes pair. The latter were the favored duo.

Ouimet-Dunlap Trailing

Gus Moreland of Texas, and Jack Westland of Chicago, outplayed Harry Bentley and Eric Fiddian, to be out in front by two holes at the halfway mark.

The veterans' foursome, H. Chandler Egan and Max Marston, United States, and the Hon. Michael Scott, British leader, and Sam McKinlay, were all square at the 18th.

Wrecks Own Chances

Wethered's indifferent play wrecked any chances the veteran English pair had of holding the American No. 1 team close. The brother of the renowned woman golfer, Joyce Wethered, performed ruggedly from tee to green, leaving Tolley mostly bad lies.

A great cheer went up from the gallery surrounding the home hole when McRuvie sank a 10-footer for a birdie to give the All-Scotch combination a lead of two up over Uncle Sam's No. 2 pair of Ouimet and Dunlap.

Police Withdrawn Robles Kidnapping

TUCSON, Ariz., May 11.—(A.P.)—Another "truce" in the kidnapping of June Robles, six year old heiress, was observed by authorities to-day while her family sought to contact the abductors.

A request that officers withdraw from the case for the second time since the girl was kidnapped April 26, was granted to give the abductors a chance to send the Robles family a new set of instructions for delivery of the ransom money.

Fernando Robles, father of the victim, announced he was able to raise only $10,000 of the demanded $15,000 ransom. Those who helped him raise that amount, he said, demanded that the girl be produced alive before the sum was delivered.

BONELESS SHAD.

ESSEX, Conn., May 11.—(C.P.)—Those old inseparables—fish and bones — have been divorced by George K. Yoshida, veteran Japanese chef at an Essex club.

He is reported to be the only person in this section able to remove the 400 or more bones in a shad without marring its appearance.

It used to take him two hours to do the job, but practice has reduced his time to 25 minutes.

STORM OF DUST HITS PROVINCE

SLOWS MOTORISTS.

(By The Canadian Press)

Dust storms of varying intensity were reported yesterday and last night from six points in Ontario as despatches from the United States Midwest told of winds that whipped surface soil into the air and sent it flying across hundreds of miles of territory.

Sault Ste. Marie reported the sun obscured by an early dust storm which rendered the atmosphere stifling. Rain fell thereafter plastering the streets with mud. At Meaford drivers of automobiles were forced to moderate their speed owing to restricted visibility.

Stratford reported the sun obscured all afternoon and citizens discomforted by the sand which arrived with a strong west wind. The dust appeared less thick at St. Thomas, although it left a film over farm crops and streets.

Dust was noticed as far east as Toronto, where it caused a thin haze and brought minor discomfort to citizens abroad last night. Fog whistles were blown in the harbor. Earlier Windsor and Detroit reported the air thick with dust.

KING IBN SAUD SENDS 3 ARMIES AGAINST YEMEN

Will Attack Ancient Walled Capital Sada on All Sides.

BRING PEACE TO AREA.

Charge Imam Yahya Broke Promises—Will Protect All Foreigners.

By HAROLD P. BRAMAN.
(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 11. — King Ibn Saud, climaxing his crushing drive to subjugate all Yemen, spurred three separate armies to-day in a combined movement upon Sada, Yemen's walled and ancient capital.

The powerful ruler's largest army, under Crown Prince Emir Saud, had opened an offensive against Sada, key city northwest of Sana and the gateway to the picturesque capital.

The second division was advancing from Hodeidah, Yemen's important Red Sea port, already smashed by Ibn Saud's Saudi Arabian forces and now policed by them, while British, French and Italian warships lie watchfully in the harbor.

The third army, now east of Sana, was ordered to advance immediately upon the capital—a city of about 25,000 population and surrounded by a brick wall five and onehalf miles in circumference.

Saudian sources in London revealed Ibn Saud's new campaign plans to the Associated Press today, asserting that "once Sada falls, it will be only a short time until our armies enter and control Sana."

Blame Imam for War

The Saudians, blaming the Imam of Yemen for the Arabian war, vowed that foreigners' interests will be fully protected, asserting the main idea of subjugating Yemen is to bring permanent peace to that area.

King Ibn Saud decided the Saudians said, on a "war to the finish" when the Imam Yahya failed to keep promises to enter into a 20-year peace arrangement.

"A man like the Imam, who has broken his word continually, should not be permitted to rule longer," the Saudians said, "so Ibn Saud determined to break that rule."

The Saudians officially absolved Italy of any connection with the Yemeni, refuting reports that the Imam had a defense pact with Italy, which like France has interests across the Red Sea.

It was pointed out that Ibn Saud is on good terms with world powers.

Inquest Date Unset In Napanee Crash

KINGSTON, Ont., May 11 (C.P.). —No date has been set as yet for the inquest into the death of Jack McGibbon and Vincent Kilgarinon, who were killed in a motor crash near Odessa on Wednesday night, and it is now thought that the inquiry will not be held for a week or so. The injured members of the party, Oscar Heath, Thelma Aylesworth, Vivian Clark and George Powley, are rapidly recovering and will be ready to give evidence at the inquest. None of them are seriously injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGibbon visited their son, Jack McGibbon, one of the victims of the auto accident, which occurred near Odessa on Wednesday night, at Odessa on Sunday, and it was learned to-day that since that time his mother had a premonition that something was soon going to happen.

FAIR PROSPECTS FOR WHEAT CROP

Prairies Expected to Yield More Than 1933 But Less Than 1932.

NEXT 6 WEEKS WILL TELL.

TORONTO, May 11.—(C.P.)—The early spring barometer by which farmers hope to be able to judge the size of the wheat crop says 1934 will give the Canadian prairie farmer more wheat than last year and less than he harvested in 1932. Judged entirely from moisture conditions, the prospects for this season are "fair."

A good part of the prairies finds itself with a better supply of soil-moisture than at this time last year. So, unless there is a summer-time drought, the crop should total better than the lean 251,000,000 bushels of 1933. Winter precipitation has generally been better than last year.

The west took in 438,000,000 bushels in 1932. That year winter rainfall was more plentiful in nearly all regions of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. There was less early-season danger of soil-drifting and a generous supply of rain during the growing season.

The rains that will fall, or not fall, during the next six weeks will determine whether this young crop is on its way to great things or not. Alberta's Peace River country is the only territory that can survive any prolonged period of drought. In this section the winter rainfall was 46 per cent above normal compared with 13 per cent. last year and 18 per cent. in 1932.

GEHRIG DRIVES IN SEVEN RUNS TO AID YANKS 13-3 WIN

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

SINCE KENILWORTH opened the Canadian racing season we have been confining our comments to steeds performing on this side of the line. So in case, you are thinking that we are neglecting the American plants, we will pass out a little info concerning them today. The much looked forward to meeting between the famous Equipoise and the unbeaten Chase Me did not materialize last Saturday at Pimlico. Mrs. Bosley, the owner of the latter horse decided to scratch him at the last minute. A good way to keep his unbeaten record intact to our way of thinking.

L. Haymaker has a nice pair of prospects in The Doctor and Bally Bay. These two are on razor edge and will do the needful for their followers shortly. Kievex at Pimlico is another that is just waiting for the proper spot . . . Over at Churchill Downs, there is a mare called Princess Camelia who is just crying to run. Judge Direnzo is another who is rated as a cheap plater but who is very consistent when pitted against his own kind and generally lands a place in the pay-off division.

× × ×

EDDIE SEAGRAM was all smiles at Windsor on Wednesday when his gallant Young Kitty made a show of her field and just breezed home a winner by four lengths, in the fastest time of the meeting for five and a half furlongs to pay off at $49.70 for the usual deuce on the sneezer. This hide was selected by us to cop this heat in our Wednesday selections and we will go still farther to say that she will win more purses before the season is run out . . . Donny Johnny is working up to a winning effort which take place any day soon on a current Canadian track.

× × ×

The famous Preakness second only in importance to the Kentucky Derby will be decided on Saturday at Pimlico. Cavalcade who won the latter race will not be a starter but his stable mate High Quest is considered by his connection to have an excellent chance. Mati Hari if she starts cannot be overlooked either as she led for the greater part of the Derby. Discovery the Vanderbilt colt also must be considered after his smashing race of last week.

× × ×

THE ATTENDANCE and wagering are picking up a little at Windsor but there is plenty of room for improvement yet. Lloyd Gentry is still leading the trainers and it looks as if this clever horseman made a wise move when he shipped his entire string to the border track about six weeks ago, and put the finishing touches on right at the scene of action. He still has the good sprinter French Lass in the barn but one of these days she will pop down from the clouds.

PIRATES' TUSSLE WITH PHILLIES RAINED OUT.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., A.P.

Events of the past two days have borne out very well various and sundry surmises to the effect that this year's edition of the Chicago Cubs was built around the new and livelier National League ball and the short right field at Wrigley Field

A strong win blowing toward the right field stands made conditions just right for the long hitters to take advantage of those two advantages, and as a result a total of 13 home runs have been wafted out of the field for the Cubs and Brooklyn Dodgers. Brooklyn got a little the better of the rivalry, but the Cubs won both games rounding out a 12-8 decision yesterday although they were outhit 16-14. As a result Chicago took the league lead and built up a game and a half margin over three rival clubs.

Klein Adds to Total.

While Lon Warneke was staggering through to win the game which saw Chuck Klein wallop his eighth homer of the season, Gabby Hartnett his sixth, and Tony Cuccinello his second in two days, Pittsburgh's second in two days Pittsburgh's game with the Phillies was rained out and the Cardinals took their second straight from New York Giants, 5-4. This combination of results gave the Pirates second place with New York and St Louis tied for third, virtually tied with the Bucs but a few percentage points behind.

11th Win in 12 Games.

Jim Mooney's relief pitching after Bill Hallihan had been knocked out in three rounds and some clever base running by Pepper Martin and Joe Medwick gave the Cardinals their 11th victory in 12 games after they had trailed by three runs at the start.

Cincinnati Reds helped to widen the gap between the first and second divisions when they whipped the fifth-place Boston Braves 5-2. Si Johnson gave one of his best mound performances, holding Boston to seven hits and narrowly missing a shutout.

HEAVY HITTING.

(By Canadian Press)

Lou Gehrig put on a one-man show in the American League's headline game that threatened the swatting supremacy of the club fiesta. Lou figured in every one of the Yankees' scoring spurts that brought them a 13-3 victory over Chicago White Sox, poling two home runs and two doubles to drive in seven runs before he retired after five innings.

Cleveland's Indians also did some mighty swatting as they gave Boston a six-run start in the first inning they came from behind to win 11-10 when Earl Averill and Joe Vosmik hit homers, each with two aboard, and the Red Sox gave up seven unearned runs through four errors.

Most Important Gain

Philadelphia Athletics registered the day's most important gain when they gained a 5-3 victory over Detroit on a combination of four baggers by Bob Johnson and Pinky Higgins and the four-hit pitching by Roy Mahaffey and Alton Benton. Since the Washington-St. Louis game was rained out, the A's tied the Senators for second place and Cleveland moved into fourth, passing the Tigers and Red Sox.

CHICAGO AFTER HOWIE MORENZ

Canadiens' Centre Ice Star's Services in Demand by Hawks.

N.H.L. CONCLAVE.

CHICAGO, May 11. — National Hockey League club owners will hold their annual meeting here today to consider, among other things, it was reported, the removal of the Ottawa Senator franchise to St. Louis.

The Ottawa club has failed to make ends meet in recent seasons, and a change to St. Louis has been rumored since the middle of the last campaign.

At least two player deals also were on the fire. Chicago Black Hawks, winners of the Stanley Cup, were said to be after Howie Morenz, Montreal Canadiens' veteran star, while New York Rangers were reported in the market for Lorne Chabot, veteran Canadiens goaler, who is reported on the sale block.

The Hawks probably will announce the name of a manager to succeed Thomas Patrick Gorman, who resigned recently. The names of "Helgie" Bostrom, former Chicago defence man; George Hay, former manager of Detroit Olympics; Emil Iverson, who preceded Gorman as Hawk manager; Lionel Conacher, Chicago defence star; and Mickey McKay, a member of the Hawks from 1927 to 1929, have been mentioned as possibilities.

DYKES CONFIDENT IMPROVING TEAM

New Manager Sure Chicago White Sox Will Reach First Divisios.

NEW YORK, May 11.—The sun was beating down on the back of chunky Jimmy Dykes' leathery neck yesterday as he sat on the top step of the White Sox dugout and faced the baseball club he had been managing for two days. The eager grin and the wisecracks that usually tumble from his lips were missing, and there were serious creases around his eyes and mouth.

"I'm telling you fellows again," he said, before the call came to face the Yankees, "everything I tell you to do I'm out there trying to do myself. If you don't do it I'm going to call you. If I don't you call me."

That seemed fair enough — the platform of Lew Fonseca's successor at the White Sox helm. That Jimmy has the confidence and support of his team was obvious from the roars and the chiffing that followed. The players tell you, off-the-record, that most of them never felt Lew really had earned a manager's lofty post; that at least one of the White Sox some-armed pitchers, a star for many years, has recovered somewhat miraculously overnight.

CAVALCADE TO RUN IN RICH PREAKNESS

So Will High Quest, Says Bob Smith, Trainer for Mrs. Sloane.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 11 (A.P.). —The United States Weather Bureau and the trainer of last week's Kentucky Derby winner made announcements yesterday that brought forecasts of a great day for the thousands expected to witness the forty-fourth annual running of the Preakness at Pimlico Saturday.

Fair and cooler, said the weatherman.

Cavalcade probably will run, said Bob Smith, who trains Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's stable. So will High Quest, winner of the Wood Memorial.

With the Sloane horses entered there seemed little doubt that the cream of the three-year-olds of the United States—a highly select if somewhat small equine company of eight or nine—would compete for the Woodlawn vase and the $25,000 added purse.

FIVE-RUN RALLY IN 8TH GIVES RAMPAGING WINGS 10TH STRAIGHT VICTORY

Milligan Hurls Good Game For Albany For 7 Innings But Loses In Long Run 6-2; Leafs Hit Three Baltimore Moundsmen For 15 Safeties.

ROYALS GAIN WITH 7-4 DECISION OVER BEARS

(By The Associated Press)

Another late-inning rally had given the rampaging Rochester Red Wings their 10th successive victory and turned the International League pennant struggle into a pursuit race to-day.

Checked by Johnny Milligan for seven innings, the Red Wings burst forth with a five-run rally in the eighth that gave them a 6-2 decision over Albany Senators yesterday. The triumph left the Red Wings on top of the heap with 17 victories and only three defeats and leading their closest rivals, Newark Bears, by five games.

Bad Lacing in 8th

Albany had touched Ray Harrell for only two hits in seven innings, but had scored single runs in the third and sixth, with the aid of seven passes. Milligan, meanwhile, coasted along without trouble except in the sixth, when Rochester scored one run but took a bad lacing in the fatal eighth.

Hal King's double with the bases loaded and Chad Kimsey's seven-hit pitching featured Montreal Royals' 7-4 victory over Newark. The Royals laced Vito Tamulis for 10 hits and drove him to cover in the fifth and collected five more safeties off his successor, Spurgeon Chandler. Ben Sankey contributed a double and three singles to the attack.

Royals Stepping Up

The Leafs slapped Cliff Melton, Hormidas Aube and George Miner for 15 hits, of which Murray Howell and Nolen Richardson contributed three apiece. Al Hollingsworth went the route for Toronto although touched for eight hits. Wally Gilbert, Baltimore third-sacker, collected a triple, double and single, drove in three runs and scored another himself.

11-3 Triumph for Herd

Max Rosenfeld clouted a homer with two on in the fourth for three Syracuse runs, but Johnny Wilson was master thereafter, and Buffalo clouted out an 11-3 triumph in the other league game of the day. Wilson allowed three hits in the fourth, but otherwise Syracuse solved him for only two safeties. Buffalo made only nine hits but took advantage of seven walks, a wild pitch and three Syracuse errors.

LEAD LONDON CLUB TO TITLE IN KING LOOP

Took Over Tecumsehs Over Faltering Start to Finish Schedule on Top.

FORMER HAWK PLAYER.

CHICAGO, May 11 (AP)—Clem Loughlin, leader of the London, Ont., Tecumsehs, champions of the International Hockey League, today was named manager of the Chicago Black Hawks by Owner Frederick McLaughlin. Loughlin succeeds Thomas Gorman, who led the Hawks to the Stanley Cup Hockey championship last season.

Loughlin, defence player with the Black Hawks from 1926 to 1928, has managed the Tecumsehs for three years.

His team made a disappointing start last season, only to make a fast finish and win the league title in the play-off series. His managerial career with the Tecumsehs closely resembled that of Gorman with the Black Hawks. Both took over their managerial duties with their teams stumbling about with low prospects of a title.

Arrives for Conference

The new Black Hawk manager arrived to-day for a conference with Major McLaughlin to map out plans for next season's campaign. He summers on his farm at Viking, Alta.

Simultaneously with their announcement that Loughlin had been named manager, the Black Hawks admitted they were interested in acquiring the services of Howie Morenz, veteran star of Montreal Les Canadiens. The only hitch in the deal was the insistence that it be made on a straight cash basis, whereas the Montreal club desired two players and cash. One of the players reported headed for Montreal in the deal was "Mush" March, Hawk star of the Stanley Cup play-offs.

SOCCER SEASON OPENS SATURDAY

Two Picked Teams Will Kick Off at Three O'clock—Officials Open Season.

The local soccer season opens on Saturday afternoon in the city, when two picked teams chosen by the executive will play on King Edward Park. Kick off at three o'clock prompt. Harry Hotson will officiate as referee.

All players selected are requested to be at the pavilion no later than 2.30 and report to their respective captains; if not, their position will be filled by the reserves. Bring own pants and boots, but sweaters will be provided.

A new marker for the field has been secured and will be used on the park so as to eliminate the sawdust pile that has accumulated season after season. Also new field posts have been obtained.

On Saturday morning, the officials of the soccer association are marking off the grounds to accommodate the new changes that have been made. A large number of loads of earth have been placed on the pitch.

It is expected that Alderman Walter Stocker and Alderman Robert Cotton will officiate at the opening ceremony.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. P.

The spectacle of a ball player dashing from first straight across to third through the pitching box was dished up to a delighted bunch of fans in Cincinnati the other day. The Reds and Giants were playing and young Blakely, a Red recruit, was on first. He went to second on a hit to the outfield, but thinking the ball was caught, he tore back to first. Then finding it hadn't been caught, he legged it to third, without bothering with second base at all! However, the nasty old umpire called him out when the pill was tossed to the keystone sack, thereby spoiling a swell base-running debut for the youthful and enterprising Mister Blakely.

• • • • • • •

That reminds us of a story the late Ross Kendry, an oldtime star shortstop here, once told us. They used to have ball games at picnics all around the district, even up to Lindsay or Bobcaygeon. And it seems it wasn't unusual to have a keg of beer on a hot day parked near third. And no player got a drink till he reached third. "There were more triples hit in those games," Ross said, "than anything else, and there used to be a path worn straight across from first to third!"

• • • • • • •

After dropping their first two games in a row, Oshawa is sort of on the spot. For instance, the Belleville writer says: "After ballyhooing the Oshawa Dukes to the limit all winter, the Oshawa scribe is now searching Webster's for adequate phrases to quell the near riot that followed Saturday's game when the Dukes took a swell drubbing at the hands of Malvern Grads right in Oshawa. The Motor City sport commentator all but promised the fans the provincial title before the team took the field. When they lost their first game at home Saturday the cry went up from the stands, 'You guys should have stayed in the Central League, maybe you could have won at least one game there!' Well, the Dukes may find the going just as tough in the Central as in the Ulster League."

• • • • • • •

The Quinte plugger has another little kick left in him, too. He proceeds: "Another sport note from Oshawa gives us a laugh. .In.. reference to Red Hollingsworth, ex-Peterborough infielder now cavorting at shorstop for Oshawa, the scribe says he fielded excellently and will add strength to that club once he gets his batting eye. We have seen the ex-Peterborough sorrel-top perform for many seasons but as yet he has failed to break any fences down this way. As a matter of fact, Hollingsworth's great drawback is his inability to hit. Yet the Oshawa writer suggests the red head will soon get his batting eye back! Where will he get it from, we'd like to know?"

• • • • • • •

President Max Swanston of the C.O.B.L. has listed the umps for all league games up to July 2nd. They are printed on a card and sent to the would-be officials (and that "would-be" can be taken more ways than one, come to think of it). Shiner Johnston is the local selection, while Ken Colling and Allan Meagher will do the guessing for Belleville, Kingston has Pat Harrigan, G. Nicholson and Flat Walsh. What, no Pounds or Twiggs? Well, that's a break for everyone. Visiting umps in each case is the umpire-in-chief. And on the bottom of the card is printed: "Umpires in charge of games—not players and managers; and you are asked to see that the teams hustle on and off the field between innings and pep up the game."

• • • • • • •

Local prospective senior players had a stiff workout last eve in Riverside and were in midseason form—losing four balls fouled over the grandstand. Devell, Calladine and McCarthy were shoving 'em across the platter red hot and the lads had a fine batting practise, followed by infield and outfield drills. That rightfield spot has Knotty Lee with a furrow between his eyes. There are plenty of good prospects for the job, for instance, Dallin, McQuade, Len Hollingsworth, Hope, Weir, but they're all lefthand stickers. Knotty needs a few more right hand sluggers and is still hoping he can get a rightfielder who clouts right. Weir put up a smart showing in both fielding and hitting last night. They expect to workout all Saturday afternoon, and everyone wanting a tryout should again be on hand.

• • • • • • •

Official opening of the local soccer season takes place at King Edward Park tomorrow after lunch. Aldermen Stocker and Cotton will figure in the preliminary ceremonies for the city, and the game'll get under way at three or thereabouts. Two picked teams of local players with several in from Lindsay play a game ala exhibish. Then the following Saturday, the boys will put the boots to the pigskin in earnest to open the league competition. This merry game is one that lends credence to the crack: "Kick and the world kicks with you!"

• • • • • • •

Practises were general hither and yon about town yester gloaming as the opening of the various leagues loomed. In Riverside the fellows were practising how to look nonchalant without a Murad when ever a soft roller slipped through them; a bit north, along the river bank, a gang of gals were rehearsing the graceful art of softball; ye soccer sockers were busy educating their square-toed shoes down south; in Central, the boys were playfully attempting to tear the covers off large balls—and so it went. With dress rehearsals general next week, tickets for the openings will go on sale shortly and all the first-nighters can once more do their stuff.

ALBERTA WOMEN COMING.

EDMONTON, May 11.—(CP—Alberta will be represented at the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union championships at Toronto in September and a meeting will be held here shortly to arrange for the selecting of a team. Mrs. Roy H. Moore, president of the Alberta branch, announced to-day. The provincial championships will be played here early in July.

A PUBLIC OXFORD GROUP Meeting will be held Sunday, May 13th at 8.30 p.m. in Mark Street Church.

Ottawa Franchise Will Go To St. Louis

OTTAWA, May 11. (C.P.) — The westward migration of the Ottawa Senators National Hockey League Club is now a practical certainty. It was learned yesterday arrangements have been completed for the club to operate next season at St. Louis, Mo.

Reports were also current to-day that Tommy Gorman who last season coached the Chicago Black Hawks to the world's championship would return to the Senators as coach and manager. They could not be confirmed from Mr. Gorman although it is understood some of the Senator directors are anxious to secure his services.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

At a driving range the other day I watched a fellow practicing.

In every backswing he would sweep the club up with his eyes glued to his arms and hands. Two or three such practice sweeps and then he'd swing at the ball.

Obviously, this chap had been told to think about his arms and hands. He was oblivious to the faulty action of his legs and feet.

Thinking about arms and hands will never bring about the correct foot action. However, concentrating on the side rolling of the feet and the proper execution of this action will invariably bring about the correct movements in the upper part of the body.

Think about your feet.

New York Ghetto Jew Regards Vancouverite as Counter Puncher.

NOT AFRAID OF HIM.

He was referring to his welterweight title contest with Jimmy McLarnin the devastating walloper from Vancouver, whom he meets in a 15-round battle in New York, May 28.

There was only one worry on Ross' mind. He said he was worrying because he was afraid that McLarnin, whom he regards as a counter puncher, would not make a fight of it.

"If McLarnin will fight, I'll beat him sure" Ross snapped. He sat on a rubbing table, cooling off after boxing four brisk rounds and stepping through three rounds of gymnasium exercises.

Ross is going into the fight with respect for McLarnin but no fear. He has more confidence in himself for this engagement than in any bout he has ever fought, including his lightweight championship battle with Tony Canzoneri.

"Almost everybody McLarnin has licked was scared to death before they got into the ring," Ross exclaimed. "Not me I'm not afraid of him. I carry just as many guns as Jimmy does and will make him like it, if he will fight. You know, he is a counter puncher who seldom leads, and that makes things look bad. It takes two guys to make a fight."

Ross, after two weeks in the Wisconsin Woods, looked stronger and more developed in his arms and shoulders than ever. He worked like a laborer at his camp in Loretta, Wis. chopping down trees, sawing them up, and even worked with a pick and shovel with a local road gang.

He figures he will enter the ring weighing about 136 pounds, thus giving McLarnin a weight advantage of about 10 pounds, as the welterweight champion has agreed to weigh 145 pounds at 12 o'clock on the day of the fight. He figures McLarnin will take on two or three pounds between weighing in time and the time the battle starts.

CANADIENS PLAN TO SELL CHABOT

Wilf Cude of Detroit Red Wings May Play in Montreal Club Goal.

KINGSTON, May 11.—(CP) — Lorne Chabot, tall goaler of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, will not be on the Frenchmen's line-up next year, according to an official of Canadiens here yesterday. Chabot's place will be taken by Wilf Cude of Detroit Red Wings, according to present plans.

The Canadiens' official, who has been here arranging for next year's training quarters, said Chabot will be disposed of this summer. Cude made a great record with Red Wings last winter. He is the property of Canadiens and was on loan to the Detroit team, defeated in the Stanley Cup finals by Chicago Black Hawks.

It is possible, it was stated, Chabot would join Montreal Maroons next winter or go to Detroit. Chabot was traded to Canadiens a year ago by Toronto Maple Leafs.

Howie Morenz, rumored as ready to depart for other fields, will be at centre for the Frenchmen next year, the official intimated.

Central Nine Takes 12-9 School Victory

In a five-inning School Softball League game at Queen Alex yesterday, Central took a 12-9 verdict. It was a fair sort of battle, with some neat hitting and wild baserunning. The Q.A. lads started off right with a run in the first, but were blanked till they shoved one more over in the third. They made another bid in the fourth to grab off five more markers, but could get only two in the next. Central snared three in the second, seven in the fourth, including McClelland's homer and two in the last. The teams:

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterborough's Leading Handwriting Analyst for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Crossley Kuntz,
Lang, Ont.

The handwriting as delineated on your sample for analysis, shows that you think with lightning-like rapidity, and that most of your thoughts are intelligent and logical. The firmness of your letter formations suggests a dominant characteristic, which means that you will brook no interference in your plans, and that you have a determined will, coupled with keeness of perception. It is imperative that you carry out your ideas and projects in your own way. You are not slovenly by any means. You posseas a remarkable agilky, and act as quickly as you think. You can be secretive when you wish, especially if it is necessary to be so, in order to assist your friends over rough places. You will go to any length to provide happiness for others. Your temperament is usuailly fair and even, but if you become angry, you generally flare up quickly and then forget about the incident. You are not too ambitious but just sufficiently so to enable you to accomplish anything which you deem worth the energy that your ingenious nature allows you to expend in the completion thereof. Your sign is Taurus the Bull. Ruled by Venus. May and July are your best months. Tuesday the most fortunate day. Your number is seven.

Miss Patricia Williamson,
Omemee, Ont.

The handwriting as delineated on your sample for analysis, represents sensitiveness, and shows that your feelings are subject to grueiling agony at an unkind word or deed. Your nerves are highly strung and susceptible to the slightest occurrence which associates itself with your well being. Your talent lies in your ability to progress slowly without blundering. You do your best and do not expect praise. You are logical, quite conservative, thrifty and neat. Fortune does not seem to favor you to any great extent. Development of your own hard earned abilities should bring you considerable comfort. You have sufficient grit, and a spirit of independence with which to acquire your goal. Try not to listen to useless gossip. Spend more time on your own pleasures and recreations. Dress to suit your own individual style. Wear only the colors which appeal to your moods. Hairdressing might appeal to you as an outlet for your passion to work at something which is both refined and progressive, this should bring you monetary compensation also, thereby creating independence for you.

S. Pearl Thomas,
Norwood, Ont.

Your writing which is very small and so variable in size, illustrates reserve and a tendency to gather unto yourself a very inferior complex. You will have to 'broaden' out a lot in your views if you wish to get anywhere. You see, you are mentally intelligent, but do not seem to be able to use the power which you possess, due to a reticence on your part, or fear of self-assertion, or expression. The study of anything along psychological lines should interest you as well as help you. I might suggest here an old saying: "One is, as the mind is." In regard to your letter and personal information, I should say that out-of-door recreation would be of much benefit to you, if you took it in moderation, for the (196) that you quoted seems to be too great in proportion to your other characteristics. Your number is six, and should make you tranquil and steady. Your birthsign is Scorpio the Scorpion. You are ruled by Mars. January and July are lucky months for you. Tuesday seems to be the best day.

Sarah Grierson,
Indian River, Ont.

Your writing indicates youthful qualities, and also indicates that you are rather a changeable sort of person. Your writing should change a lot in the next few years, and so it would not be sporting of me to judge you from this sample. I hope you will understand and write again if you wish, but if you do, please use pen and ink, and give me your birthdate, month and year, and perhaps I can help you a lot more through your horoscope and lucky number. In pencil writing, downstrokes and upstrokes are so much alike, that true characteristics do not predominate.

Rose Grierson,
Indian River, Ont.

Your handwriting shows impulsiveness and generous qualities. That rather exaggerate 'I' which looks like a capital 'J' in the word Indian, shows that with correct guidance, you could be definitely set apart for leadership. However, if this characterestic is not guided properly, it will have a tendency to make you dogmatic, and a trifle over-bearing. Your imagination is well developed, and could be put to constructive use.

In one day recently more than 1000 persons visited the Livingstone National Memorial in Blantyre, Scotland, a 25 per cent increase over the same day of 1933.

Fear of being caught in ice floes, which began to break adrift with the advent of spring, has forced Eskimo walrus hunters on the ice fringe of Greeland to return landward.

Men are, on an average five inches taller and about 30 pounds heavier than women, according to European statisticians.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, May 12.

The stellar operations, both by lunar and mutual aspect, presage a day of important activity and surprising faculties will be found under high stimulus to initiative and bold strokes, but the success of these shou'd not be jeopardized by rash, hasty and impulsive decisions or moves.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of important events, with a high spirit of initiative and enterprise, but let the resources be developed in connection with "big business" through diplomacy, tact, strategy and cleverness rather than bold and aggressive methods and rash and impetuous moves.

A child born on this day may be bold, energetic and talented, at the same time subtle and of fine temperament.

BOLIVIA READY BOMB ASCUNSION

100,000 PEOPLE IN CITY.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, May 11 (A.P.).—Bolivia threatened to-day to bombard Asuncion, capital of Paraguay, from war planes.

In a statement reviewing reports of mistreatment of Bolivian soldiers in Paraguayan prison camps in the Gran Chaco warfare, the Bolivian Government said:

"In denouncing these crimes, we make it known that if they are confirmed the Bolivian air force will begin a bombardment of Asuncion."

Asuncion has a population of more than 100,000.

Bolivia already has sent her war planes to bomb certain Paraguayan outposts.

In reprisal for these bombings, the Bolivian note said, "a reliable source" had disclosed that Paraguayan officers had "drawn lots" to determine which Bolivian prisoners would be killed.

The communique charged that 10 soldiers and an officer in the Bolivian army already have been condemned to death in Paraguayan prison camps.

Armed At Military Posts.

BUENOS AIRES, May 11 (A.P.). — The Bolivian Legation issued a note to-day claiming Bolivian army planes have not bombarded Paraguayan civilian centres, but only military headquarters and ammunition depots.

France, Great Britain and Germany were bombarded from the air during the Great War, the note said, but prisoners were not shot and tortured in retaliation because it was taken for granted the objective in war is to damage the enemy.

CRICKET

The Peterborough cricket team selected to play at the Grove School to-morrow, in the first match of the season, includes: Dyer, Mawhood, Binks, Lawrence, Langhorne, Rev. Wootton, Gore, Mitchell, Coleman, Hamilton and Williams, with Stuart and Walton in reserve. These players are requested to meet to-morrow at 1.30 at the Paragon Rooms, and all are asked to play in white.

Three Suspects Held In Bank Holdup Ring

RICHMOND, Ind., May 11 (A.P.). —Two men and a woman suspected by police of being members of a gang that held up several banks in Ohio recently were arrested here early to-day after being routed out of a house by tear gas. They gave their names as Harry Hopkins, 23, of Jamestown, O., Vernon Taylor, 28, of Springfield, O., and Thelma Mitchen, also of Springfield.

Eight Federal agents from Indianapolis aided local police in the capture. The agents were called last night when it was suspected John Dillinger, widely-sought desperado, or some of his recent companions, were in the house.

The two men arrested were heavily armed. Besides $600 in cash, police found three revolvers, a submachine gun, a sawed-off shotgun and a high powered rifle in the house.

BRITISH TOKEN PAYMENT TO BE DEFAULT

HON. J. R. COOKE LEAVES FIELD TO W. H. IRELAND

Represented North Hastings for the Past 23 Years in Legislature.

TRIBUTES PAID.

MARMORA, May 12.—Against the dramatic background of the retirement of the Hon. J. R. Cooke, M.P.P. for the old riding of North Hastings, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, from the political field in which as a candidate he had never suffered a reverse, William H. Ireland of Trenton, M.P.P. for West Hastings, was nominated as the standard-bearer of the Conservatives of the new riding of West Hastings at their convention here yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Ireland was the unanimous choice of the delegates from all parts of the new constituency which was fashioned in the recent redistribution by the fusion of the two former ridings of North and West Hastings. Every section of the west half of the county from Bancroft to Belleville was represented in the large crowd which packed the local town hall beyond its capacity, those who were unable to obtain accommodation in the auditorium overflowing into the council chamber in the basement where they could follow the proceeding and hear the addresses relayed to them by broadcasting equipment.

Hon. Mr. Cooke, Mr. Ireland and Robert A. Elliott of Deloro were proposed as nominess of the convention, but Mr. Cooke and Mr. Elliott declined to seek nomination which thereby was accorded to Mr. Ireland by acclimation.

Mr. Ireland was proposed by S. R. Burrows of Belleville and Howard Graham of Trenton.

Hon. J. R. Cooke's sponsors were George Bailey of Harold and G. A. Gunter of Bancroft.

Mr. Elliott was proposed by Hon. Mr. Cooke and Reeve George Thompson of Rawdon.

"Bob" Cooke's' Valedictory

Naturally, this first convention of the new provincial constituency was concerned with the present engagement and the responsibility of selecting a candidate for the approaching campaign, but the electors from the northern municipalities, the old political estate of 'Bob' Cooke, as well as his many other friends from various parts of the county of Hastings, of which he was once Warden, were pre-occupied by memories of their long association with him in both municipal and provincial affairs.

For Hon. Mr. Cooke the occasion provided the setting for his political valedictory, and its local personal atmosphere and its dramatic note of the parting of familiar and well worn ways, and the end of established and cherished things which had flowed on so long, so smoothly and harmoniously that no termination seemed in sight, such as the loyalties that have grown up between 'Bob' Cooke and his constituents, this pervasive sentiment of the convention was enhanced by the presence of prominent stalwarts of the Conservative party surrounding the provincial leader and premier the Hon. George S. Henry.

Tributes To Mr. Cooke

Only a few of the major incidents and turning points of Hon Mr. Cooke's successful career were referred to in the tributes that were paid to him by all the speakers, and notably by Premier Henry and W. E. Tummon, M.P. for South Hastings. His long years of public service were extolled with special compliment to the practical efficiency as an administrator of a great public trust in his position of Hydro-Electric Commissioner, but the gesture of his voluntary retirement in favor of W. H. Ireland appealed to the convention assembly as a final act of resignation and loyalty, typical of his character and the Cooke traditions in North Hastings, an ultimate confirmation of all their confidence in him which years of close contacts had created.

Praise from Premier

Premier Henry's reference to Hon. Mr. Cooke was the most significant as coming from the leader of the Government.

"I am sorry to see Mr. Cooke going out of the Legislature," Hon.

GERMAN PROTESTANTS SEEKING UNION WITH THE CHURCH OF ROME

Refuse to Accept "Paganization" of Church by Jew-hating Nazis.

SWASTIKA FOR CROSS.

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

PARIS, April 30. — Six hundred German Protestant pastors have made a joint application to the Vatican for their immediate reception in the Catholic church. Two distinguished ministers, who acted as envoys for their six hundred colleagues, arrived in Rome on April 12, where they were received first by Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, and later by the Pope himself. The six hundred pastors represent approximately one million followers.

This news item, somewhat fantastic at first sight, was first published by the Neue Zuricher Zeitung, a journal of unimpeachable integrity appearing at Zurich in Switzerland. It is now partly confirmed by dispatches from Berlin which stipulate that the movement which corresponds in its aims with those of the Anglo-Catholic movement in the Anglican communion, has come to a head as a result of political changes in the German Reich.

The "paganization" of the Protestant church by the denial on the part of Nazi pastors of the Jewish origin of Jesus and the scrapping from both the Old and the New Testament of references to the Judaic roots of the Christian religion, has made it "incumbent on true Christians to leave the Protestant church and seek reunion with the only remaining centre of Christianity" by which is meant the Roman Catholic church. Two months ago the "high-church" pastors ad-

DREAM REVEALS MISSING WOMAN

Icelander Finds Mother's Body on Beach After Obeying Supernatural Voice.

SECOND FAMILY TRAGEDY.

STEEP ROCK, Man., May 12. — (CP)—Superstitions and mysteries of the supernatural, always in strong favor with fisher folk of Manitoba's windswept lakes, came back to a score of hamlets today with the Vigfusson tragedy.

Yesterday 35-year-old Stoney Vigfusson dreamed and heard voices. He raced from his home through chilly winds a mile down the beach and there found the body of his 70-year-old mother, Olifa, missing more than a week.

It was the second tragedy to come to Thorsteinson Vigfusson, 70, blind, sick and partially deaf husband of the dead woman. Almost half a century ago his first wife mysteriously disappeared in Iceland as she returned home from a shopping trip.

Stoney had lain down to rest just before noon yesterday when he fell into a fitful sleep. Without heed to others, he jumped from his cot and raced to the spot on the beach There he found his mother's body With the dream fading from memory, Stoney said voices kept telling him to "go to the beach. There is a letter there for you."

An inquest into Mrs. Vigfusson's death is not considered likely. She disappeared a week ago while returning home. On the body was found $36.55 which she was known to have in her possession when she left the family home.

It is believed the woman wandered onto cakes of pan ice and was carried out into the chill waters by an offshore breeze. She is believed to have drowned with the body being washed ashore.

Captain T. Neville Stack and F E. Clifford made a dictaphone record of their experiences in the air while flying recently from London to West Africa and return.

PRICE BROTHERS DENY CHARGES OF M. F. HEPBURN

Not Involved in Liquor Commission Toll Gate Practice Statement Says.

NOT SELLING TO BOARD.

Ray Price Representative for Firm in Ontario But Resigend in April.

TORONTO, May 12 (CP)—Harry I. Price, M.L.A., and Ray Price to-day issued statements denying allegations by Mitchell F Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, that they were involved in a Liquor Commission "toll-gate" practice.

"I have not at any time represented or been the agent of William Teacher and Sons, Limited, of Glasgow, Scotland, in the Province of Ontario or anywhere else," the Conservative M.L.A. stated.

Resign in April

Ray Price, in a written statement, declared: "I was appointed to the head office staff of William Teacher and Sons, Limited, as their representative in the Province of Ontario on June 1, 1932. Teacher's Scotch whiskey had been listed and sold by the Liquor Vendors in Ontario since 1919. I was not in any way connected with the listing of this liquor. When I decided to become a candidate for the Legislature I forwarded my resignation, dated April 1, 1934, to William Teacher and Sons, Limited, Glasgow, Scotland, and received an acknowledgment from them, dated April 16, 1934, accepting my resignation. I resent Mr. Hepburn's allegation that I have been hiding, as it is absolutely untrue. . . ."

Mr. Hepburn, in public addresses, had claimed foreign distillers forced to appoint agents, acceptable to the "Tory Machine" before being permitted to sell their products to the Ontario Liquor Control Board. He had named Harry I. Price and Ray Price as two of the men implicated.

"I did not at any time interview any member of the Government of the Province of Ontario or the Liquor Control Board of Ontario in connection with soliciting for sale of Teacher's Scotch whiskey; there was no occasion to do so, as it was previously listed as far back as 1919, as aready stated."

Herriot's Prestige Routs "Young Turks"

CLERMONT, Ferrand, France, May 12 (AP)—Edouard Herriot's prestige routed the "Young Turks"—left wing element of the party, France's largest—was obliged to withdraw a speaker he had sent to the congress platform when the delegates shouted down an attack on Herriot.

The party rebels had come to the congress determined to oust Herriot as president of the Radical Socialists unless he stepped out of the cabinet of Premier Gaston Doumergue in which Herriot is a minister without portfolio.

Herriot's strong defense of the cabinet was so successful that the Young Turks abandoned hope of disrupting the convention.

FRENCHMAN SLAYS WIFE PRISON HEAVILY GUARDED

LORIENT, France, May 12 (AP) —A heavy guard was thrown today around the jail to which young Michel Henriot, nephew of Deputy Philippe Henriot was spirited by armed police when crowds formed outside the police station after authorities announced he had confessed that he killed his bride.

The 23-year-old prisoner, son of the local prosecutor, stated, police said, that he shot his wife because she refused to enter into marital relations with him.

The young woman, a bride of only five months, was found dead yesterday. Henriot's rifle lay beside the body.

NEXT DEBT MOVE DEBTOR NATIONS'

Roosevelt Definitely Against Again General Conclave for Wholesale Revisions.

INFORMS BRITAIN.

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP) — President Roosevelt definitely assumed the position to-day that the next move in the matter of war debts is up to debtor nations.

Through diplomatic channels the President has informed Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and Czechoslovakia that the United States is willing to at least discuss any individual suggestions for payments on or readjustment of their debts.

The debtor nations have earned from their envoys here, however, that the President is against any general conclave of nations for wholesale revision of debts.

They have been informed also, that the President cannot again definitely assure token-payers that they are not in default under the terms of the Johnson Act.

Behind the strict interpretation given the Johnson Act—banning defaulters from this country's money markets—is the President's determination to arrive at an equitable settlement of the debt problem rather than a continuance of small payments.

The promised debt message to the United States Congress, Mr. Roosevelt said, will be withheld for about ten days. This is calculated to let debtors come forward if they desire.

OFFICIAL WORD SENT TO LONDON BY WASHINGTON

U. S. Demands June War Debt Installment Be Paid in Full.

NO SETTLEMENT PLANS.

MacDonald Silent — Failure to Pay Bars American Money Marts.

By Harold P. Braman

LONDON, May 12.—(AP) — The United States has notified Great Britain that a token payment on the war debts instalment due in June would be regarded as evidence of default, it was learned officially today.

Notification was given through the British ambassador at Washington, Sir Donald Lindsay, by Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Sir Ronald informed his government of the United States decision in a lengthy cable received just before noon today.

Secretary Hull notified the envoy, he reported, to the Foreign Office, that the Johnson Bill makes it necessary for the United States to regard token payments by any nation as default.

Under the Johnson Bill the money market of the United States are closed against all nations which default on their war debts.

The British Ambassador said no concrete settlement proposal had been offered Great Britain by President Roosevelt.

It was indicated Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald would study the situation in the light of Sir Ronald's message early next week.

Action on the notification over the week-end was considered improbable.

In Downing street, it was reiterated after receipt of the ambassador's cable that the British government is ready to negotiate for a settlement of the debt question, but that the firstmove must come from President Roosevelt.

Leaning Toward Default

Coincident with announcement that a mere token payment would put Great Britain in default, there was a rising feeling in favor of outright default if President Roosevelt declines to begin new negotiations for revision of the debts.

The Daily Mail's political writer summed up this opinion, saying well - informed persons in close touch with the British government declare "default is now only practical politics and almost certain to be the government's policy if President Roosemelt does not offer to begin new negotiations for settlement.

Essential Wheat Export Agreement Be Preserved

LONDON, May 12 (C.P. Cable) —"It cannot be stated too emphatically that even if the Rome plan proved impracticable it is absolutely essential the wheat export agreement should be preserved at all costs," said the Times to-day commenting on failure of the world wheat conference to agree on the scheme for a minimum price for wheat.

Collapse of the price-fixing scheme does not affect the export limitation agreement which was signed at London last August, limiting exports from the principal exporrting nations for the two crop years ending in July, 1933. "This agreement," The Times pointed out, "was thte only tangible result of the world economic conference, and is obviously threatened by the present deadlock.

CHICAGO, May 12 (A.P.). — Samuel Insull enjoyed $250,000 worth of liberty to-day—in a hospital.

The former head of a huge utility empire was in seclusion at St. Luke's Hospital for a few days' rest and medical attention after having won his release from the Cook County Jail.

"Well, boys, good luck to you all" he called jovially to his fellow-prisoners as he left the jail hospital yesterday when his friends put up $250,000 to isure his presence in Federal Court on charges of using the mails to defraud and violation of the bankruptcy law, and in the State Criminal Court, where embezzlement is alleged.

He was warned against similar activities in the future—and released.

Extradition Proceedings Against Jasper Park Man Dropped.

24 YEARS IN CANADA.

Order Comes From the Attorney-General in Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(A.P.) —Attorney General Homer Cummings to-day ordered extradition proceedings dropped against Frank Grigware, alias James Lawrence Fahey, who was found at Jasper, Alta., recently after escaping from Leavenworth penitentiary 24 years ago, where he was serving a mail robbery sentence.

Discovery of the actual identity of James Fahey was made two months ago when he was convicted on a charge of poaching in Jasper National Park. In the ordinary course of events his fingerprints were sent to Ottawa. There it was found they were those of Frank Grigare, escaped lifer from Leavenorth, Kansas, penitentiary.

U. S. PLAYERS HOLD WALKER GOLF TROPHY

British Challengers Beaten in Singles Competition at Historic St. Andrew's.

LOSE IN FOURSOMES ALSO.

Eighth Successive Time United States Has Clinched Coveted Cup.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 12 (AP)—The United States successfully defended the Walker Cup, international golf trophy, by defeating their British challengers to-day in the singles competition after capturing three of the four foursomes yesterday.

8th Straight Triumph

They were paced by Johnny Goodman of Omaha, United States open titleholder, who rallied to trounce the Hon. Michael Scott, British amateur champion, 7 and 6, and W. Lawson Little of San Francisco, victor over Burly Cyril Tolley, by 6 and 5.

The sixth and seventh victories for the Americans in two days of play, settling the issue were tallied by Captain Francis Ouimet of Boston and George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York, the amateur champion. Ouimet disposed of Leonard Crawley, 5 and 4, while Dunlap took the measure of Jack McLean in a sensational match, 4 and 3.

T. A. (Tony) Torrance, veteran British internationalist, halted the rout by defeating Max Mrston of Philadelphia for England's first victory of the day. Torrance won 4 and 4, with a rally that ended their hard-fought encounter.

200 MEN HAVE GARDEN PLOTS

30 PER CENT. PLANTED.

More than 200 garden plots in the city will be under cultivation by unemployed men this summer. A. B. Cunningham, chairman of the Garden Committee of the Central Relief Committee, stated to-day. Each man will have approximately one-tenth of an acre under cultivation, and 180 of these plots have already been taken up by unemployed men.

No time will be lost in planting the gardens, Mr. Cunningham stated, in fact about 30 per cent are fully sown already. It is expected that the p'owing of the gardens will be completed early next week, and the men are expected to have all the planting down by May 20.

Besides these garden plots, about 100 men have been supplied with seed so that they may plant gardens in their backyards.

"The success of the gardens this year is assured and I expect that even more vegetables will be grown by the unemployed than last year," Mr. Cunningham said. "The men are entering whole-heartedly into the work, and we have received the utmost in co-operation from citizens in loaning plots and in giving financial aid for the purchasing of seed."

Yesterday the Garden Committee was offered 12 acres of land three and a half miles out the Chemong road. Anyone who feels capable of cultivating an acre of this land, Mr. Cunningham said, may have it placed at his disposal by the Garden Committee for the summer without charge. All applications should be made to A. B. Cunningham, 331 Reid street, phone 1261W or R. M. Glover at The Examiner.

DIVISION LIKELY BUDGET DEBATE EARLY IN WEEK

Critics Busy Studying Long List Amendments to Market Act.

MANITOBA BANKS SCORED.

Senate Gives Third Reading to Thousand Islands Bridge Bill.

OTTAWA, May 12. (CP)—Critics of the government's natural products marketing bill among the members of the House of Commons are studying a long list of amendments introduced yesterday by Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, with a view to continuing the debate on the measure next week, or the most part the changes make no substantial difference in the effect of the bill as the are largely designed to clarify the wording.

Another change makes it clear moneys taken from the consolidated revenue fund for the purposes of the Marketing Board to be established must be appropriated by order-in-council. The section authorizing the board to acquire and hold real estate is dropped. Other changes set out various definitions in the bill in more explicit terms.

Yesteday the House continued the budget debate which may end in a division early next week. Prime Minnister R. B. Bennett suggested the possibility of a vote Monday when outlining the business for the day.

Supply Bill Monday.

An interim supply bill is to be introduced Monday to appropriate sufficient money to carry on the public business pending the passage of the year's estimates in full.

Differences of opinion prevail over the advisability of establishing separate grades for garnet wheat, it was revealed yesterday when the Commons Agriculture committee began the study of an amendment to the Canadian Grain Act to establish separate grades.

The Senate yesterday gave third reading to the Thousand Islands Bridge Company bill with an amendment requiring a deposit of $50,000 from the company with the Federal treasury. Should the bridge not be built the deposit will be forfeited. The company is authorized to build a series of bridges linking islands in the St. Lawrence river and crossing it from Ivy Lea, near Gananoque, Ont., to a point in New York State.

Fruit Inspection Bill

The Senate also bowed to the bill of the House of Commons and the Government in the matter of an amendment to the Fruit and Honey Inspection Bill. A number of amendments had been made by the Upper Chamber, but the Commons rejected one which provided that the Governor-in-Council and not the Minister must approve regulations made under the bill.

An inquiry was urged into the price of agricultural implements yesterday by J. L. Bowman (Cons., Dauphin). Machinery prices should come down, he said, somewhat in line with the lowered prices of farm products.

The Manitoba member also alleged the banks had ceased loaning money to Manitoba farmers, and declared pressure should be brought to bear on them to induce them to provide a reasonable amount of credit for farmers in good districts.

After an explanation from Hon. C. H. Cahan, Secretary of State, John Brown (Lib., Lisgar), withdrew a bill dealing with the naturalization of women. Mr. Cahan assured Mr. Brown unmarried women had exactly the same rights as men with regard to obtaining naturalization in Canada.

SIMON ATTACKS U.S. DEBT STAND

Payments by Britain Not Question of Budget Surplus But International Transfers.

WOULD DISRUPT TRADE.

LONDON, May 12 (C.P. Cable)—The argument that Britain is able to pay her huge war debt to the United Statees simply because she happens to have a budget surplus was described as fallacious by Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, yesterday.

While London and other leading newspapers criticized as unfair any suggestion that the United Kingdom may be considered in default of her war debt payments, Sir John referred to the question during a speech at Manchester.

Sir John declared that he was not speaking for the government, but for himself he said world trade ocuid not stand the transfer of huge sums of money without a corresponding balance.

It is an injury to world trade and world recovery, if we are to contemplate the transfer of enormous quantities which we indeed received in the form of woods, but which we are asked to pay back in the form of money, he said.

There seem to be some commentators on the other side of the Atlantic—"irresponsible ones" — who entirely overlook the fact that any argument for British payment based on the fact Britain at present has a budget surplus is entirely fallacious as far as the American debt is concerned, the foreign secretary added.

The argument was fallacious for two reasons: "First, because that which lies at the back of the difficulty in connection with these vast international payments is not the question as to whether a particular country has a budget surplus." It was a question of international transfers which could not be accomplished without disruption of trade, he said.

"Second, it must be borne in mind that, in relation to the national wealth, British taxation last year was at least twice as heavy as the corresponding taxation in the United States."

Because Soviet Russia has barred athletic contests with those who are not 100 per cent proletarians it is expected that some games between Moscow and Warsaw, Poland, will be called off, there being doubt as to whether are sporting Poles are "proles."

WHEAT SEEDING IS NEARLY DONE

Crop Report Shows Some Soil Drifting With Rain Needed in Parts.

COAL, PEACE RIVER.

WINNIPEG, May 12 (C.P.) — Wheat seeding is nearly completed throughout the Prairie Provinces, and seeding of coarse grains has started in many districts, the weekly crop report of the Canadian National Railways, issued yesterday, shows. Weather has been mostly fair with high winds and some scattered showers. A general rainfall would be most beneficial to check the soil-drifting menace.

In Portage-Brandon section of Manitoba no serious damage has been reported as the result of dust storms, but some points report topsoil moisture drifting will necessitate reseeding of a small percentage of wheat acreage.

Regina division shows wheat seeding varying, with some farmers awaiting more moisture before sowing. There has been some soil-drifting on highter lands, and a few scattered showers. Earlier sown wheat is showing green.

Crop conditions continue favorable in Calgary division. Seeding of wheat is from 60 to 90 per cent completed and coarse grains 25 to 40 per cent. Edmonton division weather has been warm and dry, and no damage from any source, with seeding proceeding normally. In the Peace River wheat seeding is more than half finished, with cool, windy and showery weather conditions.

Agricultural Notes Of Interest To Farmers In District

SUPPLEMENTARY PASTURE CROPS

Agricultural Representative A. D. Runions states that while the majority of farmers have been alarmed for the past six weeks over the condition of Fall Wheat and Clover Meadows, the seriousness of the situation is just now beginning to be felt by many, and numerous enquiries are being received on supplementary crops.

While the matter of grain and hay is very important the problem of securing a sufficient amount of pasture is causing many farmers greater concern at the present moment. Naturally every old meadow that shows any promise of producing a fair yield will be left for hay and thus the pasture acreage in many cases will be reduced.

With the shortage of feed all over Ontario cattle and all livestock will naturally be put on grass at the earliest possible date and therefore the problem of supplying pasture is of great importance at the present time. While there are not many recommended supplementary pasture crops, the following two have given good results under similar conditions to these existing this year.

OATS AND SWEET CLOVER

A mixture of oats and sweet clover sown as soon as the land can be properly prepared in early spring at the rate of 80 pounds of oats and 20 pounds of sweet clover makes the best supplementary pasture crop which has been tested at the Ontario Agricultural College. It is widely grown in Ontario and

Price Tells Why Aid Refused Kitchener

TORONTO, May 12 (C.P.)—Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney General of Ontario, yesterday explained the reason the request from Kitchener to send Provincial Police there to aid in coping with strike trouble was refused was that in all cities it is the duty of the police commission to deal with such a situation. They have full power to appoint constables to preserve order, he said.

"Kitchener never asked us for that assistance. The police commission in Stratford sent that request. The Kitchener request came from the Chief of Police."

During the furniture and packing plant strike of last fall at Stratford, numerous provincial police were rushed to the city following riots. Soldiers were also sent, at the request of the police commission.

Stevedore Sleeps While His Pants Blaze Paddy Credits Underwear For Saving Life

HALIFAX, May 12.—(CP)—Puffing away at his favorite pipe and tired and sleepy after a hard day's work, 'Paddy' Moore, stevedore, lay down on a couch to rest. Twenty minutes later fire and police alarms were clanging. In quick response fire apparatus and police patrol, with sirens screeching, raced to Paddy's home. Police arrived first and broke into the house from which smoke was emerging in volumes. Paddy's overalls were ablaze. Officers of the law tore them off and threw them into the street. The remnants sizzled and steamed as firemen played the hose on them.

But Paddy wasn't at all concerned over his narrow escape. "This heavy underwear saved me," he told the officers. Then he rolled over and continued his snooze. His wife, working in a rear room, hadn't known a thing about it until the police broke into the house.

JUDGE WARD OF PORT HOPE PASSES AWAY

85 YEARS OLD.

Widely Known in Judicial and Military Circles.

PORT HOPE, May 12.—After an illness extending over a period of a year and a half, Judge H. A. Ward, K.C., ex-Judge of the County of Durham and late Commander of the Durham Regiment, died at his home here yesterday.

Widely known throughout the Dominion, the late Colonel Ward enjoyed a life of diversified activity. He was born in Port Hope in 1849, a son of George Charles and Harriet Amelia Ward. Married in 1895 to Annie Booth Goodwin of Savannah, Georgia, she predeceased him in January, 1933.

Judge Ward, as he is generally referred to, became a barrister in 1872, and practiced here from that time until 1914, when he became Judge of the County Court of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, retiring from that position in 1924. He was a member of the local Municipal Council from 1878 to 1884 and Mayor of the town in 1885, 1893 and 1894. Entering into a political career, he was elected to the House of Commons in 1885 1887, 1900 and 1904. He was a former member of the Harbor Board, High School Board, and at the time of his death was still a member of the Port Hope Hospital Trust.

Prominent in Masonic circle, Colonel Ward was a life member of Ontario Lodge, No. 36, A.F. & A.M., a Past Master in 1894, a Past Preceptor of Palestine Preceptory in 1900, and a life member of the Royal Arch. He commenced his military career under Lieut.-Col. Arthur T. H. Williams, who organized the Durham Regiment in 1867. He commanded the regiment as a Major in 1902 and 1903, and as Lieutenant-Colonel from 1903 to 1909.

His grandfather, Thomas Ward, came to Canada from London, Eng., in 1792 as secretary to Attorney-General White, and was at that time a barrister's clerk. After the Attorney-General's death, at Niagara, he became a barrister, and practiced at Port Hope, where he settled about 1800. He was made Surrogate Clerk of the District of Newcastle in 1824. His grandfather also took an active interest in military affairs, and was made an ensign in Northumberland Regiment in 1803. In the year 1812 he was promoted to the rank of captain, his commission being signed by the late Sir Isaac Brock, who fell during the War of 1812 at Queenston Heights, a campaign in which he, the late Colonel Ward's grandfather, took part, as well as in the Rebellion of 1837. His father was born in Port Hope in March, 1812, and was also a barrister by profession. He was Registrar for the County of Durham and afterward of East Durham, for fifty-four years.

Colonel Ward in his younger days was a keen sportsman, being an accomplished cricket player. He also took part in tennis and golf, and had the distinction of playing hockey on one of the first teams ever organized in Canada, in 1877, representing the House of Parliament and Government House.

He is survived by two daughters Marjorie Leslye and Madeline Aylwyn, both resident at home. The funeral service will be held at St. Mark's Anglican Church on Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Judge Ward was a member of the Jack's Lake Hunt Club and was well known by many of the sportsmen of this city.

Almost Instant Relief From Neuralgia

For Quick Relief Say ASPIRIN When You Buy

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia . . . the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered.

Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which an Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. An Aspirin Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, be on guard against substitutes. To be sure you get ASPIRIN'S quick relief, be sure the name Bayer in the form of a cross is on every tablet of Aspirin.

WHY ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop an Aspirin Tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate.

What it does in this glass it does in your stomach. Hence its fast action.

Charges Dismissed Against 2 Fliers

KENORA, Ont., May 11.—(CP)—Magistrate J. A. Kinney today had ordered dismissal of a charge of criminal negligence against Howard Franklin and withdrawal of the charge agaoinst Charles W. Gordon as result of fatal airplane accident here last March.

Franklin and Gordon, were occupants of a plane which struck and killed John McCommbe, pioneer Kenora resident.

Magistrate Kinney, who conducted the trial of Franklin, ordered dismissal. The degree of negligence hinged largely on the possibilities of accident, he said. With evidence practically the same to be given in the case against Gordon, the magistrate ordered the charge withdrawn.

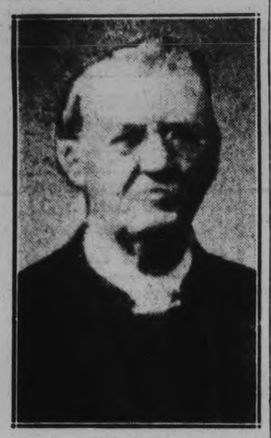
Sabbath Message For The Shut-Ins

Written for The Examiner by the Ministers of the City.

GOD'S SHUT-INS.
(By Rev. Dr. J. E. Moore)

ISA 41-10, "Fear thou not, for I am with thee; be not dismayed, for I am thy God; I will strengthen thee; yea I will help thee; yea I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness." When God flung from His Almighty fingers into being this beautiful world, He spake and it was done. He commanded and stood fast. Then the morning stars sang together, the sons of God shouted for joy. But the climax of God's creative power was realized when He made man and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life or lives (physical, spiritual, eternal). Man became a living scul, destined to live forever, either in bliss or woe. Dictum factum, a word and a world to those of us who are greatly afflicted, shut in from the world, its on-rushing for material things, Jesus Christ says, "Blessed are they who mourn, for they shall be comforted." Those exceeding great and precious promises are ours. We stand upon the Rock of Ages and tremble, but the rock never trembles. Let us live in anticipation of the sunlit splendor of that eternal morning that knows no sunset.



Our Blessed Lord says, "Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavy laden, I will give you rest." Dear afflicted soul, rejoice and be glad. Whom the Lord loveth He chasteeth and scourgeth every one whom He receiveth. God is love (John 3:16). He gave His Son for the sins of the whole world. Down into the darkness and misery of your sin and mine with unfaltering step He trod, because the Father's will had so ordained it. All nature proclaims His love. The stars that shine above us, the flowers that deck the sod, the dew-drops that sparkle on the eyelids of the morning, all say God is love. Wonderful love to bleed and die for us! In your quietude, shut in from the clamor of the world, I beseech you: go to God in prayer for our country that He may so influence the great electorate of our land in behalf of the temperance cause. As I stand before that awful truth that no drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of heaven, I fear for the children, wives and mothers in view of recent legislation re the drink traffic. The Bible says, abstain from the very appearance of evil. Were the highest hills my platform, had I the world for my audience, the eloquence of a seraph, and life as long as Methuselah, and a voice like the trumpet of doom, I would proclaim throughout Jehovah's boundless empire that moderation is the father of crime and the mother of pauperism. You who are aged and grey and bent with the chill of the winter's day, looking across the vista of the future life, soon to say good-bye to this great world, harken to the Saviour: "Be thou faithful until death and I will give thee a crown of life." Many are afflicted here below. Milton was blind, but he immortalizes his name with "Paradise Lost" and "Paradise Regained":

"I would be true, for there are those who trust me;
I would be pure, for there are those who care;
I would be strong, for there is much to suffer;
I would be brave, for there is much to dare;
I would be friend of all—the foe, the friendless;
I would be giving and forget the gift;
I would be humble, for I know my weakness;
I would look up, and laugh, and love, and lift."

(Rev. Dr. J. E. Moore, the author of the above sermonette, came to Peterborough thirty-six years ago as pastor of Mark Street Methodist Church, where he did excellent work during his pastorate. In his 85th year, Dr. Moore still enjoys fairly good health, is living again in Ashburnham and is deeply interested in the welfare of the community.)

There is nothing against which our Lord warns us so terribly as hypocrisy.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Religious and Social Questions Answered
By DR. WYLIE CLARK

What is known about the Upper Room where our Lord partook of the Passover Feast and instituted the Lord's Supper?—P.F.

The scene of this meal was a large upper room probably in the home of Mary the Mother of Mark. After the Ascension of Christ this room seems to have been the meeting place of the early church of Jerusalem. The city was destroyed in 70 A.D. It is recorded that Hadrian visited Jerusalem in 135 A.D. and found this building still standing. This is supported by other evidence. Which leads to the conclusion that the Moslem Tomb of David on the south end of the West Hill is the real place where the Last Supper was held, and also the place where the descent of the Holy Spirit took place and where the first Christian church had its birth.

Dr. Wylie Clark

Are we not apt to be fussy instead of energetic?—N.T.C.

Fussiness is a consuming fire. It unnecessarily stirs up useless activity and produces irritation and chaos. It is excitement and worry over trivial things. It is easy to fall into fussy ways and make much out of little—a fussy woman is a nuisance and a fussy man is ten times worse.

Energy is power and when controlled and directed it has the capacity for performing the work of the world. Whether it is the energy of the forces of nature or of the human mind, it requires determined and skilful control to obtain right results.

To get these there is no place for fussiness, but a concentrated attention must be given both to the plan and method of the work to be accomplished.

What is meant by the unbelief and paganism of to-day?—

There are supposed to be very many people, at the present time, who find no place for a personal God either in the universe or in their own life. In the destiny of the world or the future of the individual, God simply has no place nor purpose. He is counted out of any motive for moral living or social development. This develops the pagan idea of life. Everyone for himself with no conception of the higher ideals of sacrifice and the teachings of the New Testament. There is no final judgment—death ends all and we get what we get in the here, not in a hereafter, according to the ideas of some people to-day.

Can we demand from ourselves and others the impossible and thus make life a defeat before we get fairly started?—C.F.

Those of us who have tried to measure up to the highest possibilities of life have learned by hard experience that we never attain to the perfect. . . . Yet in that very fact lies not the defeat of life, but the charm of it. Life is always growth, and still more growth. There is no stopping place from which we do not move on again. The constant pressure to keep moving may at times seem irksome, but not nearly so much so as if we reached the place and condition where there was nothing more to live for.

In a real sense the man who sees nothing ahead is defeated, but so long as he beholds new things worth possessing and they keep urging him to go forward he is reaching out to grasp victory.

The victory of life is not a few events here and there among the has no limit. It is not a material thing. It is a quality and inheritance of the soul which leads upwards to God.

Cathedral Musings

TO say that we have not previously lived because we have no conscious memory of such a life is no argument either for or against. There is such a memory, but it exists not in our mortal consciousness, but deep down in our soul consciousness from whence it can be recovered by those who know how to transfer it from the real inner-self to the outer mind and that perishable organ of the mind, the brain. It is only by such recovery of our inner memory that we can fully understand that which we call our present life. It is axiomatic that nothing is ever created nor can anything be destroyed. No form of energy, whether it be life energy, soul energy, mental energy, or that lower form of electrical energy that we call material substance, but that has always been in some form or another and always will continue to be. Whether it be latent or active, manifest to our physical senses or not manifest, it still exists. The form continually changes, always becoming something else, but the cause is eternal. Therefore we ourselves have always been in existence as far as our real essence is concerned, and it is unthinkable but that we shall always be. Our method of manifestion may, and indeed does, change as our soul consciousness grows ever and ever toward God, but we ourselves ARE, if we did but realize it, children of eternity, not of time, sons and daughters of the Most High. It is only our selfish material earthly selves, our lower selves, that prevents us realizing the fact. —Frater IX., Rosicrucian Order, San Jose, Calif.

Brave Mothers

THERE'S a brave little army of mothers,
I've met them, so have you;
Because of a dear one departed
They're forced to be daddy, too.

Yes, indeed, to be daddy and mother
Takes courage that's given to few,
And there's many a lonely heartache
For her who is daddy, too.

She must be up first in the morning—
You know what I'm saying is true,
For all things depend on the mother
Who has to be daddy, too.

She must tend to the needs of the basement,
The kitchen and all the house thru';
There's so little rest for the mother
Who has to be daddy, too.

At night she must fasten the windows,
And see that the doors are locked, too;
There are so many more duties
For her who is daddy, too.

But God in His goodness has promised
To hold her hand all the way thru',
And be 'specially near to the mother,
Because she is daddy, too.

And in that bright home in the Glory,
I want to be there, don't you?
When He hands out the stars to the mother
Who had to be daddy, too.

INDIANS BREAK PETTICOAT RULE

Oneida Tribe Votes for First Time to Choose Chief and Council.

LONDON, Ont., May 12. (CP). "With petticoat rule" abolished by executive order the Indians of the Oneida tribe at Muncey Reserve were yesterday afternoon trooping to the polls to elect a chief. For the first time in all the history of the band, the white man's electoral system is in force. From now on the council and chief are to be chosen by ballot instead of receiving their appointment from the "clan mothers," or "princesses" Feminine rule has at last been broken.

For several years past there has been revolt, especially among the younger and more modern members of the Oneidas to break away from hereditary rule and supplant it with present day democracy. Several conferences have been called for the purpose, but the tribe has never been able to agree.

In all Canada the Oneidas at Muncey were the only tribe to retain the old system of rulership. The other two bands on the Reserve—the Chippewas and Munceys—have had the elective system for several years, as have also the 200 odd reserves throughout the Dominion.

As a result the tribesmen being unable to agree among themselves, the federal government recently stepped in, issuing an order-in-council providing that the council and chief be elected by ballot from now on.

Scripture—Matthew 22:1-23:39

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell
And Alfred J. Buescher

Copyright, 1934, by Central Press Association, Inc.

The Tuesday of Jesus' last week was a day of bitter conflict between himself and different groups of his enemies. The Pharisees and Herodians, Sadducees and Scribes, though they hated one another, yet got together to plan traps to catch Jesus in his teaching.

Their first trap was the political question, "Is it lawful to pay tribute to Caesar or not?" "Yes" would have angered the people; "No" would have gotten him into trouble with Rome. Jesus answered, "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's."

Next came the Sadducees with a doctrinal question to ridicule the resurrection. This Jesus also answered in masterly fashion. Then came a lawyer with a legal question as to which was the greatest commandment of the law. Jesus answered that they were to love God supremely.

When his enemies could ask no more questions Jesus asked them the leading question, "What think ye of Christ? Whose Son is he?" They answered, "The Son of David". But he insisted he was more than David's descendant, for David had called him "My Lord".

IT CAN GO TOO FAR.

A certain amount of heckling adds spice to a public meeting, and there can be little objection raised so long as the "hecklers" stay within reasonable bounds.

Sensible questions directed at a speaker or a witty remark from the crowd should be regarded as a legitimate feature of a political gathering.

There is, however, a limit to this kind of thing, and heckling should not be allowed to develop into deliberate obstruction, calculated to prevent speakers from being heard and the business of the meeting being carried out.

It should always be remembered that the audience has gathered for the purpose of listening to what the advertised speakers have to say, and that it is decidedly unfair that the wishes of the great majority should be interfered with by a small and very noisy minority whose ambition is to create all the disturbance possible.

When four or five individuals, present for the express purpose of creating a din and getting a little cheap publicity, insist on making speeches of their own and interjecting question after question that has no bearing on the matters under discussion, as happened here the other day, the offenders deserve little consideration.

In this particular case some of the disturbers were themselves speakers at a public meeting in the market square recently and talked to their heart's content without the slightest interruption, although many in their audience thoroughly disagreed with most of what they said.

It would be interesting to learn their reaction to the same kind of organized disturbance they were guilty of the other day.

A SERIOUS CONDITION.

The remarks of His Honor Judge Daniel O'Connell, formerly of Peterborough, to a General Sessions jury in Toronto the other day in regard to what he termed "the tendency on the part of juries to hesitate to convict even when the evidence is of a convincing character" are well worth general attention.

Judge O'Connell's reference was to charges arising out of motor accidents and the frequency with which juries bring in "not guilty" verdicts in these cases, even where the evidence points strongly to a conviction, is a condition that challenges society.

"If juries get into the habit of regarding their duty in administering the criminal law lightly and of no serious consequence," His Honor said, "it is quite evident that the law of the country in the course of time will become a matter entitled to the utmost disrespect and to the loss of the confidence of the people, and crime eventually will become rampant."

That should be evident to everybody, for disregard of one law leads to disregard of other laws, and the final result cannot fail to be dangerous and harmful.

Judge O'Connell's complaint against juries in motor accident cases which shut their eyes to the evidence and acquit the prisoner, despite his obvious guilt, is unfortunately justified because this tendency has been noticeable all over the country.

The terrible death toll of motor car killings is entirely overlooked in a great many cases, and juries go out of their way to bring in a verdict of "not guilty," just as many coroners' juries do to "whitewash" drivers involved in automobile fatalities.

A TIMELY SUGGESTION.

The other day The Examiner announced the fact that Hon. George S. Henry, as Minister of Education, had asked the schools of the province to observe May 18th as Goodwill Day.

Up to bat comes Hon. George P. Graham's paper, the Brockville Recorder and Times, with the entirely commendable suggestion to the Premier that he lead another Goodwill Day movement applied to the politicians of the province.

Says the Recorder and Times:

"If Mr. Henry believes in the principle of Goodwill Day (as we think he does) let him call off his Cabinet Ministers and others who are picturing Mr. Hepburn as an incompetent clown, and let him muzzle other speakers in behalf of his party who find their chief delight in questioning the motives of the Opposition and in pinning personalities to them.

If Mr. Hepburn also believes in the principle of Goodwill Day (as we equally think that he does) let him spread word throughout his party that its speakers cease picturing members of the Government as thieves and rogues, that they also depart from the practice of hurling personalities and that they concentrate upon discussion of the issues of the campaign."

Even although the election date has not yet been announced, this campaign has already set a record for the amount of time devoted by the politicians of all parties to mud-slinging, and for the remarkably anemic and pointless discussion of worth-while issues that has taken place.

If this tendency develops as the polling day draws nearer, it is to be imagined that a great many sensible, fair-minded people in this province will be so disgusted with the peanut politics talked by all sides that they will consider the time spent in going to the polls to vote as entirely wasted.

A GOOD CITIZEN PASSES.

In the passing of His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke Peterborough has lost a citizen who was in the forefront of many worth-while movements, and who in the course of his quarter of a century residence here contributed abundantly to the development of this community.

Of his services as a jurist the bench and the bar can best speak; their appreciation of Judge Huycke's discharge of his heavy official responsibilities will be based on more expert and intimate knowledge than the layman could have, and their eulogies therefore are the more desirable and impressive.

It is to the memory of the citizen rather than the judge that The Examiner would pay tribute, for Judge Huycke was in every sense of the word a good citizen, one who ever showed a pride in Peterborough and a desire to serve the interests of this community.

So long as memories of the war remain will recollections of his great services during that trying period be remembered; his enthusiastic, untiring work on behalf of recruiting, the patriotic fund and similar war efforts, and the sincerity and the determination with which he fought for justice and a square deal for the returned soldier will never be forgotten while one ex-service man remains.

Judge Huycke headed the movement that gave Peterborough its beautiful war memorial, took a helpful interest in the establishment of a memorial park on Armour's Hill, and in other praiseworthy local efforts.

In his death this city has lost one of its foremost sons, and the war veterans of the community their best friend. His eloquent addresses on Remembrance Day services and on other similar occasions were masterpieces, and the whole community is the poorer because of the passing of this esteemed and respected citizen.

DUTY OF NEWSPAPERS.

Edwin S. Friendly, business manager of the New York Sun, recently asked the question, "Did you ever stop to think what would happen if newspapers suddenly ceased publication?"

The question lends itself to interesting thought, and Mr. Friendly himself goes on to discuss it with the following views: "If such a catastrophe ever took place can you imagine the feeling of uncertainty that would follow? To people in every community who have become used to taking their daily share of information from the press just as they take their meals, the absence of a single day's issue might cause only vexation. But as the second day rolled around with no newspaper available, we can readily imagine mere vexation giving way to worry and speculation as to what was really going on in the country and in the world.

"Disastrous rumors would follow quickly, and in the absence of the real news of the day imagination can readily supply a situation bordering upon chaos."

And the discussion need not stop there. We might also ask what would happen if the newspapers did not publish all of the news which pertains specially to the community in which it is published—all of the news which has an important bearing upon the life of that community?

Newspapers, through entering the publishing field, impose a serious responsibility upon themselves, which must be discharged faithfully; otherwise they are failing in a great public duty. False impressions can be made just as effectively by suppressing news as by publishing unreliable information.

How often one hears the expression: "It would be better for the town if unfavorable publicity were suppressed."

But, would it?

Unless the citizens are provided with full and accurate information regarding the things that are going on around about them, how will they be able to adopt the means for overcoming the unfavorable and undesirable conditions which exist in their midst? Knowledge is power; and reliable, uncolored, clear and definite information regarding actual conditions, the trend of modern thought and the effect of particular policies is an asset to any community—something which the people are entitled to receive; otherwise they may be living in a state of false security.

It is not the duty of a newspaper to correct the unfortunate conditions which arise in its community—but it is its duty to faithfully mirror life as it transpires from day to day; and it must be a true picture of life as it actually exists. If there are any blots in the picture, it is the duty of the people themselves to remove them—but before they can remove them they must be informed of their existence; and this is most effectively done through the medium of their daily home newspaper.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

"SHUT UP!"

(From the Hamilton Spectator)

Sir Thomas Beecham, while conducting at Covent garden the other day, was so exasperated by the chatter and ill-timed applause of certain members of the audience that he completely forgot himself and became positively vulgar. "Shut up, you!" he screamed at the offenders, much to their disgust and dismay. And now that he has cooled down, so far from feeling contrition over his conduct is he that he threatens to do it again—only more emphatically than ever on the next occasion. It's about time somebody gave vent to his pent-up feelings, and we can only hope that the plain speaking of this distinguished conductor will have the desired effect, and that the annoyance will cease—not only in Covent garden but everywhere else where people congregate to listen to good music and not inane conversation.

A Sir Thomas Beecham is badly needed for the moving picture theatres also. It used to be a standard joke, in the days of the silent films, about patrons reading out the titles for the benefit of unfortunate illiterates who might be present. Now that screen artists have deprived them of that pastime by being heard as well as seen, the nuisance is not now, as might have been hoped, done away with, for a running comment is often kept up, accompanied by hysterical outbursts and boisterous laughter (usually at the wrong time). Sometimes, too, there is the added aggravation of the munching of candies and the cracking of peanut-shells.

It will not be the least of the services of Sir Thomas Beecham to have acted as leader in a crusade to improve theatre manners. It is difficult to put sense into a moron or to teach the uncouth how to behave; but doubtless many an offender, however case-hardened, can be pulled up short with a well-directed "Shut up!"

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

If the United States adopts an old age pension system there will be many people on this side of the line who will hope that it will include jokes used by the radio comedians.

If it does nothing else, the Stevens investigation has provided newspaper readers with a daily feature story.

Heckling at political meetings that takes the form of deliberate obstruction puts the offenders in the nuisance class, and they have no right to feel aggrieved if they are treated as such.

The HOUSE of ROTHSCHILD

Based on Motion Picture Story by Nunnally Johnson.—Coming to Capitol Theatre, May 28, 29 and 30

It was thirty-five years later before the sons of Mayer Rothschild had fulfilled the dying wishes of their parent. By 1814 Solomon Rothschild was in charge of the Rothschild banking house in Vienna. Carl Rothschild headed the bank in Naples. James Rothschild was in command of the Paris bank. Amschel Rothschild took charge of the Frankfort institution, while Nathan Rothschild, who was considered the financial genius of them all, headed the London bank. It was to Nathan that all the brothers turned for advice on all big financial matters and he in turn took up the matter with the other brothers.

The House of Rothschild had thrown its entire resources in back of the Allies in their struggle to defeat Napoleon. Nathan's great friendship and terrific confidence in Wellington had done much to throw the riches of the banking house on the side of the Allies. It was Wellington who eventually defeated Napoleon and sent him to the Island of Elba.

London had been celebrating the triumph of the English army for two weeks before the return of Wellington, which signalized a revival of enthusiasm and celebration. The city had gone wild with joy. Wellington was the hero of the hour. A huge banquet had been arranged in his honor. Speeches had been made and toasts had been drunk to the nation's hero, but the nation's hero had become somewhat bored with the proceedings.

"There was some feeling . . ."

"Wasn't he asked?"

"Well—no, Your Grace, there was some . . ."

Wellington appeared greatly disgusted. "Wasn't the man who paid for these dashed wars important enough? Well, if he can't come here I suppose we can still go there."

Wellington called his aide-de-camp, Fitzroy. The two left the banquet hall. "Do you know where the old boy lives?"

"Very well indeed, sir!" replied Fitzroy.

"Why, you young blackguard, I'd forgotten about that daughter of Rothschild's!"

It did not take Fitzroy long after his arrival at the Rothschild home to seek out Julie, and it did not take the two of them long to seek the natural dark protection of the garden. Fitzroy professed his love for Julie and the two embraced ardently. As Julie finally forced him away it was evident that this had come unexpectedly to her, for her face showed both surprise and some distress.

"No, I'm not sorry—not in the least," said Fitzroy stubbornly.

"Please, dear!" pleaded Julie, "but I couldn't have stopped if I'd wanted to—and I didn't want to—because I love you too."

"Then tonight, as soon as I've tucked the Duke into his bed, I shall call upon your father. My speech is ready. I've rehearsed it not less than a thousand times—to trees at night, to guns, even to horses—and I've never got a refusal yet!"

"I'm afraid it is not as simple as that," said Julie, shaking her head regretfully.

"Some of those horses were pretty difficult customers!"

Julie shook her head dubiously. "It's no use, Fitz. You're just dodging the real reason. You're being sweet and thoughtful again—but you're not making me forget that there's unhappiness ahead when a Fitzroy loves—a Rothschild."

Meanwhile Nathan and Wellington had been exchanging casual remarks about the howling mob outside that demanded to see Wellington.

"If they had any sense it's you they'd be following around," said Wellington in disgust.

"Oh, we Rothschilds have had just as big crowds following at our heels at Frankfort, Your Grace—but not with cheers!" mused Nathan. "The average man thinks we're just Shylocks—and Europe has tried to hide for shame, because it borrowed from Jews."

"I suppose you know," said Wellington. "It's that Prussian fellow, Count Ledrantz, who's responsible for that rot. There's danger in having a man like that in authority—always making enemies."

"Yes, that's a danger," continued Nathan, "because he may need us again."

"What do you mean?"

"Napoleon is imprisoned—but he's not dead," Nathan nodded.

"As good as dead, Rothschild."

"To the peace of Europe!" said Nathan raising his glass.

"Well, I'm a soldier, but I drink to that," said Wellington as he gulped his drink quickly. "I say, Rothschild, I've no right to tell you this, but talking of peace, I just heard this morning that there's going to be a dashed big loan floated—to get France on her feet again. Enormous loan—biggest thing ever issued!"

"Your Grace," said Nathan earnestly, "my deepest thanks to you for this very valuable information."

"To the House of Rothschild," said Wellington raising his glass, "—and its great member!"

Fitzroy, Julie and Mrs. Hannah Rothschild interrupted the genial toast. Wellington saw the group entering the room. "You'll have to watch this young rooster, Mrs. Rothschild," said Wellington facetiously, and then turning to Fitzroy, "I'm beginning to understand why you were always coming to me for leave to return to London on 'most pressing family business'."

"Only five times, sir," snapped Fitzroy.

"We didn't think you knew about that," said Julie slyly.

"No use trying to fox this man," laughed Wellington. "He knew about Napoleon's abdication two days before the War Office did." Wellington slapped on his hat and he and Fitzroy left abruptly, bidding the group a snappy adieu.

Nathan, Mrs. Rothschild and Julie stood watching the pair through one of the windows. Julie was the first to speak, "Mother, I ought to be very happy, but I'm not—not quite happy."

"What is it, dear?"

"It was all right when it was just—a flirtation—when we just liked each other—liked to be together, but—I'm frightened."

"He doesn't object to our money, I hope," said Nathan with solemn humor.

"No. He says he's willing to overlook that," Julie replied, smiling but rather startled.

"I'm glad to hear that," continued Nathan. "So many Gentiles have that terrible grasping spirit. Al they ever seem to think of is—money, money, money!"

"You're hurting her, Nathan," interrupted Hannah. "Isn't that rather cruel?"

"It's my fault," said Julie. "I never told father that I really cared as much as I do."

"You know the traditions of the family, Julie," said Nathan kindly, "a Rothschild to marry a Rothschild."

"But I was not a Rothschild," Hannah interrupted.

"No, but you were Hannah—and you were one of our race."

"That's what frightens me," said Julie. "Those dreadful prejudices. Can we bear it? Could Fitz bear it? It's a cruel barrier."

Rowerth, secretary to Nathan Rothschild, entered the room quietly. Nathan spied him and immediately the two sat down by a huge desk. Nathan hastily wrote four dispatches of like content and instructed Rowerth to send them to each of his four brothers. The notes advised the brothers of the contemplated French bond issue, and to prepare to bid for it.

"These dispatches must go to my brothers," said Nathan to Rowerth "—by what the Duke of Wellington calls our magic method of communication."

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

CONVERSATION WITH A PUPPY

Small fellow, I envy you. You are so simple and delightful.

I pat you and you wag your tail. You like being patted. You don't think of yourself that this human being is patronizing you. You don't resent my patting. You like me for liking you.

You are thirsty, and I run a little water into a dish and set it before you. You thank me. You are hungry and I give you food. Again you wag your tail and give me wordless thanks. You look upon me as your friend. In your simple way you add two and two together—your hunger and my feeding you—and decide that I must be all right and therefore I am your friend, to be trusted and to be loved.

And when you see me coming down the street, you'll give a friendly bark and run away....I am your friend and you are mine and only I can disarrange this friendliness that lies between us.

But it's easier for you to be a dog than for me to be a man. You don't understand this. I could never make it plain to you....When you are thirsty you beg for water, simply, without silly pride. But a man does not do that. He is afraid of what people will think. To be sure he would ask for a drink of water, but he would not beg for love, and some men would sooner die of starvation than beg for a crust of bread. You may not believe that, Puppy, but it has happened in this very town in which you live.... And you, being a dog, are grateful for the food and drink I give you. So, too, is a man grateful for such help. But only for a little while. Then the gratitude curdles within his breast. Not in all men, I hasten to assure you, but in most is a bitter resentment against the man who is our creditor. He is our friend and yet he is our enemy. We have begged, and we suspect him of pity and condescension. We do not wish his pity, we resent his condescension. And unless we watch ourselves carefully, Puppy, the sweet fruit of his generosity begins to taste bitter in the mouth as a geen olive from the tree.

You see what I mean, Puppy, when I tell you it is more difficult than you know to be a man? You are so easily and joyously what you are. A man must struggle so painfully to become the decent human being he wishes to be....I hope you cannot understand a word I'm saying. It might spoil your joy in being just a puppy.

New Starter Button Feature Of 1934 Reo

The starter button of the new 1934 Reo Flying Cloud, instead of being operated directly by the driver's foot, is placed below the clutch pedal and comes into operation when the clutch pedal is pushed clear to the floor board. Drivers who realize the extra effort the starter must make to turn a cold engine, when low temperatures make the oil in both engine and transmission thicker than the proverbial molasses in January, are in the habit of holding the clutch out while the starter is cranking the engine.

Reo's arrangement insures this saving of battery current and starting effect without thought of the driver. Reo's clutch pedal is so soft in action that the added resistance of the starter button spring affords ample protection against unintentional closing of the starter circuit during normal operation of the clutch in starting, or when shifting gears, should the Reo be equipped with standard gearshift instead of the patented self-shifter which has banished over 99 per cent. of the shifting of gears.

NEWS OF OUR OWN VILLAGE

Geo. Henry, premier of this fair province, was in our midst Thurs., talking at the Tory convention and giving the lads at the Kinsmen's Club a little speech when they et at Graham's Hotel that nite. Geo. didn't let out when the elections is going to be held.

This was clean up week in the village, but K. Lee, our energetic pilot, sez the ball club wont start to clean up in earnest until a little later in the season. Well make a good job of it lads, say we.

Perce Lancaster our hustling fellow editor from Havelock, east of here, was give the job Thurs. of carrying the Tory flag in the coming political fracas in these parts, and him and Jim Hawthorne of Dummer, north west of us, will now proceed to cross swords as it were.

A noisy thunderstorm hit these parts Wed. nite and many worthy citizens couldn't get to sleep until well after 11 o'clock, owing to the din of the same. What with partial daylite savings and thunder and such life aint been as peaceful as usual hereabouts.

Redge Turner, ice and wood purveyor, has been putting awnings over the rest benches he provided for the footsore several years ago and the landscape is brightened up considerable by the same. A colorful lad is Redge, say we.

The Summer Gardens on Brock St. is being all dolled up for the lovers of the light fantastic and it looks like it oughta be quite a summer at the same. We're getting more like New York every day, neighbors, say we a little boastfully.

Several tourists has been seen in our midst this week, but a careful investigation of the same didn't show JJ. Dillinger of the U.S.A., south of here, as among the number.

HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA

The metropolis of Nova Scotia, now 185 years old, was founded in the year 1749 at the expense of the government under the direction of the British Lords of Trade and Plantations, and was named in compliment to George Montague, Earl of Halifax, then head of the board, under whose immediate auspices the settlement was undertaken.

A Thought

BEAUTY

Who walks with beauty holds inviolate
The guarded secrets of the years to come,
Sees unborn Aprils crowding at the gate
Of living gardens white with petaled plum;
Sifts dust of rainbows through his finger tips
And kindles sunsets on the mountain range;
Holds shadow like pale jasmine to his lips,
Grows intimate with all that once was strange.
Who walks with beauty has a banquet spread
Of stars' white wine in crystal chalices,
Gold dawns and deep-blue twilights for his bread,
For music, winds' slow rhythms in the trees.
His candle light the north, the south, the east,
And God for Host at earth's eternal feast.

Foreign Affairs

It Takes More Than a Fighting Smile to Win Battles That Lie Beyond Human Strength.

(By H. W. L. MAHOOD)

THE UNITED STATES

His face and his bearing when the White House was reached on the return from a fishing vacation indicated the smiling, fighting spirit of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt. He was ready for action. It does not take long for him to start things to move. There is not an atom of unnecessary delay in his make-up. Immediately the Senate and House were called to a conference. It was on a Sabbath the summons was issued. The day was not given over to worship. Ordinary political affairs are as much a desecration of the Sabbath as is unnecessary labor. The conference held on the Sabbath could just as well have been called on Monday. Secular affairs of state can just as well wait as can habitual daily labor. Sincere observance of the Sabbath brings down from above the benediction of the Divine. No man can get the best out of all the days of the week and treat the Sabbath with disregard. This truth holds good in both high and low places.

The President had a question that penetrated to the heart of Congressional action. His veto of Soldier Bonus had been snowed under as he fished in the warm southern waters. Worse to him was the unmistakable different attitude of Congress towards its presidential leadership. Roosevelt knew that he had lost power. The change from ardent support to iron like opposition is indication of the swift changes taking place in the national life of the United States. Roosevelt is a psychologist of the first rank. But he did not even suspicion that in seventeen days such a change of sentiment could come over both the Senate and House and the nation.

The most authentic information to be gleaned from the press is that the people are in a better mood, for Congress has demonstrated that the president can no longer stampede the Senate and House into dictated action. This feature could not be complete without recording here the news of a quiet and most remarkable growing note of spirituality sweeping over the whole nation. In the usual services of the churches something different in their very tone is everywhere manifest. Before it the depression note is being silenced. Millions are joining a covenant of prayer. The results cannot be gainsaid. A nation can lose its head No nation, but has at some time in its history. A nation can also take on a new sanity. It is like finding the true self. Life is not a matter of dollar and cents. Nor is it a life of heedless living. Life is real. Life is earnest. Sanity is reality and earnestness and more.

Every civilized nation is paying the penalty of the generation which has been in control ever since the Great War. Write it down. That was a rash generation. Rashness penalizes.

Heavy Grain Movement Over C. N. R. Eastward Continues.

EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS.

LINDSAY, May 12 (Examiner Correspondence) — A Eucharistic Congress for the Diocese of Peterborough will be held in Lindsay on Thursday, May 17. The Congress will open with the celebration of Pontifical High Mass in St. Mary's Church and a conference will be held in the parish hall in the afternoon. The Congress will close in the evening by the observance of Holy Hour in the church. It is expected that over forty priests will be in attendance.

The grain movement over the C. N. R. from Midland still continues eastward. It is understood that there is about one million bushels of grain still in the elevators. With the opening of navigation on the upper lakes it is expected that the elevators will shortly be replenished. A boat load of corn for eastern ports is expected at Midland during the week-end.

F. R. Willford, of Lindsay, it is understood, has received the contract for paving six miles of the Lindsay - Bobcaygeon Highway. Work will be started at an early date.

According to reports from different parts of the district, many of the berry patches were destroyed during the winter owing to the heavy frost.

The choir of St. Andrew's Church, Campbellford, presented the comedy "Safety First" before a large audience in the Sunday School of the local St. Andrew's Church last night. The cast was an excellent one.

The funeral took place at Little Britain on Friday of one of the most beloved residents of the village in the person of Ethel M. Netherton, wife of J. F. Netherton. Her death came as a shock to the community, as she was only ill a short time. The late Mrs. Netherwas a prominent worker in the United Church as well as in community activities. Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, one brother and one sister.

FARMERS' BUTTER SELLS 22-25 POUND

Eggs Hold Down General Price of 15 Cents a Dozen —Cream 20 Cents Per Pint.

"Have you a bleeding heart?" a lady enquired this morning of a cheerful-looking pant vendor on the market.

He hadn't, but he had plenty of other plants. The collection comprised columbine, pinks, veronica, helenium and phlox, all at 2 for a quarter; delphinium and Scotch thistles at 25 cents apiece, gladioli bulbs at 15 cents a dozen, unnamed dahlia roots at 10 cents each and named varieties at 40 cents apiece.

A lady in the basket section was selling named gladiolus bulbs at 10 cents a dozen, which seems to be very inexpensive.

Latham raspberry canes were 40 cents a dozen or $2 a hundred.

Little pigs that had plenty of air in a comfortable crate and were scrubbed to a pink perfection, were very cranky nevertheless. They jabbed fiercely at the hand of a little boy who wanted to pet them. They were $4 apiece.

Butter in the basket section was priced from 22 to 25 cents a pound and eggs had a general price of 15 cents a dozen, with a low rate of 14 cents and a high one of 17 cents a dozen.

Cream was 20 cents a pint, chickens were 17 to 20 cents a pound, with broilers at 30 cents, and a large fat, lonely turkey offered at 18 cents a pound.

Maple syrup was quoted at 45 cents a quart and $1.75 a gallon. Strawberries at 15 cents a pint box and other fruits and vegetables at regular prices sheltered under a gay red and black striped awning that lent a festive air to the curb selling on the open market.

Potatoes were $1.60 a bag, veal was 8 cents a pound and pork 13 cents.

Contributions to the Codex Sinaiticus Bible fund in Britain have passed the $330,000 mark.

WINNIPEG May 12.—Small export business. Shippers fair buyers July wheat. Commission houses good sellers July and October wheat. Poor cash wheat demand. Plenty of dust storms reported from Saskatchewan.

CHICAGO, May 12—Wheat and oat prices soared early yesterday to new high levels since February but forecast for local showers over a sizeable part of the winter and spring wheat area, combined with cables telling of breaking of the drought in Roumania started a profit taking movement that started a press of selling orders.

C. P. R. Weather Reports, 12.01 a.m.—No rains Manitoba or Saskatchewan. Dust storms Winnipeg, Regina and Moose Jaw. Edmonton light rain. Medicine Hat, 2 hours rain.

NEW YORK, May 12.— Reversal in stocks and with continued weakness market confidence grows on the selling side and increasing bearishness tends to produce an over sold condition. For the present it must be said that the selling phase on the basis of ordinary measurements has not yet become acute. One never knows when the bottom of a decline is reached until after the event, and attempts to indicate a bottom must be on an experimental basis. In the meantime experimental buying on bids under the market to take advantage of possible recoil should be placed, in such stocks as Beth. Steel 31-32, Cerro De Pasco 29-30; Chrysler 38-39; Westinghouse 28-29.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

TORONTO, May 12 (CP)—Mining shares drifted down in quiet trading to-day on the Toronto Stock Exchange, the senior gold group exhibiting the main weakness, due evidently to the depressed state of the New York market. Dome dropped $1 to $35.75, and recessions of 50 cents were registered for Lake Shore and McIntyre, and losses up to 25 cents for Teck Hughes, Wright Hargreaves and Pioneer.

Dome and Teck Hughes came out in substantial volume and other stocks of the group were slow. Base metals were off narrowly at the close. Sudbury Basin dropped half of yesterday's advance, and Noranda closed at $38.75 for a loss of $1.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, May 12 (A.P.).—Intermittent recoveries and declines, with the latter in the majority, made a confusing pattern of today's brief stock market session. Prices at their worst were off 1 to more than 2 points. This came back moderately near the close, which was rather heavy. Transfers approximated 1,200,000 shares.

TORONTO INDUSTRIAL.

TORONTO, May 12 (C.P.).—The industrial section of the Toronto Stock Exchange closed the week with a decline that carried the leaders back healthy fractions. A sharp sell-off in the last half-hour on the New York board was the main factor in depressing the Toronto board.

Nickel, Ford A, Smelters and some of the oil and distillery shares were sold actively. Ford going back to 20½ and Nickel to $26.35. Brazilian dropped ¼ to 10⅛, and C.P.R. ¼ to 16½. Smelters weakened 3 to 150. Walkers lost nearly a point and Distillers and Industrial Alcohol were off about ¼ at the close.

Newport Resident Starts Sprouting His Third Set Of Teeth During 99th Year

NEWPORT, May 12— (C.P.). — Three Ontario citizens of advanced age have reported the appearance in their jaws of new teeth, but John Aaron, 98-year-old Newport man, appeared to have established some sort of record by cutting his third set at the age of 98.

Aaron reported yesterday that new teeth were sprouting from his gums. Previously a woman and a man reported similar phenomena.

Last February, Mrs. Mary Anne Elliott who will be 70 on May 24, reported new teeth and displayed hair which was losing its uniform whiteness and regaining color. Almost simultaneously she reported she could see after being blind for almost three years. She discarded her false teeth.

On May 5, John Young Guelph, who had been toothless for eight years reported appearance of four molars. He said his gums were sore so he went to a dentist who discovered new teeth.

Medical men have declined comment on the cases in the absence of testimony from doctors who have seen them. The trouble appears to be that all the possessors of new teeth are so healthy they do not call on doctors.

GRAND MASTER ONTARIO EAST GIVEN DINNER

Rev. C. D. Daniel, County Chaplain on behalf of the men, Mrs. Wright outlined the growth of the L.O.B.A. which she described as now being one of the largest Christian-Protestant women's organizations in the world.

Death of Founder

She also made reference to the recent death of Sister Cullum, founder of the L.O.B.A., and paid tribute to her work in behalf of the Order. She believed the L.O. B.A. would continue to grow and that it would stand for all time as a monument to Sister Cullum.

The Right Worshipful Master H. B. Fetterly, who is incidentally superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf at Belleville in his address made in response to the toast to "Grand Lodge of Ontario East" which was ably proposed by Brother Alderman Robert S. Cotton, touched upon educational matters in their relation to the Orange Order. Briefly and ably he touched upon the Separate School question, providing comparisons between the school systems of Ontario and Quebec, and also discussed the question of the teaching of French in Ontario schools.

He spoke also of the work of the school for the deaf of which he is superintendent, inviting his listeners to visit the school and see for themselves some of the splendid results that were being obtained through the "oral method" of instruction.

Congratulates Home Members

The Grand Master congratulated the local Orangemen and women upon having secured a hall of their own in this city. He believed the success of thte Orange lodges to a large extent, was the result of the close co-operation of the ladies' lodges.

In a brief discussion of the work of Grand Lodge and what it hoped to accomplish, the Grand Master stated there are uwards of 15,000 active members of the Order in Ontario East. He urged that the "hand of fellowship and friendship" should be extended to suspended members, and touched upon the value of the social side of the Order.

His message to the gathering was that they carry the principles for which the Order stands into their daily lives.

The first toast on the list was that to "Peterborough," voiced by Right Worshipful Brother E. N. Mitchell, Grand Lecturer of Grand Lodge of Ontario East, was responded to by his His Worship Brother Mayor Roland Denne.

Brother J. J. Turner porposed the toast "Canada and Ontario" referring to the position Canada occupies among the British Commonwealth of Nations, and speaking of Ontario as being "the keystone in the arch."

Bro. J. F. Strickland, K.C., M. P.P., replied, conveying the regrets of E.A. Peck, K.C., M.P., who had been prevented from attendance by a prior engagement.

Refers to Death of Judge Huycke.

Mr. Strickland referred to the passing of Judge E. C. S. Huycke, stating, "you I know join with the whole city and county in mourning the loss we have sustained in this regard. Judge Huycke always had the interests of the city and county at heart and I feel that his efforts were widely appreciated."

In response to the toast, the speaker felt that "it must be a source of pride to you as it is to me, to note the splendid way in which the people of this city in particular, and of the province, the Dominion and the British Empire have faced the trials of the past few years."

"We have come through this difficult time," he believed, "largely because of the stability of your organization and of other organizations of a similar nature, which have helped to create a healthy state of mind among the people of this country."

Old Schoolmate.

He made reference to the fact in closing, that the Grand Master, Mr. Fetterly, was an old schoolmaster of his, at the time he attended school in Cornwall.

Wor. Brother Rev. C. D. Daniel was entrusted with the toast to "Grand Lodge L.O.B.A." The Grand Mistress, Mrs. Wright, responded, her name being coupled in reply with that of Right Worshipful Sister Mrs. E. Moore, Grand Chaplain of Grand Lodge.

The program was interspersed with musical selections and vocal solos by Cyril J. Rice, newly appointed organist and choirmaster at St. Andrew's. He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Rice.

In conclusion Wort Bro. A. J. Holden, County Master, voiced the appreciation of the gathering to the ladies for the large contribution they had made to the success of the evening. Mrs. Roy Pilling, Worshipful Mistress of Vimy Ridge L.O.B.A. responded on behalf of the ladies.

GREAT STILNESS IN CATHEDRAL

MEN NEXT WEEK.

Mission services last night at the Cathedral took the form of "The Hour of Atonement." The latter was an hour of Eucharistic devotion, the purpose of which was a profession of faith in and an act of reparation to the Divine presence of Jesus Christ in the Blessed Sacrament.

The most avowed indifferentist, or agnostic of religion, could not but be impressed by the scene of sincere devotion of austere religious beauty and of quiet reverence enacted in the presence of Jesus Christ in the Blessed Sacrament yesterday evening.

Although Catholic congregations the world over, irrespective of clime or nationality, always observe a reverend silence in their churches, because of their belief in the Divine presence of our Lord in the Blessed Sacrament, nevertheless the stillness that reigned over last night's vast congregation could not but be especially remarked because of its absolute perfection. It excluded in its perfection even that faint rustle of indefinite sound that ascends from any congregation when people change slightly their positions. As the great congregation knelt in silent adoration before the presence of their Divine Lord enthroned under the humble appearances of bread in the Holy Sacrament of the Eucharist, this silence seemed to speak more eloquently of Catholic belief in the Divine presence than all prayers and hymns of praise.

Reverend Father Coghlan in a most instructive and devotional sermon on the Blessed Eucharist, stated: "There is no doctrine of our holy faith better substantiated by Holy Scripture than is that of the Divine presence in the Blessed Eucharist." Quoting the holy Gospel according to St. John vi. (48-59) which contains the words of Jesus Christ spoken during the second year of His public ministry: "I am the bread of life....If any man eat of this bread he shall live forever, and the bread that I will give is My Flesh for the life of the world." Father Coghlan stressed the necessary and only logical acceptance of this passage in its literal sense. The Jews, understanding these words in their evident and literal sense, exclaimed: "How can this man give us His flesh to eat?" This is a hard saying and who can bear it. As a result, "many turned away and walked no more with him." "Did our Lord," asked the missionary, "say to His hearers. You have misunderstood Me. These words of mine are not intended in the meaning which you have understood? By no means. He rather confirmed His intended meaning and their literal acceptance by confirming it in these words, "Amen, Amen, I say to you. Except you eat of the flesh of the Son of Man and drink His blood, you shall not have life in you...For My flesh is meat indeed and My blood is drink indeed."

"By these words of preparation and promise," continued Father Coghlan, "our Lord prepared and disposed the minds of His disciples for the actual institution of this great Sacrament on Holy Thursday, the eve of His passion. As Scriptural authority for the institution of the Blessed Sacrament of the Eucharist, he quoted the Holy Gospel according to St. Matthew 26 (26-28): "And whilst they were at supper, Jesus took bread and blessed, and broke, and gave to His disciples and said: Take ye and eat; this is My body. And taking the chalice, He gave thanks and gave to them, saying: Drink ye all of this, for this is My blood of the New Testament which shall be shed for many unto the remission of sins." "The meaning of these words of our Lord," stated Father Coghlan, "is so unmistakeably clear that explanation seems unnecessary."

This power to consecrate used by Christ at the Last Supper has been transmitted to His priests through the apostles," continued Father Coghlan.

In conclusion, Father Coghlan asked his hearers to make their greatest love, that of the Blessed Eucharist. The Blessed Eucharist is the pledge of Christ's love upon earth and the promise of eternity in heaven, for Christ has said, "He that eateth My flesh and drinketh My blood hath everlasting life, and I will raise him up on the last day." (St. John vi., 55).

Father Coghlan in his announcements, made known that the Women's Week of the Mission will close at 3 p.m. Sunday, with Masses Sunday morning at the hours of 7, 8, 9 and 10.30, the latter a High Mass, opening Men's Mission week.

TWO DEGREES OF FROST!

The official thermometer dipped to thirty degrees last night to bring with it two degress of frost, in contrast to a maximum thermometer reading of 84 degrees as the "high" for the present year recorded during the miniature heat wave during the first few days of this month.

May has so far distingushed itself as having been a month that has chalked up many freakish weather records. Extreme heat for this period of the year, has been contrasted by unusually low temperatures, while the city and district has also experienced one of the most severe electrical storms of recent years.

W.C.T.U. MEETING

The County W.C.T.U. held an executive meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the Y.W.C.A. to plan for the coming year's work in general, and in particular, for the County Annual Convention, which has been arranged to be held in Cobourg on the 13th of June. Mrs. I. Hillyard, Toronto, will be one of the convention speakers.

Mrs. A. J. Throop, County President, presided over the meeting at which members of the executive were present representing the various unions of the combined counties.

EARLY BARLEY NIPPED

The thermometer's dip to two degrees below freezing last night nipped the tender shoots of the barley crop, farmers reported this morning. It was only a minor setback, they said Several complaints were heard about recent increases in the prices of seed grain at a time when so many farmers have lost their fall wheat and clover.

BANNER MONTH FOR STUDEBAKER SALES

April Far the Best Month For Two Years—Modern Skyway Models Are Popular.

Sales of Studebaker automobiles in April were nearly 100 per cent. greater than for the same month last year, according to D. R. Grossman, Vice-president and General Manager of The Studebaker Corporation of Canada, Limited, at Walkerville, Ontario.

April was far and away the best month for nearly two years back and exceeded March, 1934, itself a banner month, by nearly 40 per cent.

Enthusiasm Everywhere

The Land Cruiser, which has met with instantaneous enthusisam wherever it has been shown, has recently been added to the Studebaker line. It is a fully streamlined Sedan model, and is undoubtedly the most attractive of the many advanced designs that are being offered to-day. It is available only on the President and Commander chassis.

Records Are Smashed

Though the past few months have seen records smashed, the outlook for the future is rosier than ever. On May 1st, according to Mr. Grossman, there were 668 per cent. more orders on hand than on May 1st, 1933. This huge pile-up of orders definitely indicates that the demand for Studebakers is rapidly mounting and will continue throughout the year.

Highly favorable reports are received from other Studebaker markets throughout the world. Export sales of Studebaker passenger cars and trucks this year are already far ahead of 1933. The first quarter of 1934 was the largest first quarter in five years, with March setting a 56-month record.

Charles H. Elliott, 253 Hunter street, is agent here for Studebaker cars.

W. M. S. of George Street Church Sponsors Mother and Daughter Banquet.

PLEASING EVENT.

The sixth annual Mother and Daughter Banquet, held under the auspices of the W.M.S. of George Street United Church last evening, was an unqualified success, with four hundred sitting down at 6.30 p.m. at long tables arranged in the Sunday School Auditorium. The tables were very attractive, with pale green fluted runners on the snowy linen and green and rose frilly ruffles adorning the candle holders, which held rose candles. The tables were centered by lovely bonquets of rose tulips, snapdragons and pussy willows, in silver baskets.

At the head table on the platform were seated the chairman, Rev. J. E. J. Millyard, Mrs. Millyard, Mrs. C. W. Coon, president of the W.M.S.; Mrs. S. R. Armstrong, Past President; Mrs. E. E. Harvey, 1st Vice-President; Miss Eva Elliott, President of Evening Auxiliary; Miss Iren Oox, representing the Twilight Mission Circle, and Mrs. D. Munro, leader of the Mission Band.

After a sumptuous supper served by the young men of the Sunday School, community singing was indulged in, with Miss Musa Cox at the piano and A. V. Lillow leading the singing. Rev. Mr. Millyard, in a short address, complimented the members of the W.M.S. for the large attendance and excellent supper.

This was followed by a delightful miscellaneous program consisting of a piano solo by Miss Musa Cox. Bell ringing numbers by Mrs. Braund and Mrs. Richardson; a stunt number put on by the boys of Homer Borland's class; readings by Miss Florence Glenny and little Miss Ruth McNeely; solos by Mrs. Bert Outmore, accompanied by Mrs. W. A. Greenslade; a selection by the male voice quaret consisting of A. V. Lillow, E. Rowe, C. S. Thompson and W. H. Cunningham, and musical orchestra ensemble with Miss Laura McFarlane at the piano, Miss Helen Ludbrook on the guitar, W. H. Cunningham, banjo; and C. S. Thompson and son Jack, and Edwin Rowe playing the mouth organs, and A. V. Lillow, the ukulele.

The President, Mrs. C. W. Coon, moved a hearty vote of thank of those taking part in the program, the waiters, the ladies who had worked so hard in preparing the supper and all the committees. Mrs. Richard Parnell was convenor of supper arrangements assisted by Mrs. B. M. Frederick and leaders of the group. Mrs. A. V. Lillow was convenor of the program committee, assisted by Mrs. G. C. Staples and Mrs. S. Wildman. Miss Mary Elliott and Miss Lillian Morrow were in charge of the decorations.

IMPORTANT POINTS IN ROSE PLANTING

Roots Should Not Be Allowed to Dry Out—Water Thoroughly.

When new rose plants are received, it is important that the roots should not be allowed to dry out under any circumstance. It is a good practice when opening the parcel of rose plants to plunge the roots into water and leave them there for several hours, or to bury the plant, root and branch, in moist soil for a few days. Either of these practices will restore the moisture in the stems that has been lost during the winter season.

Hybrid tea roses should be planted about 18 inches apart; hybrid perpetuals two and a half to three feet; and the rugosa hybrids the moss roses, and other large-growing hardy sorts about four feet apart. It is necessary to prune back severely, and the bushes should be planted deep enough so that the point of the union between stock and scion is from two to three inches below the surface of the ground. This is important, because, if the union is at or very near the surface, the sun shining on it hardens the wood and prevents a free circulation of sap, which is not desirable as a strong vigorous growth is necessary for best results. Roses need an abundance of moisture and the surface of the soil should be kept loose from spring until midsummer. After each rain the rose bed should be hoed or raked, leaving a rather loose surface, or during a dry time, if it is necessary to water the roses, the soil should be loosened after watering. It is better to water roses thoroughly occasionally, than to give them a light watering frequetly.

ADMIRED FOR CENTURIES -- WERE DESTROYED IN A FEW WEEKS

DESTRUCTION WAS COMPLETE OF HISTORIC BUILDINGS

The beautiful architecture of the equally famous Cath edral and Cloth Hall of Ypres, that had been spared by the warring armies of centuries that had made a battle ground of Belgium, became the prey of German shells during April and May, 1915, and intermittently afterwards, until they were almost obliterated. Many things can be forgiven the German easier than wilful destruction of such priceless architectural gems.—Canadian War Photo. —Canadian Official War Photograph

COLORED SHIRT EPIDEMIC OVER WHOLE UNIVERSE

Aggressive Nationalism is Hailed as Backbone of Fascist Movement.

JOBLESS MIDDLE CLASS.

LONDON, May 12.—(By Central Press Canadian).—Through the surroundings lands the shirt epidemic has spread, coalescing aggressive minorities and suppressing their "Marxist" traitors.

In Switzerland, Hungary, Denmark, Poland, Sweden, National Socialist factions have arisen. They have their "dictators" and colored shirts, and as before spring from the unemployed and middle classes, financed by the industrialists, to combat Communism, labor independence and semites.

In Rumania the terroristic iron guard green shirts, led by Nicholas Codreanu, murdered Premier Duca for disciplining them. They oppose French influence in Rumania, membership in the Little Entente are fanatically anti-semitic, and look to Adolph Hitler for spiritual guidance. Recently a high court, condemned three Fascists to prison for the assassination, liberated Codreanu and two score of his followers, though the former had boasted in court that he had sanctioned Duca's and other officials' murder.

Mosley in England.

Abandoning socialism with contempt like Il Duce, Sir Oswald Mosley, former Labor M.P. in England, organized a Fascist black shirt brigade to bring forth the "Corporate State." Espoused by Lord Rothermere, powerful newspaper publisher, they already claim a half million men and women members within in a year. The last few months witnessed their active participation in anti-government tactics, when black shirts attempted to hold off the official tithe collectors from English farms. Arrested and tried, they were released with mild rebukes.

That the British Government is aware of an approaching "class struggle" before the next parliamentary elections in 1936 is evidenced in the formation of the "Royal Defence Corps" composed of former soldiers and militia "to protect, in the event of emergencies, vulnerable points in Britain against persons of ill will." Political observers regard the later as "Fascists or demonstrating workers."

In Japan, where rampant imperialism has crystalized a fanatic national feeling, a bankrupt peasantry groans under terrific taxations and threatens to revolt. Industry is almost hog tied by several great financial clans. Wages are tiny, permitting the Orientals to undersell almost all competitors in the world market. But the patriotic societies, led by the army officer sons of the peasants, are seeking to lessen the authority of the commercial groups. Already a dozen politicians and financiers have been slain, including two premiers.

In Finland.

The Lapuans, a Finnish farmer faction, so hostile to Communism that it marched on the Government in Helsingfors several years ago, controls the nation. It harasses the trade unions, exiled the legally elected Communist deputies, kidnapped a former president, and finally placed its candidate in the chief executive's office.

The recent Socialist revolutions in Chile, resulted in the formation of the Nacional Milica Republicana, 15,000 blue shirts strong, with full military equipment, aeroplanes and tanks, "to prevent the shameful turnover of presidents in the past few months."

Esthonian Fascists and uniformed groups were dissolved recently after the "Liberty warriors" tried to intimidate the Government. Norwegian Fascists, after weeks of campaigning and disorder, ironically helped to bring into power the first labor government Norway has had.

The fall of the Spanish monarchy several years ago, which resulted in a republic to replace the autocratic dictatorships begun by the late De Rivera, has left several Fascist groups in its wake, one led by his son, Juan Vicente.

"We will not hesitate to use violence to achieve power," he said repeatedly.

French Riots.

The French economic crisis that came to a boil with the Stavisky scandal and the recent street massacres in Paris revealed how strongly the nation is enmeshed in the Fascist skein, despite the Gallic hate toward Germany. And the third republic, considered the last stronghold of democracy, has virtually surrendered to a cabinet dictatorship headed by former President Gaston Doumergue, having the power to enact financial legislation independent of the Chamber of Deputies.

The killings in the Place de la Concorde on Feb. 6 made apparent how powerful Fascist factions had become, when a furious mob of unemployed soldiers, workers, students and royalists sought to attack the deputies in sessions and put an end to "parliamentary corruption." A governmental commission investigating causes of the riots learned that almost a half dozen organizations were recruiting "shock brigade" troopers, the Croi de Feu, led by Col. de la Roque, composed of war vets, is becoming as royalist as the Action Francaise with its "Camelots du roy," street fighters headed by fiery Leon Daudet; the Solidarite Francaise, financed by Francois Coty, millionaire perfume and newspaper magnate, numbers almost 200,000, with almost half its partizans in the vicinity of Paris; the French blue shirts, the "Francists," led by Marcel Bucard, imitate Hitler in salute, military display and political aims; the Jeunesses Patriotes, 300,000 strong, founded nine years ago in Paris, partake in street fighting against the Communists. The red menace of Moscow in France is their common goal and the abolition of parliament for a dictatorship and some corporate state form.

Trade Unions Protest.

The trade unions, worried by the powerful eruption of Fascism into the open, have begun to combat the shirt demonstrations with their own anti-Fascist parades and protest strikes. Both right and left factions have accused the other of arming secretly, and last week Doumergue moved to prevent the further entry of illegal weapons. Unless the financial situation improves France seems headed for further bloody outbreaks.

In Holland, the WA and WO, Nazi storm troops, profess orthodox Fascist faiths.

From Angora, Mustapha Kemal Pasha, without the benefits of shirts, assembled the remnants of the mighty Ottoman empire to force all Turkey on the road to western civilization while he wielded enormous dictatorial powers.

Eamon De Valera, president of the Irish Free State, picked a tartar in Gen. Eoin O'Duffy, who transformed his outlawed Republican Guard Fascists into a "League of Youth." Its policy is to fight Communism, and to embarrass De Valera, it appears.

In the United States the Silver Shirts, under the leadership of a former scenario writer, William Dudley Pelley, spreads a fanatical anti-semitic campaign.

The khaki shirts under Art Smith attempted a "march on Washington" from Philadelphia last year, armed with revolvers and clubs to make Roosevelt "dictator." Smith recently was given a prison sentence of three to six years for perjury. Numerous other anti-red nationalist groups have sprung like wildfire.

U. S. Nazi Probe.

The congressional committee investigating Nazi propaganda in the United States, stimulated by Samuel Dickstein, representative from New York, is about to begin public hearings. A chorus of charges and denials have deluged the committee that German consuls and clubs have become hotbeds of Swastika brown shirt movements, with uniformed storm troopers preaching fealty to Hitler.

Even the Jews, universal target of Fascist attacks, have succumbed to the lure of the shirt disease in Palestine, where Zionism finds a difficult peaceful pathway between Arab resentment and the British mandate revisionists. The latter advocate a vigorous front against England's supervision, the setting up of an independent Jewish state, protected by its own armed forces. They parade about in brown shirts, with Hitler salutes and help to break strikes.

Like a whirlwind Fascism has encircled the world, yet since aggressive nationalism has become one of its most powerful props, it may write its own death sentence by its very epidemic popularity.

It's guaranteed to give you that "up and at 'em" feeling, this trick. Joseph Emond, 36, of Quebec, is the lad who is stretched out on the chairs here allowing a 60-pound rock to be broken on his chest with a 20-pound sledge hammer. He also has some other tricks, such as running full speed, head-first into a brick wall, holding up his weight on any one finger of both hands and then dropping suddenly on his head. He does that trick best on a cement floor. Emond claims his skull is 20 times as thick as the average. He is short, stocky and has great bulging muscles that can take a half-iner iron poker and tie it in a knot around his head.

KING CHARGES RELIEF TACTICS DICTATORSHIP

Developments at Ottawa Tending to Take Gov't From People's Hands.

ASSAILS MARKET ACT.

Really Device to Bring Import, Export of Products Under Gov't Control.

TORONTO, May 12.—(C.P.)—A re-statement of their leader's views on Communism and Fascism was before Toronto Liberals to-day, along with his belief that certain developments at Ottawa indicate a tendency toward taking government out of the people's hands, and that preservation of British parliamentary practice is essential to national well-being.

Speaking to the Toronto Women's Liberal Association, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King last night attacked the Federal administration's unemployment measures and marketing bill as savoring of dictatorship, and declared his party if returned to power would deal with unemployment according to the policy he had advocated since 1930 —appointment of a national commission to administer the distribution of relief under the authority of parliament, and with the expenditure of every cent audited.

The Opposition leader waxed particularly caustic about the marketing bill. "In the guise of helping the farmer, it is really a device to bring the importation and exportation of products under the control of the government," he said. "Waht is the use of the tariff if the Administration can prohibit the movement of a product anyway?"

Vast Power of Small Groups.

Through its provision that a "representative number" of producers could get together an ddecide whether a product was to be regulated, subject to Governor-in-Council, the Bill placed past powers in the hands of small local groups, the speaker said.

Further, Parlamest was asked to pass a Bill providing for penalties while the "crime" was to be fixed by these local groups. In this he saw a departure from cardinol principles of the Magna Charta and the People's Charter under which the rights of the freeman were dependent on "his peers and the law of the land."

Mr. Kilg traced the development of Communism aid Fascism, and said the C.C.F. movement, if carried to its logical conclusios, would mean class rule and a vast bureaucracy.

In the necessity for non-responsibility to Parliament and easy access to public fuds under a "socialized state" he saw an explanation of the acsuiescence of C.C.F. supporters in Government measures which he believed were contrary to the parliamentary principle. They wanted to "get the people used to it."

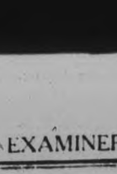
PARLIAMENT HILL HEARS



By WILFRID EGGLESTON

Hon. R. C. Matthews, minister of national revenue, is authority for the statement that among the goods put up to bid at a customs house auction of uncustomed, unclaimed and seized goods at Winnipeg recently was a handsome limestone tombstone, plus a base.

Only five dollars and twenty-five cents was at first bid, whereupon the auctioneer excusably grew a bit impatient.

"What? Only five and a quarter for this beautiful monument and base!" he inquired. "Do I not hear five-fifty? Lock at it, gentlemen! Fit for anyone's grave. Of fine limestone, complete, and needing only your name on it. Why not take thought for the morrow?"

By dint of working on the crowd he finally got a gentleman back of the crowd up to a top figure of $9.-50 at which point the hammer fell.

In all 71 lots were put up for sale. These included a fully-packed trunk, which went for $9; fifty pounds of seed peas, $1.25; a porcelain teapot, with a silver cosy, $2.85; eight boxes of unleavened bread (the Passover being gone), $1.60; nine yards of blue serge, $15; a rifle, $17.

Some articles found no buyers at all: Among these were a large box of solution for waving hair, "also good for taking spots off your clothes" (said the label); a quantity of chemicals; a vapor bath; one golf club; two aeroplane propellers; one gross of stove bolts; bandage material; 400 feet of moving picture film and 350 electric signals for automobiles.

Winnipeg disappoints us: surely someone could have taken that solitary golf club!

Members are saying...that if all the projects for public works which they are transmitting to the government were lumped together the cost would be a billion dollars or so ....that before he left for the west the "Strong Man" of Victoria, B.C., and the "Strong Man" of Ottawa tested out the philosophic query, What happens when an irresistible force strikes an immoveable object....that a scandal is brewing over a cattle-buying company which operated in western Ontario, assisted by the Federal Government, and later went bust right in the farmers' faces, causing much loss and inconvenience .... that Mackenzie King is as certain as ever that a general election is coming this year....that the senate is getting restive over some of the bills it is being asked to pass and may kick over the traces at any time....

* * *

Crowds gathered in the senate galleries on two occasions expecting to hear a "Valley of Humiliation" speech from the government leader or else a complete vindication of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen's position in respect to the Abitibi bonds — neither materialized. Meighen still draws crowds wherever he rises.

An intimate light on Meighen's manner at home prior to the bombshells of eloquence he used to toss into the commons was given me last week by a young man who used to chum with Max Meighen, the leader's younger boy.

"How about us going down to the House to-night?" he would say.

"Why? Something big up?"

"I think so, Dad (Arthur Meighen) sat all through his supper without saying a word!"

My informant says that Max was almost invariably right; fireworks would ensue when the House got under way that evening.

Did you know .... that Col. "Herb" Lennox, whose sudden passing saddened the House recently, almost invariably wore in the House a jaunty brown hat with a crimson band, being one of three members (out of 245) given to wearing head-gear in the chamber. At Westminster the custom is prevalent, chiefly (I am told) because it is so draughty. There is no such reason in the Canadian House....that the House boasts a Benjamin Franklin (Smith of Victoria-Carleton) and an Addison (William A. Beynon of Mooselaw), in addition to the namesakes I listed a few issues back....that a mild sensation was thrown into the banking and commerce committee, when, with a packed room listening to "the redoubtable Gerry McGreer" Sam Jacobs and Chubby Power calmly ordered tea and sat there, members of the committee with great satisfaction as the flow of oratory continued to roll from the British Columbian publicist.. ..that the former member of the preventive staff of the House of Commons who jumped into the Ottawa river was said by fellow members to have lost his wife and his job all in a couple or three weeks....that when wheat falls a cent at Winnipeg it adds a paper loss of over a million dollars to John I. McFarland's wheat accounts, backed by the Federal Government....of course when it rises he gets it back .... that only two out of every hundred Canadians have to pay any Federal income tax, even with the smaller exemptions.

Not many members are strong on Greek mythology, but Pandora's box got honorable mention from D. M. Kennedy of Peace River who compared Weir's marketing bill, as seen by members, to it.

Back in 1911, says Sydney Roe, Pandora's box was alluded to in a manner to bring down the House. A. S. Goodeve of Kootenay, was the speaker. A day or two before Fielding had brought in the little black bag, jealously guarded, containing the famous reciprocity proposals.

"After much hesitation," observed Goodeve, "the minister of finance opened Pandora's box,—and out popped the Trojan horse!"

NEW LAFAYETTE AND NASH CARS

Sold and Serviced by Foley & Wilson, McDonnel Street.

Announcement is made of the appointment of Foley & Wilson, the well-known garage and service station operators at the corner of Reid and MacDonnel streets, as agents for Nash and the new Lafayette cars in Peterborough and district.

Considerable significance attaches to this appointment, as it coincides with the public interest in the new Nash-built Lafayette. This car is regarded as setting new standards for the lower-priced field, embodying as it does many long-life construction features found hitherto only in high priced cars. The Lafayette, designed to meet the requirements of people who want a car of fine quality and long life at a low price, has earned the name of the car with the "jewelled movement."

Both the Nash and Lafayette cars offer a complete line of models through wide range of prices. Foley & Wilson also provide a specialized service in mechanics and parts for both cars. Mr. Wilson being in charge of service, while Mr. Foley will manage the sales department.

THE THIRTEEN KEYS

CHARACTERS

CAL. SPENCE.—One of over five thousand retailers doing business in the Thirteen Key Cities. With business steadily improving Cal. knows that recovery has really started, but the depression has taught him many things. Careful buying is one of them.

JIM LAWSON.—One of over a score of salesmen calling on Cal. Spence every week. Jim, too, is finding things more encouraging, but the tough sledding of the past three years has taught him many things also. Constructive selling is one of them.

SCENE

A large desk, a swivel chair and a table are the main furnishings of an office at the back of Spence's store. Seated at the desk, Cal, is going over his books. From here he can survey his entire establishment, keep an eye on his staff and observe his customers as they come in. Lawson enters, lays down his sample case, and opens a portfolio of the advertising for a new product as Spence looks up from his ledger.

LAWSON.—Hello, Cal.! I've got something good for you this trip.

SPENCE.—O, Yeah!

LAWSON.—I mean it, Cal. This has everything you have ever asked for. It's priced right. Everyone uses it. Your profit's sure—and big. And it's going to be nationally advertised.

SPENCE.—What do you mean, nationally advertised? I've taken a loss too often on something that was going to be nationally advertised—advertised in papers or magazines that few of my customers ever see.

LAWSON.—I'll agree with you. But hold on a minute, Cal. This product is to be advertised in your local newspaper.

SPENCE.—Now you're talking. That's where my customers do their buying. Sales prove it or I wouldn't be paying for a quarter page every week. Are those the ads you are going to run?

LAWSON.—Yes, sir. This is your copy of the proofs with insertion dates. Space, position, frequency, and your own daily newepaper. What do you say?

SPENCE.—O.K. I guess we can do business.

Lawson did business with Spence and with the Spences in a dozen other thriving Ontario cities where the combined retail sales are in excess of a hundred million dollars. Below are listed the thirteen dailies that helped do the constructive selling. It was careful buying, too, for the advertiser. The cost of all thirteen was about quarter the cost of one magazine and less than the cost of two of the dailies at the head office city.

CAMPBELLFORD CADET CORPS ARE INSPECTED

Captain E. Churchill-Mann, R.C.D., Praises Local Units for Their Smartness and Drill.

HIGH AND PUBLIC SCHOOLS

CAMPBELLFORD, May 12 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Praise for the smartness and training of the Campbellford High and Public School Cadets was expressed yesterday, when Captain E. Churchill-Mann, R.C.D., of M.D. 3, Kingston, inspecting officer, made his annual visit to the schools for the purpose of inspecting these units. Different from previous years, the corps were viewed at different times, the Public School boys being paraded on their own campus at 1.30 p.m., and the High School cadets on their campus one hour later.

Both units showed a smart and soldierly appearance and went through their drill with a niceness and precision that showed good training and a keenness on the part of the boys to do their best in this most important feature of the school work.

At the High School Captain Mann, in his address to the Cadets, told them that they made a very good showing, saying: "I have no hesitation in saying that you have done the best work I have seen in ten inspections." He made some minor criticisms, however, relative to deportment and equipment, which ended with the declaration, "You have a very good corps here; you have done good work."

The inspecting officer made the official presentation of medals to the officers, donated by the Strathcona Trust Fund, pinning them on the boys as they paraded before him. These were as follows:

Gold—Captain Frank O'Sullivan, officer commanding. Silver—Lieutenants Robert McGregor, Charles Collard, Angus Robertson, Harry Richardson. Bronze—Sergeants I. Russell, A. Bates, D. Owen and Don. Barnum.

In a concluding remark, Captain Mann told the Cadets that they were not training for war, but were developing a sound mind and body through the training, which was quite worth while. Principal E. H. Greig, who has charge of the Cadet training, also congratulated them on their fine showing.

Public School.

The corps of the Public School also came in for praise from Captain Mann, who expressed himself well pleased with the work they did and the smart appearance they made on parade. He thought, he said, that they were "pretty smart" for public school boys, and told them so. The training of these boys is in charge of Principal Charles Haig.

MADOC

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, May 12. — At the close of the Young People's Society the Dramatic Society of Madoc held a short meeting in the Sunday school rooms of Trinity United Church, to say farewell to Gray Rivers, who was leaving to finish his Upper School Work in Essex High School. Donald Whytock and Norma Fair presented Gray with a parting gift and all good wishes. Mrs. J. W. Hulin on behalf of the society also presented Mrs. Ashley with two beautiful cups and saucers in token of appreciation for her assistance in their play recently presented, "Let's all Get Married."

"ALL-BRAN WILL ALWAYS BE A PART OF MY DIET"

Delicious Cereal Corrected His Constipation

If you suffer from constipation, read this fine letter:

"I have been troubled for years with constipation. During this time, I have tried almost every known remedy. Then some one recommended eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and the proper results followed immediately.

"Since eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN each morning, there has been a general improvement in my health without the ill effects that I formerly experienced when taking laxatives. Hereafter, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will always be a part of my diet."—Mr. E. G. Himes (address furnished upon request).

Research shows Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Isn't this "cereal way" safer than risking patent medicines?

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient to relieve ordinary constipation. With each meal, in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Be sure to ask for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Mr. Henry said. "He and Mr. McCrea and W. D. Black of Addington are the deans of the House. They have been there the longest in continuous service. The three of them entered in 1911. I have known Mr. Cooke since he entered the Legislature and I have grown to respect and like him as you have done.

Mr. Cooke has been your representative in North Hastings for twenty-three years, but I want to say that while he is ceasing to represent you, I am not allowing him to go into private life. He has been a Hydro Commissioner for nearly eleven years, and I remind myself with feelings of satisfaction that I was responsible for steering him into the Hydro.

Introduced to Hydro

In the session of 1920, Mr. Ferguson then leading the Conservative Opposition, went on a holiday, and I had the responsibility of leading our group in the House. At that time a Committee of five members was appointed to study rural electric distribution and service. I said "Bob this is your job", and in that way I started him on the Hydro fourteen years ago, and I have never been sorry one moment since. I may say that he dominated that committee, and as a result of that experience and the ability he demonstrated he was made the Government's representative on the Hydro Commission three years later.

I think he should continue in that office, and I like to think that you feel you have been largely responsible for us having him in public life as chairman of this great public utility of the Hydro."

Mr. Tummon's Reminiscence

W. E. Tummon M.P. for South Hastings said that a recollection uppermost in his memory was an occasion in Belleville in 1911 when he was one of a little group that prevailed on Mr. Cooke to let his name go before the Conservative convention that was held late that year in the Masonic Hall at Madoc.

"Mr. Cooke is one of my closest friends. We grew up together in the same neighborhood, and we have known each other for a life time. I want to pay him this tribute after all the time he has spent in the Legislature and for the position from which he is stepping down holding the esteem and love of the people of this riding and this county. We wish him many years of happiness and a long life and service in the years to come."

Proud of Mr. Cooke

James F. Hill, M.P.P. and candidate in East Hastings declared that he was never prouder of Mr. Cooke that in his retirement.

"He has done what he said he would do. I have recently been in the north part of the riding, and I could tell Mr. Ireland that if we keep up to what Bob Cooke has done there, especially in the buildings of roads to Algonquin Park, to Ottawa—" ... ... (T. P. Lancaster—"And to Peterborough).

Mr. Hill—that he has a real task on his hands.

Mr. Lancaster in his turn said that when he entered the public service he had set his ideal in 'Bob' Cooke, and tried to emulate the diligent attention to the welfare of his riding that Mr. Cooke had shown.

"I have a long way to go before I reach the standard of Mr. Cooke's service to the people of Hastings for the last thirty-three years."

R. A. Elliott, chairman and Dr. A. T. Embury, M.P., for Peterborough-Hastings, added words of appreciation to the personality and work of Mr. Cooke.

Began in Township Council

John Robert Cooke was born in Rawdon township September 1, 1866. Brought up on a farm, he began life as a farmer, living near Harold across the Peterborough-Hastings boundary.

Like many another farmer he was elected to the council of his municipality, became reeve and subsquently Warden of Hastings county, and that experience was the foundation of the career which has elevated him successively from a township councillor to the Legislature of Ontario to which he was first elevated in 1911 and consecutively in the general elections of 1914, 1919., 1923, 1926 and 1929, several times without opposition.

In 1923 he was appointed a member of the cabinet without portfolio, and became the Government's representative on the Hydro-Electric Commission.

Unbroken Progress

Mr. Cook's rise to prominence in Ontario has been sound and solid, if not spectacular, and while the brightest chapter of his life is written around his accelerating upward progress during the last ten years, its deepest personal elements are associated with the earlier period first in the municipal affairs of Rawdon township, followed by his successful entry into the political arena of North Hastings.

In a literal sense "Bob" Cooke represented his constituents and many incidents could be recalled, probably they are innumerable, of the esteem and affection he won from Liberals by his prompt and efefctual fulfilment of various requests they made to him. He held the riding in his hand even against the U.F.O. sweep of 1919, and became a power in Hastings county and afterwards in the Legislature not only by his thoroughgoing ability, but particularly by rugged human qualities that marked him from the beginning as a man worthy of trust.

Mr. Cook's Address

In his address to the convention yesterday, declining to stand for nomination in the new constituency, Hon. Mr. Cooke devoted most of his time to a review of phases of the Government's accomplishments and the capability of its leader, Premier Henry. Reference to himself was a brief, concluding and seeming after-thought.

Mr. Cooke recalled that he had been thirty-three years in public life. He expplained the economic reasons for redistribution, which finally included the amalgamation of North and West Hastings.

"When it was decided that there were to have only one riding in the future" he continued, "I thought that it was only fair that I should give way to Mr. Ireland. If you will look over West Hastings you will find that Belleville, Trenton, Frankford and Sidney township have forty-five per cent of the population of this county. They haven't had a federal representation for ten years. One of the federal representatives (Dr. Embury) lives at Bancroft, and the other (W. E. Tummon) lives at Tweed. It was, therefore, unthinkable that I should try to take from them, even if I could, their legislative representation. So, I want to get behind Bill Ireland, and I want to see every friend of his give him the same support."

Mr. Henry

The loss of Mr. Cooke and other valuable men from the legislature is one of the regrettable results of the redistriution of seats, Premier Henry said, as he undertook an explanation of the purposes and mechanics of the recent redistribution early in his address. But with economy as the watchword, a reduction of the number of seats was imperative, he said. It meant a distasteful task of culling out good supporters—a task which had to be carried out in a courageous manner.

Speaking highly of the candidate, Mr. Ireland, he declared that Mr. Ireland had proved his mettle during the faithful years of service he has already given in the legislature. "It has always been a comfort during the four sessions in which I have been in the House to feel that Bill Ireland behind me read to lend his efforts for the welfare of the Legislature at any call" he said.

The Premier took up what he termed the "temperance question" in some detail. The problem of temperance has been with us always, and those in control throughout modern times have felt a responsibility for preventing men from becoming drunkards he said. Real progress have been made in dealing with the matter in Ontario in the past twenty-five years and that progress can be traced just as definitely to Conservative leadership as can the great social improvements of the province, he declared.

Failure of O.T.A.

He recalled the failure of the O.T.A. experiment and reminded the audience of the thorough endorsement the public gave the Liquor Control Act as it was proposed in 1926. In 1929 the question was still an issue and the attitude of the Government was given an even more substantial public approval than in 1926.

At the time the Liquor Control Act was designed in 1926, a wider distribution of beer and wine than the Act now allows was proposed but it was felt that the public would not be in favor, he continued. Now a change in the attitude of the public has come about, influenced by wider distribution in adjoining provinces and the repeal of prohibition in the United States. The public wishes a relaxation of the beer and wine provisions of the Act and the public wishes will be respected, he declared.

In regard to the possiblity of a beer and wine referendum, he said, "I do not think a referendum is suitable to our form of administration. I believe the Government should assume responsibility for all its legislation. We are prepared to go to the country with the idea of government responsibility in the matter of these changes to the Liquor Control Act. They are not law yet and will not become law unless endorsed by the people."

Road Attraction

Belittling arguments that a complete relaxation of the Liquor Control Act to compare with the Quebec system of control would attract a heavier tourist traffic to Ontario, he asserted that the tourist traffic of Quebec has never been more than a fraction of that enjoyed by Ontario. Tourists come to this province, not to drink but to use the province's fine network of roads. With that in mind, the Government had for some time been at work on a program of road construction which will make the principal lake regions to the north accessible, and intends to continue the program, he said.

"We have spent a lot of money on roads," Mr. Henry said, naming the figure as about $180,000,000. "To do that we have had to borrow. But I do not look on the roads as a debt. They are an asset—an asset which is paying large dividends. Even last year tourists brought between $80,000,000 and $90,000,000 to the province. It is a harvest we are reaping because we had the courage to put money in our roads."

Dr. Embury

In a short address, Dr. A. T. Embury of Bancroft, Federal member for Peterborough-Hastings, endorsed the candidacy of Mr. Ireland and ridiculed the ambition of Mitchell Hepburn and his followers to win control in the Legislature. "Hepburn says he is going to clean up the country, when he gets in," he said. "Do not forget that the Drury crowd said they were going to clean up the country when they got in, in 1919. They did — clean as a bone!"

Welcomed by Reeve

R. A. Elliott called the convention to order with the singing of the National Anthem, led by Sandy Burrows of Belleville.

Welcome to the delegates and other electors from the old West Hastings riding was expressed by ex-Warden G. B. Airhart of Marmora.

Among those in the hall was S. F. Robbins of Baptiste Lake, east of Bancroft, who told The Examiner that yesterday was the first visit he had made to Marmora in fifty years.

highly regarded by many farmers. Vigorous growing, heavy yielding varieties of oats such as O.A.C. No. 144, O.A.C. No. 72, or Banner varieties should be used along with White Biennial Sweet Clover. The crop should be pastured sufficiently to prevent the oats coming into head. The oats produce the pasture about six weeks after seeding. It also has the added advantage that the sweet clover can be used the following year either as a pasture, silage or hay crop. The sweet clover seed should be scarified before sowing.

RAPE

Rape is often grown as a supplementary pasture crop in Ontario after a failure of winter wheat and sometimes after a barley crop has been harvested. It makes an excellent pasture for sheep and may be used for hogs and cattle with satisfactory results. One and a half to two pounds of seed per acre is enough when the crop is sown in rows, but broadcast sowing will require four to five pounds per acre. It is usually sown late for fall pasture, but can be sown from early spring till late August to meet emergent pasture requirements. The farmer should produce his rape seed by variety name, one of the best being the Dwarf, Essex. There is a danger of animals bloating on this crop if turned in when hungry or when it is wet. Any danger of this can be overcome by not allowing the animals to stay on the rape pasture too long at first, and increasing the length of time as they become used to it, and by letting them have access to a grass pasture.

MRS. ROBERT A. HALL

TWEED, May 12 (Examiner Correspondence)—The death occurred at Plainfield of Maria E. E. Hall, wife of Mr. Robert A. Hall in her 77th year. She had been in failing health for some time.

The late Mrs. Hall was born in Huntingdon Township, being the only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Beatty. For some time she resided in Thomasburg, but for the past fourteen years has made her home in Plainfield. She was a member of Plainfield United Church and was very highly respected.

Left to mourn besides the husband are one daughter, Mrs. Albert Weir, of Hillier; two sons, Addison Hall, of Lang Branch, Ont. and Norman Hall of Belleville; one sister, Mrs. Hugh Coulter, of Chapman's Corners and one brother, Albert Beatty of Chapman's Corners.

The sincere sympathy of many friends will be extended to Mr. Hall, his family and relatives in their bereavement.

MRS. JOHN PUGH.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Pugh was held from Comstock's Funeral Parlors Saturday last. The unusually large attendance testified to the high esteem in which she was held. She lived the greater part of her life in South Monaghan, and the last fourteen years with her daughter 'Lizzie,' Mrs. Breckenridge of Otonabee. The Rev. Mr. Tyler of Park Street Baptist Church conducted the services, his text being from Job, the first chapter and part of verse twenty-one. The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away, brought out the beautiful character of this mother, spared for almost ninety-two years. Her gentleness, her bright disposition, pleasant smile and wonderful manner, loved by everyone, always ready to give the helping hand to all her friends and neighbors. Her husband predeceased her fourteen years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss a family of four boys: W. J. of Barrie, R. J. of Manitoba, Thomas H. of North Dakota (who died sixteen months ago), and Alfred and Abner of Manitoba; and three daughters: Mrs. Johnson of 124 Dublin Street, Miss Millie of Balcarres, Sask., and "Lizzie," Mrs. Breckenridge of Otonabee, and fourteen grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Those from a distance who attended the funeral were Mrs. Gerald E. T. Aventure, Mrs. Beatrice Breckenridge of Toronto, Mr. W. J. Pugh and son Cecil of Barrie, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Whiteman and Mrs. Lillie Stubbs and son Edgar, Miss Hazel Kelly of Toronto, Miss Mabel Whiteman of Kippen, Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly and Mr. Will Edgar of Bobcaygeon, and Mrs. Martha Edgar of Warsaw.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Cecil Pugh and Melville Pimmett (grandsons), Willie Breckenridge, Wilbert Wood, Karl Huggins and Andrew Huggins.

Interment took place at Little Lake Cemetery.

dressed a document to the Pope in which they set forth their doctrinal views. This document, it is said, was favorably received in Rome, chiefly because it admitted "the supremacy of the Bishop of Rome," who is the Pontiff himself.

Anglicans Confer

The movement for a reunion with Rome seems to have made further progress in the German state church than in the Anglican body. Although the Anglo-Catholics made a serious attempt in that direction a few years ago when their spokesman, led by Lord Halifax and Lord Hugh Cecil held a series of conferences with the late Cardinal Mercier at Malines, these conferences had no practical result in spite of the fact that they were held with the approval of the Archbishop of Canterbury on the one hand and the Roman Pontiff on the other. They broke down, in fact, on the one particular point which the German high churchmen concede at the outset: namely, the supremacy of the Pope, as Bishop of Rome in the Christian world.

The centre of Neo-Catholicism in the Lutheran church has for many years been the University of Marburg, where Professor Dr. Hugo Otto supervised the training of thousands of pastors. These pastors have introduced an elaborate ritual in the Lutheran church which resembles in the smallest detail thte liturgical practices of the Roman Catholic church with the exception that German instead of Latin is used in the services. They elevated altars to the Virgin Mary and promulgated the doctrine of the Real Presence of Christ in the consecrated Host and Wine on the altar. Some of these pastors have gone so far as to use Latin in the services. Many adopted the vestments of the Catholic church.

Swastika Replaces Cross

The anti-Christian crusade by some of the Nazi chiefs, notably Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, who has frankly come out against Christianity as "a diluted Jewish poison which has sapped the strength of the German nation," and the new Nazi edition of the Bible, have given the Neo-Catholic movement a great and unexpected impetus. The Neo-Catholic pastors in the Lutheran church have refused to replace the cross and the crucifix on the altars and communion tables by the swastika, as has become habitual in churches whose pastors belong to the newly-formed Nazi organization of German Christians. Since the "German Christians" (Nazified Protestants) are backed by the government and their bishops act with dictatorial power, the Neo-Catholics rather than submit seem to be inclined to take the decisive step of going over to Rome now. In the Catholic churches the Nazi emblem has not yet made its appearance, certainly not on the altars, although here and there Nazi banners have been introduced.

If the six hundred pastors are accepted by the Roman Catholic church, they are expected to take with them millions of their followers and adherents. Certain Nazi newspapers in the Reich seek to make it apear that secession from the state church and adherence to Rome could be interpreted as high treason. Rather than acting as a deterrent, however, this threat has become more of an encouragement for the Neo-Catholics to proceed with their plans for re-union. The fundamental objection of the Nazis to the Catholic church is that it has international ramifications, and preaches a universal Christian community Attempts to discredit the Roman church in the eyes of patriotic Germans by charging it with being under control of international Jewish financiers, have not made the slightest impression. To the contrary, the Catholic church in Germany with its dignified but intransigent attitude against the encroachment of Nazism has won the admiration of millions of German Protestants. The strengthening of the re-union with Rome movement, which may take on sensational proportions, is the best proof of this.

SEPARATE GRADING FOR GARNET WHEAT

Will Have Serious Effect on Reputation of Canadian Wheat Unless Action Taken.

OTTAWA, May 12 (CP)—A Government bill amending the Canada Grain Act was under review yesterday by the House Agricultural Committee. One effect would be to give Garnet wheat separate grading.

"If some action is not taken," said Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, "I fear there will be a very serious effect on the reputation of Canadian wheat as a whole."

Protests against the mixing of Garnet wheat in Number 2 Northern Wheat had been received said Mr. Stevens, from the National Association of British Millers, the Glasgow Four Millers Association and various organizations in Sweden that used Canadian wheat for flour-making. The letters represented the Garnet content reduced the value of the flour.

Wheat exporters in Vancouven also protested against Garnet wheat being lumped in the northern grades, said Mr. Stevens. This reduced the value of the wheat and made it more difficult to sell to world buyers. Vancouver exporters also protested, because of the large amount of Alberta wheat exported from that port, that more Garnet was mixed in grades shipped from there than from Montreal and the eastern ports. This was believed to be a serious handicap in world trading.

CANADIAN CHEESE SALES DEPLORED BY OFFICIAL

TORONTO, May 12 (CP)—While Canadian cheese might be sold in Great Britain as Scottish and English cheddars, such practice would not injure the Canadian producer in the opinion of George H. Barr, director of the dairy branch in the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Barr stated he believed the practice of selling Ontario cheese produced in the Belleville district as Scottish cheddars started several years ago when the consumption of milk in the British Isles took away from the supply of the cheese factories. The practice was deplored by S. L. Joss of Belleville, speaking at Lansdowne, Ont., before the Ontario Cheese Patrons' Association Thursday night.

It was with the increase in milk consumption in Britain that the Ontario cheese factories began producing 110-pound cheeses and exporting them. They are little different from Scottish cheddars and could be sold as such, Mr. Barr stated.

AGREEMENT REACHED

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP) — The United States Senate silver bloc and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau virtually agreed to-day on the language of a silver bill, but it will be presented to President Roosevelt early next week before final terms are written.

Senator McCarren (D., Nev.), one of the conferees, said Morgenthau had agreed to a mandatory declaration of policy that silver be made a primary monetary base with gold, but desired to submit it first to President Roosevelt.

OFFICIAL WORD SENT TO LONDON

"The British ministers are stiffening. They say that if a token payment June 15 is to be regarded as default, Britain might as well default outright."

Popular opinion also seemed to be right behind the declaration of Sir John Simon, Foreign Minister, speaking in a personal capacity at Manchester, that the fact Britain has a budget surplus—achieved with a terrific taxation impost—does not mean she is able to pay over tremendous sums of money in war debts.

Roosevelt in "Tough Spot."

The Times contented itself with pointing out President Roosevelt's difficult positios in his own country and the necessity of his taking the popular attitude on war debts. The President was manifestly reluctant "to move towards any debt settlement for which he could not hope to obtain the approval of Congress." said The Times.

Lauding the President's achievemests in office—"he has effected changes in a little more than a year which have taken decades in other countries; moreover showing throughout a most punctilious respect for the constitution and the rights of Congress"—The Times pointed out the necessity of President Roosevelt to keep closely in touch with public opinion to maintain his influence over Congress.

Task Grows Harder

The President's task was becoming increasingly difficult, compelling him more than ever to follow the course approved by popular opinion The Times added.

"Amid so many causes of anxiety at home it is scarcely to be expected that the president would create further difficulties for himself at this moment by taking an unpopular opinion on the question of war debts."

The Daily Mail said many Americans, even the President, wished a default and thereby resolve an awkward domestic and political issue. The London Mirror, another organ with no government connection urged British Ministers not to be startled by the word 'default', saying:

"A defaulter who is not allowed to pay in any financially conceivable manner can at the worst be accused solely of not doing what is impossible."

DUST BLIZZARDS SWEEP TO SEA ON EAST COAST

Seed is Whipped From Ground, Tons of Fertile Soil Blown Away.

DROUGHT SERIOUS.

Nebraska Farmers Desperate —Rain Badly Needed Parts Canadian West.

CHICAGO, May 12 (AP).—Farmers of the United States who have stood helpless as a blazing sun seared away their crops, turned hopefully to the Rocky Mountains to-day for relief.

A low pressure area over the far western region was reported working its way slowly toward the east, bringing life-giving showers to the parched prairies of the grain states.

The black blizzards of dust from the vast plains of western United States had spent their force, sweeping to sea on the eastern seaboard, dropping tons of fertile farm soil en route, while the drought continued to swell the crop damage.

So serious did officials of the Department of Agriculture at Washington regard the situation, they frankly said that the long dry spell had reduced their May 1 crop estimate of winter wheat by 19,500,000 bushels.

No ground for fears that a famine might result from the drought and acreage reduction was seen by George E. Farrell, chief of the agricultural adjustment administration's wheat section. He told officials of the University of Illinois there was no prospect of a wheat shortage in the next year.

Reports continued to come in, however, telling of the widespread havoc by the lack of raintall.

Farmers in Nebraska asked to be permitted to abandon their wheat crops, which had been pledged to the Government under contract and to plant corn. They said their situation was "desperate."

Rain Prospects Bright

WINNIPEG, May 12 (CP)—Prospects of rain during the week-end to-day buoyed hopes of farmers that Western Canada's ravaging dust storms were about doomed.

Raked by high winds and swirling clouds of dust for a month farmland received little relief from light rains earlier this week, but cool weather yesterday gave indications rain might come to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta during the week-end.

The weatherman was not overoptimistic though. The forecast was for scattered showers. Coolness of the weather—it dropped below the freezing point without causing any damage in some points—hinted a general rain might develop. Rain is sorely needed by the wheat and coarse grain crops, just coming about the ground in the majority of farms. Unless rain comes, farmers saw prospects of additional dust storms to whip newly-sown seed from the ground and retard growth of the germinating seeds.

STAMP CORNER

By M. A. BESSEY

In memory of her much-beloved King Albert, Belgium has added a black border to the current design 75 centime stamp. We believe this constitutes something unique, both in the type of design or coloring, also the purpose for which the stamp was issued.

We understand that the Belgian Congo is to emulate the step of the mother country by issuing a mourning stamp for the late king.

Manchoukuo

There is quite a scandal surrounding thish issue. It seems that the speculators were very busy and bought up all of the 6 and 10-fen values almost at once; the stamps were to be on sale for three days only, but the first day saw them pretty well cleaned out. It is reported that as high as four dollars per set was paid for some, and many were sold at four times their actual cost on the first and second days after they were issued. Looks like this may turn out to be a good one.

Russia

Russia is certainly living up to the five-year plan in so far as issuing stamps is concerned. The latest received is a set of five air mail stamps, issued to commemorate the 10th anniversary of the Soviet Civil Aviation and U.S.S.R. air-mail service.

One value is illustrated, and the balance are much the same, with the exception that each has a different view beneath the aeroplane.

The entire series are most attractive, all being printed in bright, vivid colors.

Two separate printings were made, one on a thick unwatermarked paper, the other on a thinner watermarked paper. Almost twice as many sets of the unwatermarked issue were printed as those of the watermarked type.

Undoubtedly these commemorative issues of Russia should turn out to be a good thing, but they have their drawbacks. For instance, we run up against the cancelled to order practice. This seems to have become a most popular racket with the Russian government. Mint sets usually sell at from three to five times the price of the used sets.

The mint sets can hardly help but turn out to be the best investments in the long run, but for the average collector who hasn't about $5 a month to spend on mint Russia alone, the used sets will serve the purpose, providing the same attractive designs, for the most part nicely cancelled, and at a much lower scale of prices.

In most cases the quantity of these issues is limited, so that whether used or mint, it is highly improbable that they will ever depreciate to the extent that they could be termed "junk."

Italy

The battle for supremacy in the stamp-issuing world still goes on, and the competition is quite keen.

It is a problem as to whom should be awarded the laurels up to the present time — Russia or Italy. Both countries are bringing out exceptionally attractive stamps, although of two entirely different types. The issues of Italy, we think, are of a more sedate or refined appearance. However, a collection of both will provide a wide variety of material, which should satisfy the taste of anyone.

The most recent issue of Italy commemorates the 10th anniversary of Fiume, two designs of which are illustrated.

The regular postage issue consists of seven denominations; that of the air post, six denominations, in addition to which there are two air express stamps.

Next week we will bring our listing of new members for the Stamp Exchange Club up to date, also take care of questions.

News Item

The following appeared in a recent issue of Stamp Collecting, reported by Mr. T. Todd, of London, Eng.

The owner of the most valuable stamp collection which has ever been brought into England is not a stamp collector. He is Mr. F. M. J. Hind, a director of an important textile firm of Bradford, and a nephew of the late Mr. Arthur Hind, of Utica, New York.

Mr. Hind is not a collector, but bought the stamps of his uncle "on spec.", which are to be sold through the famous auctioneers, H. R. Harmer, in a series of sales during the next year or so.

OUR MAIL

Dear Anne: I had a rare treat to-day. The men-folk were away; no one else was around and I had my dinner in the pantry. Never mind about the dinner—it satisfied the inner man or woman. As usual when alone for a meal I was armed with a book, and as usual I read a large book.

That pantry window is the joy of my life. The table in front of it was made so I could sit down while working. From that window I can watch birds, trees, vegetation, weeds, oh, everything of the beautiful out-of-doors. To-day, the lambs were skipping and having such a merry time. Soon their mothers will be shorn. Then it is really pathetic but amusing, for the baby sheep do not know their unclothed mothers, and there is lots of maing and ba-ing until they are sorted.

The grass in the meadow is showing greener every day. The twigs are swelling and the buds will soon burst. The evergreens are more like summer. Robins, vireos, naughty little English sparrows, ground sparrows, groundcap chicka-dees were hopping around. My phoebes were inspecting their old nest under the eaves, and calling phoebe—phoebe. I read in a bird book once that phoebes did not use their old nests. For at least ten years that old nest has been remodelled or one near it. The present location is a few feet from the first. I think it is children and grandchildren. I am sure it was the same old fellow that used to sit on the fence and fairly scream phoebe—phoebe. He sat in just the same place every year and his voice became harsher. While Mrs. Phoebe would sit on the nest he woud call his poebe. I love to hear them. Twice the voice has become quite harsh, and the next year a softer one would come. Of course after the wee birdies are hatched he has a little more to do than call phoebe. They held a discussion this noon. A pair of robins seemed to be inspecting locations. One robin spent quite a time hopping around a nest quite near the window. Last early Fall I watched him come and pull wet grass and carry it into the tree. It seemed late but they built a home and reared a family. Soon I expect to see a humming bird. While at dinner alone I can watch all the time. When working I must have my eyes on my work most of the time.

All last week there were droves of birds flitting or hopping around in it, over the meadow in the trees or in the shrubs near the house, sparrows, robins (never have I seen so many robins at a time as there were there every day in all directions.) a few vireos, a bird of which we see a few every year, but do not know the name, a very dark, dull grey back and dickie, light grey breast, long narrow dark tail, which spreads out, and shows white underneath as he flies. The off white short beak gives a peculiar look to the chunky little fellow. They stop a few days in the autumn, too, but this spring there were ten where we saw one before. There were black birds, too, but starlings came and the others left the field.

In the winter I bake bread; I can bake all our bread, buns, cake and bircuit on about half what the bread costs. I do not often make pies with bread flour. Can make them better and for less with pastry flour. In warm weather it suits better to pay the baker who passes the door, than to endure the heat and use the extra fuel. Then buns and cakes as well as pies, are made with pastry flour.

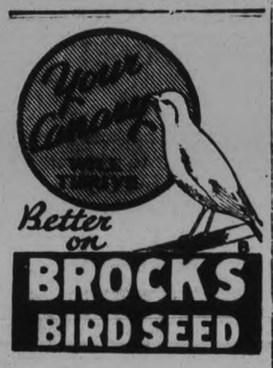
I love the country, the trees, the birds, the smell of the brown earth, the farm animals; oh, but they are nice creatures, and God seems nearer in His earth as He made it, than in the City, with "Lands all houses, and streets all stones.' These precious men are coming in for supper, so I must quit, with my best wishes. Sincerely yours,

QUID EST.

Dear Quid Est: Thanks so much for your lovely letter. I would certainly love to look out of the pantry window with you. You painted such a lovely picture of your delightful surroundings and I just know that you are getting the most out of them too. You must be very happy, indeed. There are a great many people in this old world who would love to change places with you, I am sure.

Do write again, real soon, Quid Est. Your letters are wonderful. Sincerely,

Anne Wilcox



GIRL ENDS LIFE.

STRATFORD, Ont., May 11 (CP).—Believed to have taken a strong dose of insect poisoning while working at the downtown apartment of Mrs. J. Allen, 19-year-old Leilah Till, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Till, died suddenly about noon today.

Parents and friends of the girl are at a loss to explain her act, as she had been in good health. The girl took violently ill and went to a neighboring apartment, where she admitted to a friend she had taken poison because "she was tired of it all."

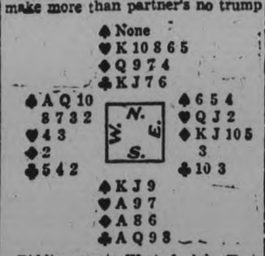
AN ADDED TRICK AT TRUMPS

Often it pays to consider the added trick which a strong suit will make more than partner's no trump

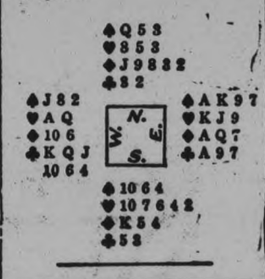


Bidding went: West, 1 club; East, 4 no trumps, to see if his partner held another powerful suit (East could read that in case partner held the usual 2½ quick tricks that West must hold in addition to the K-Q of clubs, the ace of hearts, also either the Q of hearts or the K of diamonds); West, 6 clubs; East 6 no trumps; West, 7 clubs; this was allowed to stand, fortunately.

The opening lead was the 9 of diamonds. The declarer knew that North would not make so crazy an opening lead as the 9 from a suit headed by the K. As South evidently held the K, dummy's ace won the trick.

West saw no way in which he could squeeze his opponents; so he resolved to play the hand in the only manner which appeared possible to win what he sought. West took two rounds of trumps. Then he took three heart tricks, discarding upon dummy's third heart trick West's 2 of spades. The two top spades were led from dummy. The third lead of dummy's spades was ruffed by West, being fortunate enough to drop both the Q and 10, leaving a long spade in dummy. The ace of trumps won the next lead. Dummy's good spade was led. Upon the spade West discarded his low diamond, then he spread his hand for the grand slam which he bid. His side had won 3 spade tricks, 3 heart tricks, 1 diamond trick and 6 club tricks.

Before tomorrow look over the next hand, which North played at 5 hearts. The opening lead was the 6 of spades.



BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

At a large studio party recently given by one of Hollywood's bigger film companies, the lovely, blonde Esther Ralston appeared in a shimmering white evening gown, with a spray of gardenias on her left shoulder. She also wore a coronet of fresh gardenias in her hair. The effect was very striking, indeed. And the delicate fragrance that emanated from the gardenias greatly enhanced the charm and beauty to the coiffure. And I personally am very much in favor of this new fad. For in my opinion, a strand of flowers twined in the hair is far more deadly in its effect on the opposite sex than even the costliest of diamond tiaras.

However, a most important benefit of the flowers-in-the-hair movement is the fact that the fresh blossoms impregnate the hair with their delightful fragrance. Some women find that their tresses develop an unpleasant, oily, rancid odor several days after each shampoo. And they have not even the faintest idea of what to do to overcome this condition.

There really isn't any excuse for having hair that is anything but fragrant and clean smelling. If the hair is shampooed with sufficient frequency to keep it free from oil and grime, and is scented skillfully, it will always retain a pleasing fragrance. And there are a number of different ways in which the hair can be pleasingly scented. In the first method, the hair should be shampooed and thoroughly rinsed. Add a few drops of perfume to the final rinse water. In this way, the hair become only delicately and subtly scented.

Another way of perfuming the hair is through the use of an atomizer. After the hair has been shampooed and dried, it should be lightly sprayed with perfume. Or the hairbrush may be sprayed with perfume, and the tresses then brushed with it. Again, the hair may be perfumed by scenting the linings of hats, or by having a thin silk sachet bag attached to the crown of each lining. These methods are all effective in giving the hair a refreshing and delightful fragrance.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Lanolin

Beth: It is the pure lanolin that I referred to. I have never heard of a case in which this product has caused the growth of hair on the face.

Superfluous Hair

Dotty: The superfluous hair bleach to which you refer consists of two teaspoons of peroxide and half a teaspoon of ordinary household ammonia.

Hand Lotion

Marie: You can make an excellent hand lotion by combining equal parts of rose water and glycerine, or by using three parts of the rose water to one part of glycerine.

MILLBROOK

The seasonable subject of how best to entice birds to like home gardens, and become 'settlers' for the summer months, was by special request discussed at an Institute gathering early in April, and continued again at the May meeting last week.

One of the High School girls, belonging to the senior girls' branch, whose hobby was known to be recognizing the birds as they arrived each spring, keeping a list of them on her 'bird calendar', and studying their songs, habits, nests, etc., throughout the season, was asked to be the speaker.

"How may I make the birds like my garden?" was the opening query in a well-prepared paper, "that is easy; two things both easy obtainable are necessary. One is water, because we have dry summers as you all know, and the other the right kind of shrubs and flowers for our feathered friends. You need not spend a lot of money for a handsome bird bath—just fasten a pan of water on a post so the birds may see all round them when taking a drink, or a bath, in your inviting dish. In our home garden we put the large pan in the hollowed-out stump of a tree that had to be cut down; I painted the stump white, and the edge of the pan that showed over its rim, then trained a bit of vine to run up the support, but of course not to cover the top at all. Do not forget to put a few stones in the bottom of the pan, just a bit below the surface of the water, so even the littlest birds may bathe in comfort.

Now for the flowers and shrubs. Gadiola, and petunias, which have deep, open heads, will always bring that 'lovellest thing on wings' the dainty humming-bird to your garden; last season we had such a number of these visit us during the summer, and how we did revel in their beautiful coloring. Cup-shaped flowers will also attract birds like the warblers and chipping sparrows that are valuable because they destroy such a number of insects that collect in these blossoms; I have seen them spend hours in this search in our garden once these deep flowers were in bloom.

Nearly everyone knows how to invite a pair of wrens to be your summer guests, simply by placing a box on tree, fence or even garage wall, or if you prefer on one of the verandah posts. We covered our boxes with cedar bark, and do not forget that the secret of having these interesting visitors is to make the entry opening not more than one inch high and wide. No nesting pair of Jennies can resist such an invitation.

Have you invited a pair of robins to make their home with you this season? We use the method of having a piece of suet tied high enough on our clothes line post to be out of the reach of prowling pussies. Then when we saw Robin Redbreast and his mate looking about for a place to begin housekeeping, we put chicken wire round the trunk of the tree they chose, just below the first branches, leaving it at the top like an open umbrella; this will discourage cats from trying to interfere in the family life when the young birds arrive. One of my joys is to watch the father robin educating his young son on our lawn, in all lines of bird etiquette, later in the season when we have the pleasure of knowing the little robins have had their chance to grow, wandering cats not having robbed the nest in the days when nestlings were continually calling for more fat worms to their busy parents.

Nearly all birds need grit to help them digest their food, and we keep a pile of gravel and ground shells in our backyard always; shells we bring from the lake or river shore when stopping for a swim any time in the season; or when picnicking at some lakeside resort. Then I hang a half cocoanut shell on the end of tree branch, put a bit of suet inside, or a bone with some meat attached, (be careful to have this where puss will not climb, and how we have laughed at times at the amusing antics of chickadees, and their 'tomboy' play, together with their cheerful calls, at almost any hour of the day all season."

The simple and practical talk brought a warm vote of thanks at its conclusion.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

Like making thin people plump, one would assume if dietetics were an exact science it would be merely a mathematical proposition to make fat people thin.

And so, indeed, it has been pronounced within recent years by a number of observers. From a number of clinics have come reports that in spite of all the many factors which enter into the production of over-weight, it is possible to reduce obesity entirely by limiting diet.

This is, indeed, a somewhat revolutionary doctrine, both so far as popular opinion and scientific estimate has been concerned. Popular opinion, in the expression of people who are overweight, is insistent on the fact that fat people do not really eat more than thin people, but the contrary, that they have a tendency to be fat and nothing they can do in the way of diet can help them.

Scientific opinion has pointed out that the deposition of fat occurs when some of the ductless glands become diseased, especially the thyroid and the pituitary glands. And that even without definite evidence of disease of either of these glands there is an unknown factor, just as the overweight people themselves claim, which tends to keep them overweight. In other words, they use all of their food in greater proportion than normal people.

In spite of this evidence, the mathematical dietitians to whom I have referred, are able to show that all fat persons, no matter what the condition of their ductless glands or other unknown factors, can be reduced if they take a diet low enough in caloric value. I have studied their tables in considerable detail and while I must be convinced of the validity of their results, it seems to me that they do not entirely prove the thesis advanced and certainly they are far from practical.

In support of this we find that it is possible to reduce overweight individuals, but only when they are on a diet with an intake of 360 calories a day. This, of course, is a starvation diet and could only be carried out, human nature being what it is, in an institution. Besides which, as soon as the patient leaves the institution it would seem evident that he would be so hungry that he would immediately increase the diet and slip back to the condition in which he originally was.

Besides the question of total intake, there is no question that certain articles of diet are definitely fattening. It used to be supposed that the starches and sugars were predominant in this respect, but today we are inclined to believe that the fats are even more potent.

My old friend, Dr. Adrian Gibbs lists eight articles of food—butter cream, fat meat, fried foods, nuts, oils, pastries and ice cream. "If you will avoid these," he says, "you will lose weight." It should be emphasized that the dieter must obey instructions implicitly, must not cheat, but must refrain from any part of all the eight articles listed. Certainly people whom I have seen who have tried this method make it evident to me that it is worth the experiment.

"The Shin Dig", as the T. O. B. Class christened their dance at the Conservatory of Music hall last evening, was one of the jolliest and most informal of the many happy parties of the season. It was an extremely successful affair at which every guest appeared to have a thoroughly good time with no dull moments, and the decorations and general carrying out of the arrangements were original and hilarious. Over two hundred young people gathered in the big hall in rural outfits, the girls in gingham overalls and short dresses and big hair bows she men in a great variety of old clothes, high trousers, red bandanna neckerchiefs and straw "cow breakfast" hats. The decorations of the big hall were of the farm type also, with plenty of hay and straw, loose and in stooks, and bales of straw that formed the orchestra stand, along with bags of vegetables that flanked the piano, which was placed against the north wall instead of on the stage. Flags and pennants decorated the walls and the electroliers were covered with big 'pumpkin' shades. A further rural touch was afforded by the use of huge cartwheels that leaned against the wall. Music that suited the gay, informal quality of the event was played by a skilful trio, Andy Rutter at the bass viol, Stan Northrop playing the piano, and George Gatfield, the violin. During the evening, a 'floor show' contributed to the jollity of the gathering. Verne Lillow sang, Bert Jones did a step dance, and the Misses Isabel Duffus and Thelma Buller provided some of their clever tap dances. A prize for the best pair of costumes with two little live white rabbits as the awards, went to Miss Marion Harvey and Mr. Philip Amys. Between eleven and twelve o'clock some of the exuberent dancers embarked on a parade led by a horse and buggy, followed by a democrat and three farm wagons, covered with hay and straw. Singing and laughing, the revellers made they way about the central part of the city, the old horses plodding cheerfully along, in step with the celebration. Those present at the dance included Mr. and Mrs. Homer Borland, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Brown, the Misses Doreen Elliott, Frances Dawson, Dorothy Finnie, M. Mary Pickford Triumphantly Returns To City Of Birth

Twenty years ago she left Toronto unheralded and unsung. Now Mary Pickford has come back to the city of her birth after triumphs on the screen and stage of the United States—triumphs that gave her the name "America's Sweetheart." Thousands upon thousands of Toronto folk lined the streets to see her as she returned to a civic reception, dinners, banquets and all that goes with them. It was a case of Toronto going Mary Pickford for a day. The layout above shows the tremendous throng that greeted Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks at the city hall. LEFT signing the register and Mayor William J. Stewart's autograph book. RIGHT, smiling her greeting to the mass. Seldom has a visitor to Toronto been accorded the welcome given this idol of the screen.

"WILD CARGO"

Frank Buck gives us another of his thrilling demonstrations of courage in the jungle. This time, the scene is the Malay Peninsula, and the contest between human intelligence and animal cunning generally results in a loss for the latter. At least, the picture gives us only the triumphant episodes. Even when Mr. Buck tangles up with a huge python, he emerges successfully and goes on to new triumphs.

It looks so easy. All you have to do, apparently, is to bait a trap with bananas and wait for a white gibbon to tumble in. Monkeys with "Eddie Cantor eyes" come in an Aesop Fable fashion, when you sprinkle rice in an empty cocoanut shell. And a tapir loves tapioca.

There are many dangerous moments and the thrills come swiftly. The audience watches with rapt attention while the story of the jungle unfolds itself.

Here are wise old decoy elephants herding tame animals into a corral; here are the vampire bats that "Dracula" made familiar. (But even that picture never gave us so close a view of these ghastly things with their screaming mouths). And here is the ferocious leopard, and the queer cassowary and the funny pair of wrestlers, a honey bear and a little monkey.

A fight to the death between a leopard and a python is a high point in the picture, which teems with queer animal cries, coughs and grunts, and queerer native cries.

There are illustrated also some of the ways in which these wild things are captured. A palm tree, a string leading to a concealed trigger, and a harmless chicken, spell the end of freedom for a murderous spotted leopard. A shallow pit enables the intrepid hunter to capture a man-eating tiger, and a limb shot from beneath his tree perch sends a coveted white gibbon hurtling into the net below.

Many curious animals are here; the white water buffalo, fiercest animal of the jungle; the tremendous man-like orang-outang; the python that has just swallowed a pig; the mouse deer, tiny and defenceless; the scaly, tree-climbing ant-eater, the Indian rhinoceros, ugly as a creature seen in a nightmare.

Section Of Canal Opened Immediately

The Lakefield-Fenelon Falls section of the Trent Canal is to be opened immediately, while the opening of other sections of the waterway is to be postponed probably until the end of this month or early in June, according to announcement made this morning by E. A. Peck, K.C., M.P.

Asked why the Lakefield-Fenelon Falls section was being opened, while other sections of the waterway are to remain closed after the normal time for re-opening them has expired, Mr. Peck stated, figures kept by the Department showed that the two outlets of the canal and other sections in between are not used as extensively at this time of the year, as the section which is to be opened un.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Dressing tables are coming in for their share of novelty in the coming styles in furniture of which I wrote a few days ago. The term dressing table is literally true. It is not a modified bureau with glass attached, but is actually a table with separate mirror. The dressing tables as instanced in the new vogue are distinctive, having little in common with those which are featured sporadically.

• • • • • • •

The modern dressing table is modelled on the knee-hole library desk. It has the long table top with sets of drawers down each side and the shallow drawer across the front, above the open space for the knees which space is responsible for the name knee-hole table desk or dresser as the case may be.

• • • • • • •

There are from seven to nine drawers in the knee-hole dressing table. While none are very wide except the shallow top one, they are deep, supplying ample and suitable drawer space. The top drawer will hold toilet accessories, conveniently at hand. If one of the lower drawers is devoted to shoes, others to lingerie, hosiery and the accessories of the costume which always find their place in dresser or bureau drawers, the knee-hole dresser fills both bureau and dressing table requirements with the added accomodations for footwear.

• • • • • • •

The top of the dresser is apt to be covered with glass. This is an excellent idea as it permits the beauty of the polished wood to show and at the same time protects it. When using cosmetics and toilette lotions, which may stain or mar if spilled, it is satisfactory to know there is protection against damage through such mishaps.

• • • • • • •

The mirror deserves special attention, for although it is no part of the dresser, it is an imperative adjunct to it. Modified classic types are in keeping with the new vogue, and are distinctly suitable.

• • • • • • •

The incoming vogue of knee-hole dressers, plays into the hands of the homemaker who has a library table of the description given, and who needs a new dressing table. She can transform the desk into the dresser easily. The top must be given special attention. Baize or felt tops, so customary in old-style desks of this sort, are out of keeping with dressers. The wood must be laid bare and be polished. Do not attempt to make the desk decorative. It must have dignity to suit the new vogue. Do not have a linen cover, or one of any textile. Fit the top with glass beveled at edges to make them smooth. Hang a mirror above the desk so positioned that the light is good on the glass when the person sits before the dresser.

• • • • • • •

If the bench before the dresser is not too long it will slip under it, in the knee-hole space as will a chair, except for the back when that is too high. This arrangement is compact making the dresser take up the minimum space.

TWENTY-SIX YEARS OF ENERGY AND BUSINESS EXPANSION

Results in One of the Finest Furniture Stores in Whole Province.

HOME FURNISHING CO. CELEBRATES

It is a pleasure to record in brief the upward climb of another Peterborough boy, whose faith in his own home town has been rewarded by considerable expansion in his business undertaking. We refer to Mr. Harry Florence, the popular and genial managing director of the Home Furnishing Company, whose magnificent furniture emporium on Charlotte street is a credit to this city and a monument to the energy and enterprise of its creator, Mr. Florence.

HARRY FLORENCE
Enterprising and capable executive of the Home Furnishing Co.

Better Opportunities Here

Educated in the Peterborough Central School and Peterborough Business College, Mr. Florence at a relatively early age first engaged in the clothing trade for a few years, part of that time operating a store on Simcoe street—the premises now occupied by M. Veneranda. Subsequently he spent eleven months in New York City, but realizing that there were better business opportunities for him in his own Canadian home town, he returned to Peterborough. He then entered the furniture business with his brother, whom he bought out at the expiration of three busy years, when he reorganized the establishment under its present trade name of "The Home Furnishing Company." This was in 1918.

A Handsome Store

This business found its inception at 208 Charlotte street, and with Harry at the helm since 1918 it forged ahead with rapid strides until larger premises were imperative. Consequently two years ago the two adjoining stores to the east were purchase and converted into one of the finest furniture homes in the province. Here spacious and bright and cheerful show rooms display at all times the newest designs in modern house furnishing, which, with their handsome quarters reveal tangible evidence of Harry Florence's business acumen and successful management.

Young in years for so important an executive position, Mr. Florence is to be congraiulated on his progressive business enterprise, and that indomitable courage and resourcefulness, so characteristic of Peterborough's business men in general, that have enabled him to weather the assaults of Old Man Depression—and the furniture trade has, perhaps, during the past four years been hit harder than any other line. In fact, his four-square business dealings and well-met personality have proven and are proving valuable assets in keeping a large clientage on his company's list of appreciative customers despite adverse economic conditions.

Celebrates Birthday

Commencing to-day, Saturday, May 12th, the Home Furnishing is celebrating its 26th anniversary —a quarter of a century, plus one year, at practically the one location. To quote the manager, this birthday observance is taking the shape of bargains that only come once in years—a store-wide offering of history-making values in better makes of furniture—generous savings in appreciation of past and present generous patronage. Credit terms are available, and a feature of this store's deferred payment system is that Mr. Florence has always been found ready with timely sympathy when his patrons encounter rough riding on their life's highway.

MARK ST. Y.P.S. PRESENTS PLAY

Large, Appreciative Audience Sees Presentation of "Mother's Moment."

Under the auspices of the Young People's Society of Mark Street United Church, the play "Mother's Moment" was repeated in the Sunday school auditorium of the church, last evening before an appreciative audience. This entertaining comedy drama in three acts was enacted in splendid style by the following: The Misses Mabel Reynolds, Helen Andrus, Jean Barringer, Mariee Ferguson, Mary Terrace, and Bill Brady, Len Agnew, Mel Hunter, Carlyle Ferguson, Fred Parsons, directed by Mrs. L. Agnew.

Between acts, music was played by Bill Blue and Jack Graham giving "Carolina Moon" and "My Wild Irish Rose," on Hawaiian guitars, with solos by Mr. Blue, in "Hawaiian Love Song" and "Smoke Rings."

Mirthful Playlet Given At Meeting

Mrs. E. Leggett, Westcott Street, was hostess to the members of the King's Own Bible Class of St. James' Sunday School for their May meeting. The devotional period was in charge of the president, Mrs. Rosborough. The 121st Psalm was chosen as the Scriptural lesson, and prayer was offered by Mesdames Rutherford and Manders and Miss Robinson. A brief business session followed, and the meeting given over to program committee, Mrs. L. V. Wood and Mrs. W. Croft, who had arranged a very entertaining evening's activities. A jolly time was spent in games and contests, and the little playlet, "The Minister's Mistake," proved a real mirth-provoker. Mrs. A. Davis and Mrs. B. Pitchford contributed a beautiful sacred solo, "The Christ of the Cross," which was very much enjoyed, while the humorous reading by Mrs. Rowe, "Digesting the newspaper," brought this part of the program to a conclusion.

Dainty refreshments in charge of the social committee were served and a social half-hour enjoyed, and another successful meeting added to the credit of the class.

A hearty vote of thanks tendered the hostess and the other committees by Mesdames Clark and Church was endorsed by all.

The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Wilson, King George Street.

"Cruising trains", which will visit all prominent beauty spots of England and Scotland, are to be run this summer.

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

TODAY MARKS the closing of the earliest spring meeting ever attempted in Canada. Weather conditions were ideal for the week but the business was just so so. Detroit now opens a 130 day session across the river at the Fair Grounds and it is our opinion that this is too lengthy a session to be successful and we would not be greatly surprised if they called quits shortly after the Fourth of July. Most of the horses that have been competing at Kenilworth will go across and Judge Murphy will be the big shot again. He is known in the United States as the Czar of Racing.

× × ×

One week from today and the King's Plate will be down for decision. Horometer and Pitchblende which will run as an entry look like the biggest cinch that ever went to the post in this historic event. But it is upsets that make racing so popular and so fascinating, everybody trying to pick some horse that will beat the favorite. If anything ever combs down on this pair, the age of miracles is not over. Neither one was ever beaten in their racing career, and it would not surprise us greatly if they ran one-two.

× × ×

THE JUMPERS are getting in shape at Woodbine and when you see a hurdle race carded, remember Leadgold is right at home in that department, and his owner expects him to gather in a purse or two at the coming meeting. It was only last year he was converted into a fence hopper and he took to it like a duck to water. Next week there will be no racing in Canada until May 19th when the Woodbine plant at Toronto will throw open its gates to the take-a-chance public.

× × ×

In the Preakness today at Pimlico it is whispered that Cavalcade may be a last minute starter and if he is will be a tough one to beat. . . . . Willie Crump has a nice sprinter over at Churchill Downs called Cherry Time. If you remember Willie never has any dead ones around. It was just a year ago now he sold Head Play on the eve of the Kentucky Derby for thirty grand who knows but that Cherry Time may be another Head Play in the making. At any rate Willie is very proud of him and that should be enough recommendation to climb aboard.

BENNY CHAPMAN has Calgary K at Jamaica and plans to shoot with him right away. The old boy can hold his own with any of them in his class and Lucky Racket is at the same place and looks ready to go places any day now. This one is real good especially in hot weather . . . . Over at Aurora they have a trick called Port O'Play all ready for a killing and when this one is sent in with serious intentions they don't fool. Any distance over a mile is his hobby and at the same track Captain Red is a sure fire winner before many days.

P. DEAN BESTS CARL HUBBELL IN MOUND DUEL

CARDS PASS GIANTS.

(By Canadian Press)

The National League's two extra-inning encounters helped close up the standing when Pittsburgh and St. Louis, both in hot pursuit of the league-leading Cubs, each won out in the 10th. Gus Suhr's homer behind a walk to Arky Vaughan gave the Pirates a 6-4 decision over the Phillies, while the Cardinals nosed out the Giants, 3-2, in a 10-heat pitching duel between Paul Dean and Carl Hubbell when Jack Rothrock singled after a hit, an error, and an intentional pass had loaded the sacks.

The Cubs, meanwhile, took their worst licking of the season from Brooklyn Dodgers after starting out hopefully with a triple play in the first inning. The final count was 13-1 as the Dodgers finished with seven runs off Pat Malone in the eighth.

As a result Chicago remained only half a game and two percentage points in front of the Pirates, who in turn were in a virtual tie with St. Louis.

The fourth National League contest saw Boston Braves blast Benny Frey of Cincinnati for 15 hits, driving him out with four runs in the eighth for an 8-5 victory.

GILBERT NUNNS PLANS TENNIS PLAY COMEBACK

SEEDED VETERAN.

Being out of active competition in tennis most of last year, Gilbert Nunns was not ranked in Canada's first ten. But he plans on giving the game more of his time and he must therefore be considered an important member of the Davis Cup team.

Gilbert Nunns

Nunns was a member of this four years and made a fine showing early last year in international play against United States and Cuba. C. H. Peters says of him:

"Nunns has developed a powerful baseline game that is far better in singles than in doubles. He boasts of probably the hardest and most effective stroke in Canadian tennis, his forehand drive. His whole game is built up around this one weapon and he can drive any ordinary player into the ground in no time through the tactics he has built up to use it to the best advantage. When he is up against a strong internationalist, however, Nunns seems to have too many weaknesses to make him an outstanding player.

"His all-around game has improved steadily in the last few years. Although over six feet tall, Nunns does not take advantage of his height to develop a smashing service but depends solely upon a spin delivery that pulls his opponent out of court and often makes openings for his mighty forehand. Nunns is a good match player. Quiet, and keen on the courts, he has a good temperament for the game and is a good fighter. . . If he can give enough time to tennis from now on to get in his best shape, he should prove a useful man on the 1934 team."

SLOANE'S CAVALCADE ATTEMPT TO ADD CLASSIC TO WIN LIST

Brookmeade Stable to Send High Quest Against Qualified Field.

DISCOVERY RATED HIGH.

(By Orlo Robertson—A.P. Sports Writer).

BALTIMORE, May 12 (A.P.). — Amid surroundings that belied his regal standing among the three-year-olds of the turf, Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Cavalcade awaited to-day the bugle calling him to the post for the 44th running of the $25,000 Preakness.

The nervousness the Kentucky Derby winner displayed upon his arrival from New York yesterday had gone and he was ready to try and add the famous Pimlico classic and its purse of nearly $25,000 to his triumphs.

There was still some question whether Trainer Bob Smith would send Cavalcade to the post, but there was no question as to his fitness. Every indication was, however, that the jovial trainer for Mrs. Sloane's Brookmeade Stable would decide to saddle, not only his famous Derby winner, but the speedy High Quest, with the idea of attempting to finish one, two.

Field of the Best.

Six other three-year-olds, three of them Derby starters, have been selected to dispute the claim of the Sloane stars to supremacy among the division. Not more than five and probably only four, however, are expected to face Starter James Milton at about 5 p.m. (E.S.T.).

Of the half-dozen nominees, Discovery, the colt for which 21-year-old Alfred G. Vanderbilt paid $20,000, and Mrs. Frank J. Heller's great money performer, Agrarian, were rated the best chance of turning back the Brookmeade colts.

The entry of Cavalcade and High Quest was quoted at 4 to 5 in the early wagering, while Discovery was quoted at 4 to 1, and Agrarian at 8 to 1.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, they ain't been a great deal doing in the local sport world this week, the main thing being our senior ball club is beginning to round into shape for the doings ahead. They been having some lively workouts this week, old-timer, with the 1934 infield getting most of the fan attention owing to a 2 or 3 new faces on the same. A lively little fellow by the name Konopka has been galloping round the short field in merry style, and all and sundry expect him to play a lotta short-stop for the Petes this summer, while at 2nd base a big youngster, Mister J. Bud Murray, has been looking good in the workouts and should oughta be a help. At the 1st and 3rd corners our old favorites, Mister F. Ash and Mister I. Batten, is doing nicely, and a newcomer, Mister Houston, late of Milton, is also handling himself like he knows all the answers. All in all, Mac, our ball club looks like it might go places this summer, and it oughta be a enjoyable season for the home town customers.

Under the big tent of baseball, Mac, it has been a interesting week with the best feature, according to yours truly, being Mister Mack's A's capturing a flock of games and giving their selfs quite a boost up the ladder. And the funny part, Mac, is that the Athaletics has been climbing without the aid of the big bat of Mister J. Foxx, who ain't been doing no lusty clouting as yet and who will hafta start pouring the pine in earnest if he has any serious ideas about setting up a new home-run record. However, Mister Foxx can't be kept subdued all the time, and if the resta the lads keep clouting when he gets his club into action, the A's will be tougher to knock off than Dillinger. Meanwhile the Yanks has been going along nicely, and the veteran Mister Ruth at present writing is up at the top of the round trip brigade, which ain't bad for an old boy whose salary has been cut to 35 grand.

Well, Mac, no use wasting good space talking about nothing, so suppose you and me call it a day?

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

LEAFS FALL FROM 3RD PLACE AS BALTIMORE EVENS SERIES

Abernathy's Homer With Bases Full Gives Orioles 8-5 Victory—Eleventh Straight Win For Red Wings—Senators Go Down to Defeat 6-2.

(By The Associated Press)

A smashing clout by Woodley Abernathy, erstwhile southern football star, had temporarily checked Baltimore Orioles' losing streak in the International League and cost Toronto Maple Leafs sole possession of third place.

With two out and the bases loaded yesterday, Abernathy caught hold of one of Bert Cole's deliveries and hoisted the ball over the distant fence in right centre field at Toronto, a smash that enabled the Orioles to win, 8-5. It was only the second home run hit in the Leaf's spacious park and the longest drive seen in the Canadian City this season.

Cole was leading, 5-3, when Abernathy connected for the vital blow in a five-run rally that broke up the ball game. Charley Lucas came in to halt the rally, but the damage had been done.

The defeat dropped Toronto into a tie with the idle Montreal Royals for third place, while Baltimore, by winning, although still in the cellar now, trails Buffalo Bisons by only a half game.

The only other league game played yesterday provided the spot for Rochester Red Wings' 11th consecutive victory, a 6-2 conquest of Albany Senators, who thereby found themselves forced to share fifth place with the Syracuse Stars.

Win For Kleinke

Norbert Kleinke, rookie pitcher from the New York-Pennsylvania League, earned his fourth victory of the year as he gave Albany only six hits and blanked them after the fourth. Jimmy Carithers, who held the Red Wings to two hits and banked them in the first start against them, was the victim of a three-run attack in the first inning, but finished the game, allowing nine safeties. Tommy Carey, with a double and two singles, and Tom Winsett with a home run and a single led Rochester's attack.

Weather conditions forced postponement of the other two scheduled games.

ANTWERP — (C.P.). — J. C. P. Beresford, the English swimmer, won a 100 metres backstroke event in 72 seconds.

Stolen Bases.—Martin, Cardinals, 4; Rothrock, Cardinals, Stainback, Cubs; Piet, Reds, and Frey, Dodgers, 3.

TENNIS STAR IMPROVES FORM

Gilbert Nunns is Rainville's Most Formidable Opponent in Davis Cup Trials.

MARTIN ON TOP.

By ELMER DULMAGE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

TORONTO, May 12. (CP).—The only Canadian who ever downed an American at Davis Cup Tennis, little Marcel Rainville of Montreal, is primed to-day for a comeback to the international court wars. Brown and Keen from weeks of competition in the south, the agile French-Canadian mite is "hot."

After watching him all but blow Laird Watt, one of the better youngsters off the courts here yesterday, critical observers agreed Marcel is very near the peak of his brilliant form. He has been playing in high-grade competition since March, gradually tuning his game for these very tests.

After one day's firing in the round-robin series that will determine Canada's Davis Cup squad to face the United States late this month Gilbert Nunns the Toronto forehand sumasher, remained Rainville's most formidable rival. The No. 1 ranked Walter Martin has already been allotted one singles berth.

Cautious Start

Nunns started his campaign cautiously and conservatively permitting Bob Murray of Montreal, former Canadian junior champion, to make errors rather than turn on any pressure. He won by scores of 6-4, 6-4, 6-4. But Rainville stole the show a couple of hours later.

Pitted against Watt, who last season held the whip hand over Marcel more than once, the Montrealer brought out all his light artillery for the first set and kept it on location until the one-sided affair was over. Marcel won by 6-1, 6-4, 6-0.

Rainville played with fire when he needed fire. For the most part his clean-cut forehand smashes down the sidelines were good enough to make Watt net the ball. Frequently these sharp drives were placements. They were varied with angled shots and short-range spinners.

It was the Rainville who in 1931 brightened up the Canada-United States Davis Cup series b beating Sidney Wood for the only victory the Dominion holds over Uncle Sam in the classic eliminations. There is every prospect he will be better and more brilliant when he needs to be.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer
Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. P.

From Orillia comes a dispatch having to do with one Betty Plews who is in the throes of organizing a gals' lacrosse team. It says in part: "Despite warnings that lacrosse was too rough for girls Betty and her associates went ahead with arrangements and on Thursday night held their first practice with ten candidates seeking positions. Girls' lacrosse if it ever gets past the practice stage, would be very popular here if one can judge from the interest taken in the practise and the size of the crowd present." You're telling us fellah! Certainly it would be popular, but who the deuce warned the lasses that lacrosse was too rough for 'em?

• • • • • • •

Didja ever see a dream walking—for hours across country on a hot July day, or on snowshoes on a sub-zero February day? Well, the dream that was walking—and, no doubt, talking—was a gal, at least half the time! Not that we mean to suggest that a guy is a dream, but our point is that a lot of damsels go in for this hiking biz, and most of 'em can walk the shoes off a man. Or is it that a man is just lazier than the ladies?

• • • • • • •

We'll grant that girls couldn't play as snappy lacrosse—or softball, or any of those game—as men. They can't as a rule run as fast or haven't muscles as well developed as the boy friends, but don't tell us they can't take it! Who wells loudest at a ringside for torrid action in rasslin' or fighting, and who screams loudest at an exciting moment in any sport? And who wants the umpire's scalp most when he robs the home team at a crucial moment? That's right, the gentle-looking little blonde two rows back, or the motherly-looking lady to your left. Remember that St. Mike's-Pete' junior hockey game here last winter, and young Smith of the Saints who sort of made a monkey at times out of our boys with his beautiful stalling tactics? Well, a damsel from our office, a good-natured pleasant lass, told us next day: "I was so angy at that little sneak for stalling that I could have choked him to death!" So, lacrosse is too rough for gals, eh?

• • • • • • •

We got a complimentary copy of a new magazine yesterday, one called, "Jack Dempsey's Fight Magazine." And this week's Colliers, in an article on the forgotten man, the sparring partner in boxing, has some more to say on Dempsey—who is just as colorful copy for writers now as when he was champ. The piece tells of how the big black scrapper, George Godfrey—who rassled at the Brock here three years ago—was sparring partner for Jack before the Gibbons' fight. Godfrey was good then, and the first while after his layoff, Dempsey had trouble boxing him. Godfrey even floored him one day, and later that evening boasted of it to his negro friends. Next day in the training ring, Jack strode over to Godfrey and told him he knew of this boast and warned Godfrey to lick him (Jack) if he could or take a licking. "A half minute later," it states, "they were lifting the apple-green Godfrey into his corner, and that night they helped him onto a train headed East. A doctor had spent the interim strapping up three ribs Dempsey had fractured with a body smash that sounded like somebody dropping a box full of glass!" George would never again get into the same ring as the Manassa Mauler. Somehow we don't blame him.

Belleville senior baseball officers have rejected the proposed triple schedule and want a quadruple one, pointing out that there is plenty of time for it and they want more games. We imagine most of the local officers will agree with them and also want a quadruple one.

St. Peter's School will enter a bantam baseball team in the City League this summer, we were told yesterday. Rev. Dr. Masterson will run it. This is excellent news and it's beginning to look like a good bantam section and a lot of youngsters learning a real game this summer. If some of the service clubs would come across now, all would be hunky-dory. Down at King Edward School, they're thinking of putting one in, also, and we hope they see their way clear. The league will supply good managers for any schools that are interested in putting a squad in this loop, if the teachers want it this way.

E.P.L. goes into a huddle this fine e'en at eight down in Duffus' and officers and team representatives should sashay around. It'll be cut short so the lads can still keep their Saturday night dates. Cogs, C.G.E. and Fosters are in now, and they hope to have Raybestos or some other club tonight. With the weather getting around toward warmer stuff, and the players honing to get out on the diamond again, things'll move fast in the E.P.L. from now on.

We see by the papers that a girl named Mary Pickford is having herself a time in Toronto these days. Civic reception banquets and what not. Besides being at one time a pretty good actress, she was born in Toronto so what more does the mayor and his buddies need as an excuse for dusting off the civic welcome-mat? This is all very nice and no doubt Toronto is sort of glad to see Mary visit the old home town again—even if Mary is over here to put on a show and make some more dough, and even if she can't get over as often as she might what with her hubbies and doing a movie nearly every year—but we'd like to see hizzoner spread it around a bit. Jean Harlowe also got quite a hand up there a year or so ago, but what about Komonen, great runner who did plenty for Canada in international competition, but couldn't get a hamburger in Toronto, let alone a banquet? And a dozen other noted athletes all sports fans know about. We guess pulchritude gets the nod over athletic ability.

Miscues Costly as Red Sox Lose 11-inning Decision 6-5 to Cleveland Indians.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.—A.P. Sports Writer).

The greatest array of extra inning games that the major leagues have produced so far this season to-day had the fans wondering whether competition had suddenly become keener or if the stronger clubs merely had let down a trifle for one day.

Of yesterday's eight major league contests, no fewer than five went 10 or more innings, and the greatest of these overtime battles was the one which saw New York Yankees, American League leaders, beat out the last-place Chicago White Sox 7-6 in 14 heats.

The pale hose, playing like a brand new team, came back after the Yanks had built up a 5-0 lead with the aid of Ben Chapman's first inning homer with two on, drove Harry Smythe to cover and tied the score with four tallies in the eighth after wildness had forced Danny Macfayden off the hill. They finally went down after Whit Wyatt, the relief pitching workhorse, had hurled five hitless innings when Earl Combs clouted a triple and Sam Byrd singled him in.

RAINVILLE DOES LITTLE IN YEAR

But Frenchman Makes Best Showing When Odds Are Against Him.

It's very doubtful whether Marcel Rainville of Montreal will make Canada's Davis Cup team this year. The French tennis star is now over thirty and hasn't done much with the racquet the past year. C. H. Peters, in the Montreal Gazette, says about him: "Anyone who counts Marcel Rainville off this year's team for these reasons is making a grave mistake. They are counting without Rainville who in the past made his best showings when the odds against him seemed greatest....As a matter of fact, Rainville might beat them all in one last effort.

"But with his style of game, it is necessary to run miles in every match, and as one grows older one's legs do not respond with the same speed and surety. Rainville is finding this out, and he must be prepared to take more and more beatings if he continues to play tournament tennis from now on. It just remains to be seen whether he can make a strong come-back this spring.

"If Rainville is in the form that carried him to the top a couple of years ago, he will be useful to the team in both singles and doubles, as he had plenty of experience in each. Montrealers will not soon forget that it was Rainville who won the only match a Canadian has ever taken from the U.S. in Davis Cup play when he downed Sidney B. Wood in 1931."

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

The condition of most courses in early spring must be taken into consideration. For example, you are allowed to tee up through the fairways where winter rules are followed.

This protects the turf and aids the player who finds his ball in a cuppy lie.

The best of fairways are bound to be bumpy after being covered with snow. The same roughness will be found on most greens.

It's too early to use a heavy roller on the putting surfaces to make them smooth so the player should make the best of the temporary inconvenience.

Instead of trying to hole long putts, simply strive to stop your ball close to the cup.

AMERICAN WALKER CUP TEAM ASSUMES LEAD AT HALF-WAY MARK IN OLD COUNTRY TESTS

W. Lawson Little Alone Shoots Part Golf in Driving Rain Storm To-day.

JOHNNY GOODMAN LEADS.

Dunlap, Hard Pressed, Manages to Finish First 18 Holes One Up on Opponent.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 12 (AP)—Featuring the phenomenal play of W. Lawson Little of San Francisco, who was alone in his ability to shoot par golf in the rain to-day, the Walker Cup golf team of United States assumed the lead in five out of eight singles matches with the British forces, at the half-way stage.

At the 18-hole mark in the all-day 36-hole battle, the British held advantages in two matches, while the remaining contest was all square.

The situation buttressed chances of United States of keeping the Walker Cup for the eighth straight time, inasmuch as the United States entered to-day's final play with a 3 to 1 lead gained in the foursomes.

Little was four up at the end of the morning round over burly Cyril Tolley, former British amateur champion.

Dunlap Hard Pressed

George T. Dunlap Jr., of New York, the United States amateur titleholder, was hard-pressed but managed to finish the first 18 holes one up on Jack McLean, youthful Scotch star.

Johnny Goodman of Omaha, United States open golf champion, was two up on the Hon. Michael Scott, 56-year-old British amateur titleholder, after the first 18 holes of their match.

Francis Outmet, of Boston, captain of the American forces, was three up on Leonard Crawley at the end of the first round.

Eric Fiddian, 24-year-old Briton, finally broke through for the home side to become one up on Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati, making his first Walker Cup start, as they completed the first 18 holes.

T. A. (Tony) Torronce, British veteran of many a Walker Cup joust, was one up in his match with Max Marston of Philadelphia over the morning route.

Gus Moreland of Dallas, Texas, was all even with Sam McKinlay at the half-way stage of the remaining singles match.

ST. JOHN'S BEATEN 32-11.

Under cover of darkness last night, Trinity Seniors slipped across ten runs in the last inning of their Church Softball League game and defeated Knox, 14-5. It was tied at 4-all when the dusky final frame arrived. Hayes and Mattice did some good hitting and Ridyard clouted three homers. Wedlock pitched well for Knox til lthe last inning, fanning a bunch. Ward was steady and strong, too. Both Charlton and Wedlock were dangerous hitters. The teams:

Trinity: Holdgate, ss; McFadden, 1b; Nicholls, 2b; Ridyard, 3b; Ward, p; Morrow, lf; Clark, lf; Hayes, rf; Mattice, c; Gadd, cf.

Knox.—Gatfield, 2b; Allen, ss; Wedlock, p; B. Masters, c; G. Masters, of; McDonald, 3b; Charlton, rf; Smythe, lf; Morrison, 1b.

Too Much for St. John's

St. James' Juniors smacked St. John's down, 32-11, in a cold and somewhat hilarious encounter. Mowry's pitching and B. Leggett's and English's hitting were outstanding for the winners. St. James.—Heal, 2b; McGoverin, 1b; Mowry, p; Ridley, lf; B. Leggett, c; English, 3b; Smart, cf; Grose, rf; S. Leggett, ss.

Umpires—H. Charlton and N. Viarelli.

A 32-14 Victory

All Saints took a 32-14 win over Knox Bantams, snaring 14 runs in the fifth inning and looking much better throughout. Abraham and Morley turned in some smart play, with Beggs and Smythe the main Knox hitters. The teams:

Park Street Bantams vs. St. John's at Queen Mary. Trinity Bantams vs. St. James at King Edward. Knox Bantams vs. Mark Street, at the Quaker diamond. King George School Takes 26-9 Setback

One Softball League game was played yesterday an dthe other one postponed due to chilly weather. The King Edward-Queen Mary fixture was postponed, while Prince of Wales took the visiting King George team into camp, 26 to 0. Despite the cold weather, there were flashes of smart ball dished up, with the homesters having an edge most of the way. They got three homers while the other side got one, and the Princes tallied ten runs in a big sixth fram. The Easterners' fielding was good. Jay put the last three batters out in order. The batteries:

King George: Cooper and Scriver.

Prince of Wales: Jay and A. Campbell.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Alma Cupoli,
529 Elm St., City.

The handwriting with its uneven outlines and slight pressure, indicates a keen, quick, receptive mind, not given to care much about detail or routine. In fact anything of that nature bores you terribly. Your method seems to be to do everything quickly and get 'off your mind' and also out of sight. You really do want to succeed, but you will have to slow down and do a lot of real, honest thinking and planning before you. You are sometimes a little quick tempered and people think that you are sarcastic. This is because of your highly strung sensitive nerves. Your moods and spasmodic temper also lead others to believe your 'cutting.' You are the possessor of an agile mind and seem to know just the right thing to say at the right time in order to get yourself out of a 'scrape.' Friendliness and good humor are your greatest attributes. You are rather too apt to be impulsive in your generosity when you have the most necessary wherewith-all. Your sign is Cancer the Crab. Ruled by the Moon. February and September are your best months. Monday the lucky day. Your number is three.

Frances Collins,
R.R. No. 1, Omemee, Ont.

Your handwriting for analysis many interesting characteristics. It shows that you are versatile and humorous. You are perhaps inclined to be a little too impulsive, and over-generous. As a rule your disposition is happy-go-lucky. You appear to be friendly and pleasant, but there are times when you resent intrusion into your private affairs. You are quite demonstrative, and always try to show how deeply you appreciate a kindness, or enjoy a favor. Although you are appreciative, you find that there are times when something holds you back, and practically makes you powerless to say, or do the things that you feel necessary in order to show your appreciation. You will notice that at these times, you are mentally depressed, or over-tired, and that is really the reason that you cannot express yourself in words or actions. The real you is kind, loving, and faithful. Your birthsign is Gemini The Twins. You are ruled by Mercury. April and August are your most fortunate months. Friday the lucky day. Your number is five.

Constance M. Downes,
488 Murray St., City.

Your handwriting reveals a keen intelligent and instructive mind. People of your trustworthy type are usually artistic and creative. They generally acquire the ability to manage business, write as journalists, or organize systems for others to execute because they dislike routine and detest detail themselves. You are highly intuitive and have a desire to be independent. You are tenacious and progressive, but not always correct or as careful in your decisions as you might be, due to haste in arriving at conclusions. Some of your letters which are more rounded than the others, suggest musical ability. Your long expressive crossing which disports itself through the letter 't' shows strong will-power and determination, but you will have to practice great care, in order not to let this characteristic make you stubborn. Your disposition is subject to change very often, and so, sometimes you are not very sure of yourself. Your lucky number is eight. Your birthsign is Virgo the Virgin. You are ruled by Mercury. Wednesday is your best day. February and November the most fortunate months.

Caroline Caruthers,
R.R. No. 1 Peterborough ,Ont.

Your handwriting for analysis, portrays a vivid personality. You are actually what one might term 'alive with ideas'. You are individual in taste and manner. You appear to be instantaneous in thought, energetic, diplomatic and most intelligent. Designing ability is noted in the manner in which you cross your letter 't' with deliberation There is also a noteworthy artistic tendency which should lend intrigue to your already charming personality. The formations of your small letters in the signature significantly express the right which you hold as typically yours, to withdraw your opinion at any time, on any subject, if you feel that a better idea presents itself. You are quite conservative in your methods and in your thoughtful consideration of others. Your power of discernment is keen, and your imagination is well developed. You are persistent and persevering. Secretive as regards personal affairs, polite, agreeable and well poised. Three is your number. Libra the Balance is your birthsign. You are ruled by Venus. Friday is your best day. August and December the most fortunate months.

For Sunday, May 13

Sunday's horoscope holds testimony of very active and encouraging literary or cultural pursuits, although it may not be found to further the plans and hopes of ecclesiastics. There may be impediments, obstacles and the unfriendliness of superiors or those in authority. It is a time for success with writings.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which certain angles of business will thrive through clever agreements or wise contracts. All pertaining to writings, publicity or promotions should thrive, although generally stubborn obstacles, impediments or frustrating circumstances must be combatted. Be careful not to offend superiors or those in power or authority.

A child born on this day may be intellectual, brilliant alert and versatile, but may be beset by certain frustrations in life, making employment difficult.

For Monday, May 14

Monday's astrological forecast accents the social, artistic, domestic and sentimental side of affairs rather than the commonplace or sordid. The energies will likely be centered on friendship, pleasure and purely personal interests. In these, however, there is some danger of money loss as well as deceit or treachery. Be on guard. There may be a short journey or minor change.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves inclined to the pursuit of pleasure or to purely personal activities or avocations rather than business during the year. In all contacts be on guard against treachery and secret enmity and also safeguard the financial interests. A minor change or journey is presaged.

A child born on this day may be gentle, confiding, sensitive, friendly, loving, but inclined to the mysterious and secret things of life.

DUST COVERS NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, May 11 (C.P.). — An enormous dust cloud laid a gritty yellow pall over almost the entire north-eastern part of the United States to-day.

Sifting eastward through the higher atmosphere to becloud New York's skyscrapers in sickly yellow haze, the vast dust blanket stretched nearly 1,500 miles westward to the banks of the Mississippi, southward to Washington, and north to parts of the Canadian border.

TOPNOTCH TENNIS

IN LEARNING RACQUET GRIP STARS USE "SHAKE HANDS" WITH HANDLE, SAYS EXPERT IN FIRST ARTICLE OF NEW TENNIS SERIES

How to Attain It

By JACK LIPPERT
Central Press Canadian Writer

Most first-class tennis players nowadays use the grip that has long been known as the eastern grip or "shake hands" grip, to differentiate it from what was, until just a few years ago, an almost equally popular grip—the western grip.

When Little Bill Johnston and Big Bill Tilden had their famous duels for world tennis supremacy back in the 1920's it was a clear-cut battle, as far as grips and geography was concerned, between the east and the west.

Little Bill, height 5 feet 8½ inches, hailed from San Francisco, Cal., and gripped his racquet with his hand pretty much around and under the handle, and used the same face of the racquet for striking both forehands and backhands.

Most young players who take up tennis without receiving any advice about grips usually retain their forehand underslung grip and twist their arm around to hit backhands off the same face of the racquet.

This is the easiest way out, and unless someone suggests that a sounder and more graceful backhand can be developed by giving the racquet handle a one-eighth turn in the hand, the player is likely to go on with his twisted western backhand, until the stroke becomes so fixed and conditioned that he will never be willing to make the change even when he does learn that the eastern style has undeniable advantages over the western.

Western Grip Rarely Seen

Nowadays the western grip is rarely seen among the tournament players. I mean the western grip which calls for hitting the backhand off the opposite face of the racquet. Virtually no tennis coach starts out his young players with the western grip.

The accompanying photographs show the eastern grip, front and rear views. Photographs of the western grip, with additional comment on this style, will appear with the next article.

The eastern grip, now regarded as orthodox in Canada and the United States (in England, continental Europe, Japan and China the grips vary) is for beginners and many advanced players, much stronger off the forehand than the backhand.

This is because the forehand has the hand behind (supporting) the stroke, while in the backhand the hand, though turned around slightly to a position on top of the handle, is not fully buttressing the stroke.

Some beginners, but hardly any advanced players, place the thumb up the handle (see lowest photograph) to give their weak backhand support. This photograph is, of course, the rear view of the grip. The stroke would be taken in a direction away from the reader.

"Shake Hands" Style

The top photograph shows the hand coming down to grip the racquet eastern "shake hands" style. The next photograph shows the grip clinched. This is a good place on the handle for beginners to take hold. To hold it up the handle, that is, choke it, any further than this is not recommended, even for beginners, who should accustom themselves and condition their wrists to the long grip as soon as possible. The great players—Tilden, Vines, Frank Shields, Henri Cochet, Lester Stoefen and others—and most players of any experience, use even a longer grip than that shown here, with the leather piece at the end of the handle touching the "heel" of the hand.

The photograph, centre, is a view of the forehand next below is the backhand seen from the rear. In a later article I will have slow motion movies to show the turning of the hand in its shift from the eastern forehand grip to the eastern backhand. This involves about a one-eighth of a turn of the hand counter-clockwise, while the racquet is being supported by the left (non-swinging) hand.

YEARS TAKE THEIR TOLL AS OLD TIMERS PASS IN EMPIRE SPORTS

Casualties in Ranks Place Many Favorites of 1930 on Sidelines in 1934.

PERCY WILLIAMS THROUGH

By ELMER DULMAGE,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

There won't be very many of the old brigade back for competitive purposes when the athletes of the Commonwealth gather in London this summer for the second renewal of the British Empire Games. Four years have taken a stiff toll of champions.

London will see such celebrated trackmen as Lord Burghley, Percy Williams, Tom Hampson, Alex. Wilson, Johann Viljoen and Reggie Thomas—but they'll be strung along the sidelines. Burghley, his Olympic title gone, has retired so that he can give his undivided attention to parliamentary duties.

The fair-haired young man the world called "His Hurdling Highness" when he was the champion of them all will never be far from the White City Stadium during the games, however, for Burghley is an official of the British Organizing Committee. Williams and Wilson will be with the Canadian team.

Hampson, the school master—he looks like one, too—will be somewhere in the stands and gravely watch his 880 yards title go by default. It probably won't bother the tall, bespectacled young man in the least. His career was short. He didn't start to run until he was 22 and five years later he had won all there was to win.

At the Amsterdam Olympic Games in 1928, Hampson was a not-very-interested onlooker. He had never competed in track and even the twin sprint triumph of the youthful Williams left him pretty cold. A 100 yards dash—"Well, there's nothing you can get your teeth in," he complains, "that's all. The runners start and suddenly it's all over."

Then he saw the great Douglas Lowe for the first time. In defence of the Olympic 800 metres title he won four years before, Lowe ran a brilliant international field into the ground, set a new world record, sent the old Union Jack up to the mast head. He unconsciously named his successor that day.

The gangling Hampson was completely thrilled and he went back to England to run. He started at the half mile and they couldn't have made him run any other distance. Canada first saw Long Tom two years later with the British team at the Hamilton Empire Games.

Hampson's two greatest victories were at the expense of Alex. Wilson, the blonde Montreal flyer. At the Hamilton games the Briton timed his sprint to perfection and thundered down the stretch a full two yards ahead of the Canadian. At the tape he still led by a yard.

The two met again after a two-year lapse in the Olympic 800 metres final. This time Hampson had to shatter the world record to beat off Wilson by inches. Perhaps they were the greatest half-milers of their day, mightier finishers than California's Ben Eastman, the dusky Phil Edwards or any of them.

The chances are none of the 1930 Empire champions will repeat, though J. W. Savidan, black-haired New Zealand veteran, will certainly start as favorite in the six miles. Thomas, who ran a 4:14.2 mile at Hamilton, is virtually out of competition; the colorful Viljoen of South Africa, hurler-jumper-weightman-sprinter, is not competing.

They'll just meet around and talk over the first Commonwealth carnival that Bobby Robinson staged in his home town.

NECESSITY OF DREAMS, IDEALS IN LIFE TOLD TO YOUNG PEOPLE

A. H. Cuttle of Toronto, Addresses First Annual A.Y.P. A. Banquet at Warkworth.

FINE PROGRAM.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 12. — The necessity of ideals in our everyday life, and the part they play in the building up of character, was the basis of the theme of a splendid address given by A. H. Cuttle, a prominent Anglican layman of Toronto, when he addressed the first annual banquet of the Anglican Young People's Association, of Warkworth on Wednesday evening, a function that was well attended and featured by two short addresses by presidents of kindred organizations. Miss Dorothy White of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Y.P.S. and Miss Jean Walker of St. Paul's Y.P.S.

The rector, Rev. T. H. Floyd of Campbellford, filled the chair for the occasion, which was marked by the appearance of a birthday cake, upon which reposed one candle, the symbol of the beginning of growth for the organization in this centre.

Mr. Cuttle's talk was based on the fact that ideals were necessary in every day living, the actual things of life being the result of ideals formed in life. Dreams were the actual castles upon which facts and events materialize. "Our wishes" he said, "were the foredreams of our capabilities." So many thought that wishes were only wishes, with no possibilities, but if we follow the lead of our wishes we can build on them solid facts.

This was seen, the speaker pointed out, in the great Bank of Commerce building in Toronto, which originated in the mind of one man. He dreamed it, and the result of his dream was the labor and the expenditure, the creation of work, which resulted in it. And so in the building of life. From the dream we put together the things necessary and upon which we can build a character, a spiritual edifice.

This was seen, both in the worlds of men and women. The Wright Brothers dreamed of flying, and although people laughed at them, they built on their dream with the result that to-day flying is an accepted fact, an actuality.

Mary Slessor, working in a weaving room of an English factory, dreamed of foreign lands, and the lack of education among the peoples there, and by her dreams she became an educational leader in Africa, so much so that she guided the mind of the educational policy of the British Government in Africa.

And so with all of us, Mr. Cuttle said. No matter how lowly, if we put our wishes and ideals into our every day living, we can build a Christian life, a life of service, which is the most important of all. No one is too old to dream, he said. "Things have come to pass from dreams, when people have set out to make their dreams possible."

The following fine program was presented: Welcome of the guests, by Richard Highman; solo, Edith Allman; recitation, Harry Brooks; duet, R. Highman and Matt Allman; speech, Miss Dorothy White, piano solo, Miss Amy McNeilly; reading, Matt Allman; speech, Miss Jean Walker; solo, Leslie Tolery, recitation, in broad Yorkshire, R. Highman. A vote of thanks to the guest speaker was sponsored by Miss Amy Meneilly.

At the conclusion of the evening, the Rev. Mr. Floyd thanked all who had helped to make the affair a success, including all the artists, and those taking part, and all those who had helped to make a recent play, produced in Warkworth, a success, which had been staged under the very able direction of Mrs. William Mowat.

HOUSEWIVES TO RETURN TO SCHOOL

Cooking Classes to be Held in Opera House Next Week.

Peterborough housewives will return to school next week, not to resume studies in the three R's but to learn new and easier ways of cooking. The Canadian First Cooking School will conduct classes in the Grand Opera House next Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings.

The cooking school will be under the direct supervision of Miss Jay Margaret Laws,a graduate in household science and arts of the Columbia University, who for the past eight years has been advising women of simplified recipes for cooking, new ways of reaching the heart of man. Miss Laws will be assisted by Miss Cathleen Watson, a graduate of McDonald Hall, Guelph.

"The women of Canada are most interested in practical recipes than in fancy cooking," said Miss Laws, in conversation with an Examiner scribe. "I find that the women know how to cook but they do appreciate suggestions of practical recipes. They cannot afford the six and eight egg cakes but show interest in modern methods."

Each day of the school baskets of groceries will be given away and at the end of the course a Hostess Electric Refrigerator will be presented to some lucky woman.

Doors open at 8.30 o'clock a.m. begins at 9.30 o'clock a.m.

Bridgenorth

Miss Lily Udy, who has spent the Winter in London with her brother, has returned to Bridgenorth for the Summer; as also have Mr. and Mrs. C. Telford and Mrs. Leen.

The floating bridge, while lacking some four feet of being together, is now by means of a detour being used for traffic to and from Ennismore. Garner Nicholls has several men employed in getting the bridge into its proper condition again after the ice jam broke it a few weeks ago.

Men are now working on the Chemong Road, cutting the hills at the Baptist Church and near Mr. Robinson's, just outside the village.

Mr. Len Forsythe is busily engaged these days in the erection of a new house, next to the school grounds.

Rev. C. C. and Mrs. Miller spent a couple of days this week renewing old friendship at Wilfrid.

Next Sunday, May 13, is Mother's Day; special services under the arrangement of the Sunday School at each church. The sermon will be in keeping with the thought of the day.

On Wednesday, the W.M.S. met in open session in Bridgenorth Church. The meeting was well attended by ladies from Fairview and Bridgenorth. Mrs. Miller, the president, was in charge. The program consisted of a duet by Mrs. A. K. Nicholls and Mrs. C. Telford; a solo by Miss L. McDougall. Short addresses by Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. Ingham of Peterborough. The ladies enjoyed a social half hour, with refreshments.

The work of the W.C.T.U. has been presented this week very ably by Miss Duff, a field secretary. A business meeting at Fairview on Monday afternoon, an informal gathering at Mrs. Udy's home on Tuesday afternoon; at the Bridgenorth School on Thursday morning, and to the Fairview Y.P.S. on Thursday eveing. Miss Duff was the guest of Rev. R. W. and Mrs. Wright at the Baptist Parsonage.

Selwyn W.A. met in regular session on Thursday of last week. Mrs. Preston, the president, giving leadership to the meeting. The ladies have a very splendid quilt for sale. The chief item of business was arranging to cater at the Y.P. banquet.

Fairview W.A. met in the church on Wednesday, and Mrs. Roseborough conducted the meeting. It was decided to make some improvements in the church and to have a strawberry festival in berry season.

Commencing on Sunday and continuing throughout the Summer, services will be held as follows: Fairview, 9.45 a.m.; Bridgenorth, 11 a.m.; Selwyn, 7.30 p.m. Hours of Sunday School are: Bridgenorth, 10 a.m.; Fairview, 10.45; Selwyn, 10.30. Will everyone please note the new hour for service.

On Sunday, May 20, at Bridgenorth, at 11 a.m., special Sunday School service, with George Street Sunday School orchestra supplying the music, and Rev. Manson Doyle of Toronto as the minister.

A Young People's Banquet will be held at Selwyn on Tuesday evening, May 22, with entertainment and Rev. C. D. Daniel as guest speaker.

A Baptismal service will be held in Bridgenorth Church on Sunday next, May 13th (Mother's Day), at four o'clock in the afternoon.

Farmers report a complete failure of all Fall wheat and new clover crops. This means a heavy loss to the farmer at this time.

CHARGE DISMISSED

ORILLIA, Ont., May 11. (CP)—Amazement at a man who was badly beaten being charged with assault occasioning bodily harm by the individual who, according to his own admission in court, had done the beating, was expressed by Magistrate Compton Jelfs in court to-day in dismissing an assault charge preferred against Angus McDermott, 45, by M. J. Flannery, 55, McDermott's stepfather.

Liquor Toll-Gate?

HARRY PRICE

Charges by Mitchell Hepburn, leader of the Ontario Liberal party, allege that Harry Price, Conservative M.P.P. for West York, and his brother, Ray Price, present Conservative candidate in the same riding, "have and probably still hold" a liquor distillery agency for the sale of liquor to the Ontario Liquor Control Board. The allegation implies that the two Price brothers operated as a "toll-gate" by holding a liquor agency for an old country distiller.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

RICHARDSON THE NOVELIST

On this date, in 1852 John Richardson, the novelist, died. His career was a remarkable one. Born near Niagara in 1796 he was baptized by Rev. Robert Addison in historic St. Mark's, Niagara-on-the-Lake, on January 5, 1797. When the United States declared war in 1812, he although only 16, enrolled in the militia and fought in the battles of Raisin river, Detroit and Queen Heights. He liked a soldier's life, joined a British regular regiment, saw service all over the world and rose to the rank of major.

His later years were devoted to literary work. He is best known by his novel "Wacousta", but how many know his tale "Hardscrabble", dealing with Fort Dearborn prior to its destruction in 1812? He wrote a history of the war of 1812, which, though incomplete, was published in 1842, but, as was so often the case in those days, the publisher got the loaf and the author the crumbs.

Richardson shared the fate of so many gifted men of his period. Like David Thompson the greatest map maker the world ever knew, who died in extremest, poverty near Montreal, the soldier novelist passed away in an attic in New York City after starving for days. His funeral took place from the Episcopal church at 20th street and 6th avenue; but no one has been able to find out where he was buried. If it has not already been done it would be fitting if a tablet to his memory could be placed in the parish church at Niagara, where he was baptized and where he sang his psalms and hymns in his boyhood. How many admirers should easily provide the small amount of money needed. I commend the idea to the consideration of Rev. C. H. E. Smith, the present rector of St. Mark's.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL — Butter continued to advance on the Montreal Produce and Dairy Market yesterday.

Light arrivals sent fresh No. 1 butter ½ cent higher to 20¾c to 21c a pound. To retailers solids were 23c and prints 23c a pound. Receipts were 397 boxes.

Ontario current colored remained unchanged at 9½c to 9¾c a pound. Arrivals amounted to 964 boxes.

Western eggs in carlots sold at 19½c to 19¾c a dozen for A-large, 18½c to 18¾c for A-medium, 17½c to 17¾c for B and 15¾c to 16c for C. Quebec and Ontario eggs in less than carlots were 19½c for A-large, 18c for A-medium, 17c for B and 15½c a dozen for C. A total of 2,549 cases arrived.

Potatoes were unchanged. Quebecs per 80-pound bag selling at 85c to 90c. New Brunswick Mountains per 80-pound bag at 90c to 95c and Prince Edward Island Mountains per 90-pound bag at $1.10 to $1.20.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, May 12.— Profit-taking sales tempered bullish sentiment to the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday, and in an orgy of selling futures prices were swept downward for a maximum decline of 3½c to 4¼c. Quotations closed at bottom levels, 2c to 2¼c net lower.

May wheat closed at 69¾c, July at 70¾c, and October at 72⅝c. Sales credited to the Government agency and the realizing liquidation proved too much for the contracted buying power.

The market started well, in sympathy with further crop damage reports and strength at Chicago and Liverpool. An early 2c gain however, brought out liberal selling, and quotations quickly back-tracked.

Liverpool closed ⅝d to 1¼d higher, but Chicago acted similarly to Winnipeg, showing late declines.

Cash grains trading was dull and coarse grains softened.

GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 12.— Somersaulting backward almost 5 cents a bushel after jumping nearly 3 cents, the wheat market yesterday closed nervous, 1¼c to 2c under Thursday's finish.

Rushes to grab profits on new advances were a feature. Together with forecasts of possible moisture tonight over parts of the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas. Breakdown of the World Wheat Conference at London also had an unsettling influence.

Decidedly larger volume of speculative trading was apparent, and was associated with the circumstance that a tax reduction from 5 cents to 3 cents per $100 in grain futures dealings went into effect. Other cereals rose and fell with wheat, corn closing 1½c to 1⅞c net lower, and oats 1¼c to 1½c off. Provisions finished unchanged to a rise of 10c.

Presentation Made To Hastings Couple

HASTINGS, May 12 (Examiner Correspondence)—A color scheme in which green and ivory was prominent was fittingly chosen for decorative purposes by the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Wednesday evening. The colors were in keeping with the complete set of green and ivory graniteware presented to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Whitred (nee Mildred Wellman), newly-weds of last Friday.

The gifts, presented on behalf of the many friends of the Presbyterian Church, were daintily wrapped in white tissue paper and tied with green ribbons. Ivory and green streamers, caught with lovers' knots reached from the ceiling to the table upon which the gifts were displayed. Small cards containing a verse to suit each gift were read by Misses Annie Spooner, Mary Spooner and Jessie Whitred.

The program, in charge of the Young People, was a delightful one, quite sentimental and suitable for the happy occasion. It consisted of: Reading, "They Never Quarrel," by Miss Annie Spooner; Instrumental, Miss Madeline Dodd and Roy Johnson; Reading, "Oone Afternoon," by Miss Daisy Graham; Trio, "Wedding Bells," Misses Lily Dodd, Alice and Jessie Whitred; Reading, "Ups and Downs of Married Life," Howard Porter; Solo, "Love's Old Sweet Song," W. Flatman; Address by Rev. S. H. Hill, B.A., on "Love, Courtship, and Marriage"; Instrumental, Miss Madeline Dodd; Reading, "A Lovers' Quarrel," by Miss Jessie Whitred.

Following the program a well-worded address was read by Miss Annie Spooner, extending the best wishes of the Young People to the bride and groom, and expressing a wish, that although married, they would still continue to attend the Young People's Society.

Mr. Whitred replied on behalf of himself and bride for the kindness shown them.

After singing, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows, dainty refreshments were served.

HIJACKERS OUTWITTED BY PAYOFF MAN

MAN CARRYING RANSOM MONEY SHOT WAY OUT

Hijackers Fail to Gain $60,000 Ransom Offered for Gettle.

TWO SUSPECTS CAUGHT.

Plans Being Laid Anew to Bring About Release of Oil Millionaire.

LOS ANGELES, May 14.—(AP)—In a sensational escape from a mob of men apparently attempting to hijack $60,000 offered as ransom for the release of William F. Gettle, kidnapped oil millionaire, an emissary fled today after shooting his way to freedom and shortly afterward two suspects were caught in an immense police trap.

The intermediary, whose identity was kept secret at the request of police was not Ernest E. Noon, family lawyer, who has been attempting to contact the kidnappers since the abduction of Gettle from his five-acre wooded estate in suburban Arcadia last Wednesday.

Money In Old Issue

The attempt to seize the money, carried in a black satchel and made up of $5 and $10 bills of old issue but genuine currency, came after a dramatic series of manoeuvres which had thrown the entire police forces of Los Angeles county into action.

After the emissary had picked up several notes, apparently left by the kidnappers and containing instructions for payment of the ransom, he noticed as he drove down a street that he was being surrounded by about three machines.

LONDON, May 14 (C.P. Cable).—Lieut.-General Sir Herbert Corfton Uniacke, member of a noted Canadian military family and commander of the Royal Artillery of the British Fifth Army during the Great War, died to-day at the age of 67 years.

Son of the late Col. Crofton J. Uniacke, Sir Herbert himself was born in England and commissioned in the Royal Artillery. He went to France on the outbreak of war in command of a brigade of artillery and successively was Brigadier-General, General Officer Commanding the Royal Artillery of the III. and V. Throughout the war he also acted as Deputy Inspector-General of Training British Armies in France and Flanders, while in 1919 he controlled lines of communication in the clean-up.

MEMBERS CHEER AS BILL MOVED THIRD READING

Unemployment Bill Has Been Discussed in Commons for 27 Days.

RESTORED CUTS OF 1931.

Brings 12,000,000 People Within Scope of Unemployment Insurance.

LONDON, May 14 (C.P. Cable).—Members of both sides of the House of Commons cheered this afternoon when Sir Henry Betterton, Minister of Labor, moved third reading of the Unemployment Bill—"one of the great contributions to social progress seen in our time," he said.

Third reading was moved after 27 days of Parliamentary discussion. No measure since the war has been subjected to such close scrutiny, and none has given rise to such prolonged discussion in committee. Sir Henry frankly said he moved the final stage with a feeling of relief.

The bill brings 12,000,000 persons within the scope of unemployment insurance. It restores the cuts made in 1931 and in the standard rates of insurance benefits "and

Premier Orders Stewart's Recall

OTTAWA, May 14 (CP)—Announcement was made in the House of Commons to-day by Premier R. B. Bennett that he had requested Hon. H. H. Stevens, chairman of the Mass Buying Committee, to recall Walter Stewart, President of the Macdonald Tobacco Company, before that committee. In his evidence last week, the Prime Minister said, Mr. Stewart had intimated that Ministers of the Crown had been unfaithful to their trust in giving out information in regard to approaching changes in the excise tax. The Prime Minister wished Mr. Stewart to be called upon to name the Cabinet Ministers who had given out the information.

TWO CARS ARE WRECKED BUT PASSENGERS ESCAPE

Clarence Kenny of Woodstock was driving west and was making a left curve when he sideswiped a car driven by Simon Roth, New Hamburg. Both cars were turned over and wrecked beyond repair. The drivers and occupants of both vehicles escaped injury. Kenny faces a charge of reckless driving.

CANADA FIRST COOKING SCHOOL OPENS TUESDAY IN OPERA HOUSE

No Admission Charge, Doors Open 8.30 a.m.; School Starts 9.30.

VALUABLE DAILY PRIZES.

In answer to numerous telephone enquiries as to where to obtain tickets of admission for the Canada First Cooking School, which opens to-morrow morning at 8.30 o'clock in the Grand Opera House, there is no admission charge and no ticket of admission is necessary to get into the school.

There will be valuable daily prizes and the major prize has been changed to a Moffat electric range. The school is sponsored by grocers and butchers in the city.

Real teaching and not demonstration is stressed by Jay Margaret Laws, who is to be in charge of the Canada First Cooking school.

Housewives will find Miss Laws' instruction valuable in the daily preparation of meals, for she is a graduate of household science and arts. She builds her recipes for the average woman and does not use expensive or extravagantly impractical methods.

This is a genuine cooking school which is being offered to the women of Peterborough with tips on economy and modern ideas of cookery explained.

Miss Laws announces that the school will be of an informal nature and that she encourages questions from the audience. She has been teaching cooking for several years and tests all products from start to finish of manufacture.

Programs each day contain recipes and coupons and there will be prizes each day and a grand prize of a Moffat electric range.

Local Man Is Fined For Gaffing Of Fish

"I want you to treat this as a warning and I wish every other offender to so regard it," stated Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in fining Stanley Killingbeck, $10 and $1.75 costs in City Police Court this morning for an infraction of the Game and Fisheries Act.

The defendant, a young married man, was charged with gaffing or snagging of fish, which is now declared illegal throughout this county. Inspector Fred Marshall, who laid the information, produced a lengthy line, baited with a large pronged hook and weighted with lead sinkers. He had been forced to lay the charge, he said, after repeated warnings had been given without effect.

SIMPLE SERVICE MARKS PASSING JUDGE HUYCKE

Peterborough County's Judge is Laid to Rest in Little Lake Cemetery.

HUNDREDS IN ATTENDANCE

Law Associations of Peterborough, Northumberland and Durham Attend in Body.

Simple dignity, an attribute so reflective of his own bearing in life, lent itself this afternoon to the funeral services for the late Judge Edward Cornelius Stanbury Huycke, whose remains were laid to rest in Little Lake cemetery following services at the family residence conducted by the Rev. Frank M. Wootton, pastor of Trinity United Church, assisted by Venerable Archdeacon Dr. R. C. Blagrave, rector of St. John's Anglican Church.

As befitted the esteem and honor in which he was generally regarded by all who had been privileged to know him either as a personal friend, or as a member of the judiciary who had always striven to uphold the highest ideals of justice and mercy, the late judge was accorded the homage of a gathering that was fully representative of bench and bar and of all phases of

PERMIT BRITAIN TO PAY IN SILVER

Move is Afoot in United States to Permit Payments in Silver.

SILVER BILL EXPECTED.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (A.P.)—A move was afoot to-day to permit Great Britain to pay her June 15 war debt installment in silver if she desires.

Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) was described as ready to add to the projected silver nationalization bill a clause renewing authority to accept silver on the war debts. If Great Britain decides to meet her June installment of $85,670,000, she could thus pay the full amount in the metal for which a determined Congressional bloc is seeking a place in the monetary sun.

The idea found favor with a number of other Silverites. Senator Adams (D., Col.) was represented as feeling that if taking silver would help the war debt problem and add to silver reserves at that time, he would approve.

Great Britain made one token payment in silver under the authority of the Thomas inflation amendment to the Farm Bill. That authorization has since expired.

Up to Debtor Nation.

Otherwise the war debt situation appeared in a state of suspended animation to-day. The Roosevelt Administration's position is that the next move is up to the debtor nations. The position is that the United States is willing to talk things over individually with any of the debtors.

Mr. Roosevelt takes the view that payment of any or all of the $175,000,000 will be acceptable. But if only tokens are offered, the President cannot again assure the debtors they are not in default. A default would bar them, under the Johnson Act, from floating securities in the American market.

Something definite in the form of a silver bill is expected this week.

BRITISH COMEDIAN IS FOUND DEAD IN HIS FLAT

LONDON, May 14 (CP Cable).—One of the foremost British comedians of the air, John Henry, whose real name was Norman Clapham, was found dead in his Kensington flat to-day from gas poisoning.

He was among the first comedians on the British Broadcasting Commission's network and was popular from the start, delivering jokes in a soft Yorkshire accent in an inimitably dry manner.

PORT CREDIT, Ont., May 14. (CP).—Because a Toronto golfer lost her $1,000 wrist watch on the Mississauga Golf Course, Mrs. A. McQueen of Port Credit, mother of a large family of boys, is to receive a Mother's Day gift of $50. The watch was found by Matthew McQueen, 20, while caddying and won a reward. BUYER ASHAMED OF PRICE PAID TO TOBACCO MEN Farmer Paid Sixteen and Half Cents for Tobacco Value at Twenty-four.

Endorses Auction System.

New York and London Management Having Too Much to Say Witness Says.

OTTAWA, May 14. (CP).—F. R. Gregory, formerly in charge of tobacco buying for the Imperial Tobacco Company in south-west Ontario, was the first witness heard to-day by the parliamentary mass buying committee.

In 1931, while buying for the Montreal tobacco firm, he said T. L. Lea, who succeeded him as chief buyer, after a trip to Montreal, announced prices must come down. Mr. Gregory said he felt ashamed at buying for 18 cents a pound tobacco that was worth more. Finally, after communicating with Montreal, Gregory was told to pay up to 25 cents a pound for tobacco worth it.

Mr. Lea returned from Montreal Oct. 12, 1931, said Mr. Gregory, with the announcement prices must come down to an average of 18 cents. The next day a farmer was paid 166½ cents as an average for tobacco which had been valued at 24 cents a few days before. This

THIRD CANDIDATE TO ENTER FIELD

Rev. John Sutherland Likely Be Candidate in Peterborough Riding.

UNDER C.C.F. BANNER.

Rev. John Sutherland, Toronto, former minister of the Presbyterian congregation at Keene, will likely be the candidate of the Peterborough C.C.F. in the Provincial elections, The Examiner was informed to-day by W. J. Abbott.

"Rev. Mr. Sutherland has the approval of the Ontario Council of the C.C.F.," Mr. Abbot said. "His name with several others was submitted to the Central Council, and as the others have withdrawn, it leaves Mr. Sutherland without any opposition from the ranks of the Peterborough C.C.F. Club. With the official endorsation of the Ontario Council of the Canadian Co-operative Federation declared in favor of the candidature of Mr. Sutherland, the way is cleared for the holding of a convention at which he will receive the official C.C.F. nomination for the constituency."

Mr. Abbott said that the date of the convention would probably be within the next ten days or two weeks, and that it would be addressed by E. J. Garland, M.P., Bow River, Alberta; Wm. Irvine, M.P., Wetaskiwin, Alta., and Dr. Laura Cotton of Toronto. A meeting of the local club will be held in the Paragon Hall Tuesday night, at which arrangements for the convention will be discussed.

WRIT IS ISSUED BUT NO DAMAGES ARE SPECIFIED

Damage Claim Follows Certain Statements Alleged Made by Hepburn.

CANDIDATE IN YORK.

Let Him Go Right Ahead, It's Fine, Liberal Leader Declares.

TORONTO, May 14.—(C.P.)—A writ claiming damages for alleged slander has been issued by J. Ray Price, Etobicoke township, against Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader.

No damages were specified in the writ.

The writ was issued following certain statements alleged to have been made by Mr. Hepburn during the election campaign.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., May 14 (CP)—"Fine—let him go ahead with it," said Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., Ontario Liberal Leader, commenting to-day on the writ for slander issued against him by J. R. Price, Conservative candidate for West York in the coming election.

"I have nothing to say—except let him go right ahead. It's fine," said Mr. Hepburn.

MILLAR ESTATE MUCH ENRICHED

Wealth to Go to Most Fruitful Mother is Increased by $400,000.

SALE OF BREWERY STOCK.

TORONTO, May 14 (C.P.).—The estate of Charles Vance Millar, the bulk of which was bequeathed to the Toronto mother giving birth to the most children in the 10-year period following his death, has been increased by a cash payment of $320,000 by the Brewing Corporation of Canada, in part payment for the Millar estate holdings in O'Keefe's Brewery which has been purchased by the Corporation.

It was learned to-day the full price accepted for the Millar holdings was $400,000 and the remaining $80,000 must be paid in cash within six months.

When Mr. Millar died suddenly, terms of his will aroused wide interest. Shares of Brewery and Ontario Jockey Club stocks were left to prominent Ontario clergymen, while the famous "baby clause" has also been the subject of much discussion.

Two years ago the Ontario Government tried to estreat the will and turn the money over to University of Toronto. A bill to that effect was withdrawn in the Legislature following protests.

Mrs. Grace Bagnato, wife of a police court interpreter, is now believed to be leading claimant to the estate. She has given birth to six children in the past 10 years in Toronto, and already had a large family. The estate is to be turned over, barring unforeseen circumstances, in 1936.

Acute Laryngitis Is Fatal To Child

"Acute laryngitis" is ascribed as the unusual cause of the death on Sunday of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Houghton of 581 Patterson Street.

The child, George Edward ("Teddy") Houghton, aged 3 years and 11 months, it is learned developed a swelling in the throat on Saturday noon and passed away early on Sunday, after Dr. E. A. Hammond had called Dr. A. W. McPherson and Dr. N. D. Buchanan into consultation.

Dr. Hammond, who described the condition as being a swelling of the larynx, agreed that it was a most unusual cause of death in the case of infants.

The child is survived by his parents, also by one brother Arthur and three sisters, Irene, Peggy, and Lily all at home.

The funeral is to be held from the family residence on Tuesday at 2 p.m., with the Rev J. Douglas Paterson, rector of All Saints' Church, officiating. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

CABINET MEETS TO DECIDE DATE FOR ELECTION

Voting is Expected to be June 21 or 27—Short Campaign.

Hepburn Renews Charges.

Philpott Returns to C. C. F. Fold After Ontario Re-organization.

TORONTO, May 14 (CP)—Premier George S. Henry was expected to decide to-day on the Ontario General election date and make the announcement tomorrow night or Wednesday. The Mail and Empire said it had learned the Premier would call his Cabinet and decide on the date to-day.

Forecasts placed voting around June 21 or June 27, the campaign to be short. Mr. Henry was chosen unanimously as Conservative candidate in East York Saturday at a convention which shouted for his nomination as soon as he entered the building.

Denies Charges

Mr. Henry denied Liberal charges and criticized the "campaign of slander" which he declared Mr. Hepburn was indulging in.

At Sarnia, Mr. Hepburn renewed his charges in an address before the West Lambton convention, challenged the Cabinet Ministers to deny individually they had no connection with his alleged "toll gate" system in the Liquor Control Board. He maintained Ray Price, Conservative candidate in West York, obtained an agency for Teacher's Highland Cream Whiskey three days after his brother, Harry, was elected to the Legislature.

Six Candidates

Six candidates entered the lists Saturday night, five Conservatives and one Liberal. Besides Mr. Henry, the candidates and their constituencies are J. D. Villeneuve, Conservative, Glengarry; R. E. Davis, Conservative, North Renfrew; Clifford Case, Conservative, North York; William Douglas, Conservative, Rainy River, and William Guthrie, Liberal, West Lambton.

The C.C.F. will meet Wednesday night to choose a candidate in the Toronto St. David riding. South Wentworth Conservatives will name their candidate May 21, and Toronto Bracondale Conservatives meet to-night to select their man. Toronto St. George Conservatives hold their nomination convention to-night.

The week-end political picture found Captain Elmore Philpott returning to the C.C.F. fold from which he departed when he alleged the Radical element was increasing. With reorganization of the Ontario branch of the C.C.F., the former head of the Ontario Association of C.C.F. clubs has decided to return. United Farmer of Ontario members who followed Captain Philpott out of the C.C.F. have also returned, but there was no indication the U.F.O. was returning to the Federation as a body.

FLIERS HOP OFF ON LONG FLIGHT OVER ATLANTIC

Intrepid Pair Hope to Fly to Rome From States in 40 Hours.

YEAR'S FIRST ATTEMPT.

One is American Navy Flier and Other Former Italian Ace.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., May 14 (AP). Capt. George T. Pond and Lieut. Cesare Sabelli soared away from Floyd Bennett Field at 6:24 a.m., (E.S.T.) to-day with the announced intention of reaching Rome without a stop. They said their large orange and maroon monoplane could make the 4,500-mile flight in about 40 hours.

Pond, a former United States navy flier, and Sabelli, one-time Italian war ace, had been planning the flight for months. They had hoped originally to make the attempt last Fall but abondoned the idea because of unfavorable weather.

Their plane, "Leonard Da Vinci" with 680 gallons of gasoline, carried enough fuel to last more than 40 hours.

Weather Favorable

Weather reported indicated favorable winds, but noted a low pressure area over the north Atlantic coast which the fliers said they would fly over.

They set a course over Cape Race, Nfld., and the great circle route. If the weather turns bad, they said, they may abandon the attempt to make Rome and land in France or Spain.

Only a few friends of the fliers were at the airport to see them off. The sky was overcast as the big plane soared away.

The plan made a perfect take-off, rising easily into the air after a run of about 1,000 feet.

Pond, who was at the controls, kept the plane at an altitude of 100 feet as it flew over Jamaica Bay, then banked it sharply and darted away toward the northeast. It had disappeared from

GASOLINE PRICE IS UP TWO CENTS

Increase Due to Better Business Conditions, Imperial Oil Head Says.

INCREASE IN CITY.

TORONTO, May 14 (C.P.) — The price of gasoline in the Toronto area went to 24½ cents a gallon today, an increase for ordinary grades of two cents, including the Government tax of six cent per gallon.

Frank Predergast of the Imperial Oil Company declared the increase was due to better business conditions. Originally, the price was reduced to 16½ cents plus tax, to protect investments and employees, he said, but improved marketing conditions had led to the increase.

Peterborough Prices

Most of the gasoline companies reported a change in prices this morning.

W. E. Wiggins of the Imperial Oil Company told The Examiner that the Imperial had withdrawn from the market their third grade "blue" gasoline, and that the "Three Star" formerly selling at 28½ cents was now 25½ cents. The third grade gasoline had sold at 24½ cents.

R. L. Adams, of the British-American Company, said that their 24½ cent gasoline was now quoted at 25½ cents, but there was no change in their first grade Never-Nox.

The Shell Company stated that they had no third grade gasoline, but that the price of their standard "gas" was increased one cent this morning to 25½ cents.

Cut in Montreal

MONTREAL, May 14 (CP) — While dealers in Toronto announced a two cent increase in gasoline prices, Montreal motorists to-day welcomed a one cent cash discount inaugurated by a gasoline company. The discount brings the price of high grade gasoline in Montreal to 28 cents, half a cent below the Toronto price.

WESTERN CROPS STILL WITHOUT NECESSARY RAIN

No Immediate Hope of Precipitation is Given by Weatherman.

Some Scattered Showers.

Menace of Grasshoppers Grows and Farmers Prepare for Battle.

WINNIPEG, May 14. (CP). Little change in temperature had no hope of immediate rain was held out to-day by the weatherman as Western Canada crops, needing rain in practically every district, awaited precipitation.

Dark clouds that started to gather over southern Saskatchewan points gave farmers of the mid-west province a bit of hope that rain might fall. But the forecast for both Saskatchewan and Alberta was "fair and warm" Manitoba was slated to remain fair with only slight variation in temperature.

Recent showers in Manitoba and a good downpour in southern Alberta aided crops. A little more rain was required in both places as well as in other sections of the west. Edmonton, without rain for almost two weeks, said crops were not suffering much.

The menace of grasshoppers was becoming greater as days passed without precipitation. Preparations for distribution of poison to kill the hoppers was underway in all three prairie provinces, with Saskatchewan making the most concentrated attack at present.

Long Vigil Ends As Arrest Made

For a year and a half she has scrutinized the features of every man she has met, seeking the man for whom she cashed two forged money orders for a total of $37.50 in her restaurant during the 1932 Christmas season.

At last she saw the man she was looking for in a street, and pushing him against a building she held him until police arrived.

The man, who said he was Philip Goldstein, 32, was locked up on a charge of forgery.

FORTY KILLED IN GAS BLAST

Huge Explosion Brings Death and Destruction to Hong Kong Suburb.

FIRE SWEEPS DEBRIS.

HONG KONG, May 14 (C.P.). — Forty persons were estimated killed and 100 injured when the explosion of a gasometer at West Point, Victoria, laid waste a residential section.

All of those killed were Chinese —most of them women and children.

Flames which followed the blast destroyed a Clarence Street tenement block of seven houses opposite the gasometer. The explosion shattered buildings in an adjoining block. Windows were broken for a considerable distance.

The sheet of flame which shot from the exploding gasometer apparently cut off the inhabitants of the tenement houses before they could reach safety after the blast.

Fire delayed a search of the smoking ruins for bodies.

West Point is on the northern side of Hong Kong Island, on Victoria Harbor.

The Sorority has exonerated the girl and her mother is seriously ill, but no word has come from her.

The two hikers are starting out on a trek across the continent and hope to make a globe-circling venture. Hugg last year travelled by foot across Canada.

ANSWERS LAST CALL BEFORE STATEMENT READY

LITTLE ROCK, Arkansas, May 14 (C.P.). — Samuel E. Henderson, Arkansas commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, prepared a statement to be made public on his 90th birthday within a few days.

'I am the only surviving member of the 100 in my company," he wrote. "Sixty of them returned home and of that number I am the only one who has not answered the last roll call."

He was stricken suddenly yesterday and died.

Even the fishermen of Fraserburgh, Scotland, report better times, saying that white fish caught near there in the first three months of this year had a value $31,000 above that of catches in the corresponding period of 1932.

TWO LOSE LIVES HIGHWAY CRASH AT SUNDERLAND

Brock Township Farmer, F. M. Reesor and Relative Sustain Fractured Skulls.

MRS. REESOR IN HOSPITAL.

Arrest Driver of Crash Car and Companion, Taken to Whitby Jail.

(Special To Examiner)

LINDSAY, Ont., May 14.—Frank M. Reesor, a farmer living four miles north of Sunderland village and a distant relative, Alex Vanderberg, were instantly killed in a car crash at a bad corner in the village, last night at 10 o'clock and Mrs. Reesor is in Toronto General Hospital in a badly shaken up condition, with a broken nose and many severe face injuries. They were crashed into by a car driven by Milton Tanton of 92 Nassau street Oshawa, who was accompanied by Walter Henderson, 66 Alma Street Oshawa. Both were arrested at the scene of the accident by Provincial Officer Carr, of Cannington and are in custody in Whitby jail. Dr. J. H. Oliver of Sunderland, held an inquest Sunday afternoon which was adjourned indefinitely until Mrs. Reesor is able to testify. Mr. Reesor will be interred at the Reesor burying ground at Markham Monday.

Liquor Found In Car

It appears that the Reesors had just completed shopping at Sunderland and were on their way home, while the Oshawa car was on its way from Orillia to Oshawa. The latter car is said to have rounded the Whiting garage corner at Sunderland to speedily that the driver was forced to make a wide turn and crashed into the side of the Reesor car. The car was turned over and catapulted some 15 feet, both Reesor and Vinderberg sustaining fractured skulls. The car was completely wrecked and the Tanton car slightly damaged. The police seized a case of empty beer bottles and two bottles of liquor in the Tanton car.

The Reesors had moved from Markham to Brock township some eight years ago and recently sold their farm and rented the old Woodward farm on the 10th concession. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Clarence Brethour, who lives a mile and a half west of Sunderland. Mr. Vanderberg had resided with the Reesors for several years.

CYCLIST KILLED.

Windsor Woman Critically Burned When Gas Oven Explodes.

(By The Canadian Press)

Week-end accidents brought death to four Ontario farmers and put numerous other citizens in hospital with injuries. Two men were lodged in Whitby jail in connection with an automobile crash which brought death to two farmers.

Worst of the holiday accidents occurred at Sunderland when two men were killed instantly in a crash between an automobile in which they were riding and another driven by Millon Tanton of Oshawa. Tanton and Walter Henderson of Oshawa were arrested. Frank M. Reesor who lived near Sunderland and Alexander Vindeberg, a relative, were killed and Mrs. Reesor was taken to a Toronto hospital with a broken nose and severe facial lacerations.

An inquest ordered into the fatalities was adjourned indefinitely to await testimony of Mrs. Reesor.

Rides Into Car

Kenneth Sherwood, 28-year-old farm worker whose home was near Verschoyle was fatally injured Saturday night when he rode his bicycle into the side of an automobile driven by Harold Tassie of Walkerville. An inquest was ordered. Tassie was not held.

A frightened horse crashed a cultivator into Thomas Sheedy, 38-year-old Bromley township farmer, injuring him fatally. Sheedy had been training the animal which was little more than a colt.

Mrs. Ethel Berry, 48, was critically burned at her Windsor home while lighting the oven of a gas stove. Her husband Edward, stood subject for a blood transfusion, but major burns over the upper portion of the woman's body aroused fears she might not recover.

Several others were injured in road accidents none seriously, and a cow owned by Mrs. A. Gregory, London district resident, escaped uninjured in an encounter with Edward Bayles' automobile. The automobile suffered considerable damage.

IT'S WONDERFUL FOR DISHES, TOO!

In tubs, Rinso soaks out dirt—clothes don't need to be scrubbed or boiled. The clothes last at least 2 or 3 times longer—women save $100 and more!

In washers — well, there never was a soap such as Rinso in any kind of washing machine! The makers of 25 famous Canadian washers recommend it. Economical; gives twice as much suds, cup for cup, as lightweight puffed-up soaps. Try it.

BUDGET DEBATE TO BE RESUMED

House of Commons Expects Busy Session—Important Measures.

AID TO FARMERS.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 14 (C.P.).—Held up for many days by a series of Liberal speakers objecting to the wide powers contemplated for the various marketing boards, the Government's marketing bill may make some progress in the House of Commons this week. The Government amendments, the result of further study since the bill was introduced, are now before the House.

To-day the House resumes the debate on the budget and there appears some prospect of an early vote. If the budget is disposed of and the marketing bill advanced, a further lot of Government legislation will likely be introduced. In any case, the public works bill, to authorize the expenditure of a sum which may run to $50,000,000 on a large program of building for the relief of unemployment will come down this week.

Another important measure ready for introduction when the order paper is cleared up a bit is the bill to permit farmers to compromise with their creditors and obtain a measure of relief from their debt burdens.

All in all, the House of Commons looks forward to a busy week. Last week little of a definite nature was accomplished as the marketing bill was discussed at length and the budget debate continued with a long list of speakers.

EIGHT DIE WHEN A UTO CRASHES AS DRIVER AVERTS HITTING DOG

Divine Aid

LONDON, May 14 (AP)—Ibn Saud, King of Saudi Arabia, believes he had Divine assistance in his triumphs over the Imamyaha, ruler of Yemen.

A London Daily Mail interview quoted Ibn Saud:

"The will of God has determined the present course of events. . . . I am honestly convinced the collapse of Yahya's opposition is Divine judgment on his appeal from arbitrament of the war."

DOG IS UNHURT.

FONTAINEBLEAU, France, May 14.—(AP)—Eight persons—six men and two women — are dead today and five lie injured because of an automobile racing driver's efforts to save the life of a dog.

The driver, Erich Cochin, an army aviator, lost control of his car and it hurtled into a mass of spectators when he swerved during a race in Fontainebleau forest to avoid hitting the animal.

Cochin died in a hospital, one of the women killed was decapitated. Two of the others who died were soldiers attached to the Fontainebleau artillery school.

The spectators had attracted Cochin's attention to the dog, waving to him and crying out when it dashed upon the speedway.

The dog apparently escaped unhurt.

INSIGNIFICANT SHIRT PARADE OF 12 YEARS AGO GAVE RISE TO POLITICAL FAITH OF MILLIONS

History of Fascism Under Mussolini is Most Colorful.

STATE IS SUPREME

LONDON, May 14. — (By Central Press Canadian).—Twelve years ago, in northern Italy, 160 men began a shirt parade which since has swept the world, annihilating democracy, to destroy in a moment individual liberty achieved only through centuries of intellectual struggle.

What is this phenomenon—Fascism—that has become the new political faith of millions, with its all-powerful dictators, fiery nationalism and destruction of independent labor? What are the seeds of revolt which caused a Mussolini, a Hitler, a Mustapha Kemal, or a Dollfuss to emerge triumphantly leading an army of black, red, blue, green, silver or khaki shirt-clad followers against the citadels of democratic governments?

Given a nation succumbing to the forces of economic depression with millions of unemployed sympathetic to communism, workers subsisting on starvation wages, a middle class impoverished by inflation and taxation, farmers unable to market crops and trade paralyzed by sky-high tariffs, Fascism offers itself as a universal saviour. And in instances where military defeat has ended with territorial loss and financial reparations, the field is even more fertile for sowing.

State is Supreme.

From the metal factories of Turin in 1919 to the Socialist apartment blocks of Vienna in 1934—from fiery Mussolini to midget Dollfuss—runs a new historical theme: the supremacy of the state to regulate the most minute activity of the citizen, to demand and receive unquestioned obedience.

When, after hundreds of years of humiliating dismemberment, Italy achieved national unity in 1871, she found herself too weak and inconsequential to amount to much among the leading European powers. Almost barren of natural resources that would allow it to grow into a great industrial and exporting nation, feeble Italy sought consolation by futile imperialistic forays into Africa seeking colonies that ended disastrously.

Even the Mediterranean, in which Italy logically should be supreme, was regarded as an English and French preserve. Therefore she went into the camp of the only group which might be of benefit and created with Germany and Austria-Hungary, the triple alliance, though the latter possessed Trieste and territory Italy claimed as her own historically.

But when the Great War began, Italy forced by her Socialist and Liberal parties refused to enter on the grounds that her allies had not been attacked first. Pacifist to the core, the trade unions insisted upon ignoring a "capitalist" war, and called upon workers throughout Europe to refuse to fight.

Il Duce Enters.

Benito Mussolini, fiery editor of Avanti, official paper of the Socialist party, published, nevertheless, an editorial demanding Italy's union with the western powers. For this he was expelled from the ranks, and the next day blossomed out with a new journal, Popolo d'Italia, of which he is still editor, repeating his words. With the signing of the secret London treaty, Italy entered the conflict by the promise of large slices of territory.

When Premier Orlando returned to a tottering homeland from Versailles, with only a portion of the spoils, the mood of the weary people changed to bitterness and disillusionment. Rising prices, and the post-war depression fired the working classes with resentment against the war profiteers and big industrials. Thousands of workers, influenced by the success of the Russian revolution, took over for a short while manufacturing plants and attempted to run them. In Sicily, the exploited peasant, toiling on the great estates of absentee landlords, appropriated and divided the land. D'Annunzio, the poet-warrior, with his band of legionnaires, seized Fiume and defied the national government. Strikes and lockouts occurred daily and the authorities seemed powerless.

In such chaos, the first "fascio di combatimento" was formed by Mussolini, from returning jobless war veterans and middle class partisans, on March 23, 1919. Its purpose was to restore a stable government, to annihilate communism, and to foster a vigorous nationalism. With a philosophy of action based on extreme violence as a justifiable means, they proceeded to terrorize the labor and liberal elements. Workers were beaten up and shot down. Trade union buildings and co-operative stores were sacked or destroyed. Strikes were fought by the Fascisti. Mussolini terming them "acts of war." Castor oil was fed to recalcitrant oppositionists.

Echo of Garibaldi.

Their uniform was based on the famous red shirts of Garibaldi, who had unified Italy 50 years before and championed individual freedom. Fascism adopted as its name and symbol, to indicate its power to punish, the traditional "Fasces," a bundle of rods and an axe borne by the lictors, ancient Roman officials, portraying the authority of the state. From D'Annunzio and his legion, Mussolini borrowed the vocal cheer and an intense mysticism; the right arm salute from imperial Rome's cohorts.

Actually, the Fascist movement finds its first historical counterpart in the Cromwellian coup de'etat when the English Puritan merchants in the 17th century wrested control of the state from the landed aristocracy and executed King Charles I., by means of their illegal private army, the famous ironsides cavalry. For in the main, according to Communists fascism likewise represents class struggle, but now the conflict is between all the possessing groups, and the workers.

The industrialists, the returning disillusioned veterans, who came mostly from the petty bourgeoise, and the landed proprietors, combined to push fascism forward while an impotent government temprited or gave mute consent.

The whirlpool congealed. When Mussolini, refusing to accept a cabinet post, thundered, "Either the government must be given peacefully to the Fascists or we will take it by force," a new era dawned. On Oct. 28, 1922, the black shirts marched on Rome. The cabinet resigned and Mussolini became premier.

He still had before him a large parliamentary opposition. Thus at first Il Duce consolidated his position, subduing the members of socialist resistance. The Fascisti guardsmen, 80,000 strong, were nationalized. Taxes to the middle classes were lifted, wages were lowered, and the enormous budget deficit brought nearer control. In 1926, when Mussolini wiped out the last minority opposition, he proposed his "corporate state," wherein all labor and industry was united into national guilds. Strikes and lockouts were forbidden. Fascist officials were to become arbiters in disputes over wages, hours or working conditions.

Unflinching loyalty to the state, personfied in Il Duce, was the cornerstone of citizenship. A policy of emotional nationalism was fostered, and a military spirit endeavoring to recall imperial Roman prestige flourished. From childhood on the new Italian martial feeling is ingrained. Various corps, the Balilla for children 8 to 14, graduating into Avanguardisti, and at 18, the black shirt clad youth became a proud Giovanni. In a continent, torn by the passions of competitive nationalism, the young Fascist marches with a real rifle before he is 10 years old, and at 12, is taught machine gun technique. All public speeches, plays, etc., are censured by Mussolini, who has likewise been successful in holding down opposing forces both in his own party and from the masses.

Mussolini Plans.

The 50,000,000 Italian black shirts that Il Duce envisages for the peninsula by 1940 are not so fantastic. By a system of intelligent propaganda, he has lowered the child mortality greatly, and preached the virtue of large families. Unemployment insurance, old age pensions and the reclamation of marshes and malaria-infected regions have helped anchor the new regime.

Fascism has satisfied Italian vanity in the councils of the world. To the Palazzo Venezia in Rome moves a steady procession of diplomats. Dictator Mussolini, the great apostle of disarmament, has made Rome the "eternal city" again.

To Il Duce the internatsional popularity of his philosophy has been a source of pride.

"Raise your banners and arms in salute to the Fascist march which continues from Italy along the roads of the world."

Hard Pressed

BRANTFORD, Ont., May 12 (CP)—R. Hewson, operator of a gasoline "jigger" on Canadian National Railways, felt lucky to be alive to-day, but he worked for the privilege.

Operating his machine along the main line near here, he found a fast train was coming in directly behind him. He switched to another track, just in time to escape—only to discover another express was speeding towards him on the new track. He pulled the jigger off the track and just leaped to safety in time.

FORCE BATTLE ON WAR DEBTS INTO COMMONS

Opposition Demands Full Statement on Policy of Payments.

SITUATION SERIOUS.

Expect Britain Will Make a Token Payment to States.

LONDON, May 14 (AP)—A demand by Conservatives for a full statement of policy on the war debts faced the Government in the House of Commons to-day.

The most extensive debate in Commons in years was forecast on the barrage of questions concerning policy on the debts, the Anglo-Japanese trade war, and armaments.

Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, gave indication of the seriousness the Government attached to the discussions when he cancelled plans to go to Geneva for the League of Nations Council meeting.

The war debts situation was regarded as having been brought to a head by Washington's ruling that a token payment on the installment due the United States June 15 would be regarded as default.

Show-down Asked

With the Opposition clamoring for a show-down without delay, the Government was believed likely to state its position by mid-week at the latest.

Well-informed circles predicted Great Britain would proceed with a token payment as evidence of "good faith" pending negotiations to readjust the debt. Some, however, contended for outright default.

The questions on armaments revolved around a demand that the Government state its position as a result of the crisis in disarmament discussions and the strengthening of military forces by many nations.

The Opposition also demanded full and frank discussion of German debt negotiations.

CAMPBELLFORD

NEWS ITEMS FOR THE TRENT TOWN DISTRICT

Another false alarm brought out the Campbellford fire fighters on Friday evening, when the brigade went clashing into Ward 111, only to find that mischievous boys had pulled the alarm at a box where the glass had not been replaced. The local police force are investigating this prank, which is the second which has taken place in the past few weeks.

Mrs. Kenneth Cavanagh and little daughter Jane, of Peterborough, were visitors to town on Thursday last, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T J. McAvella, Second Street.

Success was registered by the W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Saturday, when they staged a sale of home cooking, plain sewing, fancy quilts, bulbs and choice recipies, in the Corkery Block. Fine weather added to the success of the occasion, many people of the town and country patronizing the event, which proved financially successful.

MAN CARRYING RANSOM MONEY

Confident that the occupants could not be the actual kidnappers because of the information he had obtained from the notes, he opened fire upon them. Shots were exchanged and after a brisk battle, the go-between succeeded in escaping.

In a matter of minutes the district, about eight miles south-west of Los Angeles, was blocked off by swift moving police automobiles. Officers leading the hunt believed the emmisary had been made away with as he attempted to pass the money, but this it soon developed was erroneous.

Two Men Arrested.

Shortly after detective headquarters learned the emissary was safe, two men fell into the police blockade. One of them possessd a firearm and wore a red sweater.

In the course of another brief interval, Noon received a telephone call from a man who was identified by his voice as the kidnappers' contact man, saying:

"Something has happened out at Downey."

He referred to the district where the revolver fire occurred and apparently this marked, for the time being, a cessation of all real efforts to establish a contact.

The emissary, upon escaping from the suspected hijackers, raced to a telephone, notified authorities he was safe and in possession of the money and a squad if police machines raced to his protection. He was escorted back to his offices and plans were laid anew to pay the money and bring about the release of Gettle.

M. W. Locke Shoes

Designed and approved by

Dr. M. W. Locke of Williamsburg, Ontario

FOREWORD

I HAVE been asked to write a foreword to this booklet —this I willingly do because I have been instrumental in having this shoe manufactured.

Many years ago I learned from my practice that certain details in footwear were essential to the good health of the feet—particularly those that required treatment —and I have always believed that many ailments of the body arise from unhealthy feet, poor circulation and weak arches, and that many of these ailments would not have occurred if feet were correctly shod and shoes properly fitted.

At one time, to obtain the desired results, I prescribed certain changes to be made by shoe-repair shops in the shoes worn by my patients, always believing that in some way a shoe could be completely manufactured embodying features that would obtain better results.

Eventually I met a shoe manufacturer willing to undertake the task and assume the necessary expense.

The first shoes indicated that many changes and improvements were necessary. I know that time, work and intensive study were spent on many pairs of shoes, but eventually the present M. W. Locke shoe was developed; some details, I believe, being patented by the manufacturers.

I was asked to give my endorsation to these shoes, but withheld this until at least ten thousand pairs were fitted or sold to my patients.

While I cannot expect that every pair of M. W. Locke shoes will be successful in their purpose. I know that they have been helpful to many thousands of my patients and to many who have not attended my clinic.

It is with the thought and hope that the M. W. Locke shoe will be a benefit to many that I now give my endorsation, not only to the shoe, but to its wider distribution.

I am, of course, not a shoe manufacturer, nor have I any stock or shares of any kind in any Company manufacturing this special shoe.

SPECIAL PROGRAMS.

Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Mother's Day was observed in the Campbellford churches yesterday, when special programs were followed, the congregations in the majority of cases worshipping with the Sunday Schools. All services were well attended, and a profusion of flowers adorned the churches and the worshippers. Music also was a remembrance theme, with anthems and solos being of an apropriate nature.

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, the service was held jointly in the afternoon, with the mothers being in charge. A special program was followed, at which the speaker was Mrs. J. D. McEachern, the soloist being Mrs. Ed. Wynn with Mrs. Gwen E. Lewis accompanying. The preacher at the regular services was the Rev. J. C. Robinson, the soloist at the morning hour of worship being Miss Helen MacDonald.

At the Baptist Church the Sunday School had charge of the morning service which was of an appropriate nature, the regular program being followed. The pastor, Rev. L. M. Smith, was the preacher at the evening service.

At St. John's United Church the Sunday School also had charge of the morning service, at which the preacher was the Rev. H. P. L. Seymour, who took for his topic, "Living Life Joyously." Special musical numbers were rendered by groups from the Sunday School, the choir under the direction of Albert Hazell singing special anthems for the occasion.

At the Salvation Army Temple large numbers attended special services, which were conducted by Major and Mrs. Ritchie of Peterborough, at which mother was the theme of the sermons.

40 Brain Workers Tested This Remedy in Clinic at Hospital

Their nervous energy depleted by over-study as examination time approached, a group of students, who were definitely below normal in blood condition, formed the "test patients" for a recent clinic conducted at a leading Canadian hospital. The remedy prescribed for this five weeks' test was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The purpose was to determine to what extent this well-known preparation would increase the haemoglobin and red corpuscles in the blood and so rebuild blood-health and restore normal vigor and strength.

The results were indeed notable. The carefully kept records showed that in every case where the patients blood count had been below normal, the number of red corpuscles was increased, and in 36 out of 40 cases, or 95 per cent., the students experienced increases in haemoglobin also, in some instances as much as 22 per cent. The physician in charge considered this showing as most impressive. The student-patients stated that they felt much more energetic, with a new sense of well-being.

It is the haemoglobin in your blood that carries vital, life-giving oxygen to every cell in your body. If you are always tired, exhausted, breathless on exertion, nervous, irritable, lack appetite, most probably your blood count is below normal. Start taking this hospital-tested remedy and see how soon these symptoms will begin to disappear, and how much better you will begin to feel.

You and your family are taking no chances. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are hospital-proven. At all druggists—50c a package.

BUSINESS UP TREND EVIDENT.

Evidences of Canada's return to decidedly more prosperous conditions are increasing, and the definite improvement that is apparent should be a source of genuine satisfaction to Canadians generally.

Statistics issued over the week-end tell an encouraging story.

For instance, the monthly report issued by the Statistics Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture tells us that in business improvement Canada led all countries in 1933 by a wide margin, and at the end of 1933 was surpassed by only one country, the United Kingdom, in respect to the percentage regained of the extreme losses below the 1928 level.

Figures published by the League of Nations show the level of production at the end of 1933 as compared with the first quarter of 1933 with 1928 taken as 100 as follows: the United States index rose from 56.5 to 67.6, a gain of 19.6 per cent.; Germany, from 64.1 to 74.5, a gain of 16.2 per cent.; the United Kingdom, from 89.9 to 98.6, a gain of 9.7 per cent.; France, from 80.8 to 83.5, a gain of 3.3 per cent., and Canada from 52.5 to 72.2, a gain of 37.5 per cent.

From Ottawa we learn that car loadings on Canadian railways for the week ending May 5 amounted to 43,453, an increase of 6,044 cars over the same week a year ago, and that from the beginning of the year total car loadings showed an increase of 142,280 cars over the same period in 1933 and were nearly 1,000 in excess of 1932.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics continues the joyous story by reporting the economic index as 93.8 for the week of May 5 as against 76.8 a year ago, an increase of 19 per cent., the upward trend continuing steadily since the first of the year.

THERE IS WORK FOR THIS BODY.

A new organization called the Stop-a-Minute, Save-a-Life Association has taken out a provincial charter and proposes to carry on a vigorous educational campaign to make the people of Ontario safety-conscious as regards motoring hazards.

That there is every need of such an effort can be seen in the accident statistics which reveal a heavy loss of life, an appallingly long list of injured persons, and a heavy property loss as the result of automobile mishaps.

The new body's efforts will be directed at both motorists and pedestrians alike, and it would seem that both classes could materially benefit from such a campaign of education.

A great many pedestrians are shockingly careless about how and where they cross urban streets or walk on rural roads, while on the part of children there are dangerous play habits on city streets that put the youngsters in constant peril and give conscientous motorists a needless nerve strain.

At the same time there are criminally negligent motorists who are continually flirting with death and disaster, ignoring not only traffic regulations but the laws of common sense and constituting themselves a perpetual menace to public safety.

The Stop-a-Minute, Save-a-Life Association, in short, will have an abundance of material upon which to work, and if it is successful in correcting even a few of the many dangerous practices of which drivers and pedestrians alike are guilty it will have amply justified its existence.

HIS GOOSE IS COOKED—UNLESS.

Unless Canadian nature-lovers and sportsmen came to the assistance of that splendid lover of wild life, Jack Miner, the wonderful work that he has been carrying on will have to be brought to an end for lack of funds.

As somebody has put it, "Jack Miner's goose is cooked—unless."

For thirty years Mr. Miner's game sanctuary at Kingsville, a feeding and resting place for ducks and geese on their migratory flights, has been a show place that has attracted widespread attention.

Undoubtedly the safe retreat provided for ducks and geese and the food supplied them has been a very effective contribution toward helping to prevent the extinction of our wild fowl.

To this work Mr. Miner has devoted most of his life, his time and his money to this work, and he has now reached the age when he cannot stand the strain of constant travelling and lecturing which heretofore has produced most of his income for operating the sanctuary.

The Federal Government has made a small grant to the veteran nature-lover, but in spite of that assistance he is facing this year a deficit of $5,000.

To meet this crisis a number of Canadian and American sportsmen have incorporated the Jack Miner Migratory Bird Foundation, and are seeking to secure the support of other friends of wild life on both sides of the international line.

Contributions to this emergency-maintenance fund will be gratefully received by the promoters of the Foundation, and local sportsmen who are interested in this work are urged to send their donations to Jack Miner, Trustee, Kingsville, Ont.

LOOK AFTER YOUR VOTE.

In issuing instructions to voters in connection with the coming provincial election, I. A. Humphries, K.C., the chief election officer for the province, sounds a warning to urban electors to make sure that their names are on the lists.

In all cities over 10,000 population the lists are to be prepared by enumerators who will make a house-to-house canvas for the purpose of securing the names of those who are entitled to vote. Four days are allowed for this work, and the electors are asked to give the enumerators every assistance.

There is no reason why any qualified voter should be missed from the list.

As Mr. Humphries puts it, "The enumerator has four days to do his work. If you let those four days go by without seeing your man then don't blame the candidates, the returning officer or any one."

However, should any name be left off the elector will have another chance to make sure of his franchise by a personal appearance before one of the revising officers.

It is plainly the duty of every voter to make sure that he is on the list, and under the system arranged he will only have himself to blame should the final listing find his name missing.

If he has reason to believe that the enumerator has missed him during his rounds he can remedy the matter by seeing that official before his lists are turned in; if he fails to do this, however, he has a second chance to have his name added before the revising officer.

It is gratifying to note that the chief election officer is insisting upon properly qualified enumerators and declares that they will be selected "for their efficiency, competence and courteousness.

WHEN ONTARIO WAS YOUNG.

The placid flow of life in the thirties of last century is something we like to think about, perhaps with a touch of envy, when we feel overwhelmed with the complexities of modern times.

In 1889 Hon. David Mills wrote a series of letters describing Western Ontario life in the thirties as he recalled it. Possibly sixty years later he had forgotten the unpleasant features of his early experiences, saw his boyhood envelopel in the mists of romance, but no doubt it is a true picture in essentials which is painted. These letters now have been published, and the St. Thomas Times-Journal quotes this extract:

"There were plenty of pigeons, wild turkeys, deer and ducks and these often afforded the fresh meat and fowl in the spring and autumn as mutton did in summer.

"In the early autumn we made our bows and arrows around the blazing fire, as those older made their axe handles, maul handles, and the women did their knitting, and sometimes one read while the rest listened, each taking his or her turn; or some neighbors dropped in and talked over the hardships, or the amusements of times long gone by. I can well remember hearing of adventures to which I listened with intense interest, as a bear hunt, a wolf hunt, or of one lost in the woods and searched for by his neighbors.

"Families lived together, and the young learned from the old. They treasured up their words of wisdom, which in practical life was at least as useful as what was learned from books and the folk lore and the unwritten annals of the neighbors became the common property of all."

Families then were self-contained, to an extent we now can barely imagine, both in work and amusements. They lived within themselves, and sons and daughters who left the family home were more likely than not to settle in the immediate neighborhood. They lived simply, but they built magnificently and their work endures in the tradition set up by our pioneering forefathers.—Ottawa Journal.

RURAL HYDRO CONTRACTS.

There can be no doubt that abandonment of the twenty-year contract requirement for Hydro service in Ontario will be welcomed throughout country districts now served by Hydro. The substitution therefor of a five-year contract and subsequent year to year renewal, as proposed by the Hydro Commission, should serve to make Hydro more popular among farmers.

The twenty-year contract has always been criticized by farmers. It amounts in effect to a first mortgage against the property servid, obligating the owner to payment of the service charge. It has operated in no little degree to restrain farmers from taking Hydro service. They have not felt too eager to tie up their property for so long into an uncertain future to a payment which they might find difficult to meet and which might militate against its sale, if desired. And to the extent that t he long term of customers it has contributed to heavier service charges for those who have taken Hydro service, for the service charge—somewhat like local improvements—is set to repay the capital cost of the Hydro line and thus varies with number of customers.

The introduction of the changed contract will rest, of course, upon township councils, as the contracts are between the townships and the consumers. There is thus no assurance to farmers everywhere in rural Hydro districts that they will receive the benefits of the new system. Local factors may influence township councils, such as existing service rates and prospective additions to number of customers. Generally, however, township councils should find it in their interest to inaugurate the new system. Where this is done the result should be an increase in number of customers with resultant lower service charges and eventually, through enlarged consumption, reduction also in consumption rates.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Perhaps the politicians will be able to combine political meetings and the usual strawberry festivals during the June campaign.

The top soil has been blown off thousands of miles of land in the Western States, but even the unusually violent wind of an election campaign does not seem to be disturbing Ontario farm lands.

The Budget debate is expected to wind up early this week. It has already been dragged out much further than necessary and the members should be satisfied to end the talk-fest.

The cheaper fishing licenses for non-resident anglers have been widely approved in Ontario, and will undoubtedly prove even more popular among our American summer visitors.

It transpires that Kitchener was not given any assistance in dealing with strike disturbances because the Police Commission made no request for help. That explains an incident that has been a source of mystification to many people.

Wolves are reported seen near the Ontario Agricultural College. Surely Guelph is not trying to steal Sault Ste. Marie's thunder.

Thousands of Toronto people turned out the other day to welcome Mary Pickford, movie star. The "flickers" offer the quickest route to both fame and fortune.

When Mr. Insull describes his feelings for the Turks in the future, the word "unspeakable" probably will be far from adequate.—Chicago Daily News.

CHAPTER III.

A month later the heads of all the big banking houses in Europe and the high dignitaries of all governments had gathered at Downing Street to learn who had been awarded the bid on the huge French loan. Nathan Rothschild was there, confident that he would be given at least half of the loan, because of the low bid he had entered. The meeting was brought to order. The voice of Herries, prime minister of England, was heard, "It is the decision of the conference that the highest authoritative bid is that of—Baring and Company, London—they will be awarded three quarters of the issue at 71. There being no further business . . ."

Nathan was on his feet, "But you're mistaken, Mr. Herries—there is! I am compelled, my lords and gentlemen, to call your attention to what must certainly be an oversight. My house sent its bid to take the entire issue at a point better than Mr. Baring's. Why is that not recorded?"

Count Ledrantz of Prussia was on his feet, "Your bid was received, Mr. Rothschild, but to put it as delicately as possible, it was thrown out!" He smiled contemptuously, "Let us say on a technicality!"

"A technicality which of course arose only when the war ended," said Nathan suavely.

"You are at liberty to give my statement any interpretation you wish."

"You mean, in brief—I am a Jew."

"Likewise in brief—I do!" said Ledrantz venomously.

"You say Barings take three fourths of the loan?" asked Nathan. "May I ask who takes the other fourth?"

"That is—" said Herries, hesitatingly, "being taken by Count Ledrantz, Prince Metternich, Count Tallyrand and—other."

"I see. A family party. Good-day, gentlemen," said Nathan disgustedly as he left the meeting. He was driven slowly to his home, thinking all the while of the injustice of the meeting. At the door of his home Julie met him.

"Well, father, what news?" Julie asked cheerily. "How stands the house of Rothschild?"

"The House is strong enough, but they've been throwing stones at it—and I'm afraid some of the stones went wild and hit you, Julie."

"What do you mean, father?"

"I've just come from a meeting of men-in-society—the sort of society to which Fitzroy belongs—and they stoned me, because I am a Jew."

"But Fitzroy isn't that sort . . ."

"Julie, you must give him up!" She put her head on her father's shoulder and cried as Hannah entered.

"What is it, Nathan?" said Hannah, alarmed. "Did they outbid you?"

"My bid was thrown out — on a technicality!"

Julie left the room weeping as Nathan spoke to Hannah, "They showed me how they were going to behave to Julie, if she married into their set. She must not continue to see Fitzroy. Take her to Frankfort—she must go at once."

Nathan called Rowerth, his secretary, who offered his sympathy, but Nathan spurned it. He explained to Rowerth that Baring and the others headed by Ledrantz had taken the new loan at 71, and on the first of next month they planned to offer it to the public at 74. It payed four per cent. But there was already in existence a previous government bond that also paid four per cent of which the Rothschilds had a large holding. Now these bonds were selling at 73. If the public could buy one government bond for 73 they wouldn't buy a new issue bearing the same interest at 74. Baring and company planned to boost the price of the old bonds and then offer the new ones a point lower.

"But there will be no rise," said Nathan. "Suppose by the first of the month the old bonds now selling at 73 should fall to 63. Then they couldn't float the new issue at 74. We'll see that those bonds do drop, Rowerth. Send word to my brothers."

On the floor of the London Stock Exchange two days later was an excited crowd. The old French loan bonds were tumbling under the pressure of the House of Rothschild. A hurried conference had been called in the conference room of the exchange by Baring, Ledrantz and the others who subscribed to the new loan.

"Fifty-three!" shouted a messenger as he poked his head into the room.

"Fifty-three!" exclaimed Metternich. "That means I'm down about 25 million francs. And you the same, Ledrantz. Look here, Ledrantz, on the first of the month we're pledged to the French Government to pay for these bonds at 71. Can you do it?"

"No!" replied Ledrantz angrily.

"Nor I!" shouted Tallyrand, "and Baring's bank will close."

Herries opened the door and spoke to the messenger, "Ask Mr. Rothschild if he will leave the floor of the exchange and be kind enough to step into this room a moment."

Rothschild paid no attention to the request of the messenger, but continued with his trading. Within a few minutes Baring was at his side, and persuaded him to come to the conference room.

"I hope I haven't kept you waiting," said Nathan with a smile as he entered the room, "because I know you must all be very busy."

"Rothschild," said Ledrantz, "we sent for you to make you an offer. You resent being kept out of this loan. Mr. Baring, as you know, has three quarters of it. He is willing to part with half of that to you. Will that satisfy you?"

"Absolutely not," said Nathan. "None of you in this room were prepared to pay anything for those bonds. None of you could have stood a ten-point loss. You are financially irresponsible, the whole lot of you—except Mr. Baring. If I hold down the market until after the first of the month—and I can—you are all ruined and dishonored. I'll rescue you on one condition—that you pass me the entire issue at 68!"

"That's impossible," shouted Ledrantz. "What excuse could we offer to the public?"

"Just say it was found necessary," said Nathan.

"On what grounds?"

"Oh!" Nathan shrugged his shoulders, "on a technicality!"

"You've won your fight with me, Jew," snarled Ledrantz, "but remember, victory may be bought too dearly."

"Is that a threat?" Nathan smiled.

"Yes!"

What's in The NAME

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

STETTLER, ALBERTA

The town got its name from the first postmaster, Carl Stettler, who moved to Blumeau, two miles east of the townsite, in 1904, thence removing to the new townsite in the fall of 1905. Mr. Stettler came originally from Switzerland, and following his profession he built the first hotel (The National) in Stettler and was appointed its first postmaster in September, 195. The name was chosen in October, 1905, no other name being proposed. Mr. Stettler was a sort of godfather to the new settlers and this, coupled with the fact that he was the postmaster, was the chief reason why his name was given to the new village. The town was incorporated in 1906.

HOW TO GO

I'm not saying I know how to do it, but I do say that I know how it should be done.

I refer to this business of leaving a party when it's time to go.... You know how often a pleasant evening is spoiled by awkwardness in breaking up. We fiddle and fuddle and look at our watches and murmur tentatively that we ought to be going, we really should. Host and hostess say, oh, it's early and stay a little while longer and don't go so soon, and the guests sink back in their chairs and stay longer than they should and delay their going and go home, wishing they'd gone an hour before they did.

A very silly business. What you really need is Intention, Firmness and Dispatch....During the evening pay no attention to the time at all. Enjoy every moment as if it were precious and immortal. Live joyously, even though you know that at 11 o'clock or 11:15 you will leave this pleasant environment.... And at 11 o'clock or at 11:15, you rise, stick out your chin cheerfully and say you must be going. You're very polite, but firm. It's time for you to go, you are going, and you GO....You get your hat and you get your coat and you walk to the door and say what a nice time you have had and you put out your hand and shake the hands of host and hostess and you turn and walk through the door and down the front stairs....and you are GONE. Out of their lives.

You get home in time to get a fair amount of sleep. And you have left early enough for your friends to sit down easily and talk about the pleasure of the evening and to empty the ash trays and shake out a cushion or two and put the chairs back in place....and bless your memory. Everything's all right. You haven't strained the friendship. You'll be invited again some time. How nice.

How simple, too. And yet practically impossible. Some people can do it, others can't. Blessings on those who can, how sad for those who can't....Perfect hospitality is a gracious thnig, but it's so confoundedly difficult to remember that the perfect host cannot exist without the perfect guest....who knows when to go, and goes!

Attempts to extinguish a blaze which broke out in a 20,000-ton coal dump in Clackmannanshire colliery, in Wales, two and one-half years ago, have failed, and it is expected the fire will continue until next year.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

TORONTO AGAIN THE CAPITAL

On this date, in 1849 the Parliament of the Province of Canada returned to Toronto. It had been located at Kingston at the union in 1841 and then transferred to Montreal; but the riots over the rebellion losses bill and the burning of Parliament House on April 25 lost Montreal the capital and Toronto was in political luck for a few years. The nine years that had elapsed from the departure of the legislators had seen the old building put to various uses. For a number of years the building was used as an insane asylum. Many interior changes were then made, including the enclosing of the staircases on each side to prevent the patients throwing themselves over. Later the impediments were removed and the rooms put into some sort of decency for the university which used them for class rooms for three years. Now accessories were needed, the throne having been destroyed in the Montreal fire as well as one of the maces, the other having been saved by a young man named Sanford Fleming who afterwards became world known as the inventor of standard time and other scientific triumphs.

Considerable expense was incurred in renovating, refitting and redecorating the chambers, but the populace was repaid by a great ceremony, with all sorts of frills, when Lord Elgin opened the Parliament on May 14, many people from various parts of the province journeying to Toronto to participate in or witness the "fuss and feathers", much as they do annually at the opening of Parliament at Ottawa.

The three years that elapsed before the capital was removed to Quebec saw many stormy debates and exciting incidents. The journals of 1851 at Toronto are notable for one of the earliest suggestions of Confederation, William Hamilton Merritt, the promoter of the Welland canal, moving that "an address be sent to the queen to consider the project of a general confederation of all the British North American provinces," but he only received six supporters.

William Lyon Mackenzie re-appeared in Parliament during his three-year period, taking his seat for Haldimand. His return from exile caused serious riots, when attempts were made upon his life and the troops had to be called out to restore order. That was the last public disloyalty against him; thereafter he was ignored by the unruly. In 1851 the capital went to Quebec for five years. The last sessions after Parliament in Toronto were 1856-59. Then the buildings were converted into military barracks; but in 1867 they again became a legislative arena, the Ontario Legislative meeting there 1867-1892, when the present building in Queen's Park was opened.

A Thought

NEVER GREW YOUNG

Philosophers declare that a man is oldest at twenty-one. That is the age of sophistication, of world-weariness.

About twenty-one his mind slowly becomes supple again, and he takes a renewed interest in human affairs.

But there are a few whose minds never got beyond the trying twenty-one-year-old period.

You find them among literary and dramatic critics deploring romance and sentiment in books or plays. You meet them in society, actuated with the conviction that there are only certain people one can possibly endure. You listen to them in the pulpit so far removed from the human purse-beat that you might suppose their veins to be filled with sawdust.

Don't scoff at them. Instead, if you have children in your home, ask one of them for dinner. Let them come into contact with the child mind and thaw in the swift imaginativeness and romantic realism of immaturity.

Poor fellows....They are the men who never grow young.

$34.69 GOLD AT LONDON

WHEAT GAINS UNDER HEAVY EXPORT TRADE

Unfavorable Weather Picture Also Aids in Winnipeg Advance.

NO RELIEF IN U.S. BELT.

WINNIPEG, May 14. (CP).—Export business in Canadian wheat was the dominating influence in the grain pit to-day and wheat futures ended to-day's session 1½ to 1¾ cents higher. Traders heeded word that export business was around 700,000 bushels.

May delivery closed at 70⅛ cents July at 71⅞ and October at 72¾. The trend marked a sharp reversal from that of the two sessions preceding.

The weather picture was none too cheerful. Some rain fell in United States winter wheat areas but Canada's prairies were dry, barring light rains in Manitoba, and the United States spring wheat belt found no relief.

INTERLISTED ISSUES SOFT

Domestic Stocks Fall Off During To-day's Trading on Toronto Mining.

LATE TRADE ACTIVE.

TORONTO, May 14.—(CP)—In a generally weak market some of the gold stocks dropped quite sharply this afternoon on the mining section of the Toronto Stock Exchange. The interlisted leaders were weakened by a sell-off on the New York market and domestic listings fell in the downward trend. Volume picked up in the afternoon. Issues meeting with selling pressure included Maple Leaf, Bagamac, Greene Stabell, Gunnar Gold and Eldorado.

International Nickel recovered to $26 to show a net loss of 60 cents. Ford 'A' was heavily sold all day and touched 20 but recovered a little. C.P.R. and Brazilian finished unchanged.

Distillery stocks were all off until the late rally when Walker's common came back to show a net gain of ¼ at 32½. Industrial Alcohol finished at 11⅝, off ⅛ and Distillers Seagrams, closing at 15½, was down ¼. Brewing Corporation Pfd. dropped to 27¼ before turning up. Canada Malting closed ¾ lower.

Trading Items on Stocks.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The market showed greater resilence in recent sessions but rallies have lacked the vigor to carry through thus indicating that for the time being further backing and filling is necessary to establish a base from which constructive operations can be resumed.

However, a number of issues are already displaying strong resistance to selling pressure and with a more favorable turn in the political aspect, could rebound sharply. We consider scale accumulation in selected issues the best policy at the present time.

Radio Pfd. "B" has been one of the outstanding performers during the past week, and in line with previous suggestions, we would maintain constructive commitments in this issue.

National Distillers — Although liquor prices are likely to be reduced we believe that such a development has already been discounted marketwise by N.A.D. and the stock has now reached a level where it is meeting with good buying. We suggest its purchase for a trading turn.

American Can's new products have proved a source of substantial revenue and this year's earnings should exceed those of last year. At current levels the stock offers a fair return on invested capital as well as excellent profit possibilities from appreciation in market value.

Brokers' Opinions.

Weingarten and Co.—We do not believe that the market is going to decline very much further, nor on the other hand are we looking for any worth-while advance. Share prices should hold in a very narrow range for the next few days.

Goodbody and Co.—We would wait for weakness on volume before making new commitments. If the market dries up and stabilizes there will be plenty of time to pick up stocks.

Paine Webber and Co.—Special heaviness in the rails with Atchison and N.Y. Central making new 1934 lows, suggests the possibility of somewhat lower general levels for the market as a whole. Thereafter, a turn about would probably be led by the rails, whose early actions should serve as a usual trading guide.

having regard to the cost of living," the Minister said, "these rates are now higher than ever in insurance history."

May Be Out Year.

The bill also raised from 26 to 52 weeks the possible period in which unemployed might receive benefits without an enquiry into their means. From these provisions alone 650,000 persons will benefit, with a cost to the State of $37,500,000.

Most important of all, in the Minister's view, is the provision which closes the gap between the school-leaving age and the age for entry into unemployment insurance, by raising the school-leaving age.

For the first time municipal education authorities can under the bill be required to provide courses in instruction for unemployed boys and girls leaving school; and the Minister of Labor is authorised to compel attendance.

The purpose of this provision of course is to prevent boys and girls who have left school but are unable to find jobs, wandering idly about the streets.

NICKEL DROPS $1 AT TORONTO

Financial Institutions Keep Up Fair Front as Fractional Losses Predominate.

FOLLOWS N.Y. LEAD.

TORONTO, May 14. (CP). — A general wearing down of the prices through selling by tired holders and weak marginal traders and also the influence of a depressed New York market gave industrial shares another drugging to-day. Nickel dropped $1 and fractional losses were scattered through all groups with financial institutions holding better than the others.

In the senior gold group, losses of 5 to 25 cents were registered for Dome, Lake Shore, McIntyre and Pioneer. Teck and Hargreaves added 5 cents each. Sudbury basin in the base metal shares lost all of its recent gain and narrow recessions were recorded also for Falconbridge, Hudson Bay, Sherritt and Base Metals Corporation. Noranda held a small gain till the close.

Auction System Better

The Canadian system of paying average prices for a crop was unique, said Mr. Gregory. He believed the American auction system would be preferable.

"Would the auction system be feasible" said M. I. Senn, Cons., Haldimand.

"Yes. I see no insurmountable difficulties."

Was B. C. Harrison of the British America Tobacco Company in the Ontario tobacco field in 1931? asked Norman Sommerville, committee counsel.

Mr. Gregory replied in the affirmative. He recalled Mr. Harrison had gone out with him to see a crop.

"Did you have any discussion with him about conditions," questioned counsel.

Witness again replied in the affirmative. Mr. Harrison had had experience in the Southern United States and he had explained to Mr. Harrison the difference in conditions between the south and in Ontario, said Mr. Gregory. He had told Mr. Harrison "these people very much resented being put on the level, the standards of living, of the southern pauperized grower."

"Did you consider the system being followed was going to lead to pauperized industry here," questioned Mr. Senn.

As he remembered Mr. Harrison had been reasonable. The system which was being followed in Ontario in 1931 could lead to a pauperized condition the growers, said witness.

The barn-buying system had its objectionable features, Mr. Gregory said who reiterated his belief the auction-buying system would be better. He had never seen any collusion between the large companies in buying. It was an unwritten law though, no one would raise the Imperial Tobacco Company price.

The Imperial Company, he considered, had been fair to the growers up to the time the conditions of 1931 developed, answered Mr. Gregory.

"Did you discuss these chaotic conditions with Mr. Buell," asked Mr. Somerville.

"Yes."

"What did he say was to blame?"

"Too many fingers in the pie."

"What did he mean?"

"In inferred conditions had gotten out of Mr. Buell's and my hands. We understood this unique system and that the New York and London management were having too much to say over something they did not understand."

During 1931, said Mr. Gregory, the Imperial Tobacco Company for the first time instructed its buyers an average price must be maintained, the average for that year being 18½ cents. He said he felt ashamed to obey these instructions because it meant buying for 16, 17 and 18 cents, tobacco worth more. He told of one farmer losing $2,280 — his crop had been valued at 24 cents a pound but it had to be bought at 16½ cents to maintain the average price.

In May, 1932, the Imperial Tobacco Company demanded his resignation, said Mr. Gregory. It was his belief the reason was that T. L. Lea, who had just come to the company from the United States wanted his job.

Gray Miller, president of the Imperial Company fyled with the committee a statement showing that cigarettes were reduced between 1930 and 1933, five percent irrespective of the drop in excise tax. J. L. Ilsley, Lib Hants-King, said the drop in prices to the growers was 40 percent but the Imperial president said the two could not be compared because of the presence of imported tobacco.

the professional, municipal and business life of the entire city and county and surrounding district.

Bar In Attendance

Members of Peterborough Law Association of which the late judge's son Wilfrid F. Huycke is president, and whose members were in such close professional contact and harmony with the judge throughout his twenty-five years on the county bench, were present in a body.

Representatives of the Law Associations of Northumberland and Durham Counties, were also in attendance to pay tribute and respect to the memory of Judge Huycke, who had presided on numerous occasions over sittings of county court in those counties, as also were Judges L. V. O'Connor of Cobourg and J. A. McGibbon of Victoria.

The former presiding at a sitting of Division Court at Warkworth this morning made reference to the deep loss that had been caused by the death of Judge Huycke. He said the loss would be particularly felt in Warkworth district, where Judge Huycke had spent his boyhood days and where he was so intimately known and well loved.

Judge O'Connor referred to the late Judge as an outstanding member of the judiciary and as a classical scholar, and stated that apart from these qualities, he had a kindly disposition and would be missed by his many friends throughout the district. He spoke also of his own close relationship with the late judge, and spoke of the loss that he felt personally.

Huge Crowd Attends.

At the late Judge's Engleburn residence the space proved to be totally inadequate to accommodate the huge crowd of people in attendance to pay their final respect. The gathering included the Mayor and City Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough; Warden Rork Ferguson and members of the County Council as well as civic officials representative of Peterborough County and adjoining counties. City and Provincial Police; and the Federal and Provincial members of Parliament, and also included President Robert S. Haddow and a delegation from Branch 52, Canadian Legion, in which organization the Judge was particularly interested.

Among others noticed at the funeral were: George A. Gillespie, E. A. Peck, K.C., M.P., F. D. Kerr, K.C., the Hon. George N. Gordon, K.C., S. T. Medd, K.C., B. D. Hall, R. R. Hall, K.C., J. H. Burnham, and S. R. Armstrong, who were all present over twenty-five years ago when Judge Huycke was formally sworn to office as chief judicial officer for the county of Peterborough.

The Rev. Frank M. Wootton, pastor of Trinity United Church, to which congregation the late Judge had belonged during the entire period of his long residence in the city, conducted the service.

In calling upon the assistance of Venerable Archdeacon Dr. R. C. Blagrave, rector of St. John's Anglican Church, the Rev. Mr. Wootton referred to the close friendship that had existed between Judge Huycke and Archdeacon Blagrave over a period of many years.

In a beautifully eloquent address Archdeacon Blagrave referred to the late Judge Huycke, as a citizen, as a patriot, as a judge, and as a friend of the returned soldier.

The speaker said he felt that those who had lived so fully in any community for such a large number of years as Judge Huycke had lived in Peterborough, would be so well known that anything one might say about them had better be left unsaid. It was only if a person was unworthy that they needed words.

"Judge Huycke was known to many of you here this afternoon since childhood," Archdeacon Blagrave remarked, casting his glance over the venerable bowed heads that were grouped around him, "and it is unnecessary that any words be said, beyond this—that we wan to try and express our deep appreciation of him as a citizen of this city and as one who not only was widely known in the city, but who had given of himself unstintingly for many years in whatever service he was able to render."

He would speak of the late Judge Huycke, he said, not only as a citizen but as a patriot, who was always loyal to the highest of British ideals. He was called upon to give his own flesh and blood during the Great War and he did so unselfishly. All the members of his family are gathered together here today, but one but he was given in the service of his country willingly and proudly."

Speaking of the late judge as a member of the judiciary, the speaker, said, "he adorned his public office with dignity and made it outstanding by reason of the balance of his judgments and the reasoned power of his mind. He truly belonged to the stalwarts of a passing generation".

He went on to speak of the late Judge as a man of rare culture and attainment, and made particular reference to his unfailing interest in the welfare of the returned soldier.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs Meredith, Douglas and Wilfrid Huycke, sons; James Blaiklock of Toronto and William Duffield of London, sons-in-law; and Fred Huycke, a brother of Norham.

Honorary-bearers were: Messrs Dr. F. C. Neal, the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., W. G. Morrow, E. G. Patterson, Rev. Dr. A. W. Mackenzie, head of Grove School, Lakefield, George Graham Chief Constable Samuel Newhall ex-Warden John McIntosh and F. J. Squire of Havelock.

Besides three sons and two daughters, Judge Huycke is survived by three brothers and five sisters.

Bar's Resolution.

The following resolution of condolence to the family of His Honor Judge Huycke was moved at meeting of the local Bar Association by E. A. Peck, K.C., M.P., and seconded by R. R. Hall, K.C.:

"The sudden death of His Honor Judge Huycke added another to the honor roll, now one of considerable length, of Canadian Judges who have recently died holding office. Within a few hours of being stricken by a seizure from which he did not recover, Judge Huycke was performing his duties at the Court House as one of His Majesty's Judges.

"For nearly two years Judge Huycke had been waging a brave but almost hopeless contest to recover his health. The late Judge Huycke for a quarter of a century presided as Judge of the County of Peterborough, and for almost the same length of time was President of the County Judges' Association of Ontario. He was one who was known as a self-made man, having successfully progressed from teaching as a member of the staff of the Cobourg Collegiate Institute to the profession of Law, which he practised in Cobourg for nearly the same length of time that he was a Judge.

"His conspicuous ability as a public speaker and as an eminent counsel was well recognized, and the outstanding prominence which came to him afterwards on the Bench was a distinction well merited. His deep interest in all movements for the public good, his untiring activities on behalf of ex-service men and their families, and his broad sympathies for all those who were in need and in difficulty, earned for him a reputation for kindness and generosity recognized by all who knew him.

"Upon the Bench his recognised ability and thorough and complete training as a counsel and lawyer enabled him to perform his duties as a Judge with fairness, patience, promptness and with a deep sense of justice.

"The death of Judge Huycke to the people of the City and County of Peterborough and to his many friends throughout the Province, comes as a shock of irreparable loss, and to all those who knew him, both as a Judge and as a friend, that loss can never readily be forgotten.

His high character, his never-failing sense of duty, his broad sympathy and kindliness endeared him to all those who knew him, regardless of their positions in life.

The death, a few years ago, of Mrs. Huycke, was a loss from which the late Judge Huycke never fully recovered, and since that time there was a progressive impairment of his health, until recently when he was unable to ward off the approaching ravages of disease which suddenly overcame him.

"The Peterborough Law Association wishes to express to the members of the family of the late Judge Huycke, its feeling of loss, which every member endures, in the removal of Judge Huycke from his position of leadership as Judge of our Courts. The members of the Association feel the loss more keenly in view of the fact that their president, Mr. W. F. Huyck, is a son of the deceased. These words of sympathy which the Association desires to extend to the members of Judge Huycke's family who mourn his loss, do not adequately express the regard and affection with which he was held by those who daily came before him in their practice of the profession of Law, and who feel as other citizens feel, the loss of a Judge as well as a constant and kindly friend.

FLIERS HOP OFF ON LONG FLIGHT

sight less than five minutes after leaving the ground.

Speed of 120 Miles

The "Leonardi Da Vinci" is powered with a Wright J6 motor, capable of developing 300 horse power. It has a maximum speed of 150 miles per hour and a cruising speed of 120 miles.

The fliers are carrying a wireless receiver and have made arrangements for hourly weather reports.

Sabelli is 37 years old and lives in New York. His flying suit was loaned to him by Peggy Rex of Cleveland. It bears the autographs of Ethel Barrymore, Frank Hawks and Jimmy Doolittle.

The flight, if successful, will be the first from New York to Rome. Thirteen persons have been lost in five other attempts.

Their Food Supply.

Pond and Sabelli took for food 12 assorted sandwiches, three cans of tomato juice, a jar of orange juice, a quart of coffee, a gallon of water, three pounds of eating chocolate, Italian bread sticks and two cans of emergency rations consisting of dried fruit and pressed vegetables.

The plane carries the number 13137.

Not Sighted.

HALIFAX, May 14.—(C.P.)—Captain George Pond and Lieut. Cesare Sabelli, winging their way over the Atlantic toward Rome, evidently swerved away from Nova Scotia to escape fog that was laying a blanket over their original course this afternoon.

Observers along the route usually followed by trans-Atlantic fliers were scanning the skies in vain. There were no reports of the big orange and maroon monoplane which hopped off from Floyd Bennett Field at 6.25 E.S.T. this morning.

Fine weather appeared to be in prospect for the adventurous aviators early this morning when the sun peeked out through the clouds, but later the atmophere became hazy and dense fog shut down on the coast.

More obstacles lay ahead. Harbor Grace reported the fliers would encounter fog and a stiff east wind off the Newfoundalnd coast.

Cotton gloves shipped from Germany to the United States last year weighed nearly 900 tons.

Question: How Much Is a Baby Worth?

Mrs. James McDonald III and Baby McDonald.

Here is a short, short story about a baby. It seems that James McDonald III, of San Francisco, heir to an oil fortune, eloped with a young lady by name of Alecia Breeze. They were married and happy, but when they came home to raised eyebrows and parental frowns, the boy's family started an annulment suit and the couple parted. Then Mr. Stork paid a visit and shortly after young Mr. McDonald was presented with bill that nearly caused him to choke—it said "$1,922.70. PLEASE REMIT."

The itemized bill appears in the lay-out above. Dr. Allen, obstetrician, says it was quite a fair bill. Other doctors agree but the judge wondered why the doctor should have charged more in this case than in the case of his wife. Then the doctors admitted they charged in proportion to the wealth of the patient.

So the bill hasn't yet been paid and baby Jacqueline coos in all ignorance of the fuss she is causing.

Meanwhile, the question that has been bothering San Francisco jurors is "How much is a baby worth?"

Lawrence Ostracized By His Reputation?

Aircraftsman Shaw, better known to the world as Col. T. E. Lawrence, "Lawrence of Arabia," is reported in an interview by a London newspaper as declaring himself banned from every nation because of his reputation. He says, according to the interview, that he is alleged to be associated with the secret service, whereas he is not and never has been. Lawrence has announced his resignation from the air force next year and in the interview declares that he doesn't know what he'll do. "No reputable firm will have me" he is quoted as saying. He will not, however, write further about his adventures in Arabia, the paper states. The above layout shows LEFT, Col. Lawrence in the garb of an Arab chief during his work in Arabia during the war. CENTRE, in army uniform and RIGHT, as an ordinary aircraftsman, a post he has been filling for the past few years. Meanwhile persistent rumors from England state that Lawrence may be called in by the government to aid in quelling the recent warfare in Arabia started by Ibn Saud.

Pulitzer Prize-Winner To Direct Own Symphony In Canada

Frank Percival Price the Dominion carillonneur, whose symphony "The St. Lawrence", for full orchestra won for him the coveted Pultzer prize for the student in music in North America who "may be deemed the most talented and deserving." Mr. Price is first Canadian to gain the distinction. The above picture taken in Mr. Price's beautiful studio in the Peace Tower at Ottawa, shows the composer and his wife. A copy of the score for the symphony is on the piano. Mr. Price has consented to direct the first playing of his symphony in Canada by the Toronto Symphony orchestra in the fall. It was the Toronto University who first rejected his symphony when submitted, as "lacking in beauty."

VANISHING RACE 'WHITE' INDIANS FOUND AMID JUNGLES OF GUIANA

Government Officials Stumble Upon Last Remnants of Dying Tribe.

ONCE POWERFUL.

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, May 14 (CP Cable)—From the depths of British Guiana's wild jungles has come the story of a vanishing race of "White" Indians—the tragic tale of the warlike and powerful Waiwais, whose thousands have dwindled to a handful of old men and women resigned to death and the extinction of their tribe.

Deep in the almost unexplored hinterland, a survey commission of the British Guiana Government stumbled upon the last remnants of the dying tribe. Its eight survivors were living in a tiny village in the Dubokenako Creek region, at the headquarters of the Great Essequibo River.

They dwelt aone, and in this circumstance the explorers saw an indication also that the Tarumas, the only tribe of Indians who dared mingle with the Waiwais, had met the fate now threatening the pink-skinned savages. Up to 1926, at least, the Waiwais and the Tarumas had lived together, last fragments of two once mighty races.

Dwindling Fast

When the late Dr. W. E. Roth, United States anthropologist, first found the "White" Indians in 1925 they were living with dark-skinned Tarumas in two adjoining villages. The Waiwais then numbered 160—the Tarumas about 400. Before that, the two tribes had held sway over hundreds of miles of territory in the British Guinian Southland, near the Brazilian border.

Though colored differently, they were cousins. Other tribes feared to encroach upon the Waiwais' territory, not only because of their belligerent nature, but because native superstition credited them with supernatural powers from their coloring.

Their skin is not exactly white; Dr. Roth described it as a "pale pink." To the native, though, it is white, hence their name, which means "tapioca" in native dialect. They have other attributes of the white race, not the least important of which is their tendency to whistle while working.

CUTTEN READY FOR QUESTIONS

Prepares to Defend His Theory of Freer Markets at Hearing.

OPERATORS INTERESTED.

CHICAGO, May 14. (AP). Arthur W. Cutten, widely known grain market operator, to-day indicated he would not only defend himself but also his theory of free markets at the government hearing at which charges against him of violating the Grain Futures Act will be heard.

La Salle street operators, knowing the canniness of Cutten, prepared to follow the proceedings to-day closely, curious to ascertain if the testimony will give the "inside" on the manner in which the famed spectulator credited with millions in profits operates.

Cutten was reticent about what his lawyers would say in answer to the accusation that he failed to report or reported falsely on his operations in the grain market. Specifically the government alleges Cutten reported he was "short" 600,000 bushels in the market Jan. 6, 1931, whereease it contends he was then "long" 2,496,000 bushels.

"But I'll be there personally" he said, "to answer any questions they want to ask me."

WEEK-END RAIN BIG AID TO CROPS

General Rain Gives Needed Moisture to Parched Pastures.

FROSTS PROVE COSTLY.

(By The Canadian Press)

Ontario farmers looked upon rain-drenched fields and pasturelands to-day with new hope. Week-end rain brought needed moisture to stunted early growth and to barren pastures. At the same time frost struck in the Alliston district and suddenly wiped out extensive fields of young plants.

The rain which fell Sunday was reported general over the province, bringing greatly-needed moisture to dairy farm pastures where stock had become emaciated through lack of fresh grass and shortage of winter feed. Pastures which should have been ready for livestock by now were still undeveloped as there had been no rain in two weeks.

While the week-end downpour promised to rectify this condition to some extent, more moisture is needed and the Meteorological Office in Toronto held out little hope for another shower within the next three or four days.

The rain came at a critical time for early growth, augmenting moisture already in the earth.

In the Alliston district the rain was followed by a sharp frost which killed off thousands of young tomato plants and early vegetable plants at an estimated loss of $40,000.

PORKERS IN RAID.

BELLO HORIZTONE, Brazil, May 14 (C.P.).—Hunting wild pigs may be sport, but residents of Santa Cruz, Minas Geraes, found it no fun when the pigs turned the tables on them.

Several thousand savage porkers stampeded through the town from the nearby forest, driving the people from the streets and taking temporary possession of the place.

Townspeople felled scores of the pigs with firearms, bricks and anything else that came to hand.

"AN EYE TO THE FUTURE - AN EAR TO THE GROUND"

—this describes General Motors' policy, a policy by which the public is given what it wants in better cars year after year, and yet is safely protected against ill-timed or dubious experiments

Before you sign the Order..

BEFORE the order is signed, the wise purchaser of a new automobile verifies the facts about the company behind the car—and its responsibility towards owners.

These facts seldom appear in the specification sheets, or in the catalogues and advertisements. In some cases, the inquiring buyer runs up against a dictatorial attitude or one of indifference.

But General Motors is always frank to acknowledge its obligation to serve the customer in the way that the customer wants to be served.

The first job of General Motors, as we see it, is steadily to give the public what it wants in better cars.

The second job is to protect buyers of our cars against experiments of doubtful utility or doubtful value.

The third, to make efficient service and genuine replacement parts conveniently available to every owner at low cost.

All three imply the need for experience—stability—progressive engineering—organization on a nation-wide scale. And in all of these, General Motors is unequalled in the industry.

These jobs are made easier, also, by our fixed habit of taking nothing for granted.

Just as we test our cars on the greatest proving grounds in the world, so we test our ideas on the Proving Ground of Public Opinion.

Through the answers of 60,000 Canadians to our annual Customer Questionnaires, we checked our new designs against what the public wanted.

That is why our 1934 General Motors Cars, with their Streamlined Beauty, Knee-Action Wheels and No-Draft Ventilation are riding the crest of popular favor.

We saw to it, months before production, that our cars as well as our policies could withstand your closest scrutiny and closest comparison before you sign the order.

TO PERMIT FISHING IN ANCHORED BOATS

Anglers Can Take Any Fish But Bass and Maskinonge After May 14.

Anglers in anchored boats and using natural bait can take any fish but bass and maskinonge from the waters of the Counties of Durham, Northumberland, Victoria and a recommendation submitted to the Peterborough, after May 14, under Federal Government by the Provincial Department of Game and Fisheries. Formerly the season in these areas opened July 1, under the special law.

The regulation which it is expected that Ottawa will issue specifies that only "coarse fish" may be taken, and this is interpreted by the Provincial Departments as including pickerel, pike, perch, catfish and fish other than bass and maskinonge. Natural bait must be used, such as worms, frogs and minnows. Artificial baits, including June bug spinners, are prohibited except for shore line fishing.

The new regulation will bring the four specified counties into line with the rules in other parts of Ontario. Among the regulations are:

Pike and Pickerel.—Season opens May 16th. Limit of catch 8 per day.

Bass—Season opens July 1st. Limit of catch, 6 per day; minimum size 10 inches long.

Maskinonge—Season opens July 1st. Limit of catch 2 per day.

No one shall use artificial lights for the taking of fish by any means.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Fenelon Falls Mill Destroyed By Fire

LINDSAY, Ont., May 14 (Special to Examiner).—Dunn Brothers' saw and shingle mill at Fenelon Falls was totally destroyed by fire on Saturday night, shortly after six o'clock. The fire is believed to have been started by a spark. Fanned by a stiff breeze, the flames made great headway before the firemen arrived. Besides the mill, a quantity of shingles and other material were also destroyed. The firemen prevented the fire from spreading to the lumber piles and residence close to the mill. The loss is estimated at $2,500, with no insurance.

A twenty-four-hour time system is to be tried in England.

TWO BICYCLES GIVE 45 YEARS ROAD SERVICE

H. B. Rye Averages 10 Miles Daily During 45 Years of Cycling.

CHEAP TRANSPORTATION

Major R. T. Hounsell Still Cycling Enthusiast After 25 Years.

Two bicycles that have given their respective owners an aggregate of 45 years' convenient and economical transportation are still in daily service around the city. Based on an estimated average of ten miles a day, the machines have travelled a combined distance of 164,250 miles.

They are owned by Harold B. Rye and Major Reginald T. Hounsell, who can probably lay claim to the distinction of being the two oldest active cyclists in the whole of Central Ontario.

Just what their respective ages might be is a matter for conjecture; sufficient to state both veterans of the wheel can recall the introduction of the so-called "penny-farthing" contraptions that were father to the bicycle as it is familiarly and popularly known to-day.

Still Rides Daily

Mr. Rye, paddle manufacturer, boat livery owner, and ex-warden of the county, is a cycling enthusiast of 45 years' standing. His first cycle, he recalled was of the type commonly dubbed the "kangaroo," while the present machine on which Mr. Rye's erect bearded figure may be seen wheeling around the city almost daily has been his constant possession for thirty years.

A "Planet" cycle, it was made by Sam Bully of Toronto, and while constant usage and wear and the ravages of time have necessitated many replacements, the machine still embodies some of the component parts that went into its original make-up.

Mr. Rye, who still averages his daily ten miles awheel the year around, has never taken kindly to the automobile. It was one of the earliest motor cars to make its appearance on the stretes of this city, the veteran cyclist recounted, that got out of the control of its owner while in reverse gear and caused severe damage to Mr. Rye's beloved bicycle—the trusty machine that he still owns and which has come to be regarded by him as a most cherished possession.

Cycling for 25 Years

Major Hounsell, printer, who prides himself on 37 years' continuous service in the Canadian militia, has been riding a bicycle for a quarter century. While he discontinued the use of his cycle during the past winter, he hopes soon to be again averaging his six miles a day to and from his home and The Examiner printing shop in which he works.

"I have been riding my present wheel for fifteen years," Major Hounsell remarked. "I always call it my new wheel because that's what it really is. It has had replacements such as new tires, new wheels, and new pedals, but it has the original frame, and with a coat of enamel would look like new."

Asked what make of cycle it had been, Major Hounsell replied, "It was a 'Perfect' model, and that is just what it has proved to be."

Like his contemporary, Major Hounsell was reluctant to disclose his age; he admitted, however, that he was no youngster when he first became an active cyclist. "I was always crazy about cycing," he remarked in a tone suggestive of his present enthusiasm for the pastime and healthful recreation which cycling affords, "but as a youth I could not afford to buy one. At that time they cost $150 each, which was a stiff price."

CHARGE IS LAID IN GIRL'S DEATH

Police Investigate the Finding of Broken Body in Park.

DRINKING PARTY.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—(A.P.)— Twenty-two hours after the broken body of Miss Louise Jepperson, 23, Utah girl, was found in Gold Gate Park, Millard Hickman, Port engineer for the Matson Navigation Company, was booked by police on a murder charge here to-day.

Hickman admitted, Captain of Inspectors Charles Dullea said, that Miss Jeffeson, member of a prominent Ogden and Salt Lake City family, was in his apartment until 3 a.m. Sunday, but that she then left, alone.

The girl, whose body was found about an hour later in the park, was criminally attacked, beaten and strangled with a belt and scarf from her ensemble outfit, police said.

Captain Dullea said Hickman, 40 years old, was in a party of four dancing and drinking with Miss Jeppesen Saturday night and into Sunday morning. Hickman, Captain Dullea said, declared he had no knowledge of the girl's death.

Others in the party who were questioned were Thomas Dee, 40, official of an engineering concern; and Miss Blanche McKay, attractice blonde residing at a San Francisco hotel.

BIG WAGE INCREASE.

THREE RIVERS, Que., May 14 (C.P.).—The St. Lawrence Paper Company has decided to increase wages of all employees 10 per cent., retroactive to May 1, it was announced here to-day. The decision will affect about 425 employees here. International Paper Company and the Consolidated Paper Company, both of whom have plants in this district, have already put in effect similar increases.

Magistrate Langley Celebrates Birthday

who upon the occasion of a birthday anniversary was this morning extended the felicitations of his legal associates and also the members of the City Police Department, prior to the opening of his court. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., joined with J. Walton Stevenson, vice-president of the local Law Association in congratulating His Worship, while Police Chief Samuel Newhall, heartily endorsed their good wishes on behalf of himself and his department.

Magistrate Langley, in voicing his appreciation of the good wishes extended to him, remarked, "you were kind enough to express the opinion that I am fair and impartial in the administration of justice. I can only say I consider fairness and impartiality to be an obligation devolving upon anyone in public office."

Magistrate Langley is chairman of the Police Commission, and as an expression of their good will and appreciation the members of the Police Department provided a vase of red roses that stood on the magistrate's bench to relieve the characteristic drabness of the police court room.

It is interesting to note that His Worship is now in his twentieth year as county magistrate and that he has served as police magistrate in the city for over 12 years.

101ST ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED BY CONGREGATION OF ST. PAUL'S

Rev. William Barclay, M.A., Ph.D., of Hamilton, Special Preacher.

MRS. CORMAN SOLOIST.

With special services conducted by Rev. William Barclay, M.A., Ph.D., minister of the Central Presbyterian Church in Hamilton, the congregation of St. Paul's Church celebrated an anniversary of twofold significance yesterday. It was the one hundred and first anniversary of Presbyterianism in Peterborough and the seventy-fifth anniversary of the opening of the St. Paul's Church building.

Beautiful musical programs featured by the vocal solos of Mrs. George Corman, a visitor from Central Presbyterian Church in Brantford, were presented during the day under the direction of M. B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., organist and choirmaster. Mrs. Corman, a soprano gold medalist, sang at both services. Among those in attendance were a number of former members and friends of the church from outside the city visiting for the significant occasion.

Dr. Barclay, who presided at both morning and evening gatherings, took as his subject in the morning, "Surmounting Mediocrity" and in the evening, "Observing the Rules". The text of his evening address was taken from Ecclesiastes 10:8, "and whoso breaketh an hedge, a serpent shall bit him".

Commencing an interpretation of the text, Dr. Barclay remarked that is is not a text frequently used as the trend of the day is to get away from literal sermons to sermons on the everyday problems of the world. It is a text, however with a very wide application having a message for every man and woman engaged in the business of life, he said.

Interprets Text

The 'hedge' can be taken as symbolising a wall, he continued. If a gap is broken in the wall, the serpent will get in. Or the wall can in turn be seen as a rule of life, which, if broken, allows access for evil. There are many rules which man cannot break with immunity. Some of the rules pertaining to bodily and mental health can be given by physicians but some of the rules pertain to a health which is outside the realm of the physicians. These rules pertain to the health of the spirit. While outside the realm of the physicial and mental, however, the health of the spirit has a direct influence on physical and mental health. A man who has strayed from religion may find an unhealthy state of his spirit reflected quite concretely in his physical and mental health, Rev. Barclay declared.

"I like the directness of that text," he continued, "It is typical of the Bible. It calls a spade a spade. Another version might be, 'Be sure that your sin will find you out; the way of the transgressor is hard.'"

Ignorance No Excuse

"The text states definitely that ignorance will not protect the wrongdoer. It emphasizes the grim side of life. Many may not know that there are snakes beyond the hedge but he is bitten regardless of his ignorance. Man is in the position of the child who must learn that fire burns and that the force of gravity works at the edgeof the precipice.

"Are you going to cry out against Heaven that such grim penalties for ignorance are allowed? You must take the world as it is. You must learn the rules and when you know them keep them. They are there to be found out. It is a stern text but stern texts are needed today. It is a text which applies to millionaires and poor men."

The principal message which the text has for the man in the everyday world is to be constructive rather than destructive, Rev. Barclay said. It is to be inferred from the text that if the wall is built up, the serpent can be kept out. "There are great varieties of human beings from physical and mental standpoints but in the matter of conduct there are only two kinds—those who help and those who hinder the cause of Christ. So many are the possibilities of helping to build up the world that is seems strange to me that so many follow the destructive paths."

"The more I think about this text the more firmly I believe that God ignores our degrees and titles and in His book of record uses only two signs—plus and minus. We are either for or against His cause."

Rev. Barclay addressed the Sunday school in the afternoon during a special Mother's Day program. A fine musical program was provided by the Sunday School orchestra.

PURSE SNATCHER GETS $35 IN CASH FROM WOMAN

STRATFORD, Ont., May 14 (CP) —Miss Elizabeth Burgess, city, was the victim of a purse snatcher on a dark street Saturday night who escaped after grabbing her purse and stealing $35 cash.

It is believed that the attacker, who knocked Miss Burgess to the ground, trailed her from downtown, where she had drawn some money out of a bank. Police are investigating.

BRITAIN IS FREE OF BLAME FOR DEBT PROBLEM

So States Manchester Guardian in Outlining New Developments.

COMPROMISE CERTAIN.

LONDON, Eng., May 14. (C. P. Cable).—Failure to reach a settlement of the War debts problem is not the fault of the United Kingdom, said the Manchester Guardian editorially to-day in connection with the United States declaration that nations making token payments next month will likely find themseves defaulting.

"The only question now arising is whether it is better to go on admitting an obligation which we conceive to be harmful to the world, or to wipe it off. Any idea of resumption of the old scale of payments is unthinkable, and in any case the U.S. will now allow us to make it in the ony form possible, namely the transfer of goods.

"The presidential message may put a better face on it, but our government will have to decide whether in the long run there is anything to be gained by waiting for the conversion of congressional opinion to the plain facts about international transfers; or whether it might be as well to get the shock over by a clean cut.

End In Compromise

"Probably in the end, a compromise will be the way out. We shall make another small payment and strive to keep alive the flame of integrity, which in the last few years has dwindled to a faint flicker among the debtor States in a stricken world."

The Yorkshire Post, a provincial newspaper of considerable authority, declared "the suggestion of a further token payment will be treated by the U.S.A. as partial default still arouses no alarm here. It is by no means certain that she will. It would hardly be dignified or polite to declare that what was not default last year has now become default.

"Actually the question of default under the Johnson bill (which bars credit to defaulting nations) need not arise until a debtor nation desires to borrow money in the United States. So far as is known no debtor, certainly not ourselves, seeks any such loan. We may yet make a token payment and still not lose financial cast in the meticulous eyes of the middle-west."

Should Be Definite

The Daily Express, Lord Beaverbrook's organ, declared "Our government should say what it means to do about the debt before the Whitsuntide (Friday). If the Americans insist they will regard a mere token payment as default then the government should reply 'Please yourself about it.'

"America can have token money or nothing. It was America which persuaded Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald to forego at Lausanne the debts owed by foreigners to Britain. He gave up more than we owe to America, and now our slate is wiped clean.

CHRYSLER SALES LIKE BOOM TIMES

April Shipments Largest Since April, 1929—Dealer Organization Grows.

Chrysler sales figures, released by Jno. D. Mansfield, president of Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited, to-day, show shipments to Chrysler Motors dealers 233.6 per cent. of April, 1933. This is the largest month since April, 1929.

Unfilled orders on May first were one and one-half times the total shipments for the whole of May, 1933.

Shipments to dealers in the first four months for all Chrysler Motors products to Canadian dealers were 223 per cent. of the same period last year.

The latest available figures for registration by the public of Chrysler Motors cars throughout Canada has risen from 19 per cent. of the total in the month of March, 1933, to 25 per cent. in March of 1934.

Mr. Mansfield stated that these figures are all the more remarkable in that shipments of the new airflow cars did not commence until March, there being over two months with no airflow cars in either the Chrysler or the DeSoto divisions available for shipment.

Mr. Mansfield said: "While we are naturally very gratified with the public's acceptance of our product, we are also very much pleased with the way in which the Chrysler Motors dealers' organization has demonstrated its ability to merchandise our products. This dealer organization," Mr. Mansfield stated, "is increasing in size and capacity every day."

$35,000 RANSOM FOR MISSIONARY

Chinese Bandits Make Demands Upon Missionary Alliance Headquarters.

OTHERS EVACUATE.

HANKOW, China, May 14 (A.P.).—Bandits under the command of the dread general, Ho Lung, demanded $35,000 ransom to-day for the kidnapped missionary, the Rev. Howard Smith, of Washington, Pa.

Mr. Smith was seized by renegades May 8 near Penghsien in Szechwan Province.

The ransom demand was communicated to the Christian Missionary Alliance headquarters here.

Mission and United States Consular authorities were considering means of obtaining the missionary's release, but gave no thought to the bandits' demand since the mission's policy is not to pay ransom for kidnapped members. Besides, attaches said, the mission has no funds for the purpose.

Fearing incursions at Kishui, in West Hupeh Province, American missionaries were reported to have evacuated that city to-day.

It was reported the bandits were compelling Mr. Smith to teach them English.

Magistrate's Court

"Case dismissed. You are discharged."

With these words Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this morning brought to an abrupt conclusion a case, in which Cyril K. Hughes, 29, was charged with false pretences in respect to some coupons relative to a newspaper circulation campaign, which resulted in the defendant winning one of the prize awards consisting of a trip to Berumda.

The charge against the defendant laid upon the information of Herbert J. Miller, Otonabee Township farmer, read as follows: "That he in the Township of Otonabee, on or about December 15, 1933, unlawfully did with intent to defraud Herbert J. Miller, obtain from John Phelan something capable of being stolen, to wit, ten or twelve coupons by false pretences, mainly by stating to the said John Phelan that the said Cyril Hughes was authorized by Andrew Evans to take the coupons from a letter then in John Phelan's possession and addressed to Herbert Hiller, which was false contrary to the provisions of Section 405 of the Criminal Code."

Represented by J. Walton Stevenson, the defendant elected summary trial. A stenographer was secured and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., proceeded with the case.

In evidence Herbert J. Miller, whose daughter won a case of silverware in the contest conducted by The Montreal Family Herald and Weekly Star, related that while canvassing for subscriptions he had secured a renewal from Andrew L. Evans of Indian River.

Subsequently complainant stated he called at the farm of John Phelan, where Andrews had promised to leave two dollars subscription fee and some coupons. He collected the two dollars, which was contained in an envelope addressed to himself and which had been torn open. The coupons were missing, and as a result complainant alleged he had missed winning a canoe trip which the publishers of the newspaper were awarding for a certain number of coupon votes.

Andrew L. Evans went into the witness box and swore that he had instructed one of his daughters to place the money in the envelope for Mr. Miller to be sent over for collection at Mr. Phelan's farm.

After the envelope had been sent, he stated, in evidence, Mr. Hughes called. "I told him I had just sent the envelope to Mr. Phelan's and that the coupons enclosed in the envelope were intended for him."

Mr. McElderry: "That's the end of the case, Your Worship."

After the Magistrate had discharged Mr. Hughes; he ordered Mr. Miller, who was loudly expostulating with Mr. Evans, to leave the court room.

"That's a different story than what you told me," the irate Mr. Miller exploded.

The stage is all set for the opening of the Canada First Cooking School which opens tomorrow at the Grand Opera House. Directed by Jay Margaret Laws.

TORONTO, May 14 (C.P.).—A non-payment of wages case in county court to-day caused a minor sensation when the Crown Attorney said Albert Snowden had been hired by Fred Walker as a "Dominion Government secret service operative to watch Premier Henry's office at the Parliament Buildings and a number of liquor stores." Walker failed to make an appearance and the case was remanded to May 21. "Walker had this fellow employed watching buildings three or four times, and told him to particularly watch Premier Henry's office," explained the Crown Attorney. Walker obtained no money but he paid the complainant $20 cash and an N.S.F. cheque for $22.50.

The Weather

The rainfall of Sunday amounted to .44, giving .80 for month of May so far. People in the northwest corner of the city are still talking of the terrific thunder-claps and vivid flashes of lightning that came with the storm of Wednesday evening. One bolt, especially, was of a "Big Bertha" character. Some of the residents believe there must be iron deposits in that section to account for the frequency with which transformers, chimneys and aerials are struck. Personally I know of a dozen instances; one man having had both chimneys on his house struck at different times. For those interested in such matters I might say that the leafing of the trees is now at about the usual stage of growth of this date, and the 23rd or 24th should see our forests in full dress.—W.P.

MUST CONSERVE OUR SUPPLY OF FISH AND GAME

They Are Essential to Tourist Traffic Ozark Ripley Tells Rotary Club in Interesting Address.

VIVID ANECDOTES.

Famous American Sportsman and Writer Enthusiastic About Ontario's Possibilities.

"Canada is the goal at present for American tourists, but once her supplies of fish and game are exhausted, she will no longer be the goal," was the emphatic warning uttered by Ozark Ripley, famous United States sportsman and writer, in an address to the members of the Peterborough Rotary Club, at their weekly luncheon to-day.

Mr. Ripley, who knows the fishing waters of Canada intimately, and who has been visiting this country for many years, interlarded his plea for conservation with breezy anecdotes of fishing trips and vividly described personal experiences.

Introduced by Rotarian Fred L. Roy, the speaker stressed the absolute necessity of co-operative effort on the part of the people of Ontario if the fish and game resources of the province were to be maintained. Work on the part of everybody was essential, Mr. Ripley asserted, and he urged the sportsmen and other citizens not to wait for the Provincial Game Department to do the work, but rather to spend some of their own money. It would be returned to them many times over because once an edequate supply of fish and game was assured, tourist traffic could be counted upon to produce a rich revenue.

Mr. Ripley described the success that had attended conservation efforts in some districts in the United States. In Georgia, he said, game abounded now in sections of the state where twenty years ago little or none was to be found, while near St. Louis there were lakes teeming with fish that were formerly of no importance from an angler's viewpoint. In this latter instance, he said, the expense had been met by the farmers of the district, who had done a much better job of restocking than the State Game Department could possibly have done.

In the course of a long lecture tour, Mr. Ripley said that he had met many people who intended to come to Canada this summer, and many others who were not going to visit this country this year because they believed that the fish and game resources were exhausted. So far as rivers and lakes were concerned there was nothing like the province of Ontario, the speaker said. Wisconsin, Michigan, parts of New York State and Maine had some fine lakes, but nowhere across the border was there found the conditions exisiting in Ontario. It was up to the people of this province to work together to maintain the fish and game supply.

Mr. Ripley concluded his address by a graphic description of how he nearly caught the world's largest brook trout.

A large delegation of Peterborough Rotarians is in attendance at the district meeting of the 27th District at St. Catharines to-day, and in the absence of other officers, Past President James Juby accepted the chair.

The following item is Mr. Augustus Bridle's report in the Toronto Star of a recent piano recital given in the Toronto Conservatory Hall by Miss Margaret Waterhouse, who is a niece of Mrs. Charles Shaw of this city and frequently visits Peterborough:

"Norman Wilks, master-worker in the cause of Liberalism, who will speak to a Beaches audience this evening, last night presented in Conservatory Hall a rare young piano artist in recital. Margaret Waterhouse communes with composers at the piano as one born to be a true artist. Slender, demure and sparkling with sensitive enjoyment of the things she played, she charmed her audience.

"A Bach chorale and Prelude and Fugue revealed marvellous delicacy of tonal expression; continuously beautiful weaving of rhythmic themes and counter-themes; Bach, it seems, was a tone poet before Chopin; so this music suggested. Brahms' Intermezzo, of richer fabric, showed rare sensitivity to color values in tone and splendid, incisive vitality. His Capriccio, B. minor was so full of rhythmic tricks and sly nuances that, with this artist's almost extravagant delicacy of tone, it sometimes seemed a bit too exquisitely fine.

"On a larger canvas she painted Schumann's novel legend, called Fantasie. In this the player showed how subtly she could interpret a series of mystic monologues in almost perfect atmosphere, yet with the utmost clarity of simple, sensuous statement. This is true piano-poetry.

"A modern group was followed by Brahms' alluring Horn Trio with Alfred Ployer, violin and R. Barrow French horn."

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

A famous columnist, whose daily columns are read—and appreciated—by people in all walks of life, claims that gals who wish to remain slim or who are reducing, shouldn't drink Alexander cocktails. And Walter certain is right about that. For, while it is one of the more popular cocktails today, the cream in this drink naturally encourages tonnage.

Since the advent of repeal, it seems, in the larger cities, some of the alleged "smart" women have acquired the habit of doing their teaing at cocktail bars. But while they may be "smart" insofar as their gowning, coiffures and make-up are concerned, I don't think that they can be so mentally keen. For any lass who wishes to retain her smart, attractive appearance, or who wishes to acquire true loveliness, will never drink copiously of any cocktails or other alcoholic beverages.

It's not particularly that alcohol is fattening, of course. But it certainly isn't the best thing in the world for the complexion. Too much alcohol taken internally tends to have a somewhat drying effect on the skin. And it doesn't help much to keep the skin clear and flawless. Then, too, while alcohol itself may not be fattening, cocktails and mixed drinks that entail the use of cream, sugar, thick, sweet cordials and like ingredients certainly are.

Of course, I suppose an occasional drink now and again won't do a gal too much harm. But why take chances when Beauty is your goal? Stick to your fresh fruit juices, such as lemonade, orange juice and grapefruit juice. You can look just as smart at a cocktail bar with a straight orange juice in your hand as with a straight gin. And you'll be proving that your mind is just as keen as your appearance.

Fruit juices such as orange, lemon and grapefruit, are excellent complexion beautifiers. A gal really can't imbibe too much of these citrus juices. They're not the least bit fattening. And while they are acid in taste, they have a neutralizing, alkaline reaction in the stomach. Fruit juices are most beneficial in their effects on the entire system. And if you're truly wise, you'll do all your tippling with them alone.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Correct Weight

Janie: I think a girl 5 feet 4 inches tall and 19 years of age should weight about 124 pounds.

Legs

Millicent: Fat, pudgy legs and thick ankles do indeed present an unpretty appearance on the beach. However, you will find full information on reducing and shaping legs and ankles in my article on "Care of the Feet and Legs."

Mustache

Robert: A mustache probably would not become you if your chin recedes to any great extent. If it recedes only slightly, however, you might try a mustache and see for yourself if it is becoming.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

In the first article this week, there was mentioned as one of the subconscious estimates a scientific dietitian made about foods, the question as to whether they were cheap or expensive. And this, as with many other things in life, has nothing to do with the price tag on the bill of fare.

And, as also occurs in so many other practices in life, the actual estimate, rapidly as it may be worked out in the expert's mind, is nevertheless the judgment of an expert.

Fundamentally it depends upon whether one knows the elements in foods which go to make up a completely balanced diet. No diet can be economical which does not provide all the principles necessary for health and growth.

It is here that the food faddist is most likely to go completely astray, and the common-sense person, who depends upon custom and not literature, to be entirely sound.

I have been in homes where an entire family group, including infant, adults, an expectant mother, children and old people were living on an expenditure unbelievably low, and yet the food provided on that expenditure was adequate, scientific and healthful in every particular. And I have been in other homes where no stint in the way of money was placed on obtaining straw diets, and hay diets, and separated diets, and prospective diets, and thinning diets, and thickening diets, yet where half the household group was suffering from some for of food deficiency or malnutrition or anemia or metabolic dyscrasia.

It is impossible to go into every feature of the subject but a few brief instances may serve to show what is meant. Taking calories alone, asparagus costs 5 cents per hundred calories, molasses half a cent per hundred calories.

But calories are not all, and molasses would be a very uneconomical food it it alone were served. In the long run, asparagus would be more healthful, hence, more economical. But cabbage is just as good or better, at half the price.

As a source of protein, lentil vegetables are cheaper than meat. But since they are not COMPLETE protein containers, they should be supplemented by milk or eggs and this addition brings the cost to about the same as meat.

If one were to name any single article of food that from the standpoint of completeness is the cheapest, it would probably be milk.

The factors which bring up the price of food without increasing the nutritive value, as listed by Dr. Mary Swarts Rose, are:

1. The amount of labor required to produce; potatoes can be produced with little expenditure and give a large nutritive return.
2. Transportation.
3. Perishability—canning reduces this.
4. The way goods are packaged for market.
5. Esthetic appeal.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed enveloped stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: 'Indigestion and Constipation,' 'Reducing and Gaining,' 'Infant Feeding,' 'Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes,' 'Feminine Hygiene' and 'The Care of the Hair and Skin.'

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Every woman who does any cooking craves the reputation of being a good cook. Of the thousands, yes even the millions, of cooks that there are, comparatively few rightfully gain the desired goal. One of the main essentials is the seasoning of food. This is so generally slighted. Without the right seasoning it is impossible to instil the wanted zest, piquancy, richness, and lusciousness with any one flavoring or seasoning preparation. What these preparations are intended for is to aid the cook, and many kinds of spices, acids, herbs, sweetenings, etc., are at her command. Without them she is at a loss. She cannot rely upon any one. Variety is imperative.

* * * * * * *

The simplest seasoning must be used correctly. Do not send vegetables to the table unsalted, without pepper, and without butter if this is needed, and rely upon the individuals to season the things for themselves. It is true all these ingredients will be on the table, and can be used, but they should have been mixed through the vegetable (whatever it is) or put over it in time for the whole to marinate. This takes but a short time with hot foods, with cold ones it takes longer. When hot, the steam helps to permeate the food with the seasonings. Not all vegetable are seasoned so simply. Some require sauces, notably artichokes.

* * * * * *

Meats should be given similar attention. For example a juicy steak broiled to a turn, rare, medium or well-done, whichever the family prefers, and sent to the table as it is, will not be nearly as delicious and tasty as if it were dotted with butter and dusted with salt and pepper. Then it should go into a warm over—not so hot that it will harm the plater, but warm enough to melt the butter, dissolve the salt, and permit the meat to absorb the zest of the pepper. Two or three minutes is ample time for this. Then garnish with parsley and send it to the table.

* * * * * * *

No main dish responds better to seasoning than fish. For a simple seasoning for broiled fish, done over coals, under flames or in the oven dot with butter, squeese lemon juice over it and dust with pepper and salt. Or prepare the seasoning and pour it over the fish. For this the butter is melted, salt and pepper mixed with it, and lemon juice stirred gradually into the butter mixture. If to this minced parsley is added, the flavor will be improved. Let the sauce stand in a warm place for 10 minutes without the parsley, then add this, and pour over the fish. Put in the oven, for one minute, and serve immediately before the parsley has time to loose its freshness. Garnish with parsley or watercress and pieces of lemon.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

COUNT OPPONENT'S CARDS

The useful process of counting opponents' cards, which seems so difficult to the beginner is practically automatic with more experienced players.

Neither side was vulnerable. Bidding went: South, 1 no trump; West, 2 spades; North, 3 hearts; East, 3 spades; South, 4 hearts; West, 4 spades; North, 5 hearts, which held the contract.

The opening lead was the 5 of spades, which apparently was the top of 3, as East would not have been likely to have supported upon only 2 spades, while the standard lead from 4 would have been the fourth-best card. Dummy's 9 was played. West covered with the 10. North ruffed.

Probably the 5 missing trumps were divided 3-2, and the declarer led his 6 of hearts to test adverse distribution. East split honors, by putting up his J. Had he not done this, dummy's 7 might have won, and the declarer led back a spade to ruff. The declarer won his fourth trick with his K of hearts, crediting East with the missing Q, and another spade. As West had been dealt 7 spades and 2 hearts he still held 4 minor suit cards, without the declarer knowing at all how the 4 were divided between suits.

North took two rounds of winning clubs. When the 10 dropped from East's hand West was duly credited with holding the third missing club and a single diamond, without in the least knowing what that diamond was, but there were odds of 5 to 1 that it was not the K.

The declarer led another round of clubs, to see whether East would not ruff. North hoped that he would do so, although it would make no difference to North, provided East held the honors, particularly the K of diamonds. East ruffed with his Q and led back his last spade. North ruffed with his last heart, but dummy still held the 9 and no more spades.

Dummy won the last club trick, then the 6 of diamonds was led. This would give the defenders their second trick in case West held the lone K, but that player held the 2, and East was in with his 10, giving his side its second trick, with no more tricks possible for East. East North's Q, while dummy's Ace of diamonds and its trumps won the led the J, which was taken by last two tricks.

Ham Loaf Scalloped Potatoes
Dandelion Greens
Celery-Apple Salad
Rhubarb Pie Tea

It's always something of a problem—using up the last bits of cooked ham to make a satisfactory dish, either for lunch or dinner. This ham loaf solves the problem satisfactorily for one time. The last of the apples may be a little withered now, but we can use them in a salad combined with the celery, which is not as tender as it was earlier in the year. It may be cut up finely and serve with the raw apple, with perhaps a bit of pimento for color and tang.

Today's Recipes

Ham Loaf.—Two cups cooked diced ham, one cup bread crumos, two eggs, one cup milk, one-fourth teaspoon dry mustard, one-fourth teaspoon black pepper. Combine ingredients in order named, adding sufficient milk to moisten and hold materials together. Shape into a loaf, place in a well greased pan, dot butter or bacon fat over the top and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 45 minutes to one hour.

Spinach With Cream

Two pounds spinach, three hard cooked eggs, twelve square salted crackers, one-half pound diced bacon. Wash spinach and boil in salted water. Drain through colander. Chop with spoon. Roll crackers and mix with boiled spinach, slice eggs and lay over top. Fry bacon brown and pour over top. A pound of bacon may be used if preferred.

Celery Sandwich

Take one-half cup finely chopped celery and one-half cup finely chopped or grated cheese and add suitable amount of salad dressing. Season with salt and paprika and serve between thinly sliced, buttered bread.

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

KENILWORTH closed on Saturday and it is estimated that A. M. Orpen dropped thirty grand on the seven-day meeting. This means the end of racing in Windsor for this season as Devonshire was just marking time to see how things turned out. The racing end of the program was real good and all events were keenly contested. Eddie Seagram's Young Kitty made it a double for the week by winning the second number on Saturday. She again took the cream of the Canadian bred division with omparative ease and what a reception she will receive at Woodbine as she is an old favorite with the Toronto racing public.

Distribute, the former Conny Smythe colorbearer, threw his rider just at the start of the first race on closing day and then went on and finished ahead of them all by about eight lengths. But they don't pay off on riderless horses and we find his name among the also rans. The boys that held tickets on him felt like taking the gas route but it was just one of a million things that make horse racing so uncertain.

HIGH QUEST and Cavalcade running as an entry finished in that order in the rich Preakness at Pimlico on Saturday. They finished like a team with only a nose separating them and they came mighty near breaking the track record. It looks as if the Horometor and Pitchblende entry of R. S. McLaughlin will duplicate this effort in the King's plate next Saturday by running one-two.

Top Hattie is taking to his morning workouts in real style and the first time you see him entered if the track is on the slow side you can figure him as the winner, as he sure loves the mud Down at Pimlico they have a sprinter called De Valera all set for a killing. He won't miss and at the same place is Character, who can make the fur fly in handy fashion. While over at New York Ward-In-Chancery is marking time waiting for the proper spot. This one is an English bred and has performed over our tracks at various occasions and the little bird tells us that Wedding Ring is not in New York just to see the bright lights of Broadway.

EVERYTHING IS in readiness for the opening at Woodbine on Saturday next and if the weather is anyway fine a crowd of twenty-five thousand will greet the bangtails on their return to Toronto after being absent since last October... Leo Dandurand is putting on two meetings at the state fair grounds mile track in Syracuse this year. They will be under the management of Tommy Gorman. These meetings will have a decided hockey flavor as Dandurand is managing director of Montreal Canadiens and Gorman piloted the Chicago Hawks to world's professional hockey championship.

TIMMINS, May 14 (Special). — Timmins will not have a team in the Temiskaming Baseball Association this season, according to President S. C. It had been announced at the annual meet of the association, held April 26, that Timmins would have an entry.

Pirates Lead National League On Percentage

BUCS AND CUBS IN TIGHT FIGHT FOR TOP PLACE

Klein's Ninth Circuit Starts Four-run Rally to Defeat Giants 7-3.

BRAVES TAKE 9-2 FALL.

New Yorkers Drop to 4th Place as Cards Blast 12-7 Win Over Dodgers.

The National League standing produced an odd situation when Pittsburgh Pirates, a half game behind Chicago according to one method of reckoning, took the lead by two percentage points. Each won yesterday, the Pirates assaulted Lefty Ed Brandt and Boston Braves for a 9-2 decision, while the Cubs defeated the Giants, 7-3, on a four-run rally started by Chuck Klein's ninth circuit blow of the year.

Pittsburgh, however, has played only 22 games to Chicago's 26, to gain the higher percentage.

Giants Drop to Fourth Place

New York dropped to fourth place as St. Louis Cardinals blasted out a 12-7 victory over Brooklyn, collecting 18 hits off four pitchers to break the tie with the Giants. The seventh-place Phillies had to go 10 innings to defeat the eighth-place Reds, 5-4, after Ethan Allen's homer tied the score in the ninth.

On the Saturday program in the National bill Lee shutout Brooklyn while his Chicago mates were plucking five runs off the Dodger pitchers. The powerful Pirate bats and a song of base hits that was an 11 to 6 defeat for Philadelphia.

In the American St. Louis Browns rose up from their lowly position to smack Washington for a pair of wins, 6-5 and 2-1. Lou Gehrig's seventh homer of the season helped the Yankees whip the White Sox, 4-3.

Canadian Tennis Stars Meet At Toronto to Take Part In Trials To Decide Canada's Davis Cup Team

Canada's outstanding stars of tennis met together for the first time this year at the Toronto Tennis club to decide among themselves who would represent Canada on the Davis cup team to play the United States on May 24. The leading ranking stars are shown in the ABOVE layout as they played off against each other for places on the team. Walter McMartin of Toronto and Regina because of his No. 1 ranking in Canadian tennis, gets his place by acclamation. The rest had to play it out. From LEFT to RIGHT the players shown are: Gilbert Nunns of Toronto, member for the past five years; Walter Martin; Marcel Rainville of Montreal, another veteran Davis cupper; Robert Murray of Montreal, a newcomer to the charmed circle; Laird Watt, another sensational tyro; and George Leclerc of Ottawa, the third "rookie" to try for a place. Leclerc won his chance by excellent play against Commander Edwards of Ottawa and Maurice Margesson of Toronto in the Ontario playdowns. Missed from the trials was Dr. Jack Wright of Vancouver. Not shown in layout, but competing in trials is "Ossie" Ryal of Vancouver, British Columbia's hope.

JOE CASCARELLA HURLS MACKS TO 9- VICTORY OVER BROWNS

Triumph Gives A's Third Place as Senators Bump Tigers Out of Higher Berth.

GOMEZ BLANKS INDIANS.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.—A.P. Sports Writer).

When Connie Mack said early this spring that he thought his club might go somewhere in the American League this season if only a few of his young pitchers came through in good form, few, if any, of the Athletics' fans thought of Joe Cascarella as one of those who might help out.

9-3 Win Over Phillies.

He took the play from another Philadelphia sandlot graduate yesterday when the fans celebrated Alan Strange day at Shibe Park and Cascarella made it the occasion for a 9-3 Philadelphia victory as he pitched shutout ball for six innings while his mates rolled up a big early lead.

The triumph gave the A's third place in the tight race as Washington bumped Detroit out a higher berth by shelling Tommy Bridges from the hill when he became wild in the seventh and scoring six runs to win 7-4. Philadelphia's position also was improved when the Yankees slammed the second place Cleveland club into submission 8-0 and left the Indians only a half game ahead. Lefty Gomez blanked Cleveland with four hits for his fifth straight victory, while Lou Gehrig and Ben Chapman drove in all the Yankee runs, Gehrig accounting for his half by clouting his eighth homer with bases filled.

Tied For Fourth.

The Tigers and Senators wound up tied for fourth at the .500 mark and only a half a game ahead of the Red Sox, who made up for some of the past week's misdeeds by slaughtering Chicago 14-2. Bucky Walters' two homers, one with the bases full, and one by Eddie Morgan, also with the corners crammed, produced the bulk of the runs.

Ottawa N.H.L. Franchise Is Transferred To St. Louis—Boucher Remains As Pilot

Chicago, May 14.—(CP)—Ottawa, the so-called "cradle of hockey" in Canada, was all but without a professional team today.

The Ottawa Senators franchise was transferred to St. Louis when the National League board of governors met here Saturday and Frank Calder, who was re-elected president of the circuit, said some details remained to be smoothed out, but that he felt "safe in stating that St. Louis will be represented when the playing season opens next fall."

The Ottawa team will be moved a s an entity, under the arrangement, with George Boucher remaining as manager. Thomas F. Ahearn, principal owner of the Ottawa club, will continue to operate the team in the Missouri city, with Remond Quain, also of the Canadian capital, retaining his interest.

Ahearn and Quain sad steps would be taken to strengthen the club before next season.

TORONTO TAKES DOUBLEHEADER TO COP SERIES FROM ORIOLES

Blake and Schott Hurl Standout Ball to Win by 3-1 and 6-1 Scores Respectively—Albany Breaks Wings' Winning Streak With 11-6 Victory.

(By the Associated Press)

Rochester Red Wings' long winning streak in the International League finally has come to an end.

Victors in 12 successive games and threatening to turn the league race into a walkaway, the Red Wings came a cropper yesterday when Albany Senators pounded out an 11-6 victory in a free-swinging fray at Rochester. The Senators got only nine hits off five Red Wing hurlers but four of these were home runs by Alvin Powell Ted Norbert, Fred Sington and Bill Brubaker. All travelled over the left field fence, a sector to which only one homer previously had been hit in 11 games. Ed Pipgras' fine relief pitching really was responsible for the Albany triumph. Al Shealy, starting Senator elbower, was walloped for seven hits and five runs in 1 1-3 innings but Pipgras came in and allowed only five safeties the rest of the way.

Bears Gain Second Place

Newark's Bears drove into second place by a few percentage points over the idle Toronto Maple Leafs by beating the Montreal Royals twice, 4-2 and 5-4 before a crowd of 15,000 at Montreal. Walter Brown pitched effectively in the opener and hung up his fourth successive victory although he gave up 10 hits. Home runs by Vince Barton and Bob Gibson, a triple and double by George Selkirk, and two-base wallops by Gibson, Brown and Jesse Hill were among Newark's 10 hits off Curly Ogden, Orillin Collier and Clarence Fisher. The second game, scheduled for seven innings, went eight before Newark could win. The Bears tagged Kimsey for two runs in that frame and Floyd Newkirk shut off a counter-rally by the Royals after one run had scored. Jack Saltzgaver hit a homer for the Bears.

Nearly Takes Double

Syracuse scored eight runs in the sixth inning to beat Buffalo 8-6 in the first game of a doubleheader and then fought the Bisons to a 13-13 draw in the nightcap. It was strictly a hitter's afternoon as nine home runs sailed out of the park, six from Buffalo bats.

Bill Sweeney hit three home runs for Syracuse during the day. Irving (Jake) Plummer, new Buffalo outfielder, made a sensational debut as he drove out a homer in each game, one with the bases loaded, and poled a double, also with the bags clogged, and two singles. He drove in seven runs all told.

Major Honors For Leafs

Toronto Leafs took major honors on Saturday by handing Baltimore a double defeat behind steady pitching. Blake twirled in the first game when the Leafs won 3-1, and Schott duplicated his stand-out pitching in the second when the margin in favor of Toronto was 6-1.

Montreal Royals went 16 innings, longest game of the season, before sending Newark down 3-2.

CAVALCADE BOWS TO STABLEMATE

Discovery is Third to Brookmeade Speedsters Preakness Classic.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 14.—(AP)—The relative merits of Mrs. Dodge Sloane's two fine colts, Cavalcade and High Quest, stood in clearer relief to night, with High Quest a victor over his fleet stablemate in the $25,000 Preakness, at Pimlico.

In a thrilling finish High Quest won Saturday's classic by a nose as the two great Brookmeade Stable thoroughbreds soundly whipped the five other colts in the race.

Leaving in their wake such speedy colts as Alfred G. Vanderbelt's Discovery and Mrs. Frank J. Heller's Agrarian, the Brookmeade stars upheld the confidence of the majority of 30,000 fans who packed the "Old Hilltop" course.

Over a fast track, High Quest reeled off the distance in 1.58 1-5—one-fifth of a second off the track record, but four-fifths of a second faster than the best Preakness time made by Coventry in 1925. Out in front all the way, he stepped the first six furlongs in the sizzling time of 1.12 2-5 and was at the mile post in 1.37 3-5.

ARNIEL IS NAMED COACH OF KINGSTON BALL TEAM

KINGSTON, May 14 (C.P.). — Jimmy Arniel, veteran catcher of the Ponies, champions of the Central Ontario Baseball League, has been named coach of the Ponies. The team was runner-up last year for the Ontario championship. Arniel will divide the catching duties with Eddie Foxton, former Sydenham backstop and looked upon as best catching prospect in Eastern Ontario.

The Central League champions have lost two of their stars of the 1933 team, Vin McQuaide, right-fielder, and leading batter of the league, and "Mickey" Compeau, stellar shortstop who tried out several years ago with Kitchener in the old Michigan-Ontario League.

Both players are with Brockville. Stone, first baseman, and Tommy Boyd are trying out for Compeau's shortstop position, while George Clark, outfielder, will take McQuaide's place.

"A" ELEVEN 5-4 WINNERS FIRST MATCH

OPENING CEREMONY.

The local soccer season started on Saturday afternoon, on King Edward Park, when two selected teams battled the full ninety minutes to find the "A" eleven leading by 5-4 ,with the goal scorers being well distributed. An excellent turn-out of enthusiasts were present.

On behalf of the city, Alderman Cotton in opening ceremonies congratulated the players on the sportsmanship in paying the soccer code and wished that they would have no injuries during the year. He stated it is the desire of the council to help the soccer association by putting the field in proper shape so that it would be a credit to all concerned."

Score in Three Minutes

There was no choice in the selec- of the wind. From the kick off McMaster travellde in fast to find the defense tackling closely but the former touched the ball back to Newt. Downer who opened the scoring. Buchan transferred the play to his opponent's area to confine the activities inside the goal territory. In a scrimmage that ensued, Craig cleared up-field where McPhate and A. Mitchell combination finally increased the county. For the next ten minutes. the 'B' team dominated the play with Dyer beating Chamberlain with an oblique shot. They kept up the pressure to obtain a penalty kick that G. Downer failed to convert. But a little later, George Downer evaded the defense to drive a rocket drive for the corner, Jones kicked clear but Barson connected immediately with a rising shot that bulged the net in below the bar. Mid-field tactics prevailed up until half-time when the score stood two goals apiece.

Goal Aplenty

The second half, showed that O'Halloran replaced Hallier at outside right, while J. Taylor took Earle's place. Both centre forwards, Barson and McMaster, were working hard to distribute the ball to advantage but the defense allowed no latitude around the goal. A break-away by G. Downer along the wing eventually deceived the full backs when he lifted the ball over to Barson who headed it through the custodian's legs. Newt Downer did likewise on the other side to give Ben McMaster an excellent opportunity to even the count again—3-3. He went back again on an O'Halloran rush to bulge the net. Barson retaliated to make it 4-4. With only ten minutes to go the players set a fast pace that was astonishing for the first game of the season. From a scrimmage in front of goal, McMaster got the winning tally for the "A" team. Final score—"A", 5; "B", 4.

Goal scorers—"A" McMaster, 3; New Downer and Alex Mitchell. "B", Barson 3 and Dyer.

CRICKET CLUB DEFEATS GROVE

Local Eleven Wins From School Team by 7 Runs on Latter's Grounds.

FINAL SCORE 93-86.

The Peterborough Cricket Club travelled to Lakefield on Saturday to play against Grove School and scored a narrow win by 7 runs, 93 to 86. The teams presented quite a contrast as the Grove boys would only average 15 years of age but they put up a good fight and at one time seemed likely to win out.

Peterborough called first and made a good start. Hamilton and Mawhood made a good stand and were supported by T. Williams and Capt. Frank Dyer but the rest did little and the innings closed for 93. Bowling honors were shared by Dench, 4 for 32 and Strickland 3 for 18. When the School went to bat Dench followed up his bowling success with a really good innings of 31—top score in the match. He was not afraid to hit, and with Fletcher playing steadily at the other end, they added 42 runs for the 5th wicket. With only 5 out 18 runs were netted for a win, but the tail end failed and the side were out for 86. The successful Peterborough bowlers were F. Dyer (6 for 12) and Lawrence (4 for 6) which are very good figures.

Next Saturday a return match will be played at Nicholl's Oval and on May 24 Peterborough county play Ontario county here in a county championship match.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. F.

A guy invites us the other day to ask him a question concerning baseball rules that he couldn't answer. We agreed and offered to lay a little bet on it, but he seemed a little hard of hearing just then. However, we had a good trick question—one settled by Billy Evans, for years ace umpire in the American League and now pilot of the Cleveland Indians. Seems the dispute arose several years ago in the deciding game for the Cuban League championship in Havana. They couldn't settle it so they wired to Billy Evans for a ruling.

* * * * * *

The game ended in nine innings with one team thinking it had won the title but the other not so certain. The count was tied in the eighth and two were out. The next batter tripled. Fourth batter finally worked the count to three balls and two strikes. Then, the pitcher uncorked a wild pitch which gave the batter his base and allowed the runner to score. Everything was fine up to this point, but the guy who had walked decided he could make second and he did. But it seems he had neglected to touch first, so the ball was called for and thrown to first, putting him out. The team in the field contended the run could not count, basing its claim on the rule which says no run shall score on a play in which the batsman fails to reach first base for the third out. Well, there's the question. What about it? Evans' answer is:

* * * * * *

"While the play is a bit unusual, I decided the run should count. I pointed out that on a base on balls, which entitled the batsman to first base, it was impossible to rule that failure to touch first base could be construed as a third out in which the batsman failed to reach first. The batsman was entitled to that base. In reality, the runners from this scored on the wild pitch. The batsman in going to second, but failing to touch first, simply made himself liable to be put out, but in my opinion in no way affected the scoring of the run."

Revised Southend Softball League schedule for the week is: Monday—Albions vs Cogs; Tuesday—Orioles vs All Saints; Thursday—Cogs vs Orioles; Friday—Nationals vs Albions. Thursday's game is the unfinished one of last week. Wednesday eve is left open to erect the net back of home plate. All teams should have a player at the grounds about six bells to get this net up.

A big crowd of railbirds watched a snappy Saturday afternoon baseball practice at Riverside. The infield workout was good and the boys are beginning to look in shape. Ash flashed a lot of smart first-basing to give the fans some thrills. And young Al Clark looked impressive at shortstop. He may be up later in the season. Eddie Starr did some catching too. Knotty Lee likes young blood and keeps his eye on any kids playing around the park. Jeff Hardill was on hand, but will wait till it's a bit warmer to loosen his hurling arm up. A chap named Darven, a pretty fair righthand hitter, threw for a time in batting practise. The boys are hitting the apple hard so far—let's hope they're not Spring stickers. Workouts will continue nightly.

East Peterborough Baseball League will operate this year with three teams, C.G.E., Fosters and Cogs. The Raybestos would have joined Saturday but for two things. On e was that Cogs had decided at a meeting of their own not to enter the loop except as a third team, to keep the circuit alive—and would have dropped out if not needed. The other reason was that the strict E.P.L. only-one-transfer clause was not changed this year, and as several prospective Raybestos players belonged last year to other teams, they couldn't use them this summer. We're glad to see Cogs in, but kind of wish they'd change their minds and stay in with four teams, thereby permitting Raybestos to again consider entering. A good four-team loop is better than a three-team one. Meantime, the schedule is due to open May 29th, with C.G.E. playing Fosters—the names having been drawn from a hat. Other dope on the meeting appears elsewhere.

* * * * * *

Men's Softball League is due to open Wednesday at Central with C.G.E. playing Johnston's Tires. The City has been asked to put the steam-roller on the grounds before then and this will likely be done. Work is going on to get the Bowl in shape for the gals' opener next Monday, but right now it appears very doubtful if that diamond will be ready for another two weeks. Seems the soil held the water too long this spring.

The O.B.A.A. and the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association got together at a meeting Saturday and reached an understanding. Both parties will respect the other's territory and no player will be accepted by either unless he can produce a transfer from the association governing the territory he has been playing with. This will hit directly at players like McQuaide and Compeau who left Kingston to play for Brockville. The residence rules of Mar. 15th for the O.B.A.A. and May 15th for the Eastern body will be strictly adhered to, and an effort will be made to have the winners of the two associations meet in the Ontario finals.

NUNNS DEFEATED BY LAIRD WATT

Montrealer Makes Stride Toward Davis Cup Team Position.

TORONTO, May 14. — Laird Watt, bespectacled young McGill University student, took a stride toward a place on Canada's Davis Cup team by defeating Gilbert Nunns, of Toronto, in a hard five-set battle that featured the third day of the trials for the tennis squad that will oppose United States in the North American zone playoffs.

Beaten decisively in his first match by the veteran Marcel Rainville, Watt started his comeback Saturday by upsetting Bob Murray, of McGill, 6-3, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4. He seemed to be rapidly getting his game under control. The danger signal was out.

When he faced Nunns, veteran of last year's Davis Cup team, Watt was nearing the peak of his early season form. He finished strong to win 4-6, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4. If the big Montreal boy can defeat George Leclerc, of Ottawa, to-day, and Ossie Ryall, of Vancouver, on Tuesday, he should be certain of a place on the team.

FOSTERS AND C.G.E. TO MEET IN FIRST GAME

East Peterborough League to Open Schedule on Tuesday, May 29th.

SEVEN-INNINGS GAMES.

The East Petedborough Baseball League will open its 1934 schedule on Tuesday, May 29th, with C.G.E. playing Fosters at six o'clock in the Exhibition Grounds. This was decided at an executive meeting Saturday evening in Duffus'. The league will, in all probability, operate with three teams this year. Bill Prindible was chairman while team representatives present were: Darcy Foster of Fosters, D. Davis of Cogs, Max Wilson of C.G.E. and Wilf Rogers of Raybestos.

It was decided to play seven-inning games, starting sharp at six, and games will be played Tuesdays and Fridays at the Exhibition Grounds. Practise nights till the schedule opens are: Fosters—Mondays and Thursdays; C.G.E.—Tuesdays and Saturdays; Cogs—Wednesdays and Fridays. After the schedule starts, the home team gets the preference for a practise the night before it plays.

Curly LeBarr was named umpire-in-chief and will name the arbiters at the various games when the executive lists the umpires to be used.

The question of a fourth team came in for much discussion, Raybestos appearing willing to enter. However, this could not be arranged since Cogs had previously held a club meeting and decided to enter the league only as a third team—in order to keep the league alive. The Cog representative pointed out that if Raybesos wished to enter, the Cogs would drop out. They had nothing against Raybestos, but had made this decision, due to finances, and must abide by it. Raybestos appeared unwilling to enter if it meant forcing another team out, and the matter was left at that. The Cog representative stated he would take back to his club the facts and see if they would not agree to run with four teams in, but added that he thought this very doubtful. It appears now as if Cogs, C.G.E. and Fosters will make up the league this summer.

Work is going on now to get the diamond in shape, and the schedule will be drawn up within a week. Another meeting for final arrangements will probably be held before the start of the playing season. After some further discussion on other matters and the decision not to change the rule covering transfer of players—which permits a team to take only one player a year from the other teams in the loop—the session adjourned.

ALL-STARS WIN BASKET HONORS

Pull Off 48-41 Verdict Over Capitals in Sudden-Death Play-off Fixture.

COLORFUL AFFAIR.

All-Stars won the City Basketball League championship in the "Y" Saturday evening by pulling out a 48 to 41 verdict over Capitals before a good-sized gallery. It was a sudden-death playoff game and proved an exciting fixture, wide open at times and at other times featured with close-checking that called for numerous penalty throws. A strong second-half rally by Capitals failed to overcome the other side's first-half lead.

All-Stars started strong and at half-time were in front by 25 to 13. They were outscored, 28-23 the second stanza, but still retained a 7-point margin to take the game and title. Both sides showed some smart teamplay, shooting and checking. Cadd led the losers in point-getting, tallying eleven, all in the second half. Kitchen got ten, Dundas eight, Taylor six, Currie five and Broadley one. For All-Stars, V. Holmes counted sixteen points, A. Holmes fifteen, Palmer seven, Smith and Stanger four apiece and Brady two. The teams:

Capitals—Broadley, Cadd, Kitchen, Taylor, Currie and J. Dundas.

All-Stars—A. Holmes, V. Holmes, Smith, Stanger, Brady, Palmer and Williams.

AMATEUR BALL OPENS IN WEST

Moodie Tigers Take 10-6 Decision From Terriers in Hamilton Loop.

NEW GALT SQUAD.

TORONTO, May 14. (CP). Ontario amateur baseball was all geared up for another season as the youngsters and veterans of the diamond started play in the various leagues. The Intercounty Baseball Association, and the Hamilton Senior City League swung into action Saturday.

Three games marked intercounty play with the Hamilton circuit opening in Galt where Moodie Tigers whipped the Terriers, 10-6. Terriers were loaned to the Hamilton league by the intercounty. They failed to hold the Tigers who handled the young Galt players with ease. Only a few of the old Terrier team were in uniform, the others all new faces, a large number from the Ranger squad.

Three of the Victorias' runs came when Terriers made errors in the outfield. Pitcher Dawson of Moodies played a steady game with Edgar Melanby, third baseman, giving good support and Ted Jocelyn running off with hitting honors, getting four hits in five times at bat.

Hamilton Victorias who held bottom position in the Hamilton Senior City League last year opened the 1934 campaign by scraping out a 3-2 win over Dundas Grafton, a new team in the league. Bernie Jakafy's consistent pitching marked Vicorias' play.

Watson and Radiff, last year Junior stars of Brantford, moved into older company when Brantford faced Stratford in an intercounty game. Watson piched good ball and Radiff handled his duties behind the batter in fine shape but they weren't just good enough to hold Stratford in check and they went down 4-0.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Hilda Jarvis,
R.R. No. 1, Peterborough.

Your handwriting for analysis shows that you are too energetic at times, and then at other times you are too tired to care about anything. You are perhaps a little nervous, and constantly try to hide your true feelings, this in turn has a tendency to sap your physical strength, and make you feel as though you lack ambition. Sometimes this characteristic of yours is put to good advantage in amateur theatricals. When you are generous, you are too much so, and when you cannot be, you are apt to feel hurt and discontented. You are analytical and quite critical, this would assist you greatly in business. I expect that you move about quickly and never allow yourself more than just so much time in which to arrive. You are kind-hearted and easily hurt through your feelings. You seem to pay great attention to your shoes. Your general character is lovable, kind and impulsive. Your number is 2. Your birthsign is Libra the Balance. You are ruled by Venus August and December are your most fortunate months. Friday the best day.

Kathleen Marjorie Hierons,
10 Monaghan Road, Peterborough.

Your handwriting shows that you put a lot of energy into anything you undertake, but you do not always get the results that you would have wished to obtain. This characteristic is due in part to the pressure under which you subject your nervous system. You see your subconscious mind refuses to obey the command urged upon it by undue restrictions. However, I do not think you have as yet reached the top of the ladder of success, and so there is ample time in which to choose your life work. You have rather a lovable disposition, and you are sensitive and easily hurt. You would not willingly hurt the feelings of others. Yet I think you will find that there are many times when people seem to think that you do. You are also very sensitive about your personal clothing, and must dress as you think best and in good taste if you are to be happy. Colors should be chosen to suit your personality, especially if you are to enjoy the society of the right type of people.

Muriel Irwin,
Campbellford, Ont.

Your writing delineates you as fun-loving, yet at times you are very calm and serious. You work hard for a while then all at once slide for the time being. You know you change, and decide to let things what you want, but you do no: always get what you want when you want it. Nature intended you to be calm and tranquil, but Destiny stepped in and added a little versatility and environment contributed a small share. Thus, you are at present rather unsettled. You large capitals represent you to be happy-go-lucky and kindhearted. Your small letters indicate that you are rather reserved. Yet some of them describe you as being too frank at times, though never in any way affe you aggresive. You are not the type of person to fawn over society people. You could do your share of work with them and enjoy doing it if you chose. Gemini the Twins comes under your date of June 3rd You are ruled by Mercury. Friday is your best day. April and August your best months. Your writing will no doubt change a little as you become more mature.

Bridget Gray,
Hastings, Ont.

Your writing delineates a nature which is rather undecided. You do not seem to be able to make up your mind about things, and when you do, it is either done in a hurry, or in a half-hearted manner. I think this is due to the state of your health which appears to me to be of a nervous temperament. You are romantically inclined, and seem to hold to certain ideals, yet very often your ideals are shattered. You are not the business type at all, yet I have no doubt that you would be successful if circumstances forced you to go into business. However, your type make excellent homemakers, and usually respond to love and kindness till the personality is adapted to that of the loved one. Flowers and all growing plants should interest you, because you really do love beautiful things. The tail upper portions of some of your letters reflect imagination. The 't' bar crossing which is soft, light and long, shows that you are not as well blessed with will-power and determination as you might wish to be. Your number is nine. You are born under the sign of Scorpio, the Scorpion. You are ruled by Mars. January and July are your most fortunate months. Tuesday the lucky day.

Lorinda Cadigan,
R.R. No. 1, Omemee.

Your handwriting shows that you are very determined in your likes and dislikes. It also shows unsual force and vitality. The thickness of your downstrokes denotes positiveness and rather strong material taste. Your capital letters indicate independence and dignity, poise and a graceful carriage. You are generous and lovable magnetic and influential. Your talents run in the organizing field Your capacity to sift facts from fables enables you to create original ideas. You are fond of expensive clothing and prefer one really good dress in preference to two of poorer quality. You are honest with yourself and know and admit all your shortcomings. About the home you are fastidious, and delight in delicate china and the most exquiste of drapery. You are fond of reading and like very much to solve your own problems. Your number is three. Your birthsign is Aries the Ram. You are ruled by Mars. June and July are lucky months for you. Tuesday is a good day.

Maud Hannah,
181 London St. City.

Your handwriting as shown on your sample describes you as a person who is proficient in the art of making the very best of any situation. You do not sit down and bemoan your fate, but you honesty endeavour to improve conditions to the best of your ability. You are fair-minded and generous, a good manager and have the spirit of real undaunted courage such as the pioneers of our country possessed. Once in a while your kindness of heart overrules your sensible head, and you do too much for somebody who does not appreciate your kindness. You work very hard most of the time and often feel that you would enjoy a mental and physical holiday, but you belong to the type who cannot relax sufficiently even on a well earned rest, because your worries and anxieties are very real to you, and your mind refuses to cast care aside long enough to permit you to indulge in pleasure. Your general character is good, trustworthy and honest. Your affections are deep and sincere. Office work of a secretarial nature might appeal to you, but so should commercial teaching.

A fairly lively and enterprising state of affairs is the augury made from the ruling planetary configurations. While the energies will be quickened to a determined advance upon the goal of the ambitions, and in these the substantial support and encouragement of those in power and prestige may be counted on, yet there is a frustrating or thwarting influence also at work, accompanied by a vibration of subtle personal enmity or duplicity. Be more than alert to this in making contracts or agreements.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of accomplishment, with a resolute advance upon the goal of high ambitions. In this they may be assured of the encouragement and substantial co-operation of those in places of power and standing, but be alert to possible subtleties and craft or even personal treachery in the signing of all papers or contracts.

A child born on this day may be efficient, energetic, ambitious, popular and personally upright but may be subject to deception in its personal as well as business relations.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK - - By R. J. Scott

SANK WITH SHIP STATES INSULL

Although Judgment Might Be Bad, Maintains Not Dishonest.

FOUGHT WAY UP.

CHICAGO, May 14 (A.P.).—From a room in St. Luke's Hospital, Samuel Insull has sent his version of the collapse of his utilities empire.

"I went down with my ship," he said. "The depression was too much for me. You will be convinced that although my judgment was bad, I was not dishonest."

The 74-year-old ex-financier, who once had $200,000,000, was talking at the invitation of Sound Motion Picture men. They visited Insull in the hospital, where he is recuperating from the strain of his recent conflict with Federal authorities, who allege he used the mails to defraud and violated the United States bankruptcy law.

"I have been fighting since boyhood," he said. "When I first arrived in this country 53 years ago all I had in the world was $200 and the promise of a job as secretary to Mr. Thomas A. Edison. To-day I haven't that $200 or a job either.

Biggest Battle.

"But I've got the biggest battle of my life on my hands and I'm ready for it. I am deeply thankful for the demonstration of loyalty on the part of old friends and friends I didn't even know I had. Men and women whose names I've never even heard came forward to go bail for me.

"It encourages me in the most important fight of my life—not only for freedom, but also for complete vindication. When the whole story is told, as it will be told, you may say I made a mistake, but you'll know I did everything I could to save the investors in my companies."

Insull's preliminary hearing is set for to-morrow.

WOMEN'S MISSION WEEK CLOSES MEN'S WEEK AT THE CATHEDRAL

Rev. Father Coghlan Preaches Concluding Sermon to Women of Parish.

BAPTISMAL VOWS.

Yesterday afternoon marked the closing of Women's Mission Week at St. Peter's Cathedral followed yesterday evening by the opening of the Men's Mission.

Taking as his text "And this day shall be for a memorial to you; and you shall keep it a feast to the Lord in your generations with an everlasting obedience" (Exodus 12th chapter).

Rev. Father Coghlan applied the above command given by God to the Jewish people to those of the New Dispensation. "In the above words" said the missionary, "the children of Israel was told to reverence and celebrate their deliverance from Egyptian bondage. Even to-day this memorial is still observed." Father Coghlan then applied this text to the spiritual deliverance from the tyranny of Satan, which the soul receives in the sacrament of Baptism. "To-day," he continued, "we are concerned with a deliverance of a higher order than that of escape from physical calamity. In consequence of original sin we were born children of wrath but by the mercy of God in the sacrament of Baptism we have been delivered from this bondage.

Emphasizing the necessity of Baptism for salvation and the fact that it is the beginning of supernatural life with God. Father Coghlan characterized as un-Christian that enthusiasm with which individuals celebrate the day of physical birth, with never a thought of gratitude to God or a remembrance of the vastly more important day of Baptism. "If the day of birth marks the beginning of physical life upon earth, the day of Baptism is the ushering in of our supernatural life. "For in Baptism," continued Father Coghlan, "we become children of God—heirs to the Kingdom of Heaven and temples of the Holy Ghost."

"The missionary then reviewed for his hearers the promises they made in Baptism which were ratified in later life and asked them to observe them faithfully. Referring to the renunciation of Satan's works and pomps by the Baptismal promises the speaker asked, "Who is Satan?" the leader of the fallen angels who have pitted and that this world is but a an eternal hatred. Their only aim is to refuse to serve and to induce others to do likewise. What are the works and pomps of Satan? In one word—sin."

In conclusion the missionary exhorted his hearers never to forsake their Baptismal vows for the temptations and allurements of sin. "You will acquire the true spiritual perspective" concluded Father Coghlan only by grounding yourselves in the conviction that all sufferings, moral and physical, upon earth are more than compensated by eternal happiness and that this world is but a moment in comparison with eternity.

At 7.30 in the evening the Men's Mission opened, when Rev. A. McCann delivered a most eloquent and impressive sermon on "The End of Man."

The hours of morning Masses were announced as 5 o'clock, 6.45, and 7.30.

NO PAYMENTS FROM FRANCE

PARIS.—A war debt payment to the United States, either whole or in part, is not even under consideration, it was declared by a high official spokesman to-day.

There is no question of sending a note to Washington, such as that of the British, asking the effect of the Johnson Bill, the spokesman said.

At the advanced age of ninety-two years, John Young, former resident of Douro Township, recently passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. R. Quigley, at Turlock, California, following an extended illness.

The late Mr. Young moved with his parents to Canada when he was five years of age and for many years lived in Douro Township where he was well known and respected until he went out to California twenty-one years ago. He was predeceased by his wife Ellen in 1925.

In addition to Mrs. Quigley he is survived by another daughter, Sister St. Edmond Mother Superior in Comox Hospital, British Columbia; three sons, Roger and William Young of Turlock, California, and Robert Young of Chowchilla; and one sister, Mrs. Dubois of Denver, Colorado.

Following funeral services interment was made in the family plot at Turlock Cemetery.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 14 (CP)—In a wildly fluctuating Saturday market that rose and fell time and again within three-cent limits, wheat made a flurried finish, ⅞ to 1⅞ net lower.

Numerous reports of some abatement of drought gave victory at the last to traders on the bear side of the wheat market, although little prospect was apparent for general pronounced relief from acute shortage of moisture either in Winter or Spring wheat territory.

Announcement by United States Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace that owing to break-up of the world wheat conference the United States might now remove domestic wheat control and compete vigorously with other nations for the world's markets was received after trading had ended.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, May 14 (CP)—Butter advanced, cheese and potatoes declined and eggs were steady on the Montreal Produce Market last week.

A total of 15 boxes of butter was exported to St. John's, Newfoundland, the first shipment of the year. Lack of supplies on hand forced fresh No. 1 butter up 2 cents to 21¼ cents. To retailers, solids were 22 cents and prints 23 cents a pound. Receipts were 9,790 boxes for the week.

Current Ontario colored cheese was quoted at 9½ to 8¾ cents, off ¼ cent from the preceding Saturday's close. Arrivals were heavy, a total of 3,412 boxes being received, compared with 669 boxes the previous week.

Graded Western shipments of eggs in carlots were firm at 19½ to 19¾ cents for A-large, 18½ to 18¾ cents for A-medium, 17½ to 18¾ cents for B, and 15¾ to 16 cents for C. Quebec and Ontario eggs in less than carlots were 19½ cents for A-large, 18 cents for A-medium, 17 cents for B, and 15½ cents for C. A total of 22,457 cases arrived.

Quebec potatoes per 80-pound bag were quoted at 85 cents, New Brunswick Mountains were 80-pound bag at 90 cents and Prince Edward Island Mountains per 90-pound bag at $1.10 to $1.20.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 14. — Liquidation by longs in anticipation of the beneficial rains pushed wheat prices 1¼ to 1⅞ cents net lower on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange on Saturday. Fractional gains were scored in early trading, but these gave way as offerings increased.

Export buiness was scarcely a factor although a few scattered lots were reported sold overnight. Weather reports showed little improvement in the Canadian and United States drought situation, but rains were forecast for the week-end.

Obituary

MRS. JAMES ROBERTSON

KEENE, May 14 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Mrs. James Robertson took place Tuesday, May 5th, at 2 o'clock from the family residence, Lot 20, Concession 2, Otonabee.

She leaves to mourn her loss her sorrowing husband, and one daughter, Mary; one son, William; also one brother, Morley McIntyre of Cobourg; two sisters, Mrs. William Carruthers of Vancouver, B.C., and Mrs. Ida Campbell of Toronto. Four grandchildren also survive.

Her death came as a great shock to the community after a brief illness of ten days.

Many floral tributes bore testimony of the high regard in which the deceased was held.

Friends from Kitchener, Cobourg, Cameron, Lindsay, Little Britain, Mount Julian and Peterborough were present at the services conducted by Rev. J. S. Ferguson of Keene United Church. Interment at Westwood Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were George Renwick, Michael Kennedy, James McFarlane, Robert J. Hope, Walter Hope and James Dickson, Jr.

SAMUEL MURPHY

BETHANY, May 14 (Examiner Correspondence).—The very sudden passing of Samuel Murphy on Friday, May 4, at his home after only a few hours' illness from pneumonia, came as a very sudden shock to the entire community.

During the severe winter months the late Mr. Murphy complained of his heart bothering him, if he attempted much walking; but was very hopeful that the warm weather would remedy the trouble of the smothering spells.

The later Mr. Murphy moved into Bethany vilage about thirty years ago from the 13th Line of Cavan, where he was a successful farmer all his life.

He is survived by his wife, who was former to her marriage, Miss Lavina Galloway of Manvers 10th Line; and one sister, Mrs. William Mulligan of London, Ont. The deceased gentleman had a very large circle of friends and was well known throughout the township.

He was a member of L.O.L. No. 1022, under whose order the funeral was taken in charge.

The late Mr. Murphy was a staunch Conservative, and worshipped for many years in the old Presbyterian Church, later joining the United Church, where he and his wife were faithful attenders, if health and weather allowed. Mr. Murphy was amost 77 years of age.

The funeral service was in charge of the pastor, Rev. L. W. Scott. The opening hymn sung was a favorite of the deceased: "He Leadeth Me," and the closing hymn, the 23rd Psalm, was also the subject of the address used. A portion of which he repeated ere he breathed his last.

Interment was made at the beautiful Hillside Cemetery of St. John's Anglican Church, and was largely attended by many from a distance.

Weddings

BLACKBURN—THOMPSON.
FOWLER—THOMPSON.

MOUNT JULIAN, May 14.—(Examiner Correspondence). — Holy Trinity Anglican Church was the scene of a very pretty but quiet double wedding on Sunday morning, May 13, at eight-thirty, when Betsy Mann Thompson, daughter of the late Mr. William Thompson and Mrs. Thomson of Mount Julian, was united in marriage to Mr. J. Cyril Blackburn of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blackburn of Halifax, Nova Scotia, and her sister, Annie Evelyn Thompson, daughter of the late Mr. William Thompson and Mrs. Thompson of Mount Julian, became the bride of Mr. Donald James Fowler of Peterborough. The Rev. E. C. Moore officiated.

The brides entered the church to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Mathilda Moore. Miss Betsy, who was charmingly attired in a gown of white net over taffeta, a white turban with veil, white accessories and a corsage bouquet of lily of the valley, was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Roy Thompson, of Peterborough, while Miss Annie, looking lovely in a gown of white net and lace, a white hat with veil, white accessories and a corsage bouquet of lily of the valley, wac given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. James Thompson.

The bride's mother wore a gown of black lace and corsage bouquet of sweet peas.

Mr. William Thompson, nephew of the brides, was usher.

The church was prettily decorated for the occasion in white and green, white carnations being the predominating flower.

Following the ceremony the immediate relatives were received at the bride's home where the wedding breakfast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn left by motor for the city of Hempstead, Long Island, where they will reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler will reside at Mount Julian.

SEVEN OF LIGHTSHIP CREW DIE IN CRASH

June Robles Found Chained In Desert

KIDNAPPED GIRL IS ILL BUT ALIVE AFTER 19 DAYS

Letter Written Governor Sends Uncle, Lawyer to Lonely Cactus Heap.

HOLE DUG IN SAND.

Six Year Tot Had Food But Weakening Fast—Describes Captors.

TUCSON, Ariz., May 15.—(AP)—Little June Robles is home again, rescued from the desert tomb where kidnappers had kept her prisoner for 19 terrifying days.

Physicians watched over her today anxiously to ascertain how seriously she may have been affected by an ordeal which might easily have killed her; blazing days of a sun that burned her olive skin, and chilly, lonely nights in iron chains that gripped her slender ankles.

An unsigned letter, postmarked Chicago, gave the directions that led to her rescue late yesterday afternoon by her uncle, Carlos Robles, and Clarence Houston, Pima County attorney.

No ransom was paid. Fifteen thousand dollars had been demanded when the child was kidnapped, April 26.

The letter that saved the girl's life—she could not have survived much longer in her desert dungeon—was received yesterday at the office of Governor Moeur in Phoenix.

Explicit Instructions

It gave explicit instructions for finding the girl "buried under a cactus" near Tucson. The use of the word "buried" sent a chill down the backs of the hunters, for they feared it meant she was dead.

Driving out to a point indicated on Rincon way, a desert road, Houston and Robles began beating about the bushed and thorny Cacti.

4 MILK VENDORS MUST EXPLAIN

Milk Below Standard in Test Acting M. O. H. Reports.

BAKERIES INSPECTED.

When it was reported to the Board of Health this morning by Dr. A. W. McPherson, Acting Medical Officer of Health, that the monthly laboratory test of milk delivered in the city showed that samples taken from four vendors were not up to standard, members of the Board decided that such conditions must be definitely improved.

Dr. McPherson said that the laboratory report showed that one vendor's milk was "not clean," while that of three others "was below city standard in regard to butter fat." Mayor Denne made a motion that these four vendors be written to by the secretary of the Board, and that they be demanded to explain the reasons why their milk was not up to standard. "We must deal with such cases," he said. "They know the rules and should obey them. If they don't improve their milk by next moith's test, I favor taking away their licenses."

Other members of the Board concurred in this view, and the explanation will be requested.

Charles Stapleton, sanitary inspector reported that at the direction of the Board he had inspected all but two of the bakeshops in the city. He said that those he had inspected were clean, and every precaution was taken to keep them sanitary.

During April there were three cases of scarlet fever confined at the Isolation Hospital. Dr. McPherson said that at the present time two houses were placarded for the disease none of the cases being serious.

OIL MAN FREED THREE CONFESS TO KIDNAPPING

Gettle is Found Gagged in Los Angeles Suburb Near His Home.

NO RANSOM PAID.

Hideout Location Forced From Suspect and Round-up Follows.

LOS ANGELES, May 15. (AP).—Three men arrested in the kidnapping of William F. Gettle, who was released unransomed and unharmed last night, were reported by authorities to-day to have admitted participation in the abduction of the Beverly Hills millionaire.

Statements of the three, made in the presence of police detectives, sheriff's deputies and postoffice inspectors named Jimmy Kirk, as the alleged brains" of the plot; Harry Kerrigan, as the man who guarded Gettle, and Roy Williams, as the one who aided Kirk in seizing the millionaire at his summer home last week.

Under questioning by Capt. G. Stensland of the sheriff's office, Kerrigan was quoted as saying he was to have received $18,000 for acting as Gettle's guard, and that Kirk had ordered Gettle to write the letters reagarding arrangements for delivery of the $60,000 ransom.

Kirk, in his statement before the officers, said the plot to kidnap Gettle was his idea, but that Williams and Kerrigan helped him make the plans.

Asked if anyone else was involved in the plot, Kirk said:

"That is all."

He said he knew nothing about the two women, Loretta Woody and Joan Burke, now in custody.

Williams, in his statement, said he and Kirk were the two men who kidnapped Gettle.

Five Arrested.

They arrested five persons in connection with the kidnapping, which ccurred five days ago.

Gettle, haggard but smiling, said to-day that "it all seemed like a bad dream."

"My greatest worry while I lay bound hand and foot on that bed was for the anxiety my absence would cause my wife and family."

"Thank God," murmured Mrs. Gettle, an invalid, when word of the rescue was given her.

Gettle's rescue came unexpectedly following an unsuccessful attempt early yesterday to pay $60,000 ransome in exchange for his safe return to his wife and four small children.

The alleged kidnappers, even before the crime had been perpetrated, made the mistake which led to last night's arrests and the return of Gettle.

Five weeks ago they attracted attention of the police robbery detail by their activities in an apartment house. The officers were seeking a band of bank robbers. They placed recording devices in

In Dazed Condition

(By Carlos G. Robles.)

(Uncle of six-year-old June Robles, kidnapped 19 days ago, and found alive Monday, chained and entombed on the Arizona Desert, by her uncle and County Attorney Clarence Houston).

TUCSON, Ariz, May 15 (AP) — We had expected to find her dead if we found her at all. The letter stated that we would locate her under a pile of cactus, 150 paces from the roadway. That led us all to believe she would be dead.

Even after Houston found her and picked up a bundle I was sure she was dead.

We had tramped over the cactus and desert until 4 o'clock, when Houston and I decided to take different directions and zig-zag through the cactus and mesquite. We were far apart when I heard Houston yell, "Carlos! Carlos!" For a time I could not find him, the underbrush was so thick, and then I saw his white shirt. I ran. From a distance I saw him run over and pick up a bundle apparently off the ground. I was sure June was dead.

When I saw she was alive I could not believe my eyes or restrain myself.

She did not recognize Houston, but she did know me. When I picked her up she said "I want to walk," but her legs were so weak they would not hold her, and she fell several times, until Clarence (Houston) and I managed to hold her up so she could have the satisfaction of walking. As we started to leave the pit June held back. "I want my report card," she said. "I

Four-Pound Trout Is Caught In Cavan

Walter Jackson, well-known local sportsman, is the envy of trout fishermen these days. Fishing in a stream in Cavan Township early Saturday morning, Mr. Jackson hooked a big trout and after a sharp battle landed it. The fish, which must have been the great grandaddy of trout in these parts, weighed 4 pounds one ounce, was 20½ inches long and measured 13 inches in girth. "It looked like a lunge when it first broke water," Mr. Jackson stated.

HARRY HUFFMAN NOTED CITIZEN PASSES IN CITY

Prominent Citizen, Contractor and Ex-alderman, is Dead.

MEMBER OF KIWANIS CLUB.

Zeal and Energy Devoted to Various Undertakings an Outstanding Characteristic.

Harry C. Huffman, contractor and former alderman of the city council, died at ten o'clock this morning at his home, 311 Elias Avenue of angina pectoris, a heart ailment which had effected him for nearly four years, reaching an acute stage about ten days ago.

Mr. Huffman was born in Peterborough on April 19, 1889, the elder son of Charles H. Huffman of Hunter street west, was educated in this city, having attended the old South Central school on Rubidge Street, and the Collegiate Institute. He was first attracted to banking at the close of his school days, but after three years' experience with the Bank of Nova Scotia he decided to join his father in the contracting and building business in 1908.

The father had long been recognized as one of Peterborough's most capable and expert contractors, and after some years of what might be called an apprenticeship, Harry Huffman brought to their association the valuable asset of youthful energy ability and enterprise which gained for C. H. Huffman and Son marked success and high standing among the city's builders. Many homes and other buildings were erected by them during those twenty expansive years up to 1930. Thoroughness of constructional detail and originality of design in many instances were hallmarks of the Huffman work, both these features having been business ideals of the late Harry Huffman.

Member of City Council

A strong sense of citizenship and love of Peterborough animated Harry Huffman, and although he was still a young man at the time his illness began to compel his withdrawal from various public ac-

2 GERMANS DIE BALLOON CRASH

Wreckage Found With One of Crew 22 Miles Inside Soviet Border.

OTHER BODY 9 MILES OFF.

BERLIN, May 15 (A.P.).—Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Minister of Aviation, to-day ordered a commission to go to Russia at once and investigate the deaths of two German balloonists found dead on Russian soil.

The dead men were the crew of Germany's biggest balloon, the Bartsch von Segsfeld. They were Dr. Hermann Victor Masuch and Martin Schrenk.

They took off Sunday from Bitterfeld, Germany. No more was heard from them until to-day, when the Soviet Government announced the wrecked balloon had been found last night 23 miles east of the Soviet frontier station of Sedesh. One balloonist lay dead in the gondola. The body of the other pilot was found nine miles further east.

Aviation circles here were thrown into mourning.

German experts said they were sure that a faulty oxygen apparatus caused the death of the two men who had sought to make sub-stratosphere studies.

This view was strengthened by the fact that they had carried an oxygen supply adequate for only four hours.

It was assumed that Masuch and Schrenk already were dead when the balloon was last seen drifting east at a great height over East Prussia late Sunday.

The balloon was not only the largest but the most modern in Germany. It had a gas volume of 9,500 cubic metres, belonged to the German Aviation Society, and frequently had been used before on the sub-stratosphere investigations.

ARMS PARLEY AT LAST GASP SAYS COOPER

British Official Predicts Huge Outlay for Increasing Armaments.

IN NEXT YEAR.

All Great Powers Wait on Others—None Taking Initiative.

BY GEORGE HAMBLETON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 15.—(C. P. Cable)—Disarmament is drifting deeper into the bog. The great powers are all waiting on one another, with none ready to take the initiative.

Addressing students of King's College today Captain A. Duff Cooper, financial secretary to the war office, was blunt in declaring "the disarmament conference is at its last gasp."

In the coming year, he predicted, large sums of money would be spent on increasing armaments. The British air force itself would be built up from its present position—fifth or sixth among the world's powers. The country was in a dangerous and exposed position, he said. "While other people are discussing disarmament the position of Germany is such that they are even lecturing on 'the Beauty of War' in the schools and have introduced a new game known as war sport', in which the pupils are taught to dig trenches and handle bayonets," he added.

One More Effort

At the same time a deputation from the national joint council of the British Labor Movement strongly urged the government to make a

WALL OF WATER HITS TIBERIAS

Many Children Feared Drowned in Second Cloudburst in Two Days.

1900-YEAR-OLD CITY.

JERUSALEM, May 15 (AP) — A second cloudburst within 24 hours struck the 1900-year-old City of Tiberias at noon to-day, shortly after the 17 persons drowned in yesterday's deluge were buried.

Another heavy death toll among children, ten of whom were killed yesterday, was feared as a result of to-day's rain.

The water rushed down from the hills for 25 minutes like a river. Stocks of goods were carried out of shops and houses were emptied of their contents.

The entire population of Tiberias fled, as best it could, to higher ground outside the city. The new disaster wrecked all the salvage work accomplished overnight by a big force of soldiers and police sent into the district.

Much livestock was lost by the swift-flowing waters.

STRUCK IN FOG BY GIANT LINER NEW YORK BOUND

Stricken Craft Sinks in Few Minutes—3 Succumb After Rescue.

FOUR MISSING.

Coastguard Craft Rush to Scene—Shoals 40 Miles Out.

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP)—Three members of the crew of the Nantucket lightship were killed and four were missing in a collision today between the lightship and the liner Olympic in which the lightship was sunk.

First reports from the White Star Steamship Company, which operates the Olympic, placed the death list at seven.

Seven members of the lightship's crew were picked up by lifeboats put out by the liner.

The first report from the line office said four of the seven were dead when picked up, and that three died aboard the ship.

Later the line offices corrected its casualty list to seven persons rescued three of whom died aboard the ship and the remaining four survived. The dead, in the corrected list, were W. W. Perry, engineer; J. F. Richmond, a sailor; and A. Montiro, a cook.

The four alive were listed by the line as George Braithwaite, master of the lightship; C. E. Mosher, a mate; J. F. Perry, radio operator, and L. V. Roberts, an oiler.

The four missing were: I. Pina, cook; N. S. Rodricues, sailor; J. Fortes, sailor, and E. B. George, a sailor.

The Olympic put out one motor boat and two lifeboats to rescue the men. It proceeded on toward New York at 1 p.m., about 2½ hours after the collision.

Rescue Craft Rushed.

After receiving wireless messages telling of the accident, coast guard cutters were rushed to the scene.

Coastguardsmen announced that a cutter, either the Argo or the Acushnet, would take the lost vessel's position pending arrival of a relief lightship which has been ordered to the spot from Boston.

The Nantucket lightship is one of the most important beacons along the entire Atlantic coast. It is located on the south shoals and is the first beacon of its kind picked up by incoming trans-Atlantic vessels and the last to be seen by departing steamers.

The crash apparently either disabled the lightship's radio or else sank the craft so quickly that it was unable to send out any distress calls. No SOS messages were picked up by any of the stations which heard the Olympic's calls.

A thickening fog bank hindered the search for the survivors.

BANK SALARIES NOT SUFFICIENT MEMBERS SAY

After an Hour's Debate Question Allowed to Stand in Committee.

DIFFICULT TO DEAL WITH.

Bank Maintains That the Employes Are Fairly Treated.

OTTAWA, May 15.—(CP)—For an hour today the Banking Committee of the House of Commons went into the question of salaries paid by Canadian banks to their empoyees. Coupled with this was the right of bank employees to organize. Finally after a debate in which some members declared that the banks were not paying their employees enough, and a representative of the banks expressed the view that they were, the matter was allowed to stand.

The matter arose when Dr. Raymond Morand (Cons. East Essex), moved an amendment under which the banks would be required to furnish information to the government as to salaries of employees and conditions under which they were required to work. In doing so the Essex member expressed the opinion that it would be almost impossible for the committee to set up machinery which would insure bank employees a minimum wage.

Blames Officials

The amendment threw open the whole question of bank salaries, and members took advantage of it to express their opinion. Major C. G Power (Lib. Quebec South) told the committee that, at a trial in Quebec for defalcations, the judge had declared that he did not blame the offender, but rather the bank which paid him such a small salary.

G. G. Coote (U.F.A. MacLeod), expressed the view that $500 per annum (the minimum salary for a bank teller), was entirely too small and might encourage theft from the bank.

On the other hand, S. H. Logan, general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, expressed the view that bank employees were fairly treated.

It was finally decided to hold over Mr. Morand's amendment for some changes.

The committee negatived by a vote of 16 to 6 an amendment of William Irvine (U.F.A. Wetaskiwin), which would give the bank employees specific rights of organization. It was stated that employees were not prohibited from organizing under the act.

GETTLE PICKS KIRK AS CHIEF OF KIDNAP GANG

Millionaire Admits He Wrote Notes on Threat of Double Ransom.

KEPT BLINDFOLDED

"Boss" Smart Bird—Cursed Attorney When Pay-off Slipped Up.

LOS ANGELES, May 15. (AP).—The official statement of William F. Gettle, Beverly Hills millionaire, who was freed from kidnappers last night, made to the sheriff's office, follows:

Mr. Wolf (James Wolf, a guest) and I were in the recreation house at the bar, throwing dice, when these two men came in and said: "Stick 'em up." They had guns, one an automatic and one a six-shooter and they had white cloth masks on their faces.

They took us on down the path to the wall. Then they took our ties off and tied our hands behind our backs. And then they started to push us over the wall. Wolf said: "Hell, I can't get up there," so they taped him to the tree.

And then they told me to start up the ladder and when I got to the top I fell over on the ground. I thought I had broken my leg. So they stopped and rubbed my leg and then got me into the car.

Then we rode a long way, I don't know how far, until we got to the prison house. Then they told me to get out quietly and took me in and threw me on the bed, my hands and legs were still tied.

Always Blindfolded.

They kept the blindfold on me all the time. I could peek out of the corner a little and then later they took the tape off my mouth when I promised to keep still, but they kept me dressed, my legs taped and made me stay on the bed.

They brought me sandwiches and drinks and they told me they did not want to hurt me, because, in fact, they said, that I was the nicest fellow they had ever had, because

TWO BOYS GIVEN 22-MONTH TERM

Both Pleaded Guilty to 17 Charges of Breaking and Entering.

IN TROUBLE BEFORE.

Two 16-year-old boys, John McClennan, this city, and Theodore Zinston, of Dummer Township, were sentenced to-day by Police Magistrate Langley to a term of 22 months definite and an indeterminate thereafter not to exceed 18 months in the Ontario Reformatory. Both lads pleaded guilty to 17 charges of breaking and entering and theft from summer cottages at Stoney Lake and Kawartha Park.

McClennan also pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, a revolver, which he explained to the court was not loaded and for which he had no ammunition. He said he was carrying it in his pocket, after having stolen it from one of the cottages because he had nowhere to hide it.

The boys were arrested two weeks ago by Provincial Constables D. Silvester and William Warren after extensive investigation conducted throughout the lake district by the two officers. When arrested, the

Maj. Kennedy Boosts Cause of Canadian Aviation—Great Future.

OTTAWA, May 15 (C.P.).—Canada's future in aviation should be planned and mapped out carefully in order to ensure that full advantage is taken of this new and rapid mode of communication, peculiarly suited to the wide areas of this country. Such is the belief of Major W. W. Kennedy, Conservative member for Winnipeg Centre, who last night tried to make the House of Commons air-minded.

Another Manitoba member, Errick Willis (Cons., Souris) shared the spotlight with Major Kennedy as the budget debate drew to a close. Mr. Willis spoke of the dried out areas on the wheat-growing section. A survey, he said, would find out whether drought such as struck the southern prairies in the last few years comes in cycles or whether there were large areas of definitely sub-marginal land which, even under favorable conditions, would not provide farmers with a profitable living.

If the latter was the case, the suggestion that a large corporation be organized to take such lands out of cultivation might receive consideration and a tremendous amount of hardship avoided.

Coast-To-Coast Airway.

Canada would soon have a coast-to-coast airway second to none in the world, equipped with landing fields every 75 miles, said Major Kennedy. It was essential that the public interest in the development of air services be safeguarded and promoted.

Three alternatives in connection with the operation of a trans-Canada service required consideration: First, operation by a private company with a contract from the Government and subject to governmental regulations; second, a semi-national corporation on which the Government would have representation, and, third, a wholly government-owned enterprise.

Whichever alternative was adopted should be based on a definite

All's well that ends well according to an old adage. And everything is fine now with R. C. (Danny) Dowling, screen dancer, and Marjorie Crawford, pretty aviatrix. Not long ago, Dowling was haled into court at Los Angeles, charged with kidnapping Miss Crawford and taking her to Yuma, Ariz., where he allegedly attempted to force her to marry him. But now the charges have been dropped because Dowling and his supposed "victim" have announced they are married. This photo shows the couple in a happy embrace after revealing the wedding.

The service at the United Church, Havelock, Sunday night was under the direction of the W.M.S., with an address given by Mrs. (Rev. Dr.) Kilborn, returned missionary from China.

RHODES, CAHAN ARE TO APPEAR BEFORE PROBE

STEWART WRITES LETTER.

Imperial President Denies Firm Had Advance Tax Tips.

OTTAWA, May 15 (CP)—Pushing its probe of the tobacco business toward a finish, the House of Commons Committee on Price Spreads and Mass buying to-day proposes to inquire further into the allegations of L. M. Stewart, President of the W. C. Macdonald Tobacco Company, that information as to the cut in the cigarette tax in 1932 leaked out in advance to his competitors.

Three members of the Government are to go before the committee in connection with the matter, and Mr. Stewart may be recalled. The allegations made by the head of the Macdonald firm last week brought speedy repercussions yesterday. In the House of Commons Prime Minister R. B. Bennett announced he had asked Hon. H. H. Stevens, chairman of the committee to recall Mr. Stewart and seek all the information he had on the point.

A letter from Mr. Stewart was read both in the committee and in the House, saying he was confused at the time and regretted some of the statements he had made; in particular his reference to "buying the Government."

Three To Be Called

He mentioned the Minister of Finance, the Secretary of State and the Minister of National Revenue as the Ministers he had referred to. These three, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Hon. C. H. Cahan and Hon. R. C. Matthews, will likely make statements to the committee to-day. The committee, however, made no definite decision as to recalling Mr. Stewart.

Yesterday, Grey Miller, President of the Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, denied his company had received any advance information on the cigarette tax reduction. He also said, to his knowledge, the company had made no contributions to political campaign funds.

The records of the Tucket Tobacco Plant at Hamilton, a subsidiary of Imperial, showed there had been no shutdown on the eve of the 1932 budget, he told the committee. Mr. Stewart had said he had information that plant had been closed down because the tax reduction was anticipated.

Self Defence

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 15.—(CP)—With his own wooden leg as the subject of his monologue, Joseph F. Studnicka, an attorney suing the manufacturers of the artificial leg, took the stand and asked himself questions, which he proceeded to answer.

He alleged the company from which he bought the leg in 1930 agreed to keep it in condition for five years, but recently refused to make adjustments necessitated by his increased weight.

Defense counsel insisted Studnicka ask himself questions as he would a witness so they might interpose objections.

Early potatoes have been planted and the land is being prepared for other vegetable crops. Heavy frost in Essex caused damage to beans, asparagus and other garden crops.

In Eastern Ontario afalfa crops suffered from Winter killing; Dundas County especially reporting large damage with a similar situation prevailing in Grenville where strawberries also suffered.

BROCK STREET SUMMER GARDENS READY FOR COLORFUL OPENING

Beautiful Decorative Scheme Has Been Carried Out in Whole Building.

BRIGHT COLORS.

The Brock street Summer Gardens will have a colorful opening to-morrow night, when the summer dancing season commences at this popular resort.

Last season, the big rink was transformed into a brilliant dance hall, but this year, Manager Harold LaPlante has gone even farther and the effect achieved its extremely beautiful and artistic, as well as being quite elaborate.

The false ceiling which has been contrived by the use of interlacing wide meshes of cut and scalloped paper, hanging above in drape-like formation, carries out the effect of the sky. Near the door, sky-blue meshes are used and farther on, the colors change to the rosy mauve of the setting sun, with the real golden sunset achieved in the ochestra stand and its background, at the south end of the big enclosure.

All the merging tints of the rainbow are here—soft blues, rich purples, warm mauves and rose, brilliant yellow and tangerine, with cool greens. On the electric lights are pagoda-shaped shades which are very effective in their designing and coloring. The upper sections are of tangerine shades that change to bright yellows, with long, soft green tassels.

Motifs in the decorative scheme of the false ceiling are festoons of flowers, gay Chinese lanterns of varying shapes and sizes and parrots and love birds in gorgeous colorings that rest on swinging perches.

In the center suspended above the dancing floor, which, by the way, has been extended by one thousand feet, is a glittering, large crystal ball, in which twinkling mirrors reflect colors cast on it by concealed reflectors.

The orchestra stand, which resembles a glorified sunset in its lovely colorings of lemon yellow and apricot, it decorated with palms and ferns, and the silvered music stands are illuminated by concealed rose lights.

Bright Colors

On the side pillars are solar rays spreading out toward the ceiling, in tangerine and yellow.

The woodwork of the entire interior of the rink proper has been done over in sea green and Chinese vermilion paint in a striking color combination.

On entering, the idea of the Gardens is set at once by a large rock pool filled with water and centered by the jets of a sparkling fountain. The pool is fringed with stone and shells and is bordered with evergreens, little conifers, flowers and ferns that are sending gentle fronds up through the moist earth. A tiny frog dwells here also, and red and green lights cast colored reflections on the gleaming fountain spray.

The fountain and pergola which makes an entrance to the dance floor are the work of Al Spencely of Al's Pastime Gardens, and a fine job has been made of both. The pergola is a firm affair of red cedar boughs, festooned with roses, and flanked by two rustic benches. It is an extremely attractive bit of scenery.

Around the rink are rustic chairs and benches and tall green palms and the two corners near the entrance have been made into little triangular rockeries, with flowers and moss and conifer greens.

The entrance to the Gardens has been changed, with a springing upper arch that, like the rest of the lobby, is finished in warm cream and black.

In the manager's office, at the right of the entrance, another transformation has been effected. The walls are done in ivory, with grey panelling, the floor is carpeted and there are curtains of fine net and art linen on the windows. Electric fixtures and wall brackets here in the lobby and the ladies' room are of modernistic type. The ladies' room has also been done over, in two shades of cool green, with a pretty linoleum floor covering, pictures on the walls and a dainty dressing table and mirror. Bright chintz material drapes the windows.

The canteen is done in a cool scheme of pale green and ivory, and the woodwork on the outside of the big building has also been treated to a fresh coat of paint, in green and cream.

HELP IS SCARCE IN HALIBURTON

Few Men to be Had for Wood-Cutting and Farm Work.

FENELON FALLS MEMORIAL

LINDSAY, May 15.—"There is no need for men being idle in the north country if they care to work," said a resident of the village of Coboconk to The Examiner. "Construction work on the roads has proved a blessing to the northern part of Victoria, as well as Haliburton County. Farmers are finding it rather difficult to get farm help as most of the boys have left the farms for the road camps. Wood cutters, too, are scarce, and it looks as if the people in the towns and villages will have to pay more for their hardwood next fall and winter." The Carew Lumber Company, of Lindsay, which has a large sawmill at Haliburton, is planning to open the plant this week. Some fifty men, it is understood, will be given employment if that number can be secured in the north.

The Fenelon Falls Memorial Committee has made definite arrangements for the purchase and erection of a war memorial that will be a credit to the village. A piece of land between the two bridges over the Trent Canal has been donated as a site by the Department of Railways and Canals. The memorial will consist of a base nine feet wide and about the same height, on the top of which will be erected a large cross. It is being erected jointly by the Township of Fenelon and the village of Fenelon Falls.

The death occurred at the Toronto General Hospital on Saturday of a former pastor of the Queen Street United Church, Lindsay, in the person of Rev. J. R. Real. The reverend gentleman was a graduate of Victoria College, and during his pastorate here was most popular with all classes. He later accepted a call to Havelock, and was superannuated in 1919. He is survived by his wife.

How Lindbergh Made Famous Flight Revealed

It was just seven years ago May 20 that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh set out at dawn from New York and made history, earned himself fame and fortune by an epoch-making flight across the Atlantic to Paris. Now, seven years after, the story of how Lindbergh was able to make that flight is revealed. Shortly before he took off, the famous flier consulted a book by Dr. I. M. Cline, noted meteorologist, called 'Tropical Cyclones'. That, along with weather bureau reports furnished Lindbergh with the clue he needed. While two others (Admiral Byrd and Clarence Chamberlain) waited favorable weather, he took off in a Spirit of St. Louis averaged 113 m.p.h for 3,610 miles. The flier studied the cyclone trail, found it, was carried along by it, with knowledge that once he found it he could not turn back, master the heavy winds, and flew triumphantly to Paris. It is now revealed that without the winds, and Lindbergh's previous knowledge of them, he could never have made the flight, for his plane would never have carried so far nor so fast.

MOTHERS GUEST OF DAUGHTERS

Most Successful Banquet is Held in St. Paul's Sunday School.

MRS. EWART SPEAKS.

Mother's Day on Sunday was followed last night by a mother and daughter banquet in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Sunday School Hall. This annual re-union of mothers and daughters around the social board is an event of much importance and interest in St. Paul's Church, judged by the attendance of one hundred and forty—and the preparations left nothing to chance in the matter of a delightful supper at the daintily arranged tables, with flowers of spring, and silver candlesticks and green candles.

Music and Toasts.

Justice having been shown to the edibles and community singing at intervals, led by Toady Patterson, with Mrs .G. Wilson Craw at the piano, enjoyed by the assemblage, a program of high merit was introduced by Miss Aleitha V. Davidson, as chairman, in greetings. Toasts to The King and The Church having been honored, Mrs. L. R. Mitchell delighted the hearers with a splendid vocal solo. The toast To Mother was proposed by Sybil Jackson and responded to by Mrs. E. H Howson in appropriate thoughts.

A piano duet was a pleasing interlude by Misses Helen and Frances Latimer.

To Daughter was next proposed by Mrs. T. J. Carley, with Margaret T. Reid responding, in a pleasing mood. Mrs. George Coleman of Brantford (who was anniversary soloist on Sunday) delighted the audience with a vocal solo.

Guest Speaker.

Mrs. James Dutton gracefully introduced the guest speaker of the evening—Mrs. D. Ewart of Cobourg, president of the Peterborough Presbyterial, W.M.S.

Mrs. Ewart, on rising to address the mothers and daughters, received a sincere welcome, as one who has spent many years in the cause of missions at home and abroad. She remarked that her connection with missionary societies dated from her eleventh year, and in that time Mrs. Ewart has gathered a fund of knowledge and has known many changes in the personnel and methods of society work, which has equipped her to speak with a grasp of this special branch of church activity. She told of the beginnings of Women's Missionary Society groups in various provinces of Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific, of the struggles and progress and sacrifice met with before a group could become sustaining and helpful. Encouraging words were spoken by Mrs. Ewart to the young ladies present, urging them to step into the vacancies caused by those veterans who were "passing on"; only by thus filling these places could the great task of Christianizing our peoples be accomplished.

The Foreign Field.

The speaker referred also to the work among Chinese and the Indians in Candaa, with its multifarious calls for assistance. Skipping to foreign fields, Mrs. Ewart referred to the work being carried on along the frontiers by our missionaries, and called for prayers and monetary gifts towards the advancement of this great enterprise. Potent thoughts were also expressed by Mrs. Ewart for attendance at local W.M.S. and Auxiliary meetings, with the feeling that it should become a habit to be present at every session; and urged that all should take part in the deliberations.

Votes of Thanks.

Mrs. L. R. Mitchell sang a solo in beautiful voice.

Miss Lily Kay, and Miss Mary Sedgewick, moved and seconded, respectively, votes of thanks to all who had contributed to the program and helped to make the evening such an enjoyable success, with special praise to Mrs. Ewart for her timely and encouraging message.

The proceedings closed with prayer by the church deaconess, Miss Elizabeth Walker.

CANADIANS LEAD IN USING 'PHONE

Canadians Make More Use of Telephone Than Any Other People.

RANKS FIFTH IN WORLD

Canada is maintaining its position of world leadership in the matter of telephone usage. This is only one of the evidences of this country's prominence in the field of communication as reveaed by the statistical record just issued by the Bell System. It deals with electrical communication throughout the world, and the figures are as of January 1, 1933.

Canadians make more use of the telephone than any other people. In 1932, Canadians held 234.5 telephone conversations per capita. New Zealand with a comparable figure of 205.8 and the United States with 204.6, were the only other countries in which the telephone talks per persons exceeded the 200 mark. Denmark led Europe in this connection with 151.8, followed by Sweden with 137.6. Canadians made almost seven times more use of the telephone than the British who reported 33.0 calls per capita, the same figure as given by Germany and more than eleven times more than the people of France who made 20.5 calls per capita.

With 21.02 telephones per 100 popuation in cities of 50,000 and over, Canada is second in this regard only to Sweden with 22.45. The United States ranks third with 19.52. In the smaller towns and villages, Canada retains third position with 7.96 telephones per 100 inhabitants. The United States is first with 10.17 and New Zealand follows with 9.62 based on statistics compiled up to and including March 31, 1933. Canada's ranking in this regard emphasizes that residents of our cities and towns of less than 50,000 people are better equipped with telephones and their associated apparatus than are inhabitants of most of Europe's largest and more important centres.

Canada, with 1,261,245, ranks fifth in absolute number of telephones and is led only by the United States, Germany, Great Britain, (including Northern Ireland) and France, in that order. But in telephones per 100 population, Canada has 11.98 which is second only to 13.94 in the United States, while Great Britain, Germany, and France have only 4.62, 4.51, and 3.07 respectively. Some 83 per cent of Canada's total telephones and all of the telephones of United States are under private ownership and operation. In Germany, France and Great Britain, all telephones are operated by their respective governments. Argentina leads South America in telephone development with 2.74 per 100 population. Japan easily leads the Asiatic countries but shows a figure of only 1.44 up to and including March 31st. last year.

A RIDICULOUS ORDER.

The powers-that-be in Ingersoll have issued an order that after seven days all dogs not wearing tags are to be shot on sight by the police.

Naturally there is indignation among dog-owners at this entirely unjustifiable and cruel edict.

As the Border Cities Star well says, why should the poor dogs have to suffer the death penalty because of the indifference or the poverty of their masters?

The Examiner feels, too, that to ask the police force to go round shooting all the dogs they happen upon that are not wearing tags is to make the officers ridiculous.

As a matter of fact, we have always had the opinion that to require dogs to be licensed in this day and generation is to continue a practice that may have been justified in the early period of the city's history, but that to-day has no real foundation.

If there is any logical reason for licensing dogs it would apply with equal force to cats or canaries or gold-fish for that matter.

At all events a little more judgment should be displayed than the Ingersoll authorities are showing in this order to the police force to "get their dog" if licenses are not paid within the next week.

Probably the next edict will be that the officers must shoot down deliquent taxpayers on sight.

THE C.C.F. STANDARD-BEARER.

With the practical certainty that Rev. John Sutherland, former Presbyterian minister at Keene, will enter the local provincial contest as the standard-bearer of the C.C.F., interest in the campaign should be perceptibly quickened.

Whatever may be the general view of the socialistic program of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, there will be little difference of opinion as to the calibre of the candidate who is to be selected by the local C.C.F. clubs, for Mr. Sutherland's sincerity of purpose is not to be questioned, and there is no doubt that he will throw himself into the fight with the zeal of a crusader.

The prospective C.C.F. candidate is an able speaker, is a firm believer in the principles of the C.C.F., is well known in some sections of the riding at least, and has undoubted personal strength as an aspirant for public honors.

Strangely enough, this third entrant in the electoral fight, like the other two candidates already nominated, has been identified with the county end of the riding, so that the contest, if it is confined to the three at present in the limelight, will be fought out without the city of Peterborough having a representative in the field.

The next interesting development will be the action that will be taken by the temperance organizations in respect to the election, which will be determined, it is presumed, as soon as the attitude of the candidates already named has been made clear. The possibility of an independent "dry" candidate cannot be ignored in this connection.

SAVING OUR HERITAGE.

Ozark Ripley, famous American sportsman and writer, told the Peterborough Rotary Club a home truth yesterday when he declared that once the supply of fish and game was exhausted Canada would cease to be the goal of United States tourists.

Mr. Ripley, who from long experience of fishing in Canadian rivers and lakes knows the conditions intimately, is an authority whose opinion cannot lightly be disregarded, and The Examiner feels that he is entirely correct in his opinion that to a great extent the volume of tourist traffic depends upon the fish and game resources of the country.

In sounding this note of warning and in calling upon Canadians to work together to save the situation, the American sportsman is doing this country a good turn.

As he pointed out in his interesting address yesterday, Ontario has a wonderful heritage in her extensive system of rivers and lakes, more wonderful by far than any other section of the continent can boast about.

If we are willing to sit idly by while the reserves of fish and game are exhausted we most certainly could be charged with criminal stupidity, for with them goes a tourist industry that even in the leanest of years has meant the spending of many million dollars of American money in this province.

And, too, as Mr. Ripley says, we should not wait for governments to act; it is up to our sportsmen and our business men and to citizens generally to spend a little of their own money in conservation work and re-stocking; it is an investment the returns from which will be both certain and abundant.

A RIDICULOUS TARIFF.

Even the most ardent believer in protective tariffs will surely agree that an instance quoted in the Border Cities Star carries the principle of protection to an absurd degree.

Writing in that well-known paper, W. L. Clark says that Prime Minister Bennett referred so often to the records of debates of the House of Commons in Great Britain that he decided to subscribe for the English Hansards.

Last year they came without trouble, but this year it is different.

"In spite of the Imperial Conference agreements or because of them," says the Windsor newspaper man, "we have been taxed for those records of debates. Before we could get them out of the customs we had to pay 39 cents duty. We have a very formal looking appraisal note, all filled out and receipted to show for our money."

A levy of this kind is surely ridiculous in the extreme.

There is not the justification that a tariff on the records of British debates protects Canadian printers or their employees, for these English Hansards are, of course, not printed in Canada and do not enter into competition with anything published in this country.

Why in the name of common sense a Canadian who is sufficiently interested in Empire affairs to send for reports of the debates in the British Parliament should be called upon to pay tribute to the Canadian customs before he can obtain possession of the publications is a source of bewilderment to The Examiner.

Surely these Government publications should come into this country duty free.

BREAKING PRECEDENTS.

Persons in public office and therefore more prominently in the public eye, can scarcely carry on their affairs, either official or private, without being subjected to a certain amount of criticism.

In every land there are individuals who consider it their duty to mould the life of someone else. They usually start on the person in public office and so, the First Lady of the United States, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, is, to use the popular phrase, "on the spot."

Mrs. Roosevelt appears to be a bit too democratic to suit some people's conception of what a President's wife should be and how she should conduct herself. Many persons have expressed their views in letters to her. They have pointed out that she is shattering all the precedents of her office, that she shouldn't pose for a picture without wearing hat and coat and that her place is at home pouring tea and acting as hostess for the President.

Precedent breaking activities of Mrs. Roosevelt's first year in the White House include: Attending inaugural ball without the President; holding first regular press conference ever held by a President's wife; knitting in the Senate gallery; asking removal of guards at places she appears in New York; entertaining son's former wife at Roosevelt summer home; visiting bonus marchers' camp and miners in West Virginia; falling off a horse and scrambling eggs for Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald. There are others and they are every bit as "serious."

Before Mrs. Roosevelt entered the White House she had many interests outside the home; and in the home, it is recorded, she was a good wife and mother and a good cook. That combination should fit her, or any other woman, for the high office she now occupies. Surely the women of the United States are not asking their First Lady to abandon these activities and become a stay-at-home, tea-pouring hostess. If the wife of the President of the United States chooses to scramble the eggs that are set before the Premier of Great Britain why shouldn't she be allowed to do so? And, my goodness, what rider hasn't fallen off a horse! Even the Prince of Wales has done that and he still retains the position as heir apparent to the throne of England.

So far as we have been able to follow Mrs. Roosevelt's career in the White House she has been handling a pretty big job in a pretty practical sort of manner and the women of the United States would be well advised to dig into their spring house cleaning and leave to their First Lady the task of running her end of this White House business.—Stratford BeaconHerald.

A STATESMAN WORTHY OF VENERATION.

It was the Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, who said the other day in the House of Commons that he believed the day was coming when there would be public veneration of the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, the Liberal Premier of Canada from 1873 to 1878, who has been described as sleeping by the treasury with a shotgun in order to ward off those who had designs upon the public funds.

"This Dominion," said the Minister of Finance, "is shown with wreckage in the form of public expenditures running into the tens and hundreds of millions of dollars which have been made with the acclaim of the people, not realizing, poor souls, that the day would come when they would be called upon to pay the bill."

While he lived and occupied a place in Canadian public life, Alexander Mackenzie, the Scottish mason turned statesman, was ridiculed for his extreme efforts to safeguard the treasury from those who would pillage it. He resisted every attempt that was made to raid the treasury in an unwarranted manner, yet his administration was marked by noteworthy legislation, including the adoption of a stringent election law, the establishment of the Royal Military College at Kingston, the improvement of the militia system, the permanent organization of the Civil Service, the establishment of a Supreme Court for Canada, the opening of direct mail communication with the West Indies, the construction of a transcontinental telegraph line, the adoption of negotiations for a reciprocity treaty between Canada and the United States, the establishment of a territorial government for the Northwest, and the satisfactory adjustment of the Manitoba amnesty and the New Brunswick school questions which at one time threatened most serious complications.

During only five years of office, Alexander Mackenzie gave Canada good economic, sound government based upon the plain, honest and far-seeing statesmanship that he practised in behalf of this country. Thrice offered knighthood, he declined it upon every occasion. Canada can well afford to venerate his memory, as Mr. Rhodes says she will, and to regret that all of his successors in office have not been animated by the same regard for the public welfare.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Prairie Provinces are threatened with a plague of grasshoppers. This menace is a blow to the hopes for a better year for the Western wheat-growers, so far as certain districts are concerned.

The Stevens Committee is to investigate the rubber industry next, and that portion of the probe is likely to be stretched out for some time.

It is quite likely to be the case that, although June is the month of strawberries, Ontario politicians will be often greeted with the "raspberry" in the course of the campaign.

Captain Elmore Philpott is once more back in the ranks of the C.C.F., although as this item was written yesterday it is possible that there has been another change in his status by this time.

With the pickerel season now officially open, the ardent angler will no doubt be able to convince himself that despite other evidences to the contrary summer has really arrived.

After the Insulls leave the headlines of the newspapers, Gandhi will probably stage a comeback.—Kitchener Record.

CHAPTER IV.

Scarcely a month had passed before anti-Jewish riots had broken out over Prussia. Nathan solemnly looked at the first dispatches to reach him. "Ha!" he said slowly, "Ledrantz! So! The Gentile demands his pound of flesh."

Nathan hastily summoned Rowerth and prepared to leave forFrankfort to be with his mother,wife and daughter. Immediately upon his arrival in Frankfort, Nathan tried to persuade his mother Gudula Rothschild, to leave with him for England. The old lady refused, saying that she was only eighty-eight now and she was going to live there until she was a hundred.

Fitzroy had lost no time in going to Frankfort in an effort to find Julie. He eventually located the old Rothschild home on Jew Street. Julie chanced to see him as he rode up. She rushed him inside. The two sat on a window seat talking in undertones.

"What's the use of our pretending ——?" Fitzroy murmured.

"Father doesn't speak angrily about you—but he's determined and he doesn't change his mind," said Julie.

"But we can't give each other up," continued Fitz. "Sending you away from me is only making matters worse. I'd no idea your father was here!"

"Of course not," said Julie, much concerned. "What are we going to do?

"I'm going to see him and have it out."

"Fitz!" Julie was startled and afraid.

"Julie, are you going to give me up? Darling, won't you see this through with me—somehow?" Julie looked at him and smiled. He kissed her. Then, taking a ring from his pocket he handed it to her. "Then will you be brave—a soldier and wear this?"

"A ring! You bought it for me?"

"No—it's one of those family things — My mother wore it."

Nathan entered through the doorway leading to the other room. He saw Fitzroy and was startled. "What's the meaning of this? Why have you come here, Fitzroy? You knew my wishes."

"I came for the same reason you did, sir. I heard there was trouble here, and that Julie was in danger."

"I had good reason for keeping you and my daughter apart," said Nathan. "And I desire that you respect my wishes."

"What is your reason, sir?"

"You're not of our race."

"I'm sorry, sir," said Fitz, "but I still love Julie."

"Julie is a Rothschild and will not marry without her father's consent."

At this juncture Amschel's voice was heard calling Nathan from the other room. "Nathan! Nathan!" he shouted, "Napoleon has escaped!"

"Escaped!" Nathan gasped.

"Yes," said Amschel, breathless, as he rushed into the room, reading a message which he had just received, "Napoleon has escaped! He's making for Paris and the soldiers are rallying to his banner by the thousands . . ."

Fitzroy took in the news quickly. He saluted Julie at the other end of the room, and turning quickly left in haste to return to his regiment. Julie rushed to the window and watched him as he hastily mounted his horse and galloped away. Her arms reached out toward him. She slumped to the window-seat, crying.

Within a week all the Rothschild brothers were at the little house in Frankfort. They all had come to consult as to what was to be done in view of the fact that they had just floated a tremendous French loan and Napoleon was on the loose again. All of the brothers with the exception of Nathan were in favor of siding with Napoleon to protect their interests in the French loan.

"Napoleon will be in Paris within a week," said James, who headed the Paris bank, "with his whole army rallying to his banner, and deserting Louis. Napoleon's soldiers must be paid. If he can't borrow money he'll take it."

"Has he suggested a loan?" asked Nathan.

"Yes, he sent for me, as head of the Paris House. I went to him in Lyons and he made a definite proposal. He agreed to guarantee payment of the bonds we have, and on future loans, agreed to double the interest offered by the Allies."

"From the simple standpoint of business we shouldn't hesitate another day," said Carl. "A refusal to support Napoleon means not only the probable loss of the money invested in the bonds, but James' Paris business and my Naples business will be wiped out like that! We should support Napoleon!"

Solomon, head of the Vienna bank, hastened to agree with Carl. So did Amschel who pointed out that for the past twenty-five years the Rothschilds had been supporting the Allies and in return had received nothing but ingratitude. "As Jews," he declared, "we're still where we started—in Jew Street—waiting for the chains to be put up. I agree. We must support Napoleon."

"You're right, all of you," said Nathan slowly, "every word you've said is true, and still we must fight Napoleon!"

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

ST. THOMAS

Residents of this thriving Ontario city deny the name has any connection with the doubting disciple, but rather point to the face that its founder, Hon. Thomas Talbot, a Dublin Irishman, was directly responsible for the name.

The Hon. Thomas set foot in the district in 1803, but it was not until 1809 that the first settlers came. By 1817 the settlement began to assume the proportions of a village, with the erection of two stores and two taverns and it seemed the time had arrived when a name should be chosen.

In May, 1817, the first "Talbot" anniversary was held, a practice which endured for a quarter century, and the little settlement which up to this time had been known as Kettle Creek, was formerly named St. Thomas because Talbot rather proudly referred to it as "his capital."

REMINISCENCE

Mr. Editor:

The announcement in your paper of the death, at Cleveland, of John T. Leneabaugh, aged ninety-five years, Canadian oil man and early associate of John D. Rockefeller, Sr. brought to my remembrance my acquaintance with him, his parents and brothers, about seventy years ago, at Murray Harbor, Prince Edward Island. He was a fine type of a young man. He left P.E.I. when quite a young man, for Cleveland, Ohio. We children used to call his father Uncle Jimmy and his mother Aunt Charlotte. His parents' home was at Murray Harbor, situated between South and Murray River, about half a mile from our home. They had a wonderful orchard, mainly of cherry trees. These cherry trees being in close proximity to the water, were wonderful bearers of luscious large cherries. They used to invite us to come and help ourselves, and we certainly responded to their kind invitations. On their farm sweet flag grew; the root of which pulverized and moistened is an excellent remedy for burns etc. Some P.E.I. native may now live in Peterborough or vicinity and would be pleased to read anything concerning P.E.I. I have in the past met several in Peterborough who came from P.E.I. One former resident here, had furniture in his home from my uncle, Mark Butcher's furniture factory at Charlottetown. It is not a good habit to be continually looking back to the past; but an occasional look can do no harm and possibly do some good. The past with its pleasures and sorrows is gone, and it is ours to make the best of the present. Thanks for space etc.

M. T. Butcher.

A Thought

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL WORDS

"The "ten most beautiful words in the English language," according to a poet and dictionary publisher, are: dawn, hush, lullaby, murmuring tranquil, mist luminous, chimes, golden, melody.

Immediately upon the publication of this list other writers disagreed and made lists of their own. One novelist thinks that there are more beautiful; serenity, peace, beauty, vitality, mercy.

Grace is the most beautiful word in human speech, thinks Albert A. Belden, and he gives his reasons: "It is going out of love to the unlovely and unloving, it is the stoop of wealth to poverty, of holiness to the sinful, of the wronged to the wrongdoer, it is all that we mean by forgiveness, by that 'mercy' which becomes the throned monarch better than his crown'."

CZECHO-SLOVAK REUBLIC

The story of David Conroy, ninety-four years of age, a resident of Peterborough was well told in the Peterborough Examiner on May 3rd, 1934. His age and his activity mark him as a pioneer of which Peterborough ought to be proud.

There Are Men About Whom the People Gather

In a little book the life story of Thomas Masaryk of Czecho-Slovakia is recounted. The story is written in the utmost simplicity. Some authors have the gift of using words in such a manner that the reader sees not the words but the thought only. The sentences are as transparent as if of crystal. It is in this limpid style that Karel Capek writes of Masaryk the president of the Republic of Czecho-Slovakia.

Masaryk is eighty-four years of age. The republic of which he is president is of his making. This is the one great achievement of his life. It is the accomplishment of his old age.

He drafted the constitution for the new republic. The course of the ship of state is being charted by him. His people have conferred upon him the life presidency of the republic. The life presidency has brought to the nation a calmness not to be found in Europe nor in America. Storms once in a while serve a good purpose. Dead wood in the form of limbs are shaken to the ground. But there can be too much storm. Communism keeps it up. So do Nazism, and Fascism. The people grow weary. To do life's best work and to be at one's best quietness is a need. While other nations are in turmoil Czecho-Slovakia is tranquil.

Masaryk is bold without being bossy. Position makes too many men bossy. This man is president without giving the impression. He is the commonest among the common. He is servant among all who serve. He is president without any of the frills. To know such a man is an education.

BULGARIA

Dimitroff was first a disciple. Socialistic ideals advanced by Dimitri Blageoff made such a deep impression that after ample time to reflect he openly announced his discipleship. Bulgaria has its Broads, and its Socialist Narrows. The Broads chose to attempt to reform economic conditions by a peaceful and orderly process. The Narrows are violently Communistic. By them the attempt is made to stir up class warfare. Capital is their bogy.

Trampled into Earth Dimitroff Comes Forth Again

Bulgaria had become so capitalistically static that the sledge hammer of violence seemed the only effective weapon. In Bulgaria as in so many nations labor has had to bear the brunt. Labor in every nation of the world is in commotion. Labor has become a mass movement. Labor has a grievance. Its plea must be heard and heeded. In Bulgaria the and of mountains and lean fields and parched uplands and few well watered valleys labor is desperate and has found a voice in Dimitroff. The bourgeoisie are arrogant and stubborn. They have in mind a war "of liberation" with Turkey. Labor is against war with other nations. War to crush predatory wealth at home is approved and advocated. A most militant trade union campaign started. Victory after victory was won by labor in town and country.

The bosses determined to destroy Dimitroff. He was responsible in large part for the spread and triumph of laborite ideals. The bosses hated and feared him. Many times he was arrested and horse whipped. But intimidation did not daunt. From humiliation and brutal treatment he came forth more strongly committed to the cause of labor. His fame grew with his persecution. Sofia, the capital city came to his support. With a vote so large that his fame as a Bulgarian statesman of great strength went forth into all the world.

The story of the Dimitroff family come next.

FRANCE

French politicians have discovered a real Red Wolf in the Barbizon forest. These politicians were in need of a scare-crow. The Stavisky mess still smells to high heaven. The masses of the French people are wrathfully indignant against the political leadership of the nation. When the French Communes give signs of exasperation a storm is in the brewing.

A "Red Wolf" In The Barbizon Forest

At this moment storm clouds are resting on the horizon plenty ominous. The French press voices its full share of misgiving. As these lines are written France fears a revolution more than she fears Germany. A French revolution would lead to the complete undoing of the Versailles Treaty as far as German-French committments are concerned. France is well aware of this certainty. France is also aware that a revolution is in the conception stage.

An expedient has been found to divert the attention of the Communes. In the Barbizon forest is the "Red Wolf" Trotsky. The world had lost sight of this lonely Russian. Lenin sought to bring him to judgment. France gave him refuge in the depths of this famous forest. Almost alone and altogether silent he has been living out his life. Never once since he hid away among the trees did he expect to become the center of violent agitation as an exile.

The French press is a throttled press. The bourgeoise politicians tell the press where to get off. They tell them what music to play and they play it to the last note. According to this press Leon Trotsky is a monster. He snorts revolution wherever he is. Like the weapons of war he spits fire. Not all the French are fools. Should the politicians undertake to deport Trotsky their resentment would be instant.

Like Victor Hugo the exiled from his native land, Trotsky dreams of Russia, and like him could not be traitor to his refugee flag.

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

"YOUR MOTHER'S MAIDEN NAME"

Wonder who started this business, anyway?

Whenever I sign a document of any kind, one of those terrifying things with thousands of words of small type which we are always advised to read before we sign, I find that I must tell the man behind the desk my mother's maiden name.

The last time I did it was when I had to sign something for a title insurance company....I put my name on it without thinking twice and turned away and then the young lady said gently, "And your mother's maiden name?"....So I thought of my grandmother's maiden name and figured it out triumphantly that that was my mother's maiden name, too, and wrote it down.

The time before that it was an insurance doctor who wanted to know her maiden name. And I've also given it to credit men, to booksellers, to recruiting officers, to all sorts of public officials ....They never ask me what's my favorite, or what I think of the Five Year Plan, or do I think there's anything in the theory of evolution, or do I like spinach or hydraulic brakes or how many hours I sleep, or things like that?....No, they all want to know my mother's maiden name.

They don't do anything with it after they get it. They leave it on the document and file it away forever, I suppose. It's no good to them. They can't sell it to anybody, can't write to her under that name, can't put her on any sucker list." . . . But they all have tha keen cursiosity to know what was mother's name before she married my father....I've been asking around and I've discovered that it's not personal with me, either. Other people tell me that they all have to tell their mothers' maiden names, too....There must be some law about it. If you don't give your mother's maiden name, it doesn't count.

So I suppose I'm not legally married, after all. I was looking at my marriage license the other day and I happened to notice that it had my grandmother's maiden name on it instead of my mother's. I distinctly remember that the man asked me for my mother's name and I intended to give it to him. I was perfectly cool and composed at the time, of course, but somehow or other he didn't get what he wanted....Do you think it's too do anything about it?

Mines Strengthen In Quiet Expansion

TORONTO, May 15.—(C P)—The mining section of the Toronto Stock Exchange nosed up quietly this afternoon on a mild expansion of trading, leaders in the gold and base metal groups boarding gains ranging up to 75 cents.

Senior golds had light turnover but in the secondary and cheap issues Grecnle Stabell, Maple Leaf and Wayside turned over in good volume. Maple Leaf sagged to 37 but recovered narrowly.

LONDON STEVEDORES QUIT CHARGE DISCRIMINATION

LONDON, May 15.—(CP-Havas). Three thusand London dock laborers were idle to-day following a strike declared late yesterday by the dock hands.

Eight hundred stevedores struck yesterday and 2,000 stopped work this morning to protest against the giving of dock labor to white collar unemployed. They charged that port authorities were showing preference to the jobless office worker and discriminating against the regular stevedores.

All the docks between London Bridge and the Tower of London were under close guard with strong detachments of police on hand to prevent disturbances.

INDUSTRIALS CLOSE STRONG

Nickel, Ford "A," C.P.R. and Distilleries Reflect Cheerful Tone.

OIL SHARES FIRM.

TORONTO, May 15 (C.P.).—Industrial shares closed to-day with definitely firm tone ruling on the Toronto Stock Exchange, interlisted issues, including Nickel, Ford 'A,' C.P.R. and the distillery and oil shares particularly reflecting the more cheerful feeling predominating in the New York board. Volume picked up in the afternoon. Outstanding strong spots were Imperial Oil, Walkers Common, C.P.R., Nickel and Canada Cement Pfd.

Healthy fractions on the top side testified to the thin supply of stocks, mild expansion of the buying demand serving to put Ford 'A' up a half point, Nickel 75 cents, Consolidated Smelters 3, C.P.R. ¾, International Pete ⅝ and Imperial Oil ⅝. All the distillery stocks finished higher, Walkers Common gaining ⅞ to 33¼, Industrial Alcohol ½ to 11⅛, Distillers Seagrams ½ to 15¼, and Brewers and Distillers 5 to 1.65.

TWO BOYS GIVEN 22-MONTH TERM

pair freely confessed their part in the thefts and entered pleas of guilty to the charges brought against them. In all, their loot totalled more than $200 in value.

In Trouble Before

Both lads had been in trouble with the police before, and both had escaped from the Industrial School. They set out on the series of thefts shortly after their successful escape from the school of correction.

W. J. Arthur Fair, counsel for the lads, urged clemency for them, maintaining that neither lad had had the proper home-training or opportunities.

Magistrate Langley stated that both had been before him before and he had treated them kindly, warning them that they must correct their behaviour. He pointed out the seriousness of their wholesale thefts from summer cottages, and labelled stealing from summer cottages during the winter as one of the most despicable brands of crime. He stated that he would give the lads another chance to become decent, law-abiding citizens and would not send them to Portsmouth Penitentiary.

He then pronounced his sentences.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

MONTREAL EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, May 15—(CP)—Advances predominated on the Montreal Stock Exchange at the close today. The higher movement which started from the initial dealings gathered momentum as the session progressed and numerous issues closed at or near their highs of the day.

Montreal Power was strong in the late dealings finishing at 37¾ with a point gain. International Nickel was 90 cents higher at 26.80 while Canadian Pacific Railway rose ¾ at 16¼ and Brazilian Traction ¼ at 10⅝.

Charles Gurd dipped a point at 9½ and Canada Steamship preferred was down 1¼ points at 7.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, May 15.—(A.P.) — Stocks rallied in dull trading today. General advances of fractions to a point or so were maintained in the late dealings. Building shares and rails were rather firm.

Consolidated Gas and American Telephone were fractions higher while Johns-Manville, Santa Fe, U. S. Steel and Case advanced a point or more each. Transfers approximated 900,000 shares.

CHINESE GOV'T AIDING TO RECOVER MISSIONARY

NANKING, China, May 15.—(A. P.)—The Chinese Government ordered Szechwan provincial authorities to-day to do everything possible to accomplish the release of the Rev. Howard Smith, kidnapped missionary.

Bandits under the command of the renegade General Ho Lung seized Mr. Smith May 8 near Penghsien in Szechwan province. The missionary is from Washington, Pa.

The outlaws have demanded $35,000 and $3,500 worth of medical supplies as ransom.

ATTACKED BY PET CAT

BROCKVILLE, Ont., May 15.—(C. P.) — Attacked by a pet cat while she was at work in a field at her home in Elisabethtown near here, Mrs. Dennis Burns was obliged to receive medical treatment for severe scratches and bites on her arms and legs. Her small son, playing with the cat when it suddenly became wild, was also bitten and scratched about the legs. The cat was shot.

Escort Dragons Across Canada

W. H. Harkness, Jr., New York ethnologist (LEFT), and Lawrence T. K. Griswold, archaeologst of Quincy, Mass., snapped on the S.S. Empress of Asia when they arrived in Vancouver on their return from a seven-month expedition in the tiny and mysterious island of Komodo, in the Dutch East Indies. From this island, which they described as a "land of perpetual D.T.'S.", the scientists brought three fine specimens of the Komodo dragon, a rare beast found only on the island. The dragon is believed to be a survivor of the prehistoric era and can be compared with the long-extinct dinosaur, in miniature.

CHICAGO, May 15. — Some showers reported in Oklahoma and Texas but nothing of consequence. Our north-western and Canada reports continued dry and as long as this remains the case, markets will be nervous and predictions difficult. However, with Liverpool following any advance only reluctantly it will be very hard to boost prices much.

NEW YORK, May 15 (9.20 a.m.). —With the Stock Exchange Bill now subject to comparatively minor changes in conference, the stock market has shown signs of relapsing into dullness and prices have become more stable. A great part of the regulatory machinery will consist in the rules and regulations of the Federal Trade Commission or the Securities Commission, which will cause uncertainty until they are known. For example, the unlisted securities market is left almost wholly to such regulations, even to the extent of prescribing margin requirements. While the market probably has experienced its most severe pressure in connection with this legislation which would require unexpectedly good news to provide a basis for a sustained recovery, or, and it seems best to regard any rally which may occur as a natural rebound rather than a reversal of trend. Last week closed with the Standard Industrial Stock Index at 85 and the rails at 42.03. At this level, the industrial group was down 20 points from the February highs, while the rails had yielded 12 points. The former index has established new levels for the year, while the rails at the end of last year had a scant .05 point margin before reaching this level. Industrial stock prices are now approximately ten points above last October's lows, with the rails about 7 points up. With the index in this intermediate position, there is little on which to base a conjecture as to the next move.

Tape indications are:

That strong accumulation is taking place in Amn. Smelting and Refining. That liquidation in Commercial Solvents has been about completed. That scale buying is taking place in American Woollen Preferred. That Beth. Steel should be prominent in any rally movement.

Broker's Opinions

14 reviewed. Bullish 5. Bearish 3. Non-committal 6.

Munds, Winslow & Potter— We think market is at a major turning point towards higher levels.

Harris Upham & Co.—The market suggests as it has for two weeks that there is a volume of liquidation to be accomplished and that the market has lacked size and scope to accomplish this needed result.

C. D. Barney & Co.—We believe that the passage of the Fletcher Rayburn Bill by the Senate may well coincide with the lowest depths reached by speculative physcology for at least several months. We would accordingly not hesitate to make both trading and intermediate committments on any weakness immediately following this development.

Shields & Co.—Technical conditions justify a rally, but only such technical flurries are to be expected both at a careful trading position remains warranted over the near future.

High Price Is Paid For Feed-Lot Lambs

TORONTO, May 15. (CP).—The highest price for feed-lot lambs since 1931 was made on the Toronto livestock market to-day when about 400 westerns sold at $10.50 cwt. The lambs, averaging 89 pounds each, were fed by E. S. Heninger of Raymond, Alta. They sold readily to Toronto Packers.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

No Duck Dinner

DENVER May 15. —(CP)— A duckling has joined June Robles and William F. Gettle —another victim delivered from kidnappers.

The duckling was 'snatched' from the City Park Lake by a magpie, but the bird was unable to gain altitude with its heavy prey.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Sweeney chased the magpie along the shore and forced it to drop the duckling, frightened but unhurt.

Rounding Corners On Lindsay Highway

LINDSAY, Ont., May 15 (C.P.)— Work being done on the Provincial highways in this district will make the roads much safer for motorists and is also providing work for about 100 men. Two right angle turns, one at the sand pits on the Fenelon highway and the other the Pottery corners, immediately south of town on the road to Peterborough, are being transformed into sweeping curves which should eliminate accidents that have been numerous at these points in the past.

Possibly the biggest work, however, is the filling in of the deep ditches on both sides of the Provivncial highway from here to Manilla, 14 miles westward. The work is being done by hand as far as possible.

65 P.C. Grain Sown Frontenac County

KINGSTON, Ont., May 15.—(C. P.)—Grain seeding in the County of Frontenac has been about 65 per cent completed, it was reported by the local office of the Department of Agriculture to-day. The report shows that there will be increased acreage of corn.

The hog outlook is very poor, due to heavy mortality in young pigs. Demand for horses is quite heavy prices ranging from $7 to $125.

FRENCH SUMMER SCHOOL SET FOR TROIS PISTOLES

TROIS PISTOLES, Que., May 15 (C.P.).—In a letter to E. Litallen, regional inspector of schools here, W. Sherwood Fox, president of the University of Western Ontario, London, Ont., announced the university would again hold its French summer school at Trois Pistoles this year.

"I cannot but feel," Mr. Fox said in his letter, "that in establishing the school we are not only giving our young people a practical knowledge of French, but are contributing to the upbuilding of a nation whose different populational elements are united through mutual understanding and esteem."

The summer school has been operated here several years to provide an opportunity for English-speaking Ontario students to pursue their studies of the French language.

BEWDLEY, May 15. A similar number of pickerel fry are also to be placed in Rice Lake next week, it is understood.

Robert Holdaway, treasurer of the Association, who is the authority for this information, told The Examiner that the Association which was only organized in January last, now has an active membership of over four hundred.

supreme effort for a disarmament convention in the critical meeting of the conference late this month.

The resolution declared "we are drifting towards international anarchy and isolationism, inflated armaments, and alliances based on a perilous balance of armored forces of one group against the armored forces of another. We are drifting toward war."

Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, will be asked in the House of Commons tomorrow whether any armaments or munitions of British manufacture have been exported to the belligerents — Paraguay and Bolivia—in the Gran Chaco conflict. A report to the League of Nations said that without continued supplies of arms from some nations, including members of the League, the warfare could not continue.

Six Months Of Peace Seen For Doumergue

(By Alexander H. Uhl, Associated Press Staff Writer)

PARIS, May 15 (AP) — Premier Gaston Doumergue's political armistice appeared certain to last another six months as Parliament reconvened to-day after a two-month recess.

The veteran Premier, with former Premier Edouard Herriot's stalwart support plus wide public approval of his campaign to get French finances stabilized and the cost of living down, was expected to find little difficulty in keeping the Chamber of Deputies in check.

Socialists and Communists are raising an outcry against Doumergue's Governmental economy decree laws, issued during the parliamentary recess, but voting strength is solid for the National Union Government.

SPY EXECUTION STIRS BOLIVIA

Woman Reported to Have Tipped Enemy Off to Paraguayan President's Trip.

OFFICIAL HAS NEAR CALL.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, May 15 (A.P.)— Reports that a woman spy was executed in Paraguay for furnishing information that led to an attempt on the President's life caused a sensation to-day.

The execution was reported in despatches from the Gran Chaco Jungle area, over which Bolivia and Paraguay are at war. The Government published the reports, without commend, although the execution was denied by officials at Paraguay's capital, Asuncion.

The woman—her name was not given—was said to have been convicted of informing the Bolivian command of a flight of President Ayala of Paraguay to the front. The President received a scare when Bolivian war planes gave chase.

President Ayala, with several other high Government officials, was able to escape the pursuers, the despatches said, because of the greater speed of the Presidential aeroplane.

GETTLE PICKS KIRK AS CHIEF

I was so agreeable, but hell, there was nothing else that I could do, they had me.

They had me copy off the notes they had written.

Q.—You wrote the note in which $60,000 was asked for?

A.—Yes, that's what they said that they had agreed on I would have to pay before they would release me.

Q.—You said you were willing to pay that amount?

A.—Yes, they said that if there was any argument about it they would double it, so I wrote all the notes and they got the membership cards out of a case I had on me, but they never bothered my Masonic ring or my diamond ring.

Q.—What about this 'boss man?'

Hard Boiled Chief

A.—Well, this 'boss man' was plenty hard-boiled. When he came into the room to talk to me, he always had a sheet over his head, the others always came into the room in such a way I could not see their faces hardly at all.

Q.—In selecting a contact man did you mention anybody to the kidnappers?

A.—Yes, I named my attorney, Mr. Noon (Ernest E. Noon) and then later we changed that to Mr. Fox (A. E. Fox, broker) because of the fact that the brokerage office opened early and we could get hold of him earlier in the morning.

Q.—What was said about the pay-off slip up?

A.—Well, the "boss man" said that this damned fool driving the pay-off car didn't know how to handle a deal of this kind; he didn't know how to handle things right and there was too many cars around. That "boss man" bird is plenty smart.

Q.—What else do you remember?

Wires Tapped

A.—Well, along about Saturday or Sunday the "boss man" told him that Noon had said that the newspaper people, everybody was watching him, Noon said, and they'd better get somebody else for the pay-off. Noon said he thought his wires were tapped.

At this point the officers took Gettle out into another room where James Kirk was sitting handcuffed and Gettle looked at the man and then turned to the officers and said:

"That looks like the man."

Q.—You mean the "boss man?"

A.—I think he is.

Truck Sales Index To Improved Business

In a statement issued today, Al J. Shaw, Vice-President in Charge of Sales, Dodge Brothers (Canada) Limited, points out that the shipment records for the month of April show greater volume of Dodge Truck sales than in any month since April 1929. More trucks were shipped during April 1934 than during the first five months of 1933. There has been a steady increase of shipments each month since January.

Mr. Shaw says, "Since the first of the year there has been a steady increase in truck sales each month. These sales can mean only one thing—that business is more active and that obsolete and worn out equipment is rapidly being replaced with more modern, efficient truck and commercial cars."

HARRY HUFFMAN NOTED CITIZEN PASSES IN CITY

tivities he had already rolled up a fine record of achievement. For three years from 1928 to 1931, he was a member of the city council, and as chairman of the Board of Works during the last year of that service to the ratepayers he proved himself one of the most diligent and capable administrators that Department has ever had. And Peterborough's Board of Works has been notably well served in its successive chairmen.

One of Harry Huffman's outstanding characteristics was the zeal and energy he devoted to his various undertakings — qualities which in his aldermanic position were appreciated by his associates of the city council and other close observers of the manner in which he performed his duties. He was always a good companion, kindly and thoughtful of others in his relationships with his fellow men, affable and amiable, bringing good cheer and brightness to every group that knew him. These splendid personal qualities were highly valued by the members of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club, of which he was one of the first members, and always an active promoter of its public service projects.

District Trustee

He was a district trustee of the Kiwanis, and had held many other offices in that organization in which he was recognised as one of the "Senate table" at the weekly luncheon, an unofficial grouping of probably the more ardent workers among a service club that seeks men who desire to engage in contributing to the welfare of their community. Motor trips for the aged of the House of Refuge, and the building of the shelter at Jackson Park for the summer care of under-privileged children especially appealed to his heart. His absence from the active work of the Kiwanis Club has been a loss to its membership, and during his illness fellow Kiwanians have been regular visitors at his bedside, returning to him some of the buoyancy and sparkle of spirit which had been one of the most prized and intangible contributions he had made to the Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Huffman was a member of the executive of the Peterborough Automobile Club, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Ontario Motor League. He was a Past Grand of Otonabee Lodge No. 13, I.O.O.F., a director of the Peterborough Exhibition, and he had also been a member of the Curling Club for several years. And in religion, he was a member of Trinity United Church.

Mr. Huffman is survived by his widow, two sons, Charles H. and Robert D. Huffman, his father, one brother, H. S. Huffman of Peterborough, and two sisters, Mrs. T. H. Glover, Mark Street, and Mrs. Fred Pearson of Long Beach, California.

UNCLE RELATES HUNT FOR NIECE

want to show it to Mama. I got two 'Ones' and must show it to Mother."

Apparently she had received her report card on the day she was kidnapped.

The child was in a very dazed condition, and volunteered no information as we drove toward Tucson. We did not question her but tried to make it appear that nothing had happened. It was hard. She said she wanted to see Barney (Barney Kengla, little cousin who was near when she was kidnapped). She was principally concerned to be taken to her mother. It was easy to see the child's mind was not functioning normally.

Her body was entirely covered with prickly heat, from being enclosed in the pit. Both of her ankles had been chained and one of them was terribly bruised and the flesh raw where the shackles had gripped so closely. Only the fact she was always a robust child permitted her to go through 19 days and nights of imprisonment.

She did tell us on our way back to Tucson that when put in the pit she had a mattress and a pillow, but that later some one came and took them away. "They brought me sacks, all dirty," June told us. "I took two and made a mattress, but the one for the pillow was hard, and smelled, and I had two for covers, but it was cold at night."

MENTAL PICTURE OF PARENTS BECOMES REAL TO BLIND BOY

Regaining Sight After Eight Years, He Marvels at "Beauty in World"

TO RELEARN MUSIC

Spalding.—"I am living in a new world," said Thomas Christian, who has regained his sight after eight years of blindness. And, turning his face towards the bowl of nodding, dancing daffodils on the window-sill, he sat, silently drinking in their golden glory.

"I had forgotten what flowers, and the green grass and the blue sky looked like," he said. "I had forgotten that there was so much beauty in the world." Then he was silent again, lost in all the wonders that his new-found sight had brought.

For eight years this boy, Thomas Christian, lived in darkness. Just before he was eight, an accident in which he collided with a door jamb, robbed him of his sight. He spent his eighth birthday in a London hospital, blind.

Now, at the age of sixteen, he has recovered his sight, after a number of operations in the London Opthalmic Hospital.

And, sitting in the parlor of his cottage home at Pinchbeck West, near here, he described his feelings when at last the veil of darkness was lifted.

He was out when a reporter reached his home, walking in the fields, with his face turned towards the sun—just strolling—and looking.

"When the doctor took the bandage off my eyes in London," he said, "the first thing I caught sight of was the grey pane of the window across the ward.

"Then gradually I began to pick out different objects—a bed, a picture on the wall—things I had not seen for eight years.

"It was wonderful and yet a little frightening.

"Smiling, As Expected"

"And then I saw my mother and father again. The young boy leant forward eagerly. "You know," he said, "ever since I lost my sight I have carried mental pictures of them both in my mind, and they have not altered in the least.

"There they were—my mother and father—smiling just exactly as I had expected them to do.

"But Joe"—and he turned towards his 23-year-old sister—"Joe was quite different. "I expected to see the schoolgirl I remembered when I was a kiddie, but found a grown-up young lady instead."

Christian was educated at the York School for the Blind, where he learned to read and play the piano by Braille methods.

Despite his handicap he made wonderful progress in his music, and last summer won a scholarship for the Royal Northern College, London.

When he was blind Christian decided to become an organist, and now that he has recovered his sight he intends to follow the same profession.

"I am going to continue my studies in London," he said, "but the funny thing is that I shall have to begin to learn music all over again." It is all too new and wonderful. I still find myself using my hands to guide me about the place. I can't get used to the idea that I have left a world of darkness behind me and stepped out into the light."

JEALOUSLY GUARDING AMERICA'S COMPETITOR

Technical Details of Britain's All-Steel Ship Are Closed Book

Gosport—There is a shipyard in this town that is more closely guarded even than the naval barracks across the harbor.

Inside it, on the stocks, stands the huge shark-shaped steel hull of the yacht Endeavour.

It has been built at a cost of between $100,000 and $150,000 for T. O. M. Sopwith, the aircraft engineer and designer, who hopes, five months from now, to carry on the gallant effort made for 30 years by the late Sir Thomas Lipton to win the America's Cup.

Charles Nicholson, who has designed the Endeavour, said: "America would be only too pleased to know a few technical details of Endeavour, some of her dimensions, her type of build, and how she was built. We are not saying anything. As it is I have no doubt that America has 'watch dogs' in this town who may already have sent a few details over."

There is a guard on the main shipyard entrance leading to the huge shed where the yacht stands. Although official details were withheld, a reporter was allowed to look over this ship on which the future of Britain's yacht building and racing prestige will rest.

The Endeavour is copper brown below the water line, has royal blue topsides and white boot top. A thin gold line is being painted over the royal blue.

Her rudder is between 14 and 16 feet high, tapering in thickness from more than a foot to less than half an inch. Like the rest of the ship, including the masts, it is made of high tensile steel.

Her mainmast lay in a shed near by, 167 feet of three-eighths inch steel. In parts the mast is more than twice the thickness of a man, and it is possible to crawl inside it. But of the technical details that make this mystery yacht worth all such secrecy nothing could be gleaned.

IVY INJURES BUILDING

London.—Ivy is fast disappearing from churches and historic buildings in England.

For years efforts have been made to prevent the growth of the plant, and, although there are those who say that it adds a picturesque, old-world charm to the buildings on which it clings, the experts are pleased that they are ridding the country of a most destructive enemy.

The Church of England has long been fighting its growth and the secretary of the Faculties Council, Francis C. Eeles, says there are very few churches in the country now where ivy grows.

"Ivy is very destructive to building," he said, "and has been responsible for costing thousands of pounds for repairs."

GALLIPOLI VETERANS TO HUNT FOR "GOLD"

Pilgrims to Former Battlefield Seek Own Belongings

Liverpool.—Many men aboard the S.S. Duchess of Richmond which recently sailed for Gallipoli are seeking gold—which they left buried during the war agony of 1915, in the "Battle of the Beaches."

Captain Eric Wettern, secretary of the Royal Naval Division association, who has organized the cruise, said that a number of the pilgrims "buried money there and left before they had time to reclaim it. "I hear that two men have an idea where a pot of gold was hidden on one of the beaches. They are being very secret about it. An old campaigner who couldn't come on the trip has given me details and a plan of the spot where he buried a bottle of rum. He cheerily suggested I might like to have the information."

EMPIRE TO REMEMBER RULER'S ANNIVERSARY

His Majesty's Silver Jubilee of Reign Occurs Next Year

London. — Preparations are being made for a magnificent celebration in May of next year of the King's Silver Jubilee—the 25th anniversary of his majesty's accession to the throne.

London will give the lead in the celebrations. The premiers of the dominions are to be invited to come to the empire capital to enable them personally to convey to the King expressions of loyalty and to take part in the rejoicings. The fact that they will be gathered together is in no way to be construed as meaning that an empire conference will take place. It is, of course, possible that opportunity will be taken to have private discussions, but there will be no formal meeting. They will be here as guests of the Home government.

The date of the silver jubilee is May 6 next year, when the King will have completed 25 years of reign over the 493,000,000 subjects whose destiny he has successfully guided through the vicissitudes of high prosperity, the shattering effects of world war, and the acute anxiety of an unprecedented industrial depression. Fittingly, this anniversary of his coming to the throne will occur at a time when his empire, led by the motherland, is showing the rest of the world the way back to peace and prosperity.

IMPORT COCKROACHES

Arrive Weekly, Alive and Kicking, From Holland

Birmingham.—Every week the air mail from Holland brings a strange cargo to Birmingham University. It is a package containing twelve cockroaches. These are used for experimental work in insect physiology.

"We have advertistd for them several times without receiving a single reply," Professor D. L. Gunn, the lecturer, said. "So we must depend on Holland. They arrive punctually each week—alive and kicking."

Here's a group of four pals giving their battle-cry as they stepped from the train at London. And how these lassies could cheer!

"DEAD" VETERAN SEES NAME ON CENOTAPH

Mind Blank, Soldier Walks Into Home Village and Is Recognized

Goole.—A man who seventeen years ago was reported killed in action, and whose name is on Goole cenotaph, Yorkshire, has returned to his sister's home here.

He has been suffering from loss of memory, and when chance brought him back to Goole, he did not recognize it as his home town.

The man, Gunner James Crowley, aged 47, of the 49th Battery, R.F.A., said that he was captured by the Germans in May, 1917, and taken to a prison camp at Munster, in Prussia.

"After three weeks I escaped with two others, but we were recaptured at the frontier," he said. "Varying sentences were imposed on us. I got seven years. I was released the first week in April, 1922, and was given the chance of returning to England, which I accepted. My mind was a blank at the time and after landing I eventually found myself in Norfolk. Since then I have been tramping the country doing casual farm work, and it was quite by accident that I obtained work at Goole Fields."

His brother saw Crowley on the street and thought him his father's double. Later they spoke in a hotel and recognition was completed.

CANADIAN EXTERMINATING MUSKRATS IN SHROPSHIRE

Seated in Canoe, Trapper Keeps Eagle Eye Open for Pest

YEAR-ROUND WORK

Bridgnorth. — Brenda Vallings, a Canadian trapper, is slowly but surely exterminating the muskrat in Shropshire.

Vallings and his trappers cover an area ranging from Montgomery in the west to Market Drayton in the east; from Oswestry in the north to Bridgnorth in the south.

He is often asked to go to Ireland or Scotland, where the campaign against the musquash has not been quite as successful as in England.

He carries a full-sized Canadian canoe on a lorry, and when he reaches the Severn he paddles slowly up and down hunting his prey.

A reporter accompanied him on one of these trips.

Suddenly Vallings pointed at the bank. "Look 'here," he said.

The reporter looked, but could see nothing out of the ordinary. "See that piece of bitten-off water weed? There's a muskrat at work. I'll find his burrow."

A tiny piece of green stuff not three inches long floated in the water.

Makes a Catch

And that is how Trapper Vallings tracks down his prey. He got out and prodded the bank with a long steel rod. At first it seemed solid. Then suddenly the steel prodder almost sank in up to the handle.

"That's the burrow," said Vallings. "We'll have the gentleman responsible for this before long." And he did. The trappers have to be out on the river at all times of the year.

"My chief anxiety," said Vallings, "are those people who are beginning to complain of the cost of the campaign, mostly without any information to go on.

"If we relax our efforts now all the work we have already done will be wasted, and in a year or two the pest will be quite out of control.

"We have definitely got the upper hand of him in Shropshire, and, given time, we may exterminate him."

The musquash is a silent worker. Dozens of them bored under a dam which supplied a turbine belonging to a farmhouse. No one knew they were there till the water ran out of the dam and cut off the electric light.

NEW GATE FOR TOWER

London's Historic Spot Gets Modern Touch

London.—An imposing new entrance to London's oldest stronghold—the Tower of London — is to be begun almost immediately. It will cost about $30,600. The scheme has won the keen interest of the King.

"A design has already been prepared and plans drawn up by an architect of the office of works," an official of that department stated, "and we hope to start soon. The building should be completed within a year." It will be in complete keeping with the rest of the building.

PLAN NUDIST COLONIES FOR BRITISH BEACHES

Promoters Give Council Officials Trip to Established Resorts

London.—A nation-wide drive for thousands of converts to nudism and sunbathing is being launched by leading health movements in Britain.

Already a plan to establish colonies at holiday resorts is on foot. Circulars requesting special facilities for sunbathers have been sent to hundreds of the summer centres.

In addition, a special trip to continental nudist centres is being arranged for officials of British cities, boroughs, and urban district councils. The trip will take place in August under the auspices of the Sunbathing Society.

Colonies a. Zurich, Munich, and Fran fort will be visited and it a anticipated by the promoters that this tour will impress upon the local officials the wisdom of the continental zeal.

It is hoped by the organizers that when they return they will endeavor to form sunbathing and nudist groups in their own areas. Recent sunshine has had a stimulating effect on the membership of the various groups throughout the country already.

'WISE' MANTELPIECE THIEVES SEEK PRECIOUS MANUSCRIPT

Lost Slab of Marble Holds Original of Shakespeare's "Richard Third"

WAS DAVID GARRICK'S

London.—The thieves who, since 1931, have frequently raided mansions and stolen Adam mantelpieces, have a definite object in view.

They are searching for the famous mantelpiece which belonged to David Garrick—England's greatest actor.

More than a hundred years ago there was a similar epidemic of mantelpiece raids, and then, as now, the thieves were trying to find the Adam mantelpiece which formerly adorned the drawing-room of David Garrick's house in Adelphi terrace, built by the Adam Brothers.

Garrick lived and died there, and at his death, by his special instructions, the mantelpiece was taken down whole and forwarded to the house of his great friend Palmer, who lived in Bloomsbury.

Sister Ousted It

It arrived while Palmer was performing in the provinces. At that time—1778—the means of communication were limited, and it was not until weeks afterwards that Palmer heard from his sister, who kept house for him, that the mantelpiece had arrived, and that she had paid some men to take it away because it was too large for their modest abode.

Palmer was furious, because there was a secret attaching to the mantelpiece which only he, Garrick and another actor named Barton knew.

There was a secret cavity in this apparently solid piece of marble, and in it Garrick kept what he valued most.

He had acquired numerous literary treasures, many of which he bequeathed to the British Museum. But there was one which he could hardly disclose with credit to himself. It was Shakespeare's manuscript of "Richard III.," which Garrick obtained through a rascally attorney at Stratford-on-Avon.

Garrick was a national hero, destined to be buried in Westminster Abbey. He could not let it be known that he had kept for years a document purloined from a deed-chest.

Yet he could not bear to part with it while he lived. So he charged Palmer to see that the document should reach the Record Office after his death.

Somewhere there is this Adam mantelpiece adorning an old-fashioned drawing-room, its owner unaware of the priceless treasure reposing for more than 150 years behind a slab of marble. A king's ransom would be obtainable by the finder to-day.

JELLY-FISH'S STING RESULTS IN DEATH

Poison Brings on Fatal Valvular Disease of Heart

Blackpool. — Nine-year-old Patricia Strurie is dead as a result of a sting by a jelly-fish.

According to medical evidence given at the inquest the girl died from valvular disease of the heart directly caused by the poison after the sting.

Her mother said that the girl was stung while on the beach last August and a rash, shaped like a jelly-fish, developed on her body. She had been in the care of a doctor since.

Dr. Dunlop said that the rash was consistent with a jelly-fish sting. He had treated several patients who had been very ill for a few weeks after such a sting, but none of them had died.

"If a sting coincides with a run-down condition," he added, "the poison has a much greater effect. This child was not in the best of health." A verdict of death by misadventure was returned.

FULL SPEED AHEAD RAILWAYS' MOTTO

To Build 500 Locomotives and Spend $75,000,000

London.—The four big British railway companies are to build 500 new locomotives this year. Between them they will spend $75,000,000 on improvements.

It is stated that this expenditure is due to rising goods and passenger traffic and a growing confidence in industrial prosperity.

British locomotives continue to lead the world and the giant L.M.S. Princess Royal recently averaged 88 m.p.h. between Crewe and Willesden—the fastest time ever recorded on that route.

PEER FACES CHARGE OF LIBELLING BUTLER

Lord William Nevill, Expressing Regret, Is Bound Over With Costs

London—Lord William Nevill of Onslow Gardens, S.W., appeared at West London police court on a summons charging him with publishing a defamatory libel concerning his former butler, Charles Francis Field.

Lord William was bound over in £300 for two years and ordered to pay ten guineas costs.

Leslie Smith, representing Mr. Field, stated that Lord William had written expressing regret and promising not to repeat the offence.

For some years Mr. Field and his wife were in the service of Lord and Lady William Nevill.

In August, 1931, Mr. Field wrote a letter to his wife. Somehow Lord William obtained possession of it, and after copying it destroyed the original.

He then sent this copy to Mr. Field, pointing out one passage in it which ran as follows:

"What a couple you have got. Never mind. They are like a lot of others, lived too long and got tired."

The passage was evidently meant to refer to Lord and Lady William Nevill. Mr. Field and his wife at once denied that there was any such passage in the letter and asked to see the original, but Lord William informed them that he had destroyed it.

BOY MENDS SHOES IN ELEVEN MINUTES

14-Year-Old With Mechanical "Kink", Breaks Record

Worcester Park.—An English boy of fourteen, working with his father, has broken the shoemaking speed record hitherto held in America by soling and heeling a pair of men's shoes in eleven minutes. The American record, claimed three years ago, was thirteen minutes.

The boy, Sidney Burton, of a shoe repair company, where his father, S. C. M. Burton, is general manager, astonished experts at the shoe and leather fair in London by the ease with which he handled the most intricate machinery on sight.

"He is a genius with machines," his father said. "I can leave him in sole charge of the plant.

"I took him into the business six months ago and he worried me into letting him use the dangerous cutter machines, which are seldom used by employees under eighteen."

Now Sidney efficiently controls four machines, though it is usual for a worker to operate only one or two and experts believe that only an extraordinary mechanical "kink" can explain it.

FREE TRIP TO ZOO OFFERED TO GET "NEWLY-WED" TRADE

Cologne and Margate Would Play Hosts If Certificates Shown

SUGGEST EXCHANGE

Berlin.—Cologne and Margate have each determined to make themselves popular with newly-married couples.

The practical citizens of Cologne, wishing to fill their hotels and restaurants, are tempting what Germans call "fresh-baked" couples to come to the city by offering them free tickets for theatres, concerts and cinemas, and other advantages.

The burgomaster has now received a letter from the mayor of Margate telling him that his plan has been adopted in Margate, and proposing that they should go a step further and exchange German couples for English couples, who should be given free passages between Germany and England.

Although the burgomaster of Cologne was unable to fall in with this suggestion, at any rate it has been arranged that English and other foreign couples coming to Cologne for their honeymoons shall have all the privileges of German couples.

As an inducement Cologne offers: Fourteen days' free travel on all tramway-cars: free visits to the opera and playhouse; free entry to the zoo and museums, and a free luncheon at the Rhine terrace restaurant on the third day of the visit.

The fly in the ointment is that the young couples must produce their marriage certificates on application for any of these privileges.

JOBLESS TOTAL

New York.—The total number of unemployed workers in March, 1934, was 8,021,000, according to an estimate of the national industrial conference board issued to-day. In March, 1934, unemployment showed a decline of 589,000, as compared with February, 1934, and a decline of 5,182,000, or 39.2 per cent., as compared with March, 1933, when unemployment was at its highest point.

CLAIM WITCHCRAFT SCREEN FOR CRIME

Kenya Gov't Finds "Doctors" Harm State Authority

Nairobi.—A vast criminal organization headed by the "witch-doctors" of the Lumbwa tribe, who are known to the police and administration as "The Big Eight" has been discovered in Kenya.

Exercising a powerful influence on the whole tribe, who go in fear of death of their magic, it is alleged that "the Big Eight" employed hundreds of lesser witch-doctors as agents.

Through the lesser "magicians," the leaders organized every kind of crime, principally cattle rustling.

The booty was cleverly dispersed through various channels of the organization which defied detection, while the "witch-doctors" remained safe behind the screen of fear they have instilled into the tribe, none of whom dared to turn informer.

Fully alive to the menace of this adaptation of witchcraft to modern crime, the government is now considering a method of stamping it out, more especially as the influence exercised by the "witch-doctors" is undermining the state's authority.

ABORIGINES TO FACE WHITE MEN'S CHARGES

Claim Natives Killed Intruders as Justified by Tribal Law

Port Darwin.—"Missionary work among the Australian aborigines will be set back 25 years by this confidence trick worked by Christians on uncivilized natives."

This scathing comment by a Catholic priest is only one of many indignant protests that have followed the appearance in court here of three Caledon Bay aboriginals.

The men, accused of the murder of five Japanese fishermen and a constable, were handed over to the police by a party of missionaries, who went on a "goodwill tour" to their reserve.

The men tore at the bars of their cells all night, screaming incessantly for Mr. Gray, the missionary agent who brought them here.

Even Mr. Perkins, commonwealth minister of the interior, admits that the aborigines could not possibly have realized the incriminating nature of the confession which the missionaries wrested from them.

The reserve in which they live is barred to strangers, and by tribal law they were fully justified in killing the Japanese intruders.

The policy of "employing parsons as auxiliary police" is now being denounced everywhere.

It took six policemen to drag the three aborigines, wild, naked and hopeless, into the court. They could not understand, and they were remanded.

COSTLY TEMPER

Kansas City, Mo.—Exercising one's temper on plate-glass windows just isn't the thing to do, as Mae Stewart discovered to her dismay. Angered because she could not open the front door of a bus station here, Miss Stewart took off her slipper and broke the glass in the door. She was fined $50.

GHOSTLY 'WHITE LADY' SAID DISASTER'S SIGN

Forboding Omen of Hohenzollerns Seen Again, Watchman Claims

Berlin.—The White Lady of the Hohenzollerns, for centuries a ghostly presage of disaster in the Prussian royal family, is said to be abroad once more in the marble halls and dim echoing galleries of the Imperial palace.

"A few nights ago," said a palace night watchman recently, "I heard slow footsteps approaching. I called out, thinking it was my mate coming back, but there was no answer, and the footsteps stopped. I drew my revolver and went with my electric torch along the corridor, which was shut off all round by locked doors. There was nothing to be seen. My colleague came back later from a different part of the building. The footsteps had not been his.

"I remembered that the White Lady on her visitations walked the corridors with slow, ringing steps."

Can it really be that the White Lady, the beautiful Countess von Oriamuende, who, in the sixteenth century, murdered her three children because she thought they stood in the way of her marriage with the Hohenzollern Count Albrecht the Handsome, is walking the Berlin palace once more, clothed in her white robes and widow's weeds, to foretell another disaster?

Legend has it that hardly once has the House of Hohenzollern suffered misfortune without its being foretold by her appearance.

She was last seen, it is said, on July 30, 1914, by a Prussian Guards officer in the summer palace of Potsdam, after appearing at the Berlin palace a few days before.

TOBACCO EXPORTS UP

Washington.—Exports of tobacco and tobacco products from the United States during 1933 increased in value compared with 1932 and totalled $89,878,715 against $73,125,299, according to a compilation by B. D. Hill, tobacco division department of commerce.

BANKER, ONCE WAITER, DIES BY OWN HAND, IN COURT

"If I Am Condemned, Blood Will Flow" Becomes Reality

ACCUSED OF FRAUD

Paris.—"If I am condemned, blood will flow."

This grim threat was made by the banker, Henri Rochette, when the Paris public prosecutor first accused him of having committed a series of gigantic financial frauds.

He carried out his threat—but it was his own life-blood which flowed.

A month ago Henri Rochette was found guilty and sentenced to two years' imprisonment. He appealed. His appeal was heard in the palace of justice. The judges, instead of quashing the sentence, increased it from two years' imprisonment to three years.

They remembered that Stavisky, a young man when, in 1908, the first great Rochette scandal startled France, had been fired by the example of the arch-swindler to those schemes which have reacted so disastrously on the France of to-day.

Hardly had the verdict been announced when Rochette, who was standing at the back of the court with something of the nonchalant air of a mere spectator, whipped a razor from his pocket and slashed his throat. He died.

Thirty years ago an obscure waiter in Paris. On the Riviera he had tended the wealthy, had heard financiers talk in millions.

The obscure little waiter had come to conquer Paris, but he differed from many another unknown genius in that he was not penniless. He had, in fact, about $1,000—an inheritance.

Four years later every one in France was talking of the great Henri Rochette—the financier in whose companies every one was investing, whose enterprises were going to make millionaires of just such little provincials as the obscure waiter from the Riviera himself.

GREECE TO PROVIDE INCOME FOR ROYALTY

Decides "On Principle" to Use Public Funds For Allowances

London.—The Greek government, which now contains a number of avowed Royalists, has decided "in principle," to accord ex-King George of Greece and his family a suitable annual income from public funds.

One of the chief beneficiaries will be Princess Helen of Roumania, the ex-king's sister. Last year she had to ask the Roumanian government to increase her allowance, because she received nothing from Greece, the country over which her Danish-born grandfather, her father and two brothers had ruled.

Ex-King George will now join the ranks of opulent ex-monarchs.

MIRRORS AID MOTORISTS

New Device Said To Reduce Risk of Collision at Corners

Huonville.—A road safety device, invented by W. J. Fish, which was subjected to a thorough test at dangerous sections of the state highways, is likely to be adopted for general use throughout Tasmania.

The device consists of plates of mirror, two feet square, placed in such a position in relation to one another that the section of the road around corners is made visible to approaching motorists, and the risk of collision is thus greatly reduced.

A company has been formed to market the device.

The device will have reflectors of polished steel, with a convex surface, in order to widen the range of vision and so increase their effectiveness.

WIFE RULES HUSBAND MUSTN'T SMOKE INSIDE

Court Sees No Case of Desertion and Dismisses Action

Kingston.—A wife who applied at county police court for a maintenance order against her husband agreed that she made a rule that he must not smoke in the house.

She was Mrs. Mabel Adams of Coombe Gardens, New Malden. Her husband was William Edwin Adams of Pitlake Bridge, Croydon.

Haddon Gray asked Mrs. Adams if she had also made rules that her husband was not to spend his time reading newspapers, that he was not to use too much soap in the bathroom, or use her toothpaste.

Mrs. Adams: I did not make the rules.

Mr. Gray: But there are rules, and if your husband breaks them you row him and make his life unendurable.

Mrs. Adams: That is what he says.

After Mrs. Adams had stated that she wanted her husband home only at week-ends, the chairman, S. Brown, said that the case would be dismissed.

"You put all sorts of restrictions on your husband," he added, "and it appears to the court that there is no case of desertion at all."

BOY OUTBIDS DROVERS

Exeter.—A twelve-year-old schoolboy has visited Axminster market and, in the face of keen competition by veterans, bought five bullocks.

He is Alfred Newbery, son of A. G. Newbery, a well-known cattle dealer and dog breeder, and he claims to be the youngest cattle dealer in the country.

From the age of three he has examined and criticised every head of cattle his father has bought, and he keeps all his father's accounts.

C.G.I.T. HONORS KNOX MOTHERS

Mrs. G. K. Tyler is Special Speaker at Banquet in Knox Church Hall.

BE KIND TO MOTHER.

"Just a word to the daughters: It is a very beautiful thing to wear a red or white flower on Mother's Day, but it will mean little if you forget the thought behind it on Monday or Tuesday. It isn't a great spread of love and affection that mothers want. It is the every-day living it out that counts with them.

"Are we permitting companions or pastimes to enter our lives that mother would not approve of? If we are, then we are offsetting the wearing of the red or white flower."

Mrs. G. K. Tyler, speaking last evening to the guests at the mother and daughter banquet arranged by the Canadian Girls in Training of Knox United Church, spoke very eloquently and forcibly on the subject of mother and Mother's Day observance.

It was an extremely pleasant gathering, imbued with that very friendly and companionable feeling that gatherings at Knox Church are wont to take. Under the careful supervision of the C.G.I.T. leader, Miss Kay Benson, every detail was looked after with thorough efficiency, while Mrs. A. Huffman's capable chairmanship sent the whole affair speeding along to a satisfactory conclusion.

Tribute to "Mother."

Centreing the head table was a beautiful large basket filled with Bermuda lilies, rose tulips and pink snapdragon, the gift to Knox Church on Mother's Day of the Whitfield family, in memory of their mother, the late Mrs. Jane Whitfield.

Special guests of the C.G.I.T. girls were their mothers, also the Rev. and Mrs. W. McDonald, Mrs. G. K. Tyler, wife of the pastor of Park Street Baptist Church, and her small daughter, Mr. A. Gillies, superintendent of the Sunday school, with Mrs. Gillies, and the kindly and much-loved veteran of Knox Church, Mr. J. F. Morrison, with Mrs. Morrison.

Three generations of one family were presented by Mrs. R. Gerrard, mother of the chairman, Mrs. A. Huffman, whose daughter, Verna, responded to the toast to "Our Daughters."

Members of the A.S.K. class of the church, with John Donaldson as leader, made splendid waiters for the banquet.

Grace was pronounced by Mr. Gillies, community singing was led very briskly by Miss Mary Wallace, and the brief remarks of the chairman, Mrs. Huffman, were followed by the toast to "The King," after which a very eloquent address on "The Church" was made by Miss Kay Benson, proposing the toast under that title.

"The tiniest church in a prairie settlement is as truly the house of God as a great city cathedral," said Miss Benson, who said that the church of God is composed of all peoples of the earth who follow Christ.

"It is not a finished work, nor has it reached the limits of its power. There is a glorious challenge to us who are members of the church at present to go forward and build for the future. Christ's purpose for the church was the worship and the love of God by all men upon the earth. And we can most truly work out that purpose when, forgetting all differences in race, creed, nationality and opinions, we can all worship God together."

Tribute to Women Workers.

The Rev. Mr. McDonald, responding to the toast, paid a very eloquent tribute to the work carried on by the women of the church, and spoke of their 'loyal, devoted and diligent" assistance in every good endeavor. He thanked them all, especially Mrs. Huffman, Miss Benson and Miss Wallace.

The toast to "Our Mothers," proposed by Nora Hughes, was responded to by Mrs. Herbert Hughes, who admonished the daughters to listen to their mothers, "who know the dangers of life."

Mrs. R. Laing, in eloquent words, proposed the toast to "Our Daughters," speaking of the manner in which the girls of to-day "stand on their own feet" and decide upon their own problems.

"But remember, girls," she said, "that there are some things which never change and these are the ideals which govern virtue, honesty, truthfulness and integrity."

An extremely well-worded, brief response to the toast was made by Verna Huffman, one of the past president of the C.G.I.T. group, who concluded with a verse of the creed of the girls:

"I would be true, for there are those who trust me;
I would be pure, for there are those who care;
I would be strong, for there is much to suffer;
I would be brave, for there is much to dare."

Mr. Morrison spoke briefly, congratulating the leaders and expressing the hope that the heritage of the past would be passed on unimpaired to the coming generations. Mr. Gillies also added his appreciation of the work done by the girls and their leaders.

Scriptural Admonition.

"Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long in the land," was the first Commandment with promise, said Mrs. Tyler, whose splendidly-worded and inspiring address was listened to with careful attention, and who commenced with the relation of the story of the consecration, before birth, of the life of one of the Baptist medical missionaries, Dr. Jessie M. Allyn, who has spent the past twenty-eight years in India in hospital service, and who told the congregation of Park Street Baptist Church, while on a visit here over the week-end, of the promise made by her parents that one of their children should be a missionary of Christ.

Mrs. Tyler also explained the genesis of the observance of Mother's Day in the action of a young girl of Virginia, Anna Jarvis, who wore a red flower for her living mother and thus commenced a movement which later met with recognition from President Wilson, who set aside the second Sunday in May for the observance. Later, the wearing of a white flower for a departed mother took root also.

"Motherhood is a wonderful thing, but it also entails a great responsibility," declared the speaker.

"How can we instil into the minds of our sons and daughters the ideas we would like to plant there unless our own lives are in accordance with the teachings of Christ? This is a challenge to us to walk carefully before their eyes and to know Christ ourselves so that we may fulfill the wonderful task of motherhood as we should."

Mrs. Tyler also deprecated the habit of fault-finding in the home, and asked the daughters to be thoughtful, careful and kind of the mothers who had nothing at heart but the very best interests of the family.

Pleasing variations in the speech-making of the evening were musical and amusement interludes, carefully planned and carried out with much appreciation by the guests.

Miss Marion Ralston's striking, clear soprano voice was at its best in the favorite song, "The Second Minuet," with a dainty minuet measure enacted by two young girls, Jennie Herd and Jessie Scholey, dressed in old-fashioned costumes.

Miss Mignon Mayneord, accompanied by Miss Ralston, whistled in her bird-like brilliant style, "That Old-Fashioned Mother of Mine," and its encore. Miss Audrey Garside gave two much-appreciated musical readings that were brief and delightful, with accompaniments by Miss Helen Hetherington. And a very entertaining fairy story contest was led by Miss Benson, with everyone taking part in the "Sound Effects." A contest that had to do with words was led by Miss Hazel Laing, the little prize going to Mrs. J. F. Morrison.

The vote of thanks to the guest speaker, Mrs. Tyler, and all who had assisted in any way in the successful carrying out of the program of the evening was voiced by Miss Annabelle Herd and seconded by Miss Eunice Thexton, while Mrs. Huffman added her appreciation, and also spoke of the assistance given in preparing the banquet, by Mrs. C. Scholey and Miss Hazel Laing. Especial mention was given by all the speakers to the capable assistance in church matters given by Mrs. Huffman and the C.G.I.T. leader, Miss Benson.

Flowers were presented to Mrs. Tyler by Betty Craig, and to Mrs. Huffman by Isobel Young.

A happy gathering was brought to a close by all singing "Blest be the Tie That Binds" and "Taps," with hands clasped in a friendship chain.

Accompanists of the evening were Miss Verna Huffman and W. R. Potter.

HOW "MERCHANTS OF DEATH" DISRUPT DISARMAMENT CONFERENCES TO SAVE PROFITS DISCLOSED IN BOOKS

Britain Refuses Inquiry, But U.S. Will Probe Arms Racket

By CLARK KINNAIRD.
Central Press Canadian Staff writer.

NEW YORK, May 15.—The deduction that Canadian nickel is secretly being imported, via Holland by German armament manufacturers and the almost incredible story that the Krupp firm received a royalty on every British hand grenade, made after its patent, which was hurled at German soldiers during the war, are two current highlights along the arms trust front.

A preview of evidence to be submitted in the forthcoming United States senatorial investigation of the international armaments traffic is offered in two new books, "Merchants of Death" and "Iron, Blood and Profits," that lay bare the munitions "racket" which Sir Edward Grey said was the main cause of the World War.

The authors reach the conclusion that armaments makers have been instrumental in disrupting all of the recent disarmament conferences and peace movements, and are actively fomenting war scares.

"Merchants of Death" is by H. C. Englebrecht, associate editor of The World To-morrow, a magazine, and F. C. Hanighen, biographer and publicist. "Iron, Blood and Profits" is the work of George Seldes, one-time European correspondent for North American newspapers and author of "The Vatican: Yesterday—To-day—To-morrow."

"The world war," declare Engelbhecht and Hanighen, authors of the first-named volume, "demonstrated the great importance of nickel in German armaments. Germany has no nickel resources. Hence the importance of the reports from Canada that Holland bought about six times as much Canadian nickel in oxide and three times as much fine nickel in the first three months of 1933 as in the corresponding period of 1932. The only explanation offered for this phenomenon is that the nickel is in transit to Germany."

It is recalled that during the last war the British Government imposed a rigid check on the exports of Canadian nickel, doing everything possible to prevent its turning up in Germany. "They refused to permit sales even to the United States," the book asserts, "unless its use in that country was proved."

In line with the recent startling disclosures regarding the modus operandi of the European arms trusts in dealing with government officials, it is recalled that "when the Hon. Louis Philippe Brodeur, Canadian Minister of Naval Affairs, in company with his colleague, Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, came to London just before the war, they were lavishly entertained by Vickers officials. . . ."

Seldes recalls that President Roosevelt told Commissar Litvinoff, "Only eight per cent. of the people of the world want war," to which Litvinoff replied, "But those eight per cent. are the people in power in certain countries."

Schneider a Jekyll-Hyde.

These two books make it appear that it would be more correct to say that eight persons want war—the dictators of the armament combines which control the world munitions business. Most important of these, it is revealed, are Sir Basil Zaharoff, Greco-British super-salesman of death, and little known Eugene Schneider, president of the Schneider-Creusot Co.

Englebrecht and Hanighen assert that some of Hitler's financial support was derived from Schneider, who controls two powerful Paris newspapers which constantly warn their readers of the "danger of disarmament" and of the menace of Germany. Thus, they state, "M. Schneider is in a position to pull two strings, one linked to Hitler and German militarism, the other tied to the French press and French militarism."

They show that the most important and largest arms making country to-day is France, where the Schneider group of industrialists dominates the munitions business. Great Britain's arms industry, concentrated largely in the hands of Zaharoff and the Vickers-Armstrong interests, is a close second to that of France. Czechoslovakia is third, because of the Skoda works, also controlled by Schneider, and the United States is fourth.

In "Merchants of Death," failure of the 1932 session of the disarmament conference at Geneva is directly attributed to the machinations of the French Schneider and British Vickers-Armstrong interests. Failure of the Geneva naval reduction parley is credited to William B. Shearer, paid representative of three American shipbuilding concerns. The authors recall testimony that when European journalists referred to Shearer as "the man who broke up the conference," he proudly sent clippings to his backers. They also declare:

"The American arms makers have employed the Navy League to prevent naval disarmament.

"More than half the founders of this energetic league were gentlemen whose business would benefit by large naval appropriations."

However, Englebrecht and Hanighen absolve U.S. munitions makers from deliberately spreading war fever in the manner of European armament manufacturers. They point out there is no single armament concern in the United States comparable to the Schneider or Vickers-Armstrong groups who have branches and subsidiaries all over the world, including Canada. Instead there are many companies. During the World War the war department signed more than 100,000 contracts with private companies for war supplies, and to-day 15,000 factories have been enlisted in the program for "industrial mobilization."

U.S. Fourth in Sales.

The U.S., they show, buys from 95 to 97 per cent. of its war materials from private concerns. Outstanding among these are the Du Pont Co., the Government's mainstay for gunpowder and high explosives, and the Bethlehem Steel Corp., with its subsidiaries. However, in the last two years only two per cent. of the Du Ponts' total business has been in military products.

Exports of American arms makers amount to $15,000,000 a year, largely represented by aeroplanes and aeroplane motors, machine guns and ammunition. This is half the military exports of Czechoslovakia, one-third those of Great Britain and a fourth those of France. In 1931, the world total for maintaining armies and navies amounted to 4½ billions, and of this 15 per cent. of army budgets and 40 to 50 per cent. of navy and air expenditures went into the coffers of the "legalized murder" industry.

The authors present evidence that the French munitions trust is to-day selling arms to Germany, the country's potential enemy, and that both France and Italy are rearming Hungary in violation of the treaty of Trianon.

They show that such double-dealing is an old story in the arms trade. England sold to Germany cannons which were turned on English soldiers in 1914. The Krupps had armed Belgium and the German army marching into Belgium was met by German-made guns. They had helped rearm Russia, building part of its fleet and artillery factories. In every naval engagement of the war the German fleet had to face armor-plated vessels made by Germans or from German patents. More German-made guns were turned on the Central Powers when Italy threw in her lot with the Allies. The British had helped build and train the Turkish navy, and the disastrous Dardanelles campaign found British ships foundering on British-made mines and crippled by British cannons. French troops in Bulgaria were repulsed by French 75's. Russians turned Austrian-bought guns upon Austrian soldiers.

The arms makers continued to sell to enemy countries in time of war. A group of French industrialists were tried for supplying war material to Germany through Switzerland. Although the facts were proved, these industrialists were released because they had supplied the French armies. The Thyssens in Germany sold cannon bucklers to the Allies through a Dutch agent, British and Germans were co-stockholders in a munitions company supplying both countries. These, the books state, were but three of numerous cases of trading with the enemy.

They also point out that when U.S. marines were sent to Nicaragua, the Sandino forces killed them with guns bearing the marks of Massachusetts and Connecticut arms makers, and that copper went from the United States into German munitions in 1917-1918 through neutral countries.

Seldes explains in "Iron, Blood and Profits," that he began his inquiry into the international arms "racket" in 1918 when he learned why the allied air service had been forbidden to bomb the Lorraine iron and coal mines and smelters. "They were owned by a combination of French and German munition makers who had an agreement among themselves not to destroy each other's works." He declares:

"If the basin of Briey had been bombarded the World War would have been over in 1916 and 1917 and not a single American life would have been lost."

Seldes claims that behind the official figures of the U.S. Department of Commerce showing the exports of motors, aeroplanes, nitrates, machine guns, etc., appears the certainty that American soldiers and sailors will be killed by American implements of war if the U.S. is again involved.

Eugene Schneider (LEFT) and Sir Basil Zaharoff (RIGHT) are named as world's principal "merchants of death" interested in "iron, blood and profits" in two new books exposing armaments racket which U.S. will probe but which Britain refuses to look into, as clipping shows.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

Egg prices advanced on the Montreal produce and dairy market yesterday.

The peak of production passed at most country points, eggs gained from ½c to ½c a dozen. Western eggs in carlots, were quoted at 19½c to 20c a dozen for A. large; 18½c to 19c for A. medium; 17½c to 18c for B, and 16c to 16½c for C. Quebec and Ontario eggs in less than carlots were 19½c for A. large; 18½c for A. medium; 17½c for B, and 16c for C. Receipts were 2,639 cases.

Butter was firm at 21¼c a pound for carlots or less of fresh No. 1. To retailers, solids were 22c, and prints 23c a pound. Only 13 boxes arrived. Current Ontario cheese held steady at 9¼c to 9¾c a pound with receipts amounting to 35 boxes.

Prince Edward Island Mountains per 90-pound bag declined 5c at $1.10 to $1.15. Quebecs per 80-pound bag at 85c and New Brunswick Mountains per 80-pound bag at 90c were unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Drenching rains in winter wheat territory south-west proved more powerful as a price-making factor yesterday than did persistent drought over spring crop regions north-west.

In the struggle of conflicting influences that took place the wheat market made many rapid swings, showing at the extreme a setback of 2½ cents. Bearish effects of the breaking of the drought south-west were augmented by downturns of securities, and by reports that the commodity exchange regulatory bill had been added to the list which the Administration leaders were insisting must be enacted before Congressional adjournment.

Wheat closed fidety, ⅛c to 1c under Saturday's finish; corn ⅛c to 1⅛c down, oats ⅛c to ½c off, and provisions unchanged to a loss of 10c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 15. — Aided by export sales of 700,00 0bushels of Canadian wheat, futures prices pulled themselves together after two days' faltering on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday and moved briskly ahead for net gains of 1⅛c to 1¾c.

Lightness of pit offerings and continuation of unfavorable weather in Western Canada played a large part in the advance. May wheat closed at 70½c, July at 71¼c, and May at 72⅝c.

The export business, mostly worked out of Montreal, took up all the slack in a market that appeared to have been well liquidated the latter part of last week.

Cables reported a much less favorable crop outlook over widespread areas of Europe. Some relief came to the United States South-west, but the spring wheat Statse continued to suffer in common with most of Western Canada.

MEMBERS PUSH DEBATE BOARD

plan for steady progress evolved in the light of Canada's strategic location on the future airway may of the world.

Vote To-Day?

A vote on the budget may come to-day or to-morrow, and there were indications last night of a disposition on the part of both Government and Opposition to speed up the business of Parliament in order to bring about an early prorogation.

As if in retaliation for the successful Liberal move to have the Farmer-Labor amendment to the budget ruled out of order, William Irvine (U.F.A., Wetaskiwin) yesterday challenged the soundness of the Liberal amendment proposed earlier by Hon. J. L. Ralston, member for Shelburne-Yarmouth. The Speaker reserved his decision.

If the budget debate end to-day it will be one of the shortest on record in recent years. Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, will be the first speaker this afternoon.

The House yesterday put through an interim supply bill to provide the Government with money to meet immediate obligations. It goes before the Senate to-day.

Act Advances.

The new Companies Act, a voluminous measure providing for a general tightening up in the law governing the incorporation of companies received second reading with little discussion and will be studied in a committee.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett revealed the Government proposed to take notice of the charge made in the mass buying committee last week by W. M. Stewart, Montreal tobacco manufacturer, that his competitors had received an advance tip on a cut in the excise tax on cigarettes in 1932. He said he had asked Hon. H. H. Stevens, chairman of the committee, to recall Mr. Stewart to give "all information in his possession with respect to his allegations that Ministers of the Crown have been unfaithful to their trust."

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

KIDNAPPED GIRL IS ILL BUT ALIVE

Houston was separated from Robles when he stumbled onto the prison.

The child was literally rescued from the grave. Her prison was a boxlike hole dug in the desert nine and a half miles from her home. It had virtually the same dimensions as a grave, except for depth, being six feet long, three feet deep and two and half feet wide.

Over the grave—it might indeed have been a grave had the rescue been much longer delayed—was a roof of cacti tin and burlap, crudely put together. There were several holes in the roof, and the sun burned down to make the pit, despite the covering of cacti, a sweltering inferno by day, a chill, horrifying tomb by night.

"Only the fact that she was always a robust child permitted her to go through 19 days and nights of such imprisonment," her uncle, Carlos Robles, said.

Too Weak To Walk

When they found her she was ill and too weak to walk. She appeared calm, but the horrors of her experiences had written themselves upon her. Only after days of quiet and medical care will it be determined how seriously those experiences may have affected her.

The barbarity of the girl's kidnappers was without present day parallel. The prison itself could have been conceived by no one but a person insensible to human suffering. The pit, with its covering, would not allow her to stand erect, and she could hadly sit. There was room only to turn over, but this was difficult, if not impossible, because of the chans that held her ankles. The chain was fastened to an iron

Seldom do records of crime show more callous treatment of a kidnap victim than that accorded June Robles. The kidnappers supplied enough food to keep the child alive, but the food was poor, and not clean.

Had the girl died, her body could have gone undiscovered for months; for the prison hole with its camouflage cover of cacti could easily have served as an unnoticeable tomb.

She was in nowise frightened or timid when her rescuers arrived. As Houston made an opening in the heavy top that had been built over the hole and looked down upon the child whose fate had been a question mark for nearly three weeks, she was calmly sucking an orange.

"Do you know me, Honey," he called down, softly.

With childlike leisureliness she glanced up and looked the attorney carefully over.

"No," she said, and turned her attention again to the orange.

"Do you know 'Lechi'?" Houston asked, using the child's own nickname for her Uncle Carlos who came hurrying up.

Knows Her Uncle

"Oh, yes," she cried, happily, straining then to get free of the cruel chains.

The covering over the hole was heavy and Houston was unabe to get through it immediately. He found a key which lay on a piece of tin near the hole. The letter of directions from Chicago had described the spot where the key would be found.

He tossed the key down to June, who unlocked the padlock which gripped the chains tightly about her ankles. She stood up shakily, the chains falling away, and held up her arms to be lifted out.

The child's first thought when lifted from the hole was for her mother, just as for 19 weary days and nights her mother's thought had been for her.

"I want my Mama!" June cried and it was the nearest she came to giving way to emotion during the rescue.

When reassured that she would be taken at once to "Mama" June expressed anxiety over one other matter: Her report card. She had it with her, and pointed proudly to the marks she had been given at school.

Her captors, the girl said, were two men—"Bill" and "Will" were the names they used in addressing each other, she said. They came to her desert prison occasionally, bringing water and food. With a child's aptness for detail, she mentioned that one of the men wore gloves.

Mrs. Helen Robles, the mother who had been almost distracted with fear and worry during the days of uncertainty as to the child's fate, wept unrestrainedly and nearly fainted when the girl was placed in her arms. She showered June with kisses, and clung to her hungrily.

The child safely home, the efforts of the law—which had been held in leash during part of the time she was missing so that the Robles family could negotiate with the abductors—were focussed on the capture of the kidnappers.

Chicago police and federal agencies were asked to seek the person who mailed the letter which contained the information leading to the rescue of the girl.

For 30 years he had resided at Oxbow, Saskatchewan, and he had returned to Bailieboro only seven months ago. He was a Mason and prominent Orangeman, and served as secretary-treasurer of the Oxbow C.O.F.

OIL MAN FREED THREE CONFESS

the apartment rented by the suspects.

But results were lacking. Officers were ready to give up last Saturday when one of the records, re-run in police quarters, scratched out this conversation:

"There's no need to be scared any longer. Things are in pretty good shape. The newspapers look favorable. Understand no one can tap a pay telephone line."

It wasn't much, but enough.

While police, sheriff's deputies and district attorney's operatives buzzed sombrely over the ransom payment failure, Capt. Harry Seager and Lieut. H. P. Gearhard bided their time at the apartment.

Man, 2 Women Taken

At the proper moment, when hopes waned at the Gettle Mansion, the law struck. Jimmy Kirk and two women, Loretta Woody and Joan Burke, were arrested. From Kirk they obtained the address of the kidnap house where Gettle was held.

Armed forces moved in on the house, situated on the edge of one of the arroyos down which the New Year's day flood waters swept many persons to their deaths.

Roy Williams was taken into custody. Larry Kerrigan fled, only to be apprehended later. In a darkened room, bound hand and foot, gagged and in a weakened condition, was Gettle.

"They fed me all right, but kept me trussed up," he said. "They blindfolded and gagged me and removed the gag only when they fed me.

"I had no idea where I was. I was a surprised to find I was so close to home.

"When they kidnapped me they blindfolded me and drove for several hours. I was under the impression they had taken me out somewhere near Riverside (some 60 miles from Los Angeles)."

Gettle said his side was injured when the abductors pushed him over the seven and a half foot wall at his Arcadia estate and he leaned heavily on officers' arms as he walked from the car into the house.

Indicating its confidence in the business future, a store chain in England has placed an order for 10,000,000 artificial silk stockings, to be delivered at regular intervals in the next eight years.

ARRANGEMENTS SET COACHING CLASS

Miss Hopkins to Instruct Class on May 17—Institute Meeting.

WARSAW, May 15 (Examiner Correspondence) — Mrs. Uriah Payne entertained the Women's Institute at her home on Thursday afternoon. There was a good attendance. Reports of work were given showing good work done, especially by the relief committee. A hearty vote of thanks was given Mrs. Henry Clements, convenor of relief for her splendid work. Mrs. Clements especially mentioned work done by Mrs. Theodore Douglas and Mrs. Robert Moore in assisting her. A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. R. Moore for caring for the flower baskets at the cenotaph. Mrs. Theodore Douglas had sent in her resignation as secretary-treasurer on April 14th. It had been received and a hearty vote of thanks was sent to her for her exceptionally efficient work. Mrs. Anderson reported the cost of lumber to convert the north room of the Institute building into apartments. This is left open until all expenses are estimated. Mrs. Arthur Payne, Mrs. U. Payne, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. T. H. Crowe compose the committee.

A letter from Mr. Runions was read in which he asked the assistance of the Institute in arranging for a cooking class on Thursday, May 17th. Miss Hopkins to be coach. It was decided to arrange for the class which will be held in the Institute room all day.

During Mrs. Moore's absence Mrs. Charlotte Cooper will fill baskets for the cenotaph and care for them when suitable plants are received. Mrs. Henry Clements explained that the order of the children clothed was ill and unable to attend school and the other could not go alone. In Mrs. Anderson's report she thanked those who had helped in some especial way and then began to name them and tell what each had done, but she would have to name nearly every one.

The play "The Wild Oats Bag" had been given twice at Warsaw, also at Hall's Bridge and Coldsprings and is to be given at Norwood on the 11th. It was voted to give the members of the cast a dinner in Peterborough and seats at a picture show.

Five dollars in prizes $2.50, $1.50 and $1 are to be given to the three school children of schools represented at Warsaw School Fair who can produce the greatest number of starling's heads and eggs. The teachers are to be asked to co-operate in keeping track of the heads and eggs and others will be found to represent them during vacation.

The district annual will be held morning and afternoon at Hall's Bridge on June 6th. Mrs. Anderson then asked Mrs. David Miller to take the chair for election of officers and Mrs. Fred Crowe to be secretary. The result of voting is: President, Mrs. Anderson; vice president, Mrs. Uriah Payne; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Robert Moore; directors, Mrs. H. Clements, Mrs. George Weller, Miss E. Crowe and Mrs. Arthur Payne; convenor of agriculture, Mrs. Fred Crowe; health and education, Mrs. David Miller; legislature, Mrs. T. H. Crowe; League of Nations, Mrs. E N. Three-Pound Trout Caught At Pontypool

Caught recently with Eaton fishing tackle, by one of the guides at Burke's Camp near Pontypool, a lovely speckled trout tipping the scales at three pounds, and having an overall measurement from tip to top of 18 inches, is on display in one of the show windows at the Canadian Department Store here.

The fish reposing in a small tank of water, is displayed very artistically against a background provided by a window full of fishing tackle. It is a display calculated to gladden the heart of every devotee of the sport of angling.

OCEAN'S SILENCE HOLDING SECRET OF FLIERS' FATE

Capt. Pond, Lieut. Sabelli 24 Hours Out From New York.

ROME BOUND.

Pair With Fuel for 40 Hours Last Spotted Over Newfoundland.

(By The Canadian Press)

Across the wide Atlantic reaches two adventurous airmen sought today to blaze a new sky trail from New York to Rome.

And as the ocean's silence held secret their fate, two continents waited expectantly for news of Captain George Pond and Lieut. Cesare Sabelli, more than 24 hours out of Brooklyn, N.Y., on the flight no flyer has yet completed.

Many have begun it. Six have found death on the 4,50 mile quest. But Pond and Sabelli were confident as they soared away from Floyd Bennett Field at 6.24 o'clock (E.S.T.) yesterday morning. They expected to make Rome nonstop in less than 40 hours.

Little more than nine hours later they were over Louisburg, at Nova Scotia's eastern end, two hours more and they were roaring out of the sunset over Conception Bay, on the southeast coast of Newfoundland. Far below, the telegraph operator on Bell Island saw their big plan race its eastward course across the St. John's Peninsula and strike out seaward.

After that, there came no reports of the orange and maroon monoplane. She carried receiving radio equipment only.

And after she disappeared into the sky over the Atlantic no further word was expected until she struck the European coast, unless she should be sighted by some ship.

Gas For 40 Hours.

The "Leonardo da Vinci," carried enough gasoline for 40 hours' flying—680 gallons. The former United States' Navy flier and the wartime Italian ace carried enough food for several days, sandwiches, chocolates and liquids, and emergency rations for use should they be forced down at sea.

But neither looked for this contingency. Both are considered outstanding fliers, and they had been preparing for the flight for months before they took off. They were to have started last fall, but bad weather halted their plans.

Sabelli's plans for the flight went back even further than that. He had been preparing for it seven years, his brother Franco said in Rome yesterday. "His plans for the flight to Rome were taking shape as long ago as 1927," Franco said.

In Rome, Sapelli's compatriots were rearing a rousing welcome for the arrival in his native land. The "Leonardo da Vinci" was due there Wednesday morning, but already preparations were underway at Littorio Field, just outside the Italian capital, where the flyers expected to land.

PRICE CUTTING IS NOT ALLOWED

Tobacco Firm Refused to Sell to Chain Store Which Cut Prices.

ASSOCIATIONS FORMED.

OTTAWA, May 15 (CP)—The Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada had cut off its supplies to a Simpson's departmental chain store for selling tobacco of other manufacturers at less than the regular prices, Earl Spafford, vice-president in charge of sales for the Imperial Company told the Parliamentary Price Spreads Probe to-day.

This was part of the company's price maintenance system in operation. The Imperial Company was interested in seeing associations of jobbers functioning as a portion of its distribution system, the tobacco official stated. To these associations, he admitted, manufacturers had contributed financially. These associations were in existence in different parts of the country, out side of the Maritime provinces.

Reports of these associations of price cutting were acted upon by the stopping of supplies to offending retailers, stated Mr. Spafford. An independent retailer who obtained his supplies indirect from the Imperial Company made a profit of 13 per cent on cigarettes, or a disadvantage of 10 per cent against the retailer who was able to purchase direct.

Profits of the Canadian Leaf Tobacco Company, Canadian branch of the Universal Leaf Tobacco Company of the United States, were given by its representative, Charles W. Thomas. In 1929, net profits were $42,564.33; in 1930, $48,571.60; in 1931, $50,406.34; in 1932, $113,506.12, and in 1933, $138,199.74. The Leaf Company purchased most of the tobacco to fill orders from England for the smaller Canadian tobacco manufacturers, such as the Royal Canadian Tobacco Company and L. O. Grothe Company, Ltd.

LONGSHOREMEN FIGHT BLOODY HARBOR BATTLE

One Killed, 21 Seriously Hurt as Strikers Charge 400 Workers.

TWO MAY DIE.

Rifles, Clubs Used as Riot Rages Hour, Los Angeles Harbor.

SAN PEDRO, Calif., May 15 (AP) — Storming a stockade in which 400 non-strikers had been housed, a mob of 500 or more striking longshoremen created a bloody riot at Los Angeles harbor about midnight in which one man was slain and 21 injured, two so seriously they may die. Scores were hurt slightly.

The violence brought to an end a peaceful strike of the cargo handlers, some 1,800 of whom had walked out with thousands of others in Pacific coast ports in protest against wages, working hours and demands for recognition of their union.

Throughout yesterday there was a noticeable restless at the harbor and after nightfall rumblings of disorders were heard.

Accordingly, a guard of 60 special police and sheriff's deputies was despatched to the stockade, built in the west basin near the Grace Line docks.

Raid Camp.

The shouting army of strikers launched the assault about midnight, descending upon the camp, bearing lighted flares, clubs and sticks. The fence was battered down in short order and the torches applied to the inflammable canvas tents.

Soon a terrific hand-to-hand struggle was staged between the two groups and guards. As tents continued to be fired, a volley rang out. Dick Parker, 30, who joined the union yesterday, was shot through the chest and killed.

Checked momentarily, the rioters surged forward again, the melee spreading over the docks with a maddened mob of cursing, yelling men swinging or throwing anything their hands were laid upon.

Several hundred seeing the Grace liner, Santa Elena, at her berth, charged forward. Guards beat the intruders off and the sounds of rifle and pistol fire were heard again and more men fell, most of them wounded in the legs.

John Knudsen, 45, was believed dying from a bullet wound near the heart, and Glen Rex, 38, suffered a skull fracture which may prove fatal, physicians said.

INDUSTRY CODE AIM IN ALBERTA

Merchants Suggest Dominion Enforce Legislation on Similar Lines.

FAIR COMPETITION.

CALGARY, May 15.—(CP)—Retail merchants of Alberta to-day were moving toward establishment of a code for their industry under Alberta's new Trade and Industry Act.

And to the Dominion government was extended the suggestion parliament pass legislation for the whole Dominion along the lines of the Alberta Act.

Meeting here last night, the Alberta Board of the Retail Merchants' Association appointed a committee of 10 to formulate a code governing the industry. When completed, it will be submitted to the Alberta government for approval and enforcement.

The Alberta legislation, passed at the last session of the Legislature, provides the government with power to encourage industry, regulate hours of labor, wages and prices of commodities, and enforce fair competition.

The request for similar Dominion legislation was embodied in a resolution which will be forwarded to Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, and all Alberta Members of Parliament. The resolution also endorsed the Stevens Mass Buying committee.

MRS. S. WHITE NAMED PRESIDENT LAKEFIELD WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Ladies Conclude Active Year With Cash Balance of $31 on Hand.

$54 SPENT ON RELIEF.

LAKEFIELD, May 15 (Examiner Correspondence) — The annual meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening in the Town Hall with a fair attendance present and the president, Mrs. A. Davis in the chair. It was announced that the summer series' speaker would be Miss Ethel Robson and the date of the meeting June 20th. A pleasant surprise was given the Institute when the president brought forward a large parcel containing ten yards of cotton sheeting and sixteen yards of white flannelette with spools to make up garments. All this was the generous gift of an anonymous friend and was gratefully acknowledged. As no name was attached the thanks of the society can only be expressed by the press.

The report of the secretary was given by Mrs. W. E. Gillman and was a most encouraging record of work done during the year. There were 39 members on the roll and 22 meetings. had been held during the past year. A large delegation had attended the district annual meeting in Apaley and the summer series at Warsaw. A community picnic was held in August, a grandmother's day in October and in November a baking contest. A visit was paid to the Old Peoples' Home in January and in February a Valentine tea was held at the home of one of the members. Another member gave two card parties at her home. Other activities included a strawberry social, o booth at the softball tournament. During the year a valuable member and efficient worker was lost by the removal of Mrs. McMaster. Besides filling the post of convenor of the equipment, Mrs. McMaster knit 12 pairs of socks and made a pair of trousers for the relief box.

The roll call was answered by the payment of the membership fee for 1934-35.

Cash Balance

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Howard Bullock, showed the total receipts $135.85 and a balance on hand of $31.96.

Mrs. G. H. Spence reported for the flower committee which has a balance of $3.38. Twenty-one sick and shut-in persons were remembered at Easter.

Mrs. Kelsey reported for the health committee which has done excellent work during the year. By an unfortunate circumstance the program arranged had to be called off but may be given during the coming year.

Mrs. J. H. Moore reported for the agricultural committee which had sponsored the April program which featured the address on young poultry by Mr. A. D. Runions, the Agricultural Representative. The exchange of flower seeds and slips also was a worth while feature.

Mrs. Stanley Higgins reported for the Canadian industries committee, who had arranged the March meeting at which the Game Warden, Mr. F. C. Marshall gave a very interesting talk on wild life and showed some pictures of Jack Miner's bird sanctuary.

The report of the convenor on legislation was read by Mrs. Davis in the absence of the convenor, Mrs. Gilbert McIlmoyle. A very interesting paper on the offices which could be held by a woman in Ontario was given by Mrs. Ridpath at the January meeting which was under the auspices of this committee.

The report of the relief committee was read by Mrs. Gillman in the absence of the convenor, Mrs. W. G. Morrison and showed that $54.75 had been expended and a large number of useful second-hand articles distributed. This work was by far the most important done during the year and was most efficiently handled by Mrs. Morrison.

The report on community activities showed the children's picnic in August, three card parties and grandmother's day as features.

Mrs. A. E. Higgins presented the auditor's report which was satisfactory.

Miss Graham presented the publicity report.

Mrs. Davis, retiring president, thanked the members of the Institute for their co-operation during the year and asked Mrs. J. M. Simpson to take the chair for the election of officers. Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. Foster were appointed scrutineers.

New Officers

Officers elected were: Honorary president, Mrs. W. M. Graham; president, Mrs. S. E. White; 1st vice president, Mrs. J. H. Moore; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Howard Bullock; secretary, Mrs. W. E. Gillman; treasurer, Mrs. J. A. Murphy; auditors, Mrs. A. Davis and Mrs. A. E. Higgins; district director, Mrs. Howard Sanderson; directors, Mrs. G. H. Spence, Mrs. R. G. Charlton, Mrs. Gilbert McIlmoyle, Mrs. Howard Sanderson, Mrs. N. S. Higgins and Mrs. Clarence Foster; pianist, Mrs. E. S. Kelsey; assistant pianist, Mrs. T. W. Chaplin; convenors of standing committees: agriculture, Mrs. J. H. Moore; legislation, Miss M. Sanderson; home economics, Mrs. G. W. Woodhouse; education, left to the executive; flower, Mrs. G. H. Spence; publicity, Miss Graham; social, Miss Edna Blewett, Mrs. Charles Lake; equipment, Mrs. A. Windsor; health, Mrs. E. S. Kelsey; community activities, Mrs. J. Blakeley; Canadian industries, Mrs. S. Higgins; historical research, Miss Graham.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. W. G. Morrison for her efficient work as convenor of the relief committee. It is regarded as the real high light of the year's activities and one which required time, patience and tact, all of which Mrs. Morrison gave in generous measure.

Suggestions for the program for the coming year included more singing, a drive for new members, a rigid enforcement of the one cent fine to induce the women to express themselves more generally. A suggestion to visit a neighboring industry was also made.

A vote of thanks was given Mrs. Simpson for her kindness in coming down to lend a helping hand at this annual meeting and was heartily endorsed by the ladies who also thanked the retiring officers for their excellent year's work.

W.A. Closes

The closing meeting of the W.A. of St. John's Church was held on Wednesday afternoon in the parish hall and the reports of the delegates to the diocesan annual meeting were given by Mrs. John Sanderson and Mrs. Armstrong. These ladies enjoyed very much the great meeting which has grown year by year. The ladies found much of interest in the Dorcas report given by Mrs. Lucas, also in the reports given by representatives of the Church Army, more than a thousand women received Holy Communion at the corporate communion held in St. James' Cathedral on the morning of Thursday, May 3rd.

A feature of the closing of St. John's branch was the baptism of a W.A. baby, William Henry Creighton Twist, four weeks old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Twist.

Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A. rector of the parish officiated at the sacrament of holy baptism and the fact that he had baptized the baby's mother and also officiated at the marriage of the bay's parents was a happy co-incidence.

Tea was served and the ladies dispersed.

TRIBUTE TO OUR JUDGE

Draw near, and shed a tear;
In pious reverence and attend;
For he, whom Death hath taken;
Was a friend,
Of age, of truth, a guide to youth;
The generous patron of all ex-servicemen.
In poverty they shed a humble tear;
While social life,
Surround his grave in fear;
For Death, in time,
To everyone shall come, as sure as night
Doth bring the setting of the sun.
Not half of those who knew him,
Shall know his place of rest,
This friend of man.
A man in every form,
A font of wisdom, with knowledge well informed,
Sweet be his rest,
His labor's at an end,
Can we do more; than shed a tear
For such a Friend.

EX-SERVICEMAN,
Peterborough.

Youths Organize 'Christian Group' Church

By Central Press Canadian

NORTH BAY, Ont., May 15—The strangest church in Canada has been organized in this city.

It is a church attended by 'teen-aged boys, and ministered by 14-year-old Elliott Brown, who organized the unique "Christian Group" to prevent the boys of his neighborhood from getting into trouble.

At the moment their church is a woodshed. Soon they expect to have at their disposal a more imposing structure.

Their services are not held whenever the spirit moved them. They are held each night except Saturday from seven until eight-thirty.

The boys attending the church are all normal school-boys whom one would expect to find out playing ball on the corner lot, or engaged in other boyish pursuits. They do, too. But not when the services is called.

Elliott Brown and Flock

The "minister", Elliott Brown, shows a real command of religious subjects in his sermons. He has a remarkable hold over his congregation, composed as it is of red-blooded boys who would resent any implication that they were 'sissies.'

Elliott has made it his responsibility to see that the boys are given a good start in life. How well he has succeeded in testified to by the large attendance every night—an attendance large enough to warrant more spacious quarters.

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

BEHIND the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., MAY 15.—Crooning has put Bing Crosby on easy street, but the film and radio star will now raise horse-flesh on the side.

Bing Crosby

Bing has just laid some of those four-figure salary checks on the line to buy 50 acres in the Rancho Santa Fe, where, with Douglas Fairbanks, Victor Fleming and other cinema celebrities as neighbors, he plans to breed racehorses on a commercial scale.

The star's new property is inland from Del Mar and about 25 miles north of San Diego. It includes two 125 year-old adobe houses with modernized interiors. Bing plans to use these as guest-houses and to put up a rambling ranch-home for himself and Dixie Lee. One of the star's dreams also is a fine private golf-course.

× × ×

ONE OF the most enjoyable pictures of the year, abounding with miscellaneous situations, ranging from gay comedy to hectic romance, is "The Countess of Monte Cristo," Universal's colorful continental drama, which opens an engagement at the Capitol Theatre on Wednesday.

Fay Wray, looking more lovely than ever in this picture, gives an exceptionally fine performance in the title role, while Pau Lukas supplies the romantic male interest in his suave and debonair continental style. It's an ideal part for Lukas.

× × ×

SUPERSTITION IS no new thing in Hollywood but Bruce Cabot has topped them all by making R-K-O put a clause in his contract that he doesn't have to work on the 13th of the month. Before his marriage to Adrienne Ames, the young star had more than 50 good-luck pieces. She has talked him into discarding all of them but a rabbit's foot which he always wears on the end of his watch-chain.

Not only does Bruce refuse to work on the 13th but he scarcely stirs from the house on the so-called unlucky day.

Marlene Dietrich's youngster, Maria Sieber, has the strangest pets in the film colony—a pair of white lambs. One escaped the other day and the whole staff of body-guards was called out to recapture it. And, speaking of body-guards, the German star takes one precaution that other film stars would do well to follow. Each one of her watchmen must come with recommendations from the local sheriff's office.

× × ×

OTHER HOLLYWOOD blondes may go tan this summer, but Mae West still clings to her creamy complexion. Boris Petroff, one of the star's few intimates, has bought a 48-foot cruiser, but has been unable to get Mae to take a trip in it. She sent Jim Timony out and when he came back with his face several shades redder than usual, the star firmly declined to put foot on board.

× × ×

NEWEST GAME around the studios is called "Fluff." Wynne Gibson and Paul Lukas started it on the set at Universal. Whenever either blows up on a line, the other gets 25 cents. At the end of the first day, Wynne was out $2.50.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., May 15 (C.P.).—Appropriation of $85,000 for filling in of the abandoned Welland Canal is provided for in public work estimates to be made by the Dominion Government, Alderman Frank Wilson announced here last night. The work, eliminating the necessity of a bridge at highway No. 8, will begin immediately, the civic spokesman said.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

Th life ef a person who is subject to headaches certainly is one of torture. And among the varieties of headaches, the kind in which there are recurrent attacks, with intervals of complete sensation of well-being, called migraine or sick headache, is one of the most frequent.

Its characteristics are that it appears in an individual usually in adult life, the attacks come on at irregular intervals and are accompanied by symptoms of digestive distress, the headache is usually on one side of the head, and the attack lasts fo ra few hours or days, and then goes away as suddenly and mysteriously as it came.

Many attempts have been made to elucidate the causes of this peculiar condition and it is possible that in different cases different causes operate. For instance, it is supposed that in some cases it is due to allergy, to a hypersensitiveness to a particular kind of food, and some success has been reported in treating patient along the lines suggested by this idea, i.e., finding out what foods they are sensitive to and eliminating them from the diet.

Another group of cases has been reported in which apparently the amount of calcium in the body is too low. Such cases are frequently accompanied by muscular cramps during the attacks. During attacks, examination of the blood for calcium shows it to be under the normal limit. The supposition is that for some reason the parathyroid glands, which have to do with the control of calcium in the body, cease to function properly, and the headache is the result. It is well known that muscular cramps are a symptom of calcium deficiency of this sort.

Treatment has been by the use of viosterol, a substance which, like cod liver oil, contains Vitamin D, which serves to regulate the distribution of calcium in the body.

Extremely encouraging results ahve been reported from this treatment. A patient who was annoyed with frequent attacks of headache and cramps in the feet, who always had a low blood calcium, received viosterol. As a result, the blood calcium rose to normal limits and the attacks entirely subsided, the patient stating that she was perfectly well, without headache or nausea.

Certainly the remedy would be worth a trial because it is, so far as anybody knows, entirely harmless, and could be taken over a long period of time for purposes of trial witohut appreehnsion of any untoward results.

"Three months ago," a woman writes, "I was persuaded to try Kruschen Salts to reduce my weight, which was 222 lbs. I had tried other things but all to no avail. Now I know that Kruschen Salts are different. In three weeks I lost 5 lbs., and I felt five years younger. I really must say I feel a different woman. I have now lost 28 lbs. to date."—(Mrs.) S.G.B.

If you are overweight, take one half-teaspoonful of Kruschen Salt in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning. There will be no rapid or alarming loss of weight, but just a steady decrease of that flabby fat which is as unhealthy as it is unsightly. Kruschen is a scientific b'end of six mineral salts, found in the waters of those European spas that have been used by generations of overstout people to reduce weight.

Mr. Augustus Bridle, writing in the Toronto Star, has this to say of Mr. Deane Miner's recital in Toronto on Thursday of last week:

"Deane Miner's violin recital at the Heliconian Club last night ranks as one of the best local events of the season. With Kathleen Irwin as skilled pianist, he played a prodigiously difficult program, which was at all times highly interesting.

"His three Bach numbers were a well-played prelude to one of the six most paralyzing concertos ever written for the violin. Thanks to the great Strad left by Luigi von Kunits, and splendid support from the piano, Miner was at no time quite unable to produce most of the tonal effects with which Glazunow intended to flabbergast any violinist not of Menuhin or Elman calibre. Nobody had ever played this concerto here before. That Miner was able to negotiate so many of the desperate hazards without losing grip of the continuity is a fine tribute to his self-discipline. It was not a 100 per cent. performance, but a highly reputable sketch of a tremendous work—which five years from now Miner will play much more surely. The frightfully difficult cadenza was very well done and the closing allegro was at least superficially brilliant.

"Sinding's Suite in A Minor is really a concerto. The dazzling Presto of almost perpetual motion was well sustained, the Adagio was beautiful, and the last movement with a cadenza beautifully done. A Boulanger Nocturne of alluring quality, a rhapsodic Bohemian melody by Sevcik, and Wieniawski's buoyant Caprice closed the program — with a very beautiful encore finale."

"Gentlemen Prefer Beef" is the title of a new and novel cooking demonstration which will be staged for the benefit of the women of Peterborough and its vicinity, on Wednesday, May 16, 1934, in Buehler Bros.' Store, 379 George Street, with the compliments of Grant & Loucks Company Limited.

Free to all who wish to attend, the demonstration will be jointly sponsored by the above local firm and Buehler Bros. The demonstration will start promptly at 8 o'clock in the evening.

It is a new and highly entertaining and instructive presentation, profusely illustrated, of problems that constantly come up in the home of every woman who plans or prepares meals. The subject of Beef has been chosen because there are so many delicious ways to cook it and so many attractive ways to serve it. Another reason is that beef presents some of the most difficult cooking problems.

The illustrated talk will bring the audience ideas and suggestions worked out by Mary Lee Gordon of Kelvinator of Canada Limited Home Science Department. Housewives will be shown how to order the cuts best suited for various purposes and how the cheaper cuts may be made tender and tasty if properly selected and cooked. They will be given new, proven recipes for beef dishes. How to buy the various cuts, where they come from, and the uses to which each cut is best adapted will be illustrated in the demonstration.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Whatever its present position may be, the sandwich is of noble origin. We are told that it was the Earl of Sandwich who first sponsored the custom of serving meat between two slices of bread. This idea marks the Earl as fastidious, as well as a practical man. The sandwich was a forward step in improving both table manners and convenience in dining. For in the Earl's day roast meat was a big part of the menu and forks had not come into general use.

* * * * * * *

Some of the sandwiches we see today give no hint of nobility. However, even the humblest one can be a noble work if it is fresh and trim. And some of the very elaborate ones often are tawdry and unappetising in spite of the good ingredients which go into their making.

* * * * * * *

The whole is not better than its parts. A good sandwich starts with good materials. First of all, there must be bread. It can be almost any kind. It should be moist and fresh, but several hours or a day old so that it is easy to cut and handle. If the crust is very crisp, wrap the loaf in a damp towel for a few minutes. It can then be cut without breaking and crumbling.

* * * * * *

Of course, for cutting, a sharp knife is needed. Select one that is thin-bladed and flexible, but strong. It should be long enough to cut a loaf the long way, when needed. A knife with tiny, sharp, saw-teeth on the cutting edge is good. An advantage of the saw-tooth knife is that it is not very good for cutting other foods and you will keep it especially for bread.

* * * * * *

It will save time and materials if you will cut the bread to get the largest possible slices. Whenever practical, slice the bread the long way of the loaf. Spread and make the sandwiches in long slabs and when finished cut them into the sizes you like. If you are using nut bread or any rich bread that crumbles easily, it is better to cut small slices. Sometimes it helps to cut the loaf in half down the center the long way, then slice.

* * * * * *

Thin, smooth mixtures can be spread onto the cut surface of the loaf before cutting each slice. This will prevent tearing the slices. Another precaution is to have butter at room temperature and to cream it thoroughly before spreading the bread. Cheese and paste mixtures can be thinned with liquids, such as cream or milk, fruit juices or salad dressings, according to seasoning and flavor desired.

* * * * * *

Fillings should be finely chopped, thinly sliced or in pieces which will stay in or on the sandwich when it is being eaten. It should not be necessary to eat a sandwich with knife and fork. If you like sandwiches in mountainous or haystack formation, it is helpful to arrange them so that they can be taken off in layers for eating.

* * * * * *

Vegetables and fruits for sandwiches should be crisp, firm and dry Cut or chop them finely, but do not crush. Some spreads are made by mashing vegetables. In this case, mash the vegetables thoroughly and moisten with butter, cream, oil or mayonnaise to form a smooth paste.

* * * * * *

Chill the fillings for cold sandwiches. If the sandwich is to be served hot, be sure the filling that goes into it is hot. For the most part simple fillings well seasoned make the best sandwiches. Often a spread of creamed butter is sufficient. With plain breads, add something to give flavor, such as chopped parsley and onion juice, horseradish, chutney, chopped ginger or other highly flavored ingredients.

* * * * * *

Bran breads make unusually good sandwiches. Bran has the property of absorbing and holding moisture. The bread itself will keep nicely for several days. Even very thin bran bread sandwiches do not dry out quickly. Bran is healthful, too. It adds bulks which most of us need in our diets. Many of the bran breads are rich in flavor and you can make bran bread sandwiches with very simple spreads of just butter.

OUR MAIL

Dear Anne Wilcox: What a charming pattern in to-night Fashion Service Page in the Examiner. I have two young ladies, 12 and 14 years of age, and I am going to make each one a dress alike. I wish I were a real good seamstress. I think all girls ought to learn to sew.

We are all so glad to see the Spring again. The grass is getting quite green now and the first wild flowers are out. I love a garden. I always love a good vegetable garden, and flowers every place that I can plant them. My strawberry plants were a failure this year. I guess it was a case of me counting my chickens before they were hatched. Over half of my big patch were winter killed.

I often think I would like to write to your page. I always read your page at night after the children are asleep. The neighbors' letters are so interesting too. To me, this is the best part of the day, just dusk. The children are having a very wonderful game of ball. My little girl, aged three, just came in and informed me she was going to Peterborough to buy me some apples. I wouldn't mind the apples, and I'd appreciate the trip to Peterborough, too.

I wish you good luck and inspiration in your work, Anne.

Sincerely,

IRENE.

Dear Irene: Your letter was so nice and I want to welcome you very sincerely to the column. We shall look for many more of your letters now that you have started to write. I ordered the patterns for you and hope that you have received them by this time. Sincerely,

Anne Wilcox

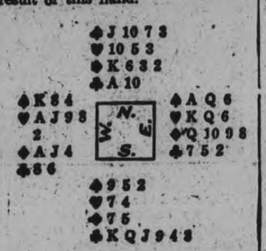
FAST ASLEEP

Even if a player thinks that he has a sure game it still pays him to keep wide awake, as shown by the result of this hand.



Bidding went: West, 1 heart; East, 2 hearts; South, 3 clubs; West, 4 hearts, ending bidding.

North led his ace and 10 of partner's suit. South overtook the 10 with his J, and led the K, knowing that both the declarer and his partner could ruff.

West had figured that he should lose neither spade nor heart trick. He knew that he had to lose 2 club tricks and he might have to lose a diamond trick. West was counting chickens before they were hatched. He forgot that North might hold no more clubs, and if that happened to be the case that North might be able to outruff the 8. He was just fast asleep. West ruffed the third round of clubs with his 8. North captured the trick with his 10 of hearts, then he led the J of spades, which did not in the least trouble the declarer.

West still had a chance for game. He pulled trumps, ran off his 2 remaining spade tricks, and then took his finesse in diamonds, losing the fourth and setting trick.

With four top trumps in dummy and his own hand there was no excuse for the declarer. He should have ruffed with his ace or J, it did not matter which. Probably the 5 missing trumps were divided 3-2, insuring game so long as he did not send a boy to do a man's work. Those lapses in careful play are more frequent among beginners, but even players of considerable experience make slips at times, just as West did.

North played the above hand at 6 diamonds. The opening lead was the 2 of spades, as West had bid that suit. Before tomorrow, think how many tricks North can win against perfect defence.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

King Solomon, who was renowned for his great wisdom, once said, "There is no new thing under the sun." And I guess this famous sage was quite accurate in his statement. Take those new artificial finger nails, for instance. Most women think that they are exclusively an invention of this modern era. But take it from me they aren't. For 'way back in the days of the Pharaohs, Egyptian princesses wore thin sheaths of gold over their finger nails in order to make their finger tips more alluring.

The artificial finger nails of today, of course, are a good deal different from the ones the Egyptian lassies sported. They're more natural in construction and appearance. And they're far better suited to our modern civilization and our present habits of living.

However, judging from my recent mail, there are a good many women who do not know much about the new artificial finger nails. I mentioned these nails in one of my articles not so long ago. And ever since, I've been simply bombarded with inquiries concerning them. All of which certainly indicates that it's up to me to tell more about these new beauty accessories.

Artificial finger nails are now of two types. The first type is made of some pliable composition, and is attached to each nail with a little special glue that comes with the nails. A bit of soaking is all that is required to remove these nails from your own, and you may do this nightly, if you desire. These artificial nails are tinted in several pastel shades to match or harmonize with gowns, and also come in standard and more conservative shades.

The second type of artificial finger nails is more bizarre, but more perfect. These nails are made of light, thin metal, and are made from plaster casts, so that they fit the finger tips perfectly. They are held in place by tiny, invisible clasps, and are easily detached. These nails can be enameled any shade you desire, and can also be had in solid silver or gold. And both mentioned types can be procured in any of the better class beauty shops, cosmetic shops and the bigger department stores.

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

A NUMBER of stables unloaded at Woodbine from Kenilworth over the week-end and all this week there will be plenty of action around the Toronto eastend course getting ready for Saturday's opening. Pimlico closed on Saturday and a number of horses from there are also checking in, among them being the powerful Labrot string who cannot be overlooked in any event they happen to have a horse entered in. They tell us that Happy Warrior is back in the same shape he was two years ago when he was poison to all platers. Charlie Mitchell who has him under his wing sure knows his way around.

× × ×

On Pimlico closing day over eight hundred thousand iron men passed through the machines during the afternoon, which makes it look as if the depression is over as far as Maryland is concerned. Quite a difference between the business at that track and Kenilworth but Toronto and district fans are hungry for wagering and it looks as if some wagering records will be broken at the coming Woodbine session. For the ardent turf followers this is an off week in Canadian racing.

× × ×

CHURCHILL DOWNS and Aurora are both operating but are plenty far away from these diggings. They have an oil burner at the Downs called Pantaloons that should click in jig time. He is a former C. W. Whitney trick and an ex-stable mate of the famous Equipoise. He has plenty of speed and posesses a lot of class. Elcidio, an old Canadian favorite is also at the same place and his connections say he is ready to go. His fort is over a distance of ground.

× × ×

All Forlorn which won on closing day at Kenilworth was claimed by C. S. Mitchell and will be in the same stable as Happy Warrior which we mentioned above . . . The horsemen are loud in their praises of A. M. Orpen who in the face of taking a bad beating never even mentioned reducing purses or wages or hinted that anyone should share in the losses with him. A good sportsman never squawks and the grand old man of Canadian racing sure is a real sportsman. We sincerely hope that he will have fine weather for his coming meetings at Long Branch and Dufferin.

× × ×

Race followers will be sorry to hear of the tragic death of Jockey Charlie Mergler who took his own life last Saturday down in Virginia. He had been putting on weight lately and in an effort to keep down to riding weight he weakened himself so much it affected his mind . . . Saturday will mark Nipper Rowe's debut in the starter's stand on C.R.A. tracks and we sincerely hope he gets off on the right foot and has a successful season. He is filling the place left vacant by Marshall Cassidy who is now steward on all New York tracks and who had been official starter on the Canadian tracks for a good number of years.

CUBS AGAIN ON TOP—PIRATES IDLE

FIFTH VICTORY FOR L. WARNEKE

Klein's Double in Tenth Inning Drives in Winning Run for Chicago.

GAMES POSTPONED.

Lon Warneke gathered in his fifth victory of the season as the Cubs beat down the world champion Giants for the second straight day in a 3-2 10-inning thriller that alone survived the rain in the National League. It was the Giants' eighth loss in 12 starts in the west.

With the count tied 1-1 going into the ninth Bill Terry gave Young Hal Schumacher a one run lead by belting a home run into the centre field bleachers. Dolph Camilli, rookie first baseman, promptly got it back with another homer in the Cub's half. There the situation stood until Chuck Klein came up in the 10th with Warneke, by the grace of Terry's error, and Galan, through a walk, resting in first base. Klein's double promptly busted up the ball game.

Vic Sorrell, Detroit southpaw, snuffed out the Senators' 5-0 with but two hits in the third game of the day, called because of rain after six innings. Al Crowder lasted less than two innings as the American League champions slid down into the second division.

LEAFS AGAIN SECOND PLACE

Hilcher Hurls Brilliant Ball for Toronto, Defeats Syracuse 2-1.

Meanwhile Toronto nosed out the Syracuse Chiefs, 2-1, as Walter Hilcher allowed only three hits in a pitching duel with Jimmy McCloskey. Hilcher's single scored George McQuinn with the first Toronto run in the fifth and the winning tally came over in the sixth on a single by Ike Boone, a sacrifice and Joe Morrissey's single. Syracuse scored its lone run in the sixth without the aid of a hit, Eddie Olhocki carrying the tally across the plate after two errors, a pass on an infield out.

6-2 Win for Royals

Baltimore drove John Pomorski to cover in two innings, but could do nothing at all with Orlin Collier, and Montreal came from behind to earn a 6-2 decision. Collier allowed only four hits in the last seven innings. The Royals bunched nine hits off Euel Moore to good effect; Hubby Walker and Jim Ripple hitting homers.

A home run by Ted Norbert and three singles by Fred Sington helped Albany score an easy 9-3 victory over Buffalo and regain sole possession of fifth place, a game ahead of Syracuse. Ed Chapman pitched seven-hit ball for the winners.

Manush-Kiki Out

Yesterday's rains, washing out all but three major league ball games, left "Rollie" Hemsley, St. Louis Browns' catch, high and dry in the "Big Six" lead with an average of .481.

Only Carl Reynolds of Boston Red Sox, "Heinie" Manush of Washington Senators, and 'Kiki' Cuyler of Chicago Cubs, saw action among the leaders, and not one of them manufactured a hit. Reynolds lost 14 points to .412, while Cuyler, easing off 23 and Manush 12, dropped from among the top three in their respective leagues.

ROBERT MOSES GROVE RETURNS TO OLD FORM ALTHOUGH REDSOX LOSE

Boston's Anxiety Relieved by Notable Southpaw's Performance.

TIGERS BLANK SENATORS.

American League Champions Slip Into Second Division With 5-0 Setback.

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

The stock of Boston Red Sox, fading recently on the major league market, is rising again, and the reason is the same impetus that sent the Sox chances kiting in the first place—Lefty Robert Moses Grove.

For Robert Moses, the lonaconing lightning, apparently is back in the pitching condition that won him ranking among the best left handers in baseball's history, as well as a price tag of $100,000 that Tom Yawkey willingly paid when he bought the Maryland bean pole from Connie Mack last winter.

Lefty didn't win a ball game yesterday as rain drenched most of the major league circuit and out the list of engagements to three, but he proved he has recovered from the sore arm that has been shrouding both him and Boston's populace in gloom since the first week of Spring training.

Grove picked up the gauntlet against the White Sox, relieving Henry Johnson in the third inning with one out, the bases full, and the score 5-0 against Boston.

Six and two-thirds innings later the game ended with the score 8-2 in the White Sox favor and "Big Jarge" Earnshaw, who once was Grove's partner in pennants for Connie, had won himself a fine four-hit victory.

He allowed but three hits in 6 2-3 innings, walked one and fanned two. He was scored on twice before he got the side out in the sixth, through a walk and a force-out, though the runs aren't charged against him because he took over with the bases full. In one three-inning stretch only one ball has hit out of the infield; he allowed one run of his own making in the seventh when he dropped Eddie Morgan's toss to first base on a ground ball that would have retired the side after Al Simmons, another of the old A's, had doubled.

Finishes Easily

Grove finished easily, indicating that the $25 it cost to remove infected teeth a few weeks ago had saved an investment of $100,000. After Lefty was belted out in less than an inning by the Browns in his first relief start, it was feared that the loss would total $100,025.

Earnshaw's victory was the first complete game he has pitched this season. A home run by Bill Werber was the only heavy damage done him. Werber's two errors, four singles and Bob Boken's double counted five runs for the White Sox off Johnson in the second.

WALTER JOHNSON QUITE OPTIMISTIC

Cleveland Manager Thinks His Team Will Win American League Pennant.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Walter Johnson, as lean and trim and square-jawed as ever he was in the days when the "Big Train" whistled alike through flag stops and main terminals, is taking his Cleveland Indians back to Lake Erie in a few days to mould them into a top-notch team.

"I've had a look at everything in the East," he said yesterday, as rain washed out the Yankee game and landed him in a comfortable hotel lobby chair, "and I know now we've got a chance to win a pennant this year. All we need is confidence, and we can get that with a good home stand. My youngsters need only to get the habit of winning.

"We'll win regularly back in the old Lake Side Park in Cleveland. My kid infielders, Hal Trosky, Bill Knickerbocker and 'Sammy' Hale, will gain confidence. The spirit is there, the pitching and the hitting. All my team needs is to realize it's good."

New York Yankees, Johnson readily admits, are the gang to beat this year in the American League. Washington Senators, despite the poor early showing of their pitchers, shouldn't be counted out this early. Detroit Tigers, with Mickey Cochrane at the helm have disappointed him as well as every one else. He isn't worried about the other clubs.

RAINVILLE VICTOR IN STRAIGHT SETS

Gilbert Nunns Downed by Montreal Star in Toronto Tennis Tests.

TORONTO, May 15. — Marcel Rainville hammered out the victory he has sought a year to gain yesterday. In straight sets he humbled Gilbert Nunns of Toronto, his conqueror a year ago, for as satisfying a revenge as any tennis player could expect to win.

Before a small crowd that seemed to realize the drama in the situation, the mighty title Frenchman from Montreal sent Nunns spinning to defeat by scores of 6-3, 6-3, 7-5. It was the fourth straight triumph without loss of a set for Rainville in the trials for the Canadian Davis Cup team.

Primed for this contest ever since Nunns defeated him in the 1933 trials and was awarded a singles berth on the Canadian team Rainville made no mistake about his come-back. Weeks of competitive play in the South, a campaign designed to bring him to peak form for the trials, made the job comparitively easy.

Leafs First Sacker

GEORGE M'QUINN

The Toronto Maple Leafs of International League Baseball fame have startled the fans with their brilliant display so far this season. Not the least responsible for their fine showing has been George McQuinn hard-hitting, classy fielding first baseman, who, though really the property of Newark Bears, is apparently in for a big season with Ike Boone's Leafs.

DOUBLE POINTS SEPARATE NINES IN KNAPP RACE

Barton's 7th Homer Helps Newark Defeat Leading Wings 8 to 7.

ROYALS WIN 6-2.

(By The Associated Press)

Newark Bears, one of the International League's outstanding pennant contenders, were the victims of an apparent paradox to-day.

They had just succeeded in making the league-leading Rochester Red Wings bite the dust for the second time in as many days yet had dropped from second to third place in the standings. The Bears held a half game lead over Toronto Maple Leafs by the won and lost method of figuring the standings, but trailed the Leafs by two points in the percentage column.

Newark pounded Tony Kaufmann out of the box with a six-run rally in the second inning yesterday, but barely staggered through to win, 8-7. They added single runs in the third and fifth frames and needed them badly as it turned out. A three-run rally in the seventh put the Red Wings back in the game and Rochester rallied again in the ninth, driving Frank Makosky out the box. Vito Tamulis shut off the surge after two runs had scored. Joe Glenn, Newark catcher, emerged from a batting slump with a bang, getting a double and three singles in four trips to the plate.

Vince Barton hit his seventh homer for Newark in the second, and Ival Goodman clouted one out of the lot for Rochester in the ninth.

LITTLE WORKING TIME IS LOST IN PROVINCIAL SOFTBALL GAMES

Ontario Softball Union Regrets Local Loop's Refusal to Enter Association.

TEAMS EVENLY MATCHED.

Ottawa, May 11, '34.

Sports Dept.,
Peterborough Examiner.

Dear Sir: Your favor of the 5th instant to hand, and we regret to learn that your league has decided to stay out of softball playdowns for another year.

Candidly, we think this is a mistake. There is nothing as stimulating to players and public as the prospect of inter-district playdowns. Your league will never know its own strength until it meets up with outside teams. Some of our new members from little towns are entering playdowns with only a year's experience to help them through. Every effort is made, when drawing up the schedule to keep the inexperienced teams competing against approximately their own strength and experience until, through the natural process of elimination, the strongest of these teams is declared. The team thus proving its own strength often gives the more experienced team a real battle, as in the case of the Windsor-Caledonia series last fall, when Caledonia, completing its second year, forced Windsor to a three-game series.

As to the matter of expenses: Whether a team pays its way or not largely depends on the ingenuity of the teams' players to work up public interest enough and sell enough tickets.

As to having to cut your schedule by three weeks in order to have a winner declared by August 15th, we would make every effort to extend the time limit to you, but we could not promise more than two weeks' grace at this time. We might even do better than that in the fall, but the longer you would stay out of playdowns the harder would be your series, for teams would be playing off all the time you were running your own schedule. However, we would do our utmost for you.

We regret that once a championship is declared, we do not permit them to enter into exhibition games of any kind whatsoever until they have been eliminated from our series. We could not, therefore grant your local teams to play an exhibition series with the Lakeshore League champions in the fall. Or, rather, since if you do not affiliate with us, we would have no control over your league, but wee would not permit the Lakeshore champions to play games with your league.

We want your league in our Union, not only because it would help round out the district around Peterborough, but also because it is our aim to foster and promote, wherever possible, ladies' softball.

As for your players' lost time at work: Wherever we can do so, games are scheduled for holidays and Saturday afternoons and evenings. By this we do not mean to say that a girl need lose no time from work, but it is possible that she will lose very little. Last year's intermediate champions, from the Eastern Association, lost but one day and a half. That may be a record, but our schedule was so drawn that it worked out that way. You see, many towns have Wednesday afternoons off, others have Saturdays off, and all this is taken into consideration in the early fall when the provincial schedule is drawn.

Would you be so kind as to present this letter to your league? And if, after due consideration, your managers decided to join us, we will surely go more than halfway to meet your needs.

There is no doubt about it, organized softball is the thing, and the longer a team stays out of it, just that much more experience are they permitting other teams and league to gather to make their entrance that much more difficult next season or the season following.

With kind regards to your league and wishing you the best of success whether you join us or not—but hope you will—we remain,

Sincerely,
Nora Seddon,
Pres. of Prov. Women's Softball Union.

WATT LIKELY TEAM MEMBER

Bobby Murray and Gilbert Nunns to Battle for 4th Position.

DAVIS CUP ENTRY.

By ELMER DULMAGE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

TORONTO, May 14. (CP).—Only the finishing touches remained today to be put to the somewhat extensive Canadian Davis Cup trials before there is definite announcement of the three players selected to help big Walter Martin, the country's ranking singles player, battle the United States team at Wilmington, Del., on May 24, 25 and 26.

Four days of singles competition between six leading players left Marcel Rainville, the gallant little tennis warrior from Montreal, undefeated and certain of his place on the team. Martin was selected without taking part in the trials. Laird Watt of Montreal, a newcomer to Davis Cup circles, also appeared likely to be named.

Unless there is some real dynamite in the racquet of young Bobby Murray, Montreal's third contender, the last place on the team will go to Gilbert Nunns, Burly Toronto star who met reverses at the hands of Watt and Rainville. Murray must beat the fiery Rainville to-day to show as good a record as Nunns.

All Saints' Beaten At Lakefield 26-13

LAKEFIELD, May 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—Lakefield United Church walloped All Saints in the first local game in the Peterborough Church League. The score was 26-13, and the score indicates the play very fairly. The local team are practically the High School team and have played together for several years and they clicked every time, whereas the visitors did not play as finished a game. The losers had less snap in the infield and a lack of cohesion in the outfield. The spectators who braved the evening chill and damp grounds were rewarded by a good game for the last three inning showed a decided pull up by Peterborough.

The line up was:

Lakefield United.—Loyst, c; Garbutt, p; Chittick, 1b; Jewell, 2b; Morrison, 3b; Spence, ss; Elliott, rf; Kingdon, lf; Graham, cf.

All Saints.—Rusaw, c; Fisher, p; Seabrooke, 1b; Livingston, 2b; Worsencroft, 3b; Platt, ss; Beauclerc, rf; Webb, lf; Carter, cf; Jay, sub.

Score by innings:
Lakefield United .....061 928 x—26
All Saints .....000 046 3—13

"RIPTIDE."

The volatile and charming Norma Shearer, who gave up her work for nearly a year to take a trip with her ailing husband, comes back to the screen in this feature, which includes in its cast the Englishman, Herbert Marshall, the attractive American, Robert Montgomery, and the veteran Mrs. Patrick Campbell.

"Riptide" is a picture of romantic excitement. Norma Shearer is Mary, a lady with a past, which she reveals to her husband, Lord Rexford (Herbert Marshall) before she marries him. The memory lingers, and five years of happy married life in England, with a tiny daughter, fail to allay suspicions when Rexford returns from a trip to America to find the gossip sheets on both sides of the Atlantic screaming with headlines about his wife and her reputed lover, Tommy Trent (Robert Montgomery).

After her husband refuses to believe in her innocence, Mary goes haywire and gives him grounds for divorce.

"Riptide", however, ends happily for all concerned except the forsaken Tommy.

Montgomery is as effective as usual in the role of the philandering Tommy; Mrs. Campbell, whose screen manner is a cross between that employed by Alice Brady and Alison Skipworth, is excellent in the role of Aunt Hetty, an erratic lady who longs for excitement, and the late Lilyan Tashman makes a posthumous appearance, as it were, in the part of Mary's sister, Slyvia. Ralph Forbes and Skeets Gallagher have minor parts also.

Miss Shearer wears some peculiar looking clothes and extremely faddish little hats in this picture, but she gets by, although there are moments when they almost verge on the ridiculous, just as her gay, artificial manner sometimes stops little short of over-acting. She goes better with Montgomery. Herbert Marshall's slight heaviness of manner doesn't make such a good background for her frivolous, superficial chatter.

The comedy is a Thelma Todd-Patsy Kelly mix-up that provides plenty of amusement.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer
Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. P.

We received a letter yesterday from President Nora Seddon of the Provincial Women's Softball Union. It appears in today's paper. It seems this association is quite anxious to have the local lasses' loop affiliate with it, and is willing to go more than halfway to bring about such an affiliation. We were against the Peterborough Girls' League joining the Provincial Union when the question was brought up a few weeks ago. Now—with the Union willing to make several important concessions—we are not so sure. It might work out okay for this league to affiliate. But there are still several "ifs" to take into consideration. Provided these can be taken care of all right, we would be inclined now to favor such an affiliation.

• • • • • • •

For instance, our main objections before were the shortening of the schedule, the expenses entailed, having to go under the Union's rules, and the lost time from work in the playdowns. But the Union appears willing to extend the time when our winner would have to enter the playdowns. The expense angle still remains, but might be overcome somehow. Very few of the Union's rules would be forced upon this league during the regular summer schedule—for instance, it's not necessary to use girl coaches till you hit the playdowns—and not very much time need be lost from work.

• • • • • • •

Here are the "ifs"; If the Union would guarantee not to call upon us for a winner before September 1st; if the girls themselves would hustle about and raise the needed coin; and if the damsels would check up with their employers and ask would it be okay to lose a few half-days from work in the fall, provided they were in the playdowns then, things might work out. It would cost this circuit three dollars to affiliate. Then, each player would have to pay two bits for an amateur card. In the playdowns, the home team keeps its own gate and pays its own travelling expenses—and it must also kick in with five bucks to the Union from its home game.

• • • • • • •

We're not advocating an affiliation. We're neutral now, since receiving this last letter from the Union prexy. We simply like to state both sides of a question. If the girls concerned want to join up, let them figure out the expense angle and the matter of time lost from work in the fall. If they still feel they should affiliate, let 'em inform their managers, instructing them to call upon the loop president to re-open the question.

• • • • • • •

The lid is pried off the Men's City Softball League up at Central tomorrow p.m. around six bells. Tommy Miller's C.G.E. softballers go to the mat with Johnston's' Tires, managed by Bert Deck, after some sort of appropriate opening ceremony. And the large-ball lads will be at it four nights per week from then till away out around time for us to buy another pair of shoes—well out in August. After that, the local playoffs and the Ontario playdowns. With just four squads in this season, there is no reason why the softball at Central shouldn't be plenty fast. We can"t give you any pre-game dope on tomorrow's pair of jacks (openers) but believe they'll dish up a classy contest. Should be plenty of fans and fannettes on hand.

• • • • • • •

Things were terribly quiet in the Church Softball League last e'en and they only ran off six games. You should be around when they're busy! Reading from left to right they did thusly: George St. Seniors did a 23-14 job on St. Paul's; Lakefield United took a 26-13 nod over All Saints; Murray St. Juveniles needed eleven frames to beat St. James, 6-5; Mark St. nosed out Knox Bantams, 10-8; St. John's won by a 21-20 gasp over Park St.; and 'twas 15-10 for St. James with Trinity Bantams taking the sour side. To-night's games: Trinity Juveniles vs. St. Andrew's at Queen Mary, umps from Knox and George; St. Paul vs. All Saints' Bantams at Queen Mary. The Mark St.-Trinity senior tussle is postponed.

• • • • • • •

We were looking over Knotty Lee"s baseball program this morning. The 30-page booklet isn't quite completed but will be a mighty nice diamond souvenior to be given away free at ball games here this summer. Has a lot of interesting dope in it. We came to one question that went: "Can two double-plays be made in one-inning and count?" It looked impossible to us and we knew that since Knotty had so many odd problems in it he wouldn't mind explaining one to us. So we asked him how it could be done, "Simple enough," he grinned, "both sides can make a double-play in their half!" It spoiled the day for us.

• • • • • • •

Russ Kitchen was telling us this a.m. that he didn't think he would be pitching for the Petes this summer. "I can't very well get away from work for the out-of-town games" he said "and I don't want to be just a home-town pitcher. I'd certainly like to be in there again but it doesn't appear probable now." The elongated right-hander who won twelve out of thirteen games in the Petes' schedule last summer—and was the best hurler in the C.O.B.L.—will be missed a lot by the locals, if he doesn't come out. We hope he changes his mind, or if he doesn't, Russ ought to at least get on with an E.P.L. team and keep the old flipper in shape for the summer.

• • • • • • •

Grab-bag: The Petes hope to have Riverdale Grads here shortly for an exhibition game . . . . And the local senior executive has declared itself in favor of a quadruple schedule in the C.O.B.L. . . . . Cogs of the E.P.L. will practise Wednesday and Friday at six in the Exhibition Grounds, with all players welcome . . . . And Terrier Juveniles workout at 5.30 tomorrow in the Oval, with any player under eighteen invited . . . . School Softball Loop tussles tomorrow are: King Edward at Queen Alex, King George at Central, and Prince of Wales at Queen Mary . . . . Lot of local softball teams will blossom out shortly in nifty new uniforms.

DAVIS CUP TEAM PICKED IN U.S.A.

Shields, Lott, Van Ryan and Stofen Will Meet Canadian Team.

NEW YORK, May 15. (AP). — Frank Xavier Shields, George Martin Lott, Jr., and John Van Ryan, all veterans of the international tennis wars, and Big Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles, making his debut as a cup player, yesterday were named by the United States as the team to meet Canada in the first round of North American zone Davis Cup competition.

The matches will be played on the grass courts of the Wilmington, Del., Country Club May 24, 25 and 26. The winner will meet Mexico, only other team in the zone, at Baltimore May 30, 31 and June 2 for the right to play in the interzone final at Wimbledon.

Sidney B. Wood, Jr., of New York and Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., other members of the squad asked to report for training under the direction of Captain R. Norris Williams at the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, were not considered for the first round of play. Wood has had no tournament competition this Spring and Allison is nursing a sprained ankle, injured in practice at Washington.

NEW MARK SET CRICKET PITCH

Record for Three Wicket Partnership Established at Lord's To-day.

PONSFORD AND McCABE.

LONDON, May 15.—(C.P. Cable). —A new world's record for a third wicket partnership was established at Lord's, the classic battleground of cricket, by two doughty Australian batsmen to-day. W. H. Ponsford and S. J. McCable in partnership scored 389 runs, beating the third wicket record of 375 established by Patsy Hendren and John Hearne of Middlesex 11 years ago.

McCabe and Ponsford were at the wickets for just over four hours yesterday and resumed again today, with scores of 163 and 199 respectively. McCabe had reached 192 and Ponsford was 223 when the former lost his wicket and the partnership dissolved.

Just before lunch Ponsford was still unbeaten and the Australians had reached 465 runs for loss of only four wickets in reply to the M.C.C.'s score of 362.

The third wicket partnership record set up by the Aussies compares with 555 runs, the highest score for a partnership ever recored. That was a first wicket aggregate by Herbert Sutcliffe and Percy Holmes of Yorkshire, made in 1932.

Murray St. Juveniles Win Close Count 6-5

The best Church Softball League game of the season saw Murray Street Juveniles nose out St. James 6-5 last night in eleven innings. It was featured by excellent twirling by Strickland and Ridley, and smart fielding by Hawks. The count was 2-all going into the eleventh, when the Saints shoved across three runs, McGoverin driving in two of them. With two out in Murray Street's behalf, the Baptists loaded the sacks on a hit, walk and error. Campbell then tripled and scored later on Robson's single. The rival shortstops, Leether and Foster, hit and fielded well. The teams:

PORTHCAWL, Wales, May 15 (AP)—Mrs. M. C. Jacobsen, New Zealand player, who entered the tournament "just for fun," while visiting England, yesterday eliminated the medallist, Molly Gourlay, one up, in the first round of match pay for the British women's golf championship.

Olive Kay, Australian champion, also was the victim of an upset, losing to Mrs. A. Holm, 6 and 5. Among other winners were Diana Fishwick, 1930 title-holder; Wanda Morgan, runner-up in 1931, and Grace Amory, of New York, only American entered in the tournament. The latter defeated Janet Jackson, 6 and 5. Miss Jackson is a six-times winner of the Irish national title. Miss Amory won the first five holes and reached the turn in 39, four strokes above par.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterborough's Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Joyce A. Hills,
155 River Road, Peterborough.

Your writing denotes that you are a very careful person. You are keen and observing, but you are not always sure of yourself. Often you feel an inner urge to do something quite out of the ordinary, something you have long wanted to do but have neglected because of your delicate feeling of bashful consciousness. Do not be afraid. You have the power within you to accomplish many worthwhile things. You should make an endeavour to be out in the fresh air and sunshine as much as possible. Take long, deep breaths; tell yourself that you have a goal ahead which you are very determined to reach, then use the old-time adage: "I can, if I will and I will, if I can." You are very neat personally and like to appear smart, but not in the least over-dressed. You are possessor of an artistic tendency; you also have a leaning towards journalism. You seldom, if ever, leave a task unfinished but if you do it is because the task is really not worth while. The crossing of you 't' bars indicate that under pressure you grit your teeth and force yourself to accomplish something against your will. Your lucky number is ten. Your birthsign is Scorpio the Scorpion. You are ruled by Mars. January and July are the most fortunate months. Tuesday the best day.

Florence L. Hetherington,
33 Jackson Ave., Peterborough.

Your handwriting tells of a loving, honest nature. You are essentially a hard and diligent worker. Perhaps rather too prone to drive yourself, not so much by the amount of work which you accomplish, as by the method you use, or the system in which you endeavor to complete your tasks. This mental strain has a tendency to keep your nerves on edge and make you forget that others are often tired as you are. However, you are deserving of credit for your ambitions are well meant. You are not in the habit of keeping secrets, because your conscience is clear and there is nothing to hide, so when a confidence is placed in your care, you soon forget it, and before you realize what you are doing, the secret is out. Sometimes the situation is humorous and sometimes it is not quite as pleasant as you might wish. You dearly love pretty things but use discretion in the purchase of useless articles. This is worthy of note for it means sacrifice on your part. Your number is eight. Your birthsign is Virgo the Virgin. You are ruled by Mercury. Wednesday is your lucky day. February and November your best months.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, May 16

Many propitious auguries may be based on this day's planetary configurations, with assurance of a stabilising of the fortunes, an increase of substantial possessions and a general "cashing in" on past performances. This may be at the hands of employers, superiors, elderly persons or institutions, or as the result of industry, application and steadfastness to the pursuits in hand. Lands and tenancies may have definitely increased values and unexpected developments may also bring gratifying denouements. There may be an abrupt change of benefit.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of a definite stabilization of the fortunes, with an increase of real possessions, as well as returns for industry, diligence and fidelity to employers elders and those of standing. A change of benefit may suddenly materialise. Contracts should be renewed with confidence and promotion or preferment as well as intellectual advancement safely expected.

A cilnd born on this day should be talented original, industrious and practical, thus winning solid rewards for steadfastness and industry. A successful life is assured.

Young's Point

Among those from Young's Point who attended the Conservative convention in the Legion Hall, Peterborough, on Thursday were: Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wilson, Mr. Oscar Reed and Messrs. William Brooks and Adrian Brooks.

Mr. MacCauley, of Haultain, was in the village on Friday.

Mr. J. Hagerman, of Belleville, called on friends in the village on Wednesday.

Rev. E. C. Moore spent a couple of days in Rosedale, the guest of his brother-in-law, Rev. P. M. Lamb, of Toronto.

Miss Aileen Young, of Peterborough, spent a few days this week at the home of her father, Mr. F. M. Young.

Mr. Tom Millburn, of Bridgenorth, was a visitor to the village on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Simons, of Peterborough, were in the village on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bland, of Toronto, are now residing at their cottage on the shore of Lake Katchewanooka for the summer months.

The Lakeview Hotel, under the proprietorship of P. D. Stenner, has re-opened for business. The interior of the building has been completely re-decorated and partially renovated.

Both Selwyn and Young's Point cheese factories have begun operations. Prospects for the coming season are much more promising than of latter years.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Freeburn, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, is now making steady progress to recovery.

JANETVILLE.

Miss Ivy Ingram, a former well-known resident of Janetville, now living in Toronto, is receiving congratulations from a host of her friends upon winning the handsome prize of a beautiful cabinet of silver, valued at $200, as a result of being sixth in a recent newspaper contest held in Toronto.

Fall wheat and rye are a total loss in this locality. In the majority of cases the ground has been plowed or cultivated and re-sown to spring wheat or barley.

The meadows have failed in many instances, and substitute crops, including oats and sweet clover, for pasture have been resorted to.

It is expected that the crop of strawberries for 1934 will be exceptionally small as most farmers report the winter killing of their plants.

Strange to say, the few apricot trees found in this district apparently have survived the winter's frost.

MOTHER'S DAY AT MILLBROOK

Special Services Are Held in Grace Presbyterian and St. Andrew's United.

MOTHERS' CHOIR

MILLBROOK, May 15 (Examiner Correspondence)—Special Mother's Day services were held in Grace Presbyterian and St. Andrew's United Churches on Sunday, with large congregations in each case, and beautiful cut flowers and flowing plants within the altar.

In Grace Church the school met in the basement for marking the attendance, and receiving the offering, then went upstairs in a body where they met with the regular congregation for the worship service. Much regret was felt that the superintendent, J. H. McKnight, was absent through illness, the assistant, Harold Hubbeard, officiating in his place. A choir of over twenty of the mothers was a special feature, Mrs. J. R. Thompson, singing the solo, "Tell Mother I'll be there," and Miss Ruth Thorndyke at the organ.

The official program from Toronto was followed for the responsive readings and hymns, the theme of the day being under three divisions, a covenant keeping mother (Hannah), a reverent and praying mother, (the woman of Canaan), and a devoted and holy mother (Mary).

Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A. gave the address on "What our mothers expect of their children," pointing out that a return to old fashioned religion in Canadian homes would do more for the young people than any number of organisations. The speaker aso had a special message for the boys and girls urging them to love their mothers while they have them, "for you will never find sympathy and true love like hers again." "Your mother expects love and respect, and should have it now before she is called by death."

St. Andrew's United

The special program, "Living Life Joyously," was followed in the morning when the school met with the regular congregation at 10.30 a.m., the superintendent, W. F. Fallis, leading in the responsive service, while prayers were in unison. A baptismal service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., Mr. and Mrs. R. McDonald presenting their two children, George Alfred and Ruby Carol, for this sacrament, as did also Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Richards, four of whose children received their rite—Ruth Winnifred, Albert Charles, Richard Vincent Edward and Ronald Earl.

Mrs. F. J. Smith presented lovely Easter lilies to the two oldest mothers present, Mrs. George Brown and Mrs. John Hatherly, in memory of her aunt, Miss M. Collins, who filled a mother's place in her life; the Sunday School executive, through the associate superintendent, J. H. Might, presented a hydrangea full of bloom to Mr. Fallis for his mother, Mrs. John Fallis, who is advanced in years, also a box of chocolates; and the Seth Parker Club gave lovely lillies to Mrs. Jones (absent through illness), Mrs. H. W. Johnston, and sent the plant to Mrs. L. Moore, who is ill.

Phyllis Kidd told the story, "Jesus, the Man of Grat Joy," and the pageant, "The Meaning of Joy," was given by Teddy Stinson, Betty Thornton, Teddy McDowell and Jean Fisher. The special offering was for the work of the Religious Education Council, and the pastor gave an address "A Home for Mother," using a blackboard for illustration. The qualities stressed were peace, piety, purity, truth, love, hospitality, good music and Christ's abiding presence.

The report showed 23 teachers and officers present, 276 scholars, and offering $12.47. The closing benediction was in unison.

In the evening Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A., of Grace Presbyterian Church, preached the sermon, there being no service in his own church, and the young people formed the choir. The minister announced the addition of George Patterson, of Carmel, to the Session by decision at the congregational meeting on Friday evening. At this meeting a call was extended to Rev. Arthur L. Siscoe, of Cardinal, to become pastor of the Millbrook circuit provided an exchange is made with Rev. Mr. Jones going to Cardinal.

TRENT RIVER.

The Young People's League met Friday night at the United Church, with Mr. David Walker in charge. Miss Margaret Brown supplied at the piano. Mr. R. N. Umphrey gave the topic, a talk on David Livingston.

Mr. Jerry Haines, of Havelock, a former resident of Trent River, is in the vicinity of Norwood road grafting fruit trees.

GET A STRANGLE HOLD ON WORRY

A well-known doctor has suggested the necessity
Of getting a strangle hold on worry.
If you don't get worry, worry will get you.
Worry robs the system of the vital nerve force.
You become down-hearted and discouraged.
Digestion fails and you cannot rest or sleep.
You lose courage and initiative.
The future is full of cloud and discouragement.
But you can conquer worry
Along with other threatening symptoms
Of serious nervous troubles,
By using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
Gradually and naturally the enriched blood
Brings back health and vigor to the nerves
And makes you feel fine.
The silver lining of the clouds appears
And you conquer worry.

Soccer Notes

Lindsay club has notified the executive that their new colors will be red sweaters, white sleeves and neck band. They have organized every department, and their finances are in good shape. The new equipment was a gift from a firm in Lindsay. George Munt is the new secretary and he was unfit to play last Saturday, owing to a foot injury.

Caledonian players will hold a special training practice, on Wednesday night, at Exhibition Grounds, running, skipping and general routine. All signed players attend.

To-night, in Moose Hall, Canada Packers are holding their annual dance on behalf of the club funds so that they can carry on during the season.

Deloro has notified the secretary that Jack Hart, Senior, is the official manager of the Deloro Football club, and he requests that the next meeting be held on Tuesday, May 22. The general meeting has been scheduled for Monday, May 21, when the question of Deloro vs. Lindsay games will be settled—to play the games in Peterborough. Perhaps, the president may change the date to accommodate the Smelters.

Len. Lawrence, who occupied the position of custodian for Lindsay at the early part of the season refused to sign for them this year and he stated that he was going to give it a rest, at present. Goalkeepers are very few.

George Brooks, William Brown, Tom Cousins, and James Stewart of Deloro were visitors to the game last Saturday. They intimated that they had been practicing but had not organized which they stated would be accomplished this week.

All Canadian General and Canada Packers are requested to be at King Edward Park on Wednesday night for a preliminary training, so as to be fit for the opening games on Saturday. Players take note.

Wealthy California Oil Executive Is Given Freedom

Wolf, Gettle's friend, who was abducted at the same time and later found tied up. FIND CROSSES ON RIVER BANK

Priest Will Investigate Relics —Lying Near Skeletons.

OF EARLY TYPE.

TORONTO, May 15 (CP)—When Father T. J. Lally goes back to Midland next week after a visit to Toronto, one of his first acts will be examination of two silver crosses found with other relics and the remains of two skeletons on the banks of the Wye River.

Father Lally has charge of the Martyrs' Shrine at Midland, erected in memory of the early Jesuit Fathers, who were killed when the Iroquois destroyed Fort Ste. Marie nearly 300 years ago.

Jesuit authorities here were somewhat puzzled over the form of crosses found. Each has two horizontal bars, instead of the single crosspiece of the simple crucifix.

Father W. Doyle, rector of the Jesuit Seminary of Philosophy, remarked this was the "Archbishop's Cross," and could not accunt for use of crosses of this type in the early days of the missionaries in Canada.

Father Lally heard of the discovery after coming to Toronto, and has not yet seen the relics.

Douglas Credit Band Sport Green Shirts

LONDON, May 15 (A.P.).—A new organization sporting the newest color note in political shirts—green—is getting plenty of notice elsewhere, but apparently none from the Government.

The "greenshirts" are among the supporters of Clifford H. Douglas, exponent of a 'social credit' scheme for setting the world aright.

Six of the noisily-clad members marched unannounced to No. 10 Downing Street yesterday to ask Prime Minister Ramsay Macdonald to apply Douglas's ideas in Great Britain. A doorman accepted the petition, but the group was not permitted to enter.

Douglas advocates government control of credit for use in adjustment of the present distribution of wealth and putting the country on a "scientifically sound" economic basis.

PICKEREL SEASON OPENS WEDNESDAY

Toronto Anglers Are Preparing to Invade the District.

TORONTO, May 15.—(CP)—Toronto anglers were looking over their tackle today, preparatory to the opening of the pickerel season in the Peterborough-Trenton districts tomorrow, curious as to the effect of a federal amendment allowing fishing from anchored boats in four counties closed to boats for several years. Only natural bait may be used from the boats.

Previously fishing for pickerel except from the shore has not been allowed in Victoria, Peterborough, Northumberland and Durham counties, the Trent River, Lake Scugog and Crow Lake, Crow River, and Beaver Brook, Hastings County, in order to protect bass and muskinonge, the season for which does not open until July 1.

The law, in the first place, was designed to prevent anglers in boats from catching bass and muskies before July 1 in the guise of fishing for pickerel. The prohibition of artificial lures is included in the present amendment as protection for the fish whose taking is illegal until July 1.

DUST STORMS ARE GODSEND

If One-third of Crop Destroyed Will Relieve Wheat Surplus.

OTHER FACTORS NEEDED.

TORONTO, May 15 (C.P.)—If Canadian and United States wheat crops are reduced by one-third by the recent dust storms, it will be a "Godsend," said Hon. Carl Vrooman, former assistant secretary of agriculture in the Wilson cabinet of the United States in an interview yesterday.

He qualified his statement, however, by declaring the reduction must be evenly divided amongst all the wheat farmers of the United States and Canada. If some farmers are wiped out while other escaped with very little lost it would be a "calamity," he said, and if some farmers were ruined the dust storms would not be a "Godsend" unless the government looked after the farmers who suffered.

"But from the point of view of world wheat production the storms are fortunate," he said. "There is no danger of famine as there are wheat surpluses in almost every country of the world."

Mr. Vrooman is a member of the international team of the Oxford Group. He declared President Roosevelt had saved the United States from complete collapse. "But the breakdown was a spiritual one before it was an economic one and the only real cure for it is a spiritual cure. Mr. Roosevelt has provided a breathing space."

MOST other car prices are considerably advanced today over last year. But Studebaker prices are $265 to $755 lower than last year.

Here are cars with stamina that stems straight from years of triumphs in stock car and speedway racing. Cars with beautifully streamlined bodies of steel reinforced by steel. Cars that ride more restfully than any others due to Quadripoise Suspension which scientifically cradles the action of all four wheels.

Drive the others and price the others—and see for yourself how these 1934 Studebakers stand out in both comparisons. See how Studebaker excels in handling ease—and in road stability—how the solidity of Studebaker construction impresses you. Whatever your plans or price ideas, come in for a trial drive today.

INVITATIONS SENT OUT.

CAVAN, May 15. — (Examiner Correspondence). — On Thursday afternoon a very interesting meeting of the Cavan Women's Institute was held at Miss Frances Hunter's home. It was the annual meeting and twenty-two members responded to the roll by paying their fees. Last year there were sixty-one members, but owing to the busy season, many were unable to be present.

Plans were made for the summer meeting to be held on Wednesday afternoon, May 15, at 2.30, in Cavan Community Hall, at which Mount Pleasant and Bethany institutes will be present. The speaker will be Miss Ethel Robson from the department, Toronto.

Mrs. George Clarke, Millbrook, extended an invitation for the Institute to meet at her home for their June meeting. The invitation was accepted.

At the election of officers the president, Mrs. A. B. Kennedy, was re-elected, as was the secretary, Mrs. R. S. Staples. Mrs. J. H. Snider will be the treasurer for the ensuing year. The remaining officers will be appointed at a later date.

The group in charge served lunch, and a social half-hour was enjoyed around the tea tables.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

WHEN TORONTO WENT "BAD"

On this date, in 1897 the citizens of Toronto went to the polls and by 479 majority voted in favor of Sunday street cars, thereby, in the opinion of many "guid" folk, abandoning its reputation as a saintly city and entering the thin wedge of the "continental Sunday." Nowadays it is hard to believe the bitterness than was engendered over the issue. Families were divided; husbands and wives estranged; business partners quarrelled over the mere idea that the common people should be permitted to ride in the street cars on the Sabbath. It took nearly ten years before the question was decided. The clergy, outside of the Roman Catholic church and the "high" wing of the Church of England, were unitedly opposed and had so much influence that all the newspapers save one took the stand against the suggestion. The one exception was The World, but then that was a "ribald sheet" anyway to the ultra good. I knew of more than one case where grown men were ordered out of their parents' homes because they read The World! Men who habitually rode to church in their carriages, thereby compelling their servants to work, took the platform and predicted "a carnival of vice" if the cars were operated on the Sabbath. The World had a powerful aid in its advocacy in Professor William Clark, of Trinity College, who found the battle of freedom with as much energy, in a different manner, as "Billy" McLean and his editors and reporters of The World.

The campaign was an illustration of the bribery which has so sadly marked the history of Toronto in the past (thank goodness much of it has disappeared, though it rears its head again now and then!). In addition to the combined onslaught of the evangelical churches the supporters of Sunday cars had to overcome the argument, used among a certain section, that Sunday cars would further enrich the shareholders of the Toronto street railway and they were Papists.

When the victory for common sense was won in 1897 the "religious and moral" element of the community charged bribery and corruption and tried to have the vote cancelled. But they failed, and within a year many of them used the cars themselves to go to church and wondered how they got along without them. The older section, however, lamented the fall from grace and considered the city damned. One wonders what they would say if they could return and see Toronto on a Sunday in 1934 with the majority of people travelling around in motor cars or spending Sunday on bathing beaches or golf links. They would be shocked indeed!

SICK NERVES NEED The "Vital 3"

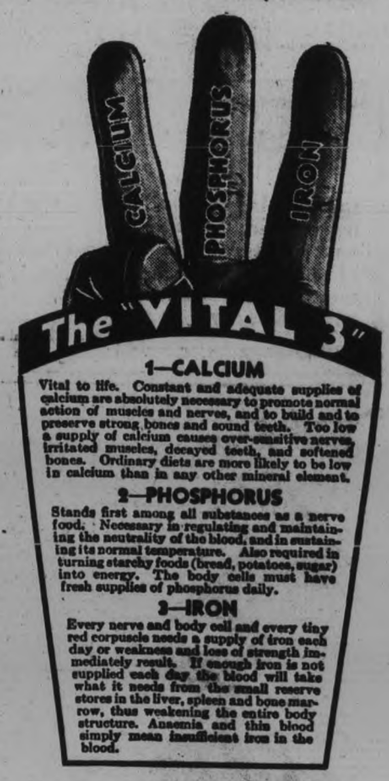
To Restore Nerve Force, Strength and Vitality

SICK, jumpy, irritable nerves are generally undernourished nerves—nerves whose stores of the "Vital 3" (calcium, phosphorus and iron) have become depleted. As each of your millions of nerve cells requires a certain amount of these three minerals in order to function properly, your sick nerves can't be made well until their supplies of the "Vital 3" are restored to normal.

Fellows' Syrup brings to you the "Vital 3" (calcium, phosphorus and iron) in a form that makes them easily used by the system and readily absorbed by the nerve cells. It took months to lessen gradually the amount of phosphorus in your nerve cells. It may need weeks to restock it fully, but you can feel an improvement in your nerve force in a few days after taking this nerve-food and restorative.

For over 60 years, physicians in 52 countries have prescribed Fellows' Syrup for nervous, run-down patients. Recent scientific investigations confirm the need for the "Vital 3" in the treatment of undernourished nerves. The Fellows' formula is "time-tested" and scientifically correct.

Your druggist has it in two sizes. Make sure the name FELLOWS is on the label. Then you'll be certain of obtaining the "Vital 3" and securing genuine results.



1—CALCIUM

Vital to life. Constant and adequate supplies of calcium are absolutely necessary to promote normal action of muscles and nerves, and to build and to preserve strong bones and sound teeth. Too low a supply of calcium causes over-sensitive nerves, irritated muscles, decayed teeth, and softened bones. Ordinary diets are more likely to be low in calcium than in any other mineral element.

2—PHOSPHORUS

Stands first among all substances as a nerve food. Necessary in regulating and maintaining the neutrality of the blood, and in sustaining its normal temperature. Also required in turning starchy foods (bread, potatoes, sugar) into energy. The body cells must have fresh supplies of phosphorus daily.

3—IRON

Every nerve and body cell and every tiny red corpuscle needs a supply of iron each day or weakness and loss of strength immediately results. If enough iron is not supplied each day the blood will take what it needs from the small reserve stores in the liver, spleen and bone marrow, thus weakening the entire body structure. Anaemia and this blood simply mean insufficient iron in the blood.

Hamilton Youth Found Shot in Car

BODY IS WARM ON DISCOVERY, PISTOL NEARBY

Police Are Puzzled at Lack of Fingerprints on Handle of Gun.

MONEY MISSING.

Victim Absent Since Early Evening, Promised Return Few Minutes.

HAMILTON, Ont., May 16 (C.P.). — Police are investigating the death of Edward Martin, 20, whose still-warm body was found to-day in an automobile on Park Street South. He had been shot with a .45 calibre revolver, and the gun was in the car near the body.

The body was found by James O'Neal, janitor in a nearby apartment bulding, who noticed the youth sitting in the car apparently asleep and went over to waken him. As he reached the door of the automobile, he saw deep bullet wound in Martin's temple. Police were summoned and medical aid secured, but the youth was already dead.

The neighborhood consists mainly of office and commercial buildings, and few persons were in the district when the shot was fired. No person reported hearing the detonation.

Mystery Grows.

Further inquiries by police tended to render the affair more complex instead of simplifying it. Martin had left his home last evening, saying he would be back in a few minutes to take his wife to see a doctor. He did not return. Early this morning, the family received a telephone call that the tragedy had occurred.

Martin always carried a fairly large sum of money but none of any account was found in his possession.

Police removed the revolver carefully and examined the handle for fingerprints. There were none, not even of the deceased man. Whether they believed the handle had been wiped after the shooting, police would not disclose

TORONTO WOMAN DRINKS POISON

Dies of Deadly Fluid After Hurling Acid in Landlady's Face.

ORDERED TO LEAVE.

TORONTO, May 16.—(CP)—Miss Dorothy Dryland died here today from acid poisoning while Mrs. Thomas Kraft, her landlady, is in hospital badly burned about the face by the same acid preparation which police charged was thrown on her by Miss Dryland.

Police declared Miss Dryland, who had been rooming at the Kraft home for the past two years, had an altercation with Mrs. Kraft which resulted in the landlady telling her roomer she would have to leave. This morning, they said, Miss Dryland went to Mrs. Kraft's room and threw part of a bottle of the poison on her face. She then returned to her own room and drank a quantity of the deadly fluid herself.

Mrs. Kraft, suffering terribly from the burns managed to telephone police who were forced to break in the door. Police took Miss Dryland, already unconscious, to the hospital, while another ambulance took Mrs Kraft.

Brooklyn Judge Rules U.S. Navy Won War To End Lively 14-Year Family Squabble

BROOKLYN, May 16.—(CP)—Belief of a great many citizens of the United States that the United States won the war remains unshaken. Latest to rule on the question is Magistrate Casey who settled a 14-year argument between Clifford Brooker and his wife, Lillian, by ruling the U. S. navy won the war.

Brooker served in Company G, 106th infantry, in the war and his wife was a yeomanette attached to the Brooklyn navy yard.

Their long quarrel reached a climax when Brooker presented the army's side of the question so forcibly that his wife had him arrested for disorderly conduct.

"If your husband tells you that the navy won the war, will you be satisfied?" Magistrate Casey asked Mrs. Brooker.

She said she would.

Whereupon the court ruled:

"The judicial determination, so far as the happiness of the Brookers is concerned, is that the navy won the war. Is that right, Brooker?"

Brooker nodded, and the judge suspended sentence.

PRESBYTERY OF UNITED CHURCH CONDEMNS SPREAD OF GAMBLING

Race Track Gambling and Service Club Lotteries Subject of Motion.

OPPOSE SALE OF BEER.

The spread of gambling through the race track and through the system of lotteries promoted by service club organizations was yesterday condemned in a resolution adopted at a meeting of Peterbroough Presbytery of the United Church in Canada.

Another resolution adopted by the conference declared the definite stand of its membership against the proposed increase of facilities for the sale of wine and beer. The resolution urged individual members of the Presbytery to withdraw their support to any political candidate who might be in favor of the proposed beer and wine measures.

The meeting of the Presbytery was held at Norwood under chairmanship of the Rev. A. E. Moorhouse, pastor of St. James' Church with the Rev. W. R. Archer of Lakefield as secretary.

The resolutions were both brought in by the Social Service Department and were adopted unanimously.

The Religious Education Committee presented the Rev. Dr. Charles Bishop of Belleville, who spoke strongly on the church support of secondary schools. He urged that unless the church rallied to the support of the secondary schools, they would soon have to be taken over by the Government itself.

An important item on the agenda was the nomination of the Rev. Dr Richard Roberts of Toronto for Moderator of the United Church in Australia Is Adding Second New Cruiser

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 16 (CP Cable via Reuters).—In addition to having a new cruiser of the Leander type, of 7,000 tons with 6-inch guns—constructed, the Australian Commonwealth is replacing the old light cruiser Brisbane with a British cruiser now under construction.

Prime Minister Joseph Lyons announced this to-day.

The Brisbane was built at Sydney in 1916, a 5,000-ton vessel with 6-inch guns. She will be replaced by the Phaeton, which is to be renamed the Sydney, a much larger vessel.

The Prime Minister pointed out replacement was being made in pursuance of the right of the Empire to maintain naval tonnage under the London Naval Treaty. For treaty purposes Australian vessels, as those of other Dominions, are ranked in the British navy.

KITCHENER, Ont., May 16 (CP)—Philip Shickler of Buffalo will return to his home, some of these days with a wholesome respect for Canadian firemen.

He was walking past the Frederick Street Fire Station this morning when his pipe suddenly set fire to his pocket. Like a comet, he dashed up the driveway and into the hall, where firemen grabbed him and hoisted him into a sink.

CANDIDATURE OF REV SUTHERLAND IS RATIFIED

Standard-Bearer of Local C. C.F. Clubs in the Provincial Election.

PLEBISCITE ON BEER.

Peterborough's C.C.F. Club ratified the candidature of Rev. John Sutherland as their standard-bearer in the provincial elections last night.

The action of the Ontario Council of the C.C.F. in endorsing Rev. Mr. Sutherland has been gratifying to the local members who have had the benefit of his enthusiasm almost from the inception of the movement in this city.

A communication from the Central Council last night affirmed the C.C.F. position in regard to the beer and wine question which is before the electors in the present campaign. The C.C.F. platform is definitely in favor of a plebiscite, it was stated. Their contention is that the liquor question should be taken out of politics, and that under the present conditions the changes proposed by the bill passed at the last session of the Legislature should not be put into force until the people have had an opportunity of expressing their wishes by a plebiscite.

No definite announcement of the proposed meeting of the C.C.F., which will be addressed by William Irvine, M.P., and E. J. Garland, M.P., can be made by the local club until they have been informed of a date that will be open to them.

Pickerel Season Opens With Fishermen Braving The Cold Weather; Catches Large

The icy chill of to-day's early dawn failed to deter a staunch band of Peterborough fishermen from getting their first start at their favorite sport.

Pickerel fishing opened to-day and this small group of Izaak Waltons, warmly sweatered and coated, were on hand with rod and reel to try their luck. And from all reports their luck was good. In fact it is indicated that results were the best of any opening day.

"Fishermen around here are in for a great season," one ardent wielder of the rod and reel informed The Examiner. "The pickerel are in the river in plenty. I proved that this morning. Although it was cold sport the results were well worth the effort. In my first four casts I landed three dandies."

This evening will see a lot more fishermen wending their way to the river to get in an early try at the pickerel.

KIDNAPPERS GET LIFE SENTENCES IN GETTLE CASE

Trio Plead Guilty Rather Than Face Trial With Death Demanded.

SPEEDY JUSTICE.

Caused No Bodily Harm—Eligible for Parole After Three Years.

LOS ANGELES, May 16 (AP) — Three kidnappers of the wealthy William Gettle will begin serving life sentences for that crime before nightfall.

Hardly more than 24 hours after Gettle's delivery from his kidnap prison, and less than a week after he was snatched from a party at his Beverly Hills home, the three kidnappers—Ray Williams, Jimmy Kirk and Larry Kerrigan—were rushed to court last night, permitted to plead guilty and quickly sentenced to life imprisonment.

A County Grand Jury indicted the trio on kidnapping for ransom and robbery charges at 7.50 p.m., after hearing Gettle's story.

At 8 o'clock the men were taken before Superior Judge Charles W. Fricke for arraignment.

Fifteen minutes later they had pleaded guilty; Gettle had testified briefly, and the three kidnappers had been sentenced to life terms in San Quentin prison.

Because Gettle testifie dthe three had not inflicted grievous bodily harm, they will be eligible for parole after serving three and one-half years.

Given Choice

District Attorney Burton Fitts had given the members of the gang the alternative of pleading guilty or standing trial and facing the possibility of the death sentence.

In view of Gettle's testimony that he suffered no bodily harm, court attaches pointed out the District Attorney would have had no power to demand the death penalty. However, his threat apparently had the desired result, as the men pleaded guilty with little hesitation.

With the three men in the case ready for San Quentin, authorities were undecided what to do with two women who were arrested when found in company of Kirk.

The women, Lauretta Woody, 23, alias Ann Williams, and Mona A. Gillighan, 21, alias Joan Ward, are being held for suspicion of kidnapping.

CLERGY BOARD CANCELS INVESTMENT IN VICKERS

LONDON, May 16.—(C. P. Cable). —In consequence of an outcry from clergymen all over the country, the clergy pension board has decided to withdraw its $50,000 investment from the armament firm of Vickers Limited.

The complaints were sharpened by the report of the League of Nations Commission that Paraguay and Bolivia could not continue their war in the Gran Chaco if other nations, including members of the league, did not supply them with munitions. An official return yesterday showed Britain had exported 5,000,000 rifle cartridges to Paraguay and 100 machine guns to Bolivia.

The investment in Vickers was made 40 years ago.

LONDON, May 16 (C.P. Cable).—With many laughs and without a division, the House of Commons this afternoon declined to permit introduction of a private bill to prohibit the wearing of political uniforms for political purposes.

The bill was aimed at Fascist and Communist alike. As it introduced under the 10-minute limit rule there were only two speeches allowed—that on Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson, the bill's sponsor, and Lord Winterton, who opposed it.

But obviously the prevailing opinion in the House was that the bill,

In addition to several Buffalo theatres, he operated moving picture houses in Toronto, Niagara Falls and Tonawanda, N.Y.

His widow and one daughter, survive.

Entry Of Women Into Councils Of Church Is Opposed By The Synod Of Toronto

TORONTO, May 16 (C.P.).—Toronto Synod of the Church of England in Canada went on record to-day as opposing the entry of women into the Synod and into the councils of the Church. In 1932, the General Synod of all Canada passed a resolution urging that women be given entry. The executive committee of Toronto to-day recommended that Synod take no action on the matter and the executive committee's request was upheld.

"There can be no doubt that the time will come when women will have a place on the councils," said Bishop Derwyn Owen, "but I think it extremely inadvisable to press the matter now."

The financial position of the Mission Board was described, in the report, as serious.

"It might be disastrous," suggested the report, "not to take account of our present financial difficulties.

"Many of our churches are seriously handicapped by the incubus of debts incurred in procuring their building and equipment. The burden had generally been borne by the congregations — this policy has resulted in a deplorable and dangerous condition in which many of our churches now find themselves." The serious falling away of allotment in too many churches, and the many failures to pay the stipends of the clergy, even on a reduced scale, indicate disability, and, it was feared, a listlessness in many congregations regarding their financial obligation, the report said.

"If the Blessed Mother were to come in here, would we refuse a vote to her because she was a woman?" asked Rev. J. R. S. Boyd of Toronto as he upheld the right of women to enter the councils of the church.

"The Christian Church has raised womanhood to a higher position than she ever had before, yet the Christian Church, and the Christian Church alone, refused to acknowledge her equality—which I believe, is her right."

WARDEN BLAMES BLAZE ON GANG IN CHANGE ROOM

Convicts Locked in Cells Until Official Investigation is Made.

ALL UNDER CONTROL.

Flames Discovered in Four Places at Same Time—4 Hours' Battle.

KINGSTON, Ont. May 16. —(C P)—Indirect indication convicts caused the four-hour fire which destroyed the change room of Kingston penitentiary with $25,000 to $50,000 damage, was given today by Warden W. B. Megloughlin in discussing the situation at the big prison. "As soon as the inspector has made an investigation," he said with reference to an inspector ffom the Department of Justice at Ottawa, "those men who have been working in the change room will come out and clean up the debris they caused."

"Things are all right now," said Col. W. B. Megloughlin, warden, this afternoon, "except that the men from the change room are staying in their cells. I am expecting an inspector from the Department of Justice this afternoon and until then nothing is being done in the change room.

"As soon as the inspector has made an investigation, those men who have been working in the change room will come out and clean up the debris they caused. All the other men in the various shops are at work, the blacksmith, carpenter, tin and paint, mail bags and other shops are all running. The lighting has been interferred with by the fire, but today everything is in shape again."

Everything In Hand

Everything was normal at the penitentiary now, he said, and conditions were well in hand. Other provisions are being made by the authorities in the matter of providing laundry, barber ship facilities and clothing for the convicts.

The warden admitted convicts had stolen a confidential report of Brig.-Gen. D. M. Ormond, inspector of penitentiaries, some time ago but declared it had nothing to do with the present difficulties.

All convicts in the penitentiary were expected to be back at work this afternoon Warden W. B. Megloughlin said. Outside gangs were at work as usual, but the men ordinarily employed in shops of the industrial section were kept in their cells until everything was in readiness for resumption of work.

Firemen were at the prison early today and convicts were kept inside their cells while the fire equipment was gathered.

Fire Breaks Out

About six o'clock last night as the convicts were being marched to their cells in the south dome the section where the riots of October, 1932, occurred, the fire broke out A fire was discovered in the carpenter shop on the top floor of the shop block but it was quickly extinguished.

Then guards found flames shooting from three different places in the change room, one near a pile of rubber boots, another in a pile of pyjamas and the third nearby The flames crept along the woodwork and dense clouds of smoke drove guards back. Kingston fire department was called and the fight to check the flames started.

Thousands of Kingston residents flocked to the scene as rolling smoke clouds settled over the building. Rumors that ran through the city may 6 that inmates had threatened to set fire to the penitentiary and

Just Sleep

'LAHINCH, Irish Free State, May 16.—(AP).—Capt. George Pond and Lieut. Cesare Sabelli turned down the best Irish whisky in town last night.

The hotel proprietor offered the New York to Rome fliers "a drop" before they went to bed after their landing near here.

"All we want," said Pond, "is sleep.'

Sabelli agreed.

(By Michael Rooney, Associated Press Foreign Staff)

LAHINCH, Irish Free State, May 16 (AP)—Prospects of Captain George Pond and Lieut. Cesare Sabelli continuing their flight to Rome in the near future were dimmed today when it developed that some time would be required to repair the engine of their big monoplane.

While temporary repairs were being made on the craft in which the New York fliers landed near here last night, fears were expressed it may be necessary to remove the plane to the Baldonnel army airdrome at Dublin for satisfactory completion.

An engineer was summoned from London to examine the plane in which the fliers failed in an attempt to make the first non-stop New York to Rome hop.

Shortly before their landing safe from a narrow escape from death in the wild Atlantic, the main connection between the gasoline tank and the motor of their plane broke. The undercarriage was damaged in landing.

Repairs Speeded

Mechanics were rushed from the Baldonnel army airdrome at Dublin to-day to aid in repairing the plane in which the fliers had hoped to

ENGINE MISHAP DELAYS 'LOCAL'

C.P.R. Near Burketon Blocked by Derailment of Work Train Engine.

FAST RIDE IN VAN.

Derailment of the engine of a work train near Burketon early yesterday evening caused a delay of thirty minutes in the arrival of passengers of the "local" from Toronto.

The engine blocked the main line of the C.P.R., but a way freight on the east side of the accident was available, and the local's passengers were transferred to its van for a quick, light ride to Peterborough. The main line was cleared after ten o'clock, and the passenger train arrived in Peterborough at 11 o'clock, followed by the midnight train which came through on time. It was reported that the mishap was of no other consequence. The work train has been engaged for three weeks in the Burketon section of the C.P.R. laying new steel.

RUMOR GERMANY WOULD RE-ENTER ARMS PARLEY

Italian Official's Statement Rouses New Hopes in Many Circles.

U. S. VIEW EASES.

France Balks at Concrete Proposals Until New Mandate Given.

GENEVA, May 16.—(AP)—Germany was reported today to be seeking ways and means of returning to the International Disarmament conference from which she withdrew last year.

It was understood that Baron Pompeo Aloisi Italy's delegate to the League of Nations and former ambassador to Turkey, had told Sir Anthony Eden British Lord Privy Seal, and other leaders in the League of Nations that Germany is showing a disposition to participate again in negotiations toward an agreement on the vital arms situation.

This indication immediately aroused new hopes in circles which previously had feared that the idea of disarmament was dead.

The attitude of the United States gave rise to additional hope since Norman H. Davis has been assigned by the Washington government to attend the conference scheduled for the latter part of the month.

Takes Optimistic View

Louis Barthou, French Foreign Minister, indicated that he was optimistic that something would be done towards disarmament pointing out the gravity of the situation which would ensue if no action is taken.

However, the French seemed determined to do nothing concrete until the council gives a new mandate with which to work out a conference on the limitation of armaments to replace the existing mandate for reductions upon which the present conference is based.

There were no indications as to whether the present turn of affairs in regard to Germany made it likely that a return to participation in affairs of the League of Nations, from which Germany withdrew at the same time she withdrew from the conference, was in prospect.

New City Park Is Taking Form On Site Of Old Calcutt Brewery In Ashburnham

A splendid new city park is taking form quickly now on the former site of the old Calcutt brewery in Ashburnham.

City workmen have been busy for weeks straightening up the grounds and it is probably this week that approximately 150 maple and elm trees will be planted in the park. The site of the new park was raised considerably during the winter by the dumping of ashes in its low section. Then top soil was placed over and rolled down. The park will be seeded with grass.

Similar preparatory treatment has been given the ground east of the softball diamond and north of James Stevenson ball park, and it will probably bloom forth into a shady green-swarded park before the summer is through.

A row of large stones have been placed along the driveway leading to the ball park to prevent motorists from parking cars on the newly-planted park, and the cooperation of motorists in this regard is requested by Alderman Walter Stooker, chairman of the Parks Committee.

4 MAJOR BILLS TO COME BEFORE HOUSE TO-DAY

Rhodes Budget is Adopted Without Vote After Amendment Defeated.

MANION, EULER CLASH.

Latter Denies Political Interference With C.N.R. in Liberal Regime.

OTTAWA, May 16 (CP)—Four major Government bills will come before the House of Commons today following the termination of the Budget debate yesterday. They are bills to provide for a public works program, to facilitate compromises between farmers and debtors, to amend the Farm Loan Act and to effect changes in the election laws.

The budget debate this year was unusually short and it came to an end with a lively tilt on the Canadian National Railways between Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, and Hon. W. D. Euler, former Minister of National Revenue.

Dr. Manion accused the former Liberal Government of extravagance and political interference with the railways, describing the system under Liberal rule as a "pork barrel rolled from the Atlantic to the Pacific and back again, a political machine, and a political club."

These allegations were hotly resented by Mr. Euler, who said there had been no political intereference with the road under Liberal rule.

This could not be said of the present, he went on, as out of 28 railway tie contracts existing when the Conservatives came into office 27 had been switched to Government supporters.

The budget was adopted without a recorded vote, after a Farmer-Labor amendment had been rejected by the combined voting power of Liberals and Conservatives. Earlier amendments had been thrown out by rulings of the Speaker; first a Farmer-Labor amendment, then a Liberal amendment, and then a second Liberal amendment.

Before the budget debate got under way yesterday Prime Minister R. B. Bennett announced the reduction in the sugar tax from two cents a pound to one would come into effect next Sunday instead of July 1, as previously planned.

The Senate yesterday continued its debate on the Leageu of Nations, and heard Hon. George Lynch-Staunton of Hamilton say the League should stick to its knitting and work for world peace instead of busying itself with a multitude of other activities. The debate is on Hon. A. D. McCrea's motion that Canada should withdraw from the league.

Pup or Dog?

DENVER, May 16. (CP).—A police judge, the city attorney and the dog catcher are at odds whether a pup is a dog. The judge, Alva H. Pickins, and the city attorney ruled a pup is a pup until five months old and not subject to the city dog license ordinance.

The dog catcher, H. G. Lewis, retorted that a pup is a dog and that the minute one is born he should have a dog license tied on his neck.

The dog catcher said he will keep on catching dogs even though the judge throws all his cases out of court.

BELGIAN MINE BLAST TRAPS 43

Ten Bodies Recovered and Five Brought Up in Critical Conditoin.

MAY SEAL SHAFT.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, May 16.—(AP). Forty-three miners were feared to-day to have lost their lives in an explosion and fire which made an inferno of a coal mine at Paturages Au Fief last night.

Ten bodies had been recovered and five men were brought to the surface in a critical condition. Hope was abandoned for the remaining 33. It was believed the mine would have to be sealed to extinguish the flames which followed a terrific fire-damp blast and gave the miners little chance to escape.

Volunteers started rescue work in the face of horrible odds.

Of eight men found lying close together, five were alive. They were conveyed to the pit head terribly burned and suffering broken arms and legs.

Falls of coal were numerous while the rescuers feverishly toiled, risking their own lives.

Engineers were rushed to the scene from Brussels and from neighboring mines, but it appeared nothing could be done except seal the mine to extinguish the flames.

DRAMATIC CUP IS WON BY A.Y.P.A. OF MILLBROOK

First Time That Millbrook Branch Has Won Coveted Trophy.

FOUR ENTER CONTEST.

One Act Plays Presented by All in Most Capable Manner.

The Anglican Young People's Association of Millbrook were winners last evening of the silver cup which is presented to the branch of the A.Y.P.A. which produces the best one-act play in an annual dramatic contest open to all the district branches of the organization.

This is the first time that the Millbrook branch has secured the coveted trophy, and the decision appeared to be a very popular one, judging by the applause.

The judges were Miss Edith Murphy of the staff of the Collegiate Institute, Miss Cathleen McCarthy of The Examiner staff, and Adrian Macdonald of the staff of the Normal School.

The contest took place last night in St. Luke's parish hall, and four branches competed: St. John's and St. Luke's, from Peterborough, Christ Church, of Omemee, and St. Thomas' Church, of Millbrook.

All four branches presented one-act plays in the most capable manner, and the decision was close and difficult. As the seasons roll by, it is easy to discern the improvement which is made in these dramatic contests. Last evening, there was only one noticeable memory slip, the staging was excellent, with little bunching or crowding, the enunciation made every word easily understood, and the acting was natural, unaffected and entertaining. Every actor appeared to enter whole-heartedly into the spirit of the part portrayed.

Bird Curiosity

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD May 16.—Are starlings seeking after higher education or do they just want to know what is going on? Ernest Eagleson of Seymour Township would like to know, for at the present time he is unable to keep letters in his mail box, and not only that, but at least one parcel of news has been carried off by starlings to haunts unknown. For some time past the birds have been making nests in his rural letter box, which is one of the newer type, and at times small amounts of money left in it have gone astray. But this audacity has gone too far, for now the birds insist on clearing out the box after every mail, climaxing the affair this week, when they pitched two letter on the ground and pinched one.

TOBACCO PROBE NEARING CLOSE

Smaller Firms Allege Unfair Business Practices by Imperial Company.

SIGNS TORN DOWN.

OTTAWA, May 16 (C.P.).—Allegations of unfair business tactics, designed to harass their smaller rivals, have been made against the Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada. The House of Commons committee on price spreads and mass buying yesterday heard a story of the alleged intimidation practised by the large tobacco company on retail tobacconists and jobbers as told by representatives of four smaller companies.

To-day the committee continues its probe of the tobacco business in the hope of concluding it and turning to other matters before the end of the week.

Critics of the methods of the Imperial Company, heard yesterday, were representatives of the L. O. Grothe Company, Ltd., and Rock City Tobacco Company, Benson and Hedges, Canada, Ltd., and E. C. Fortier, Quebec, a distributor for Macdonald Tobacco Products. All agreed Imperial had used its influence with dealers to prevent the display and advertising of rival products and push their own to the front. It was also charged agents of Imperial tore down outdoor advertising signs of other companies and removed their window streamers from tobacco shops.

The witnesses were of the opinion the practice was so general it must have been carried on with the

ONLY 4 MEMBERS LIGHTSHIP CREW SURVIVE CRASH

Lucky We Had Preservers On Says Badly Injured Captain.

CLOSE CALLS ON NIGHT.

Two Steamers Barely Miss Craft—Following Radio Beam Too Closely.

NEW YORK, May 16. (AP). — Only four members of the Nantucket lightship's crew of 11 lived to tell to-day of the fog-bound crash that sent the little sentinel craft to the bottom of the sea.

The mighty prow of the White Star liner Olympic ripped through the steel lightship off the Massachusetts coast yesterday. The small vessel sank quickly.

The liner put out lifeboats and rescued seven of the lightship's crew, but three of them died shortly afterward in the ship's hospital. The four missing men were given up for dead.

The four survivors, too ill to talk much about the disaster, were brought to New York to-day aboard the Olympic. They were suffering from shock.

The survivors: Capt. George W. Braithwaite, Cambridge, Mass.; C. E. Moshar, first officer, New Bedford; L. U. Roberts, oiler, Boston, and J. S. Perry, radio operator, Provincetown, Mass.

Captain Badly Hurt

Captain Braithwaite suffered severe head injuries and was unconscious when rescued. His first request after gaining consciousness was for a cigarette.

"This is my first since the War" he said as he lighted it.

He was not told that seven members of his crew had perished.

"It's lucky" he said, "that we had our life preservers on."

The crash occurred at 10:06 a.m. (E.S.T. in the treacherous Nan-Tucket shoals one of the Atlantic's loneliest spots.

The Olympic, sister ship of the Titanic, was bound from Cherbourg and Southampton for New York.

Proceeding through a thick fog the Olympic was blowing her foghorn frequently. Then there came a faint blast from another horn. It was that of the lightship, straight ahead.

Swerves Too Late.

The Olympic swerved her course, but it was too late. The giant liner struck the Nantucket amidships.

Captain Braithwaite said the hours preceding the crash were anxious ones for his crew. Several steamers passed so close during the night that his men feared for their safety. All night long they had kept an anxious vigil.

"Two steamers certainly came close," he said, aoard the Olympic. "Too close for us. We were all on deck and I ordered everybody to put on life preservers. I stayed on duty all night, but when the fog lightened after daylight I went be-

WAR, FAR EAST HELD CERTAINTY

Bishop of Honan Sees Japan, China and Russia Involved.

POSSIBLY BRITAIN, U.S.

(By The Canadian Press)

Delegates to the sessions of three Anglican synods of Ontario to-day discussed problems of their church and fashioned their programmes for the coming year. The Toronto diocese continued discussions while the Synod of Huron met in London and the Niagara Diocese in Hamilton.

Right Rev. W. C. White, Bishop of Honan, last night told the Synod of Huron that war in the Far East was a certainty. He declared it would involve Japan, China, Russia and possibly Great Britain and the United States. Bishop White has spent 38 years in China, returning here only recently.

"In the east they no longer speak of the possibility of war," he said. "They only wonder when it will begin." He said China felt United States was her only friend and there was a feeling Britain might help Japan in the event of war. Japan and Russia were preparing for war and all was "in readiness for the spark."

Bishop Derwyn T. Owen of the Toronto Diocese denounced wheels of fortune, raffles, draws, dances and card parties as ways of raising church money. "Direct giving" he said, "is the ideal method." Closing churches in the summer time also drew the Bishop's criticism.

When the finance committee report presented a $40,237 budget for 1934, criticism that followed resulted in a $4,025 increase being made. Last years' budget was $46,966 and speakers objected to apportionments being cut this year.

make the first non-stop new York to Rome hop.

The aviators covered the distance from New York in 32 hours and 6 minutes. They brought their craft down at 8.30 p.m. local time (2.30 p.m. E.S.T.); they took off from Floyd Bennett Field, New York, at 6.24 a.m., E.S.T., Monday.

In continuing toward Rome, they planned to halt at Port Arnock Strand, from where Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian airman, who taught Pond blind flying, hopped on his flight to North America.

The pair appeared in good spirits and health after a sound sleep in a Lahinch hotel. Lahinch is two miles from the small field, about an acre in size, where the landing was made near the tiny village of Moy.

Lieutenant Sabelli told of the horrors of the ocean crossing.

Trouble 400 Miles Out.

"After about 23 hours of blind flying," he said, "trouble developed with the engine. We lowered the plane and at first thought of attempting to alight in the sea. Fortunately, the trouble was cleared up." This was about 400 miles from Ireland.

Captain Pond frankly said it was the "worst experience" he ever had.

"We saw absolutely nothing from the time we left Newfoundland until we reached Ireland. We encountered much fog and a very strong, veering wind."

The aviators said they had a brief glimpse of Harbor Grace, Nfld., from which they received a signal, and also glimpsed one solitary ship. Otherwise, they saw nothing except fog and rain the whole trip. Their plane was fueled for 40 hours' flying when they left. They had 150 gallons left today—"enough," Pond said, "to get us to Rome."

DR. ECKHART, the noted Vienna clinic head, states:

"Harsh Laxatives had weakened her... dangerously"

Do you suffer from symptoms shown above? Then this "case history," from Dr. Eckhart's records, can help YOU!

"M. J., A YOUNG WOMAN OF 26," says Dr. Eckhart, "told me she had been subject for years to headaches, indigestion, biliousness.

"She avoided social activity. Was under her normal weight. Had little strength — was growing weaker. The use of cathartics had weakened her—dangerously.

"My examination showed that her stomach juices were flowing too slowly (cause of coated tongue and indigestion) . . . that there was no healthy muscular reaction in her intestines (cause of constipation) . . . and that her system was filled with poisons (the chief cause of headaches).

"I instructed her to eat yeast. A month of it gave remarkable results. Her headaches, indigestion and constipation went away. The young woman seemed completely restored to health."

Thus her three chief troubles were corrected by one treatment! That is because yeast attacks the 3 different causes of trouble the noted Dr. Eckhart describes!

Fleischmann's Yeast (1) stimulates the flow of gastric juice in your stomach, and so aids digestion; (2) strengthens intestinal muscles which move waste through your body; (3) softens waste so it moves more easily.

CANADA FIRST COOKING SCHOOL IS FIRMLY ESTABLISHED WITH THE WOMEN OF PETERBOROUGH

Miss Margaret Laws, Director, Makes Big Hit With Audience.

CAPACITY AUDIENCE.

Who would ever have thought that, since Adam was served his first dessert, a raw apple, sweetened only with a smile from Eve, that the art of cooking should have evolved into a regular science? One need only attend the "Canada First Cooking School" which opened yesterday in the Grand Opera House, to grasp this as an agreeably accepted fact. Under the very efficient direction of Miss Jay Margaret Laws, graduate of household science and arts of Columbia University, assisted by Miss Georgina Lloyd, dietitian, this Canada First School made its bow to a large Peterborough audience.

Introduced by R. J. E. McCrea, Toronto, who, with many well-known Canadian manufacturers, sponsors the school, Miss Laws won every heart with her first cheery word, and to the close of the first session yesterday morning, held the undivided attention of her class.

The cooking school has gained a firm footing among Peterborough women (or "girls" as Miss Laws addresses them, from the youngest to the oldest), and each new school finds its own particular place.

The stage set-up in itself was a thing of beauty; from the kitchen, electrically equipped, to the charming dining room and the cosy breakfast nook, each complete in every detail by the courtesy of local merchants.

This particular school is a firm believer in the "Buy at Home" slogan.

While announced that teaching, in plain, everyday terms, was the chief feature of the school, Miss Law's demonstrations were unusually clear and satisfying to the most exacting housewife. "The discovery of a new dish adds more happiness to the human race than the revelation of a new planet," said Brillat-Savarin, and if this be true, Peterborough people are surely getting a large share of happiness this week.

The modern housewife, who has a care for the health of her family, is more and more concerned with the nutritive value of the foods included in her daily menus. She has certainly solved a great problem when she has the advantage of using products 100 per cent pure, as personal tests by Miss Laws, in her Toronto laboratory has proved. To make sure that these tested products find a place in our homes, ten bushel baskets of them are daily given as prizes, as well as the finished product of their use in Miss Law's demonstations. People in other work get new ideas constantly, so why shouldn't the housewife, whose job is such a big one have her opportunity?

Both Miss Laws and Miss Lloyd have attained distinction in the field of household science throughout Canada and are eminently fitted to give the results of their research to any group of housewives.

Capacity audiences have greeted Miss Laws, wherever the Canada First school has been held.

The course not only covers the entire range of household science, but deals with the preparation of food and explains their dietetic value and the proper choice and merits of certain dishes. These, according to Miss Laws, must be properly cooked and served with the proper table appointments for a successful finale.

The first day's program was intensely interesting and although Peterborough women are considered good shoppers, it was a revelation to learn the many new devices, we could find right here in our local stores, to make life a little more easy, a great deal more healthful as well as adding the touch of real beauty to the everyday routine.

To this end the Canadian Department stores added their full quota to the successful outfitting of the stage, by their contribution of furniture, China, glassware, and the lovely damask cloth. They also provided the dining room rug and the canary adding its note of gay song to the ensemble. The lovely bouquets of roses which graced both the dining and breakfast tables were donated by The Peterborough Floral Co., Miller-Powell Co. loaned the Moffat range which is to make some housewife happy as a prize, while Heintzman Co. and the Canadian Department Stores graciously lent the refrigerators.

In their natty white Hoover house dresses, white shoes and beige hosiery, the directors made a charming picture in their kitchen where they concocted many dainty morsels (also given as prizes) from the purest of products. For these, Miss Laws went to the E. T. Mason stores and for the milk used is Sunshine Dairy. Stock's Bread, the old reliable was used for the delicious and dainty sandwiches, and to Swift Canadian for the chickens so temptingly roasted.

The many other products going into everyday cookery as demonstrated were all procured locally and due credit given during the remaining sessions of the Canada First School.

Price, Nominated in Parkdale, Issues Challenge to Hepburn.

NO ELECTION DATE.

(By the Canadian Press).

Four conventions will be held today to name candidates for the Ontario general elections. Hon. W. G. Martin, Ontario Minister of Public Welfare, will appear at the Brantford City Conservative convention, when he is expected to be chosen again to represent the riding.

East Lambton Conservatives meet at Watford, and a Conservative convention also will be held at Englehart to choose a candidate for Temiskaming constituency. Co-operative commonwealth supporters gathered in the Toronto St. David's riding to name their standard-bearer for the voting.

Attorney-General W. H. Price last night received the unanimous nomination in his riding of Toronto Parkdale, a constituency he has represented since 1914, and in his address he issued a challenge to Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, to name any constructive legislation he was responsible for while a members of the House of Commons for eight years.

Col. Price declared when Beauharnois power was faced with entering private interest control, Mr. Hepburn was "behind the scenes trying to get some of the $700,000 fund to go into the 1930 elections."

Political circles to-day waited for Premier George S. Henry to break his silence regarding the election date. Two days of Cabinet meetings so far have failed to produce the announcement, but it is expected some time to-day.

JUDGE JOSTLED BY ANGRY MOBS

Retirement of Napanee Court Official Recalls Scenes at Famous Trial of 1898.

NAPANEE, Ont., May 16 (C.P.)—Retirement recently of H. W. Huff, Court House official for 70 years, recalls the stirring days of 1898. In that year this town, according to the newspapers of the day, became famous as staging "the only case within the memory of the legal profession where a judge of the High Court of Justice was mobbed."

It was a development of the trial and acquittal of a young man on a charge of complicity in the night robbery of a Dominion Bank branch here—a mystery involving the theft of $40,000 that has never been cleared up. Mr. Huff, now 90 years of age, has a lively recollection of the sensational scenes accompanying the trial.

Police officials had received information, the newspaper says, of a projected outbreak "which was to follow the verdict, and of which the intended victims were to be Mr. Justice Thomas Ferguson (the presiding judge) and the Crown lawyer (E. B. Osler, K.C.).

"The judge decided that even should the prisoner be gotten into the court room safely it would be very unwise to receive the verdict at night," the report went on. "The court house was, therefore, cleared and the judge and other unpopular figures were brought down from the courtroom under guard of the sheriff and a number of constables.

"In front of the Paisley House a mob of 500 spectators, including about two score of hoodlums, were gathered. The party were greeted with a storm of hisses and hoots. His Lordship wanted to go to a barber shop and thither he was followed by a howling mob who stood outside and shouted obscene epithets. Sheriff Hawley finally read the Riot Act three times to the mob, empowering him to use firearms if it did not disperse. The mob then scattered.

"The judge expressed his regret that such a scene was possible in British territory .... The wise friends of the prisoner keenly lamented the uproar which took place."

Mr. Justice Ferguson and Mr. Osler have been dead for many years. Mr. Huff is one of the few who had a part in the court proceedings now surviving to tell the tale. He can tell it vividly.

CANADA FIRST COOKING SCHOOL IS FIRMLY ESTABLISHED WITH THE WOMEN OF PETERBOROUGH

Miss Margaret Laws, Director, Makes Big Hit With Audience.

CAPACITY AUDIENCE.

Who would ever have thought that, since Adam was served his first dessert, a raw apple, sweetened only with a smile from Eve, that the art of cooking should have evolved into a regular science? One need only attend the "Canada First Cooking School" which opened yesterday in the Grand Opera House, to grasp this as an agreeably accepted fact. Under the very efficient direction of Miss Jay Margaret Laws, graduate of household science and arts of Columbia University, assisted by Miss Georgina Lloyd, dietitian, this Canada First School made its bow to a large Peterborough audience.

Introduced by R. J. E. McCrea, Toronto, who, with many well-known Canadian manufacturers, sponsors the school, Miss Laws won every heart with her first cheery word, and to the close of the first session yesterday morning, held the undivided attention of her class.

The cooking school has gained a firm footing among Peterborough women (or "girls" as Miss Laws addresses them, from the youngest to the oldest), and each new school finds its own particular place.

The stage set-up in itself was a thing of beauty; from the kitchen, electrically equipped, to the charming dining room and the cosy breakfast nook, each complete in every detail by the courtesy of local merchants.

This particular school is a firm believer in the "Buy at Home" slogan.

While announced that teaching, in plain, everyday terms, was the chief feature of the school, Miss Law's demonstrations were unusually clear and satisfying to the most exacting housewife. "The discovery of a new dish adds more happiness to the human race than the revelation of a new planet," said Brillat-Savarin, and if this be true, Peterborough people are surely getting a large share of happiness this week.

The modern housewife, who has a care for the health of her family, is more and more concerned with the nutritive value of the foods included in her daily menus. She has certainly solved a great problem when she has the advantage of using products 100 per cent pure, as personal tests by Miss Laws, in her Toronto laboratory has proved. To make sure that these tested products find a place in our homes, ten bushel baskets of them are daily given as prizes, as well as the finished product of their use in Miss Law's demonstations. Many members of yesterday's class found their "new dish" in the "Soup to Nuts Cake." Its intriguing name, making a strong appeal to their individual curiosity.

People in other work get new ideas constantly, so why shouldn't the housewife, whose job is such a big one have her opportunity?

Both Miss Laws and Miss Lloyd have attained distinction in the field of household science throughout Canada and are eminently fitted to give the results of their research to any group of housewives.

Capacity audiences have greeted Miss Laws, wherever the Canada First school has been held.

The course not only covers the entire range of household science, but deals with the preparation of food and explains their dietetic value and the proper choice and merits of certain dishes. These, according to Miss Laws, must be properly cooked and served with the proper table appointments for a successful finale.

To demonstrate all this seemed simple ,direct and in reality was entirely practical in such capable and experienced hands. The first day's program was intensely interesting and although Peterborough women are considered good shoppers, it was a revelation to learn the many new devices, we could find right here in our local stores, to make life a little more easy, a great deal more healthful as well as adding the touch of real beauty to the everyday routine.

To this end the Canadian Department stores added their full quota to the successful outfitting of the stage, by their contribution of furniture, China, glassware, and the lovely damask cloth. They also provided the dining room rug and the canary adding its note of gay song to the ensemble. The lovely bouquets of roses which graced both the dining and breakfast tables were donated by The Peterborough Floral Co., Miller-Powell Co. loaned the Moffat range which is to make some housewife happy as a prize, while Heintzman Co. and the Canadian Department Stores graciously lent the refrigerators.

In their natty white Hoover house dresses, white shoes and beige hosiery, the directors made a charming picture in their kitchen where they concocted many dainty morsels (also given as prizes) from the purest of products. For these, Miss Laws went to the E. F. Mason stores and for the milk used the Sunshine Dairy. Stock's Bread, the old reliable was used for the delicious and dainty sandwiches, and to Swift Canadian for the chickens so temptingly roasted.

The many other products going into everyday cookery as demonstrated were all procured locally and due credit given during the remaining sessions of the Canada First School.

Today (Wednesday) Thursday and Friday, these classes will be a strong drawing card to the domestically inclined women of our city, even many of them may be enjoying the throes of spring housecleaning.

One visit always assures another and yet another and this in turn assures a busy week for the school and happy profitable days for the large daily classes.

THE DETERMINING FACTOR.

The local Board of Health is well advised in its decision to demand an explanation from milk vendors whose product does not come up to standard and in the event of a failure to improve the quality to cancel the licenses of the offenders.

According to the report of the acting medical officer of health, the monthly tests show that in one case unclean milk was being supplied, while three other vendors had been selling milk that was below the standard as regards butter fat.

The question of a proper milk supply is a matter of the greatest importance to the whole community, and vendors might as well be given to understand that this city does not propose to countenance the sale of milk of doubtful quality, either as regards cleanliness or butter fat content.

The consuming public must be protected, and it is plainly the duty of the health authorities to supply that protection, even if it means that those who will not keep their milk up to standard have to go out of business.

The Examiner has no desire to see that step taken, but it is plainly up to those engaged in the distribution of milk; if in the face of the present warning they refuse to improve the quality of their product they should be prepared to stand the consequences.

At all events the health of the community must be made the determining factor.

MARY PICKFORD'S VISIT.

The people of the rest of Ontario owe a perpetual debt of gratitude to Toronto for the frequent opportunities for a quiet chuckle or two that the Queen City gives them.

The visit of Mary Pickford to her old home town is the latest laugh from the provincial capital.

The return of the sweetheart of the screen to Toronto was played up as an event of tremendous importance; civic dignitaries did their honors in their best bib and tucker, the Toronto newspapers printed pages of copy about Mary and her activities, with pictures on every other page, and altogether the Queen City put on a great show to welcome the little girl who shook the dust of Toronto off her shoes years ago to win fame as a flicker star.

Miss Pickford, strange to relate, had never shown a great deal of longing for the old town, but with centennial year being observed she just naturally couldn't stay away.

Of course, the fact that the Centennial Committee is said to have guaranteed her $10,000 and a percentage of the receipts above a certain figure for her visit to Toronto was only incidental to the homecoming of the picture celebrity.

At the same time, however, there are a great many people who will believe that $10,000 would cause almost anybody to become homesick, even for Toronto.

It is tough having to subsidize the old boys and girls to come home for a celebration.

THE WISEST WAY.

The manner in which Premier Bennett has dealt with the allegations made before the Stevens Committee as to advance information being given out in regard to budget changes should prove an education to Premier Henry.

The president of a tobacco company, called as a witness before the committee, made these references, and said that there were three Ministers whom he would like to examine, intimating that competitors had been "tipped off" as to reductions in the excise tax.

Instead of ignoring these statements, Mr. Bennett has issued orders to have the tobacco man recalled and to have the Ministers named appear before the Stevens Committee so that the whole matter can be sifted to the bottom.

In that course the Prime Minister is showing good judgment; it is always easier to bring out the truth by a prompt inquiry than it is to let allegations grow like a snowball and then attempt to disapprove them.

It is safe to say that had Mr. Bennett been content to emulate Mr. Henry, who has a habit of letting charges go unanswered until they have been repeated time after time, and have been accepted by many people as true, on that account, and had he not taken prompt action to have the whole thing looked into, the opinion would have been created that there was some truth in the tobacco executive's allegations and the Government was afraid to let the facts become known.

Mr. Henry would have been infinitely wiser if he had shown a similar attitude on a number of Ontario issues.

CANOE TRIPS IN CANADA.

Scenery, fishing, the thrill of running rapids, carefree days in and on the water, nights under canvas, life with the birds and four-footed forest friends are all to be had by following the water trails of Canada. A sixty page, well illustrated booklet, "Canoe Trips in Canada," which contains a wealth of information on the waterways navigable by canoe in the Dominion, has been issued by the National Parks of Canada, Department of the Interior, Ottawa. The booklet is available to those interested in planning a vacation with tent, paddle and canoe.

Not only the canoeist but the motorboat cruiser and outboard enthusiast will find in its pages items of interest, for many trips are outlined and suggestions are offered in connection with canoe trip outfits and supplies. Nova Scotian lakelands, New Brunswick streams and the vast network of waterways which extend through Quebec and Ontario north to Hudson Bay and westward across the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta to British Columbia make Canada a land of realization for those who enjoy life out of doors at its best.

Canoe trips in Canada afford a variety of experiences. There are gems of lakes, some easy to get at, others forest-ringed, stilled in the grasp of an age-long silence and having in their depths the answer to many a fisherman's dreams. Connecting these lakes are streams which wind in and out of the forests, through canyons, over rapids and falls where canoes must be portaged, and along calm reaches where over-arching boughs are mirrored in deep pools. In following the routes of the historic explorers, camping in regins of beautiful scenery, and fishing in pools and shallows where finny fighters wait, each to his own taste will find pleasures in the waterways of Canada.

ABOUT DRINKING.

(Toronto Saturday Night)

Our good friends, the Ontario Prohibition Union, by whatever name they are now trying to smell sweeter, are still earnestly telling the Ontario public that any change in the liquor system which leads to an increase in the amount of drinking must necessarily lead also to an increase in intemperance. The syllogism upon which they rely, but from which they omit one of the premises, is this: "This change in the law will increase drinking; all drinking is intemperance; therefore this change in the law will increase intemperance." The omitted premise is false; it is so obviously false that if it were stated in words the weakness of the argument would be apparent.

A community in which every adult citizen drank a bottle of beer every day for five days in the week, two portions of whiskey on Saturday, and a pint of good wine on Sunday would be one of the least intemperate communities in the world, but it would be consuming quite a lot of alcoholic beverages. The same amount of consumption, performed by one-tenth of the adults and by them not spread evenly over the year but concentrated into twelve monthly drinking bouts (at which they would, of course, consume far less beer and wine and far more whiskey), would make the same community highly intemperate. Whether the regulations which are to be promulgated after the elections, and on which both parties seem pretty well agreed, will add greatly to the consumption of alcohol we do not know. But we are quite sure that after they have been put into effect, the percentage of the total consumption which will take place under civilized and decent conditions favorable to self-control and temperance will be immensely greater. It is no use talking this way, however, to people who really want prohibition. They have convinced themselves that the sale of a pint of beer, a glass of wine or a drink of whiskey is always and equally an evil, and they want to make such sale as nearly impossible as they can, and that is all there is to it.

WAR DEBTS AGAIN.

With the approach of June 15, on which date European nations are supposed to hand over to the United States $174,000,000, war debts become an issue again. Washington's total bill to Europe is $11,000,000,000. No one with the slightest knowledge of the world financial structure expects this bill will be paid, or thinks that it can be paid. Yet year after year the United States goes on demanding its instalments of interest and principal, this despite that most of the debtors have defaulted, that others pay only "tokens."

The trouble, of course, is with Congress. Educated Americans, informed American newspapers, American business men—all know the debts can't be paid. But Congress, incorrigible in its pandering to an ignorant electorate, insists upon payment, this despite that, in the matter of European imports and services, it takes action making payment impossible. The mass of United States electors don't understand this. Talking and voting as though Europe could ship the United States billions in gold or currency, they are fed with such matter as this, from Hearst's Post-Intelligencer of Seattle:

> "There must be many in England who wince at finding the Government's attitude toward the most important debt on her books that of a welcher and repudiator. And yet the world is told that this is true by responsible ministers. . . It cannot, however, long continue to be true! Gains got by cheating—success that rests upon fraud—credit built upon repudiation—are not things which even the momentary beneficiaries of the cheat, the fraud and the repudiation like to contemplate."

The British instalment due on June 15 is $95,670,000, of which some $75,000,000 would be the regular payment and $9,720,000 on account of payments deferred by the Hoover moratorium. But Britain will not pay. Refusing to default outright, she will make another token payment, insisting at the same time upon some new and sensible arrangement.

This, of course, will produce a great hue and cry. Congress and the Hearst press will point to Britain's budget surplus of $195,000,000, to the fact that the Bank of England's gold holdings are close to $1,000,000,000. The answer, of course, is that Britain's case with respect to war debt payments has never rested on considerations of a budgetary surplus or a supply of gold. It has rested on the contention (as a fair and intelligent paper like the New York Times admits) that the United States has by implication acknowledged the close connection between war debts and reparations; that the initiative in settling reparations was taken by Germany's creditors with the approval of the United States; and that any attempt to revive the pre-depression schedule of payments, either of reparations or of war debts, would have adverse political consequences and paralyse recovery.

Fortunately, there are Americans who are aware of the truth. And while President Roosevelt's efforts to arrive at a sensible settlement will be hampered by Congress, there can be little doubt about the final result. War debts are as dead as Julius Caesar. —Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Perhaps this matter of liquor agents would be more easily understood were it to be remembered that the Liquor Control Board does not allow liquor advertising in this province.

With three candidates already assured, Peterborough electors are going to have a full course of politics dished out to them in the next few weeks.

CHAPTER V.

There was an immediate reaction of surprise and resentment, but well tempered, on the part of the brothers.

"Why?" asked James impetuously.

"Well," continued Nathan, "because we're the Rothschilds. For the time being, anyway, we're something more than five rich Jews looking for the main chance. We all know—the world knows—that until Napoleon is gone—forever!—there can be no peace in Europe, for Jew or Gentile! You can't deny it, any of you!"

"We've got to take the risk," Nathan continued, "we've got to go against every normal selfish impulse. We must crush Napoleon or he will make a slaughter house out of Europe and the Jew will stand forever as a pawnbroker."

Nathan's argument had impressed all of the brothers. They talked gravely for several minutes, and finally all agreed that they must support the Allies. Nathan, who was sitting on the window seat, moved forward, startled at something he saw out of the window. "They're here," he said quietly and moved toward his brothers. Hannah opened the door in answer to the sharp knock.

"My lords!" exclaimed Nathan as Ledrantz, Metternich and Tallyrand entered, "this is a great pleasure. But how did you find your way?"

"The Duke of Wellington was kind enough to supply us with a guide," said Metternich, "Col. Fitzroy, who has, I believe, been here before." He looked at Julie who almost fainted with surprise.

"You will forgive this unexpected visit," said Count Ledrantz, addressing Nathan's mother.

"Certainly," said Nathan, "we were expecting it."

"I am here," said Ledrantz, "at the request of the Duke of Wellington and the Allied Governments. The Allies need money. We're not asking you to give anything. You are money lenders and you'll get your interest."

"Are you sure of that?" mused Nathan.

"Don't you trust the Powers?"

"No. Austria's bankrupt!" said Solomon.

"And so is Italy," enjoined Carl.

"I suppose that there is always a certain amount of risk in your business," Metternich added.

"I see no object in prolonging this meeting," said Nathan. "As you say, we are money-lenders, not philanthropists. We do it for profit. You may as well know that Napoleon has approached us and offered us twice as much as you can promise us, and we've decided to take his offer."

Nathan's brother's looked surprised, but quickly covered their thoughts.

"Ha!" grumbled Ledrantz, "gone over to the enemy, eh?"

"I was always under the impression you stood for peace," said Metternich, "and Napoleon does not stand for that."

"For twenty years we've been supporting the peace of Europe. Now we are thinking of the peace of our own people," said Nathan.

"The Jews?" said Ledrantz.

"Yes. Napoleon will give us our freedom—and that's why we are for Napoleon."

"If we gave you all the freedom that Napoleon could give you, would you be willing to sacrifice the financial advantages of his offer?" asked Ledrantz.

"Brothers, may I speak for you?" Nathan asked, looking at his brothers. They all assented. Then addressing Ledrantz he said, "I require an agreement, a treaty, signed and guaranteed by your governments, giving back to our people absolute freedom. In this agreement they would regain their citizenship, they would lose their chains, they would have the right to deal with equality, to live with respect, to walk the world with dignity!"

Ledrantz was taken aback, "I fear we must lay that before our respective governments."

Nathan's face was flushed with anger. "You are your respective governments and you know it. The day that this agreement is signed, the resources of the House of Rothschild will be at the command of the Allied Armies—and not before."

"Very well, we accept."

The heads of the various governments had barely reached the street before Nathan was making preparations to leave for London. Wellington had sent instructions to Fitzroy to have a carriage for Nathan. Julie already was standing by the carriage as Nathan and Hannah left the house. Nathan looked at Fitzroy with tolerance.

"This time I am here by command of the Duke of Wellington," said Fitzroy snappily.

Nathan walked past them, going around the coach to enter from the other wise. He was smiling. The instant he was out of sight, Hannah glanced and smiled at Julie and answered the young girl's unspoken plea with a nod. Julie slipped up to Fitzroy, "Give me the ring, quick! Everything is all right with father."

The two lovers embraced when the curtain of the coach lifted and Nathan looked out, regarding them without expression. As they did not see him he spoke, "Well, I must say I hope this entire war is not going to be conducted on such a romantic basis." The two lovers sprang apart, startled.

"Col. Fitzroy," said Nathan, "I give Napoleon a hundred days—no longer. If, at the end of that time, you're still alive—and you seem to be the type of young man that can't be killed, you can come and talk to me in London."

"Thank you, sir. I shall count the days." Fitzroy sprang to his horse and the carriage was off.

A Thought

THE FUTURE

Once, a good many years ago, I overheard a certani public man, a politician, giving his son a sort of lecture. It seemed that the young man had felt himself slighted, and had retaliated in a way that seemed very clever to himself, but must surely have been most exasperating to the party of the second part.

"You just can't afford a thing like that," said the father. "Better swallow any slight that is short of actual insult, and think well before you decide anything to be an insult—laugh it off, act any way, but never make an enemy. You will be in public life some day, and you never know when an occasion will rise that will make that man very necessary to your plans. Look to the future—make friends that you will be able to use by and by, and no man or woman is too unimportant to be considered."

I turned away, a little sick at heart; the counsel seemed so selfish, so worldy-wise, but I have long since come to recognize the real value that underlies it. We cannot afford to overlook what the future may bring for we never know when we will need the very individual who seems so hateful, so contemptible for the moment; not in the sense that the old judge meant, but in a broader, better one. The occasion may arise when we may help that one—may reach out a hand to lift him and soft answer or no answer at all will never be in the way, while the memory of recrimination and retaliation on our part, will create doubt of motives and a certain mistrust that will nullify the best and purest intentions. It is perfectly true, too, that a good deed made impossible means as much of deprivation to the one who wills it as to the one who refuses.—S. B. Wright.

EDINBURGH (C.P.).—Considerable interest is being taken in the probability that during the visit of the King and Queen to Holyrood Palace in July there will be a command performance in one of the Edinburgh theatres.

APOLOGY TO AN INFANT

Baby, I was rude to you. I didn't mean to be, but I took away your toy doggie in that ruthless, careless fashion of grown-ups who don't trouble to remember that even a baby who cannot walk or talk has rights that should be respected.

And so you yelled. You're yelling now. Your cheeks are red, you eyes weep bitter tears, your little hands are waving and your feet are jerking in impotent rage....You want that doggie back, you love it, you were chewing its tail and talking tenderly to it. It's your doggie, not mine, and why did I take it so roughly from your hands....GIVE IT BACK!

Baby, I'm ashamed, but I don't know what to do....Should I give your doggie back to you and then in a moment or two, take it quietly away, distracting your attention as I do....What's the best thing to do? If I give it back at once, will you be learning that you can always get whatever you want by yelling for it? Will you learn the awful power of throwing a tantrum? And will you grow up, eventually, to be a holy terror, a kid who throws himself on the floor and yells and kicks when he doesn't get what he wants—even though he's in the middle of a department store?....Or am I exaggerating this out of all serious proportion?.... I wish I knew.

I want you to get what you want in this world, small fellow. But I want you to want the right things. I'm not absolutely certain what the right things are, I'll admit, but I have fairly definite opinions on the subject. I admire that rage, that kicking-yelling determination of yours, but I hope it will move, all your life long, through decent and civilized channels....You don't know what I'm talking about, nor what I'm thinking, but some day I hope it'll make sense for you.

But now I hold this precious doggie in my hand and wonder what I should do—give it back and run the risk of "spoiling" you or keep it and see the little tears roll down your cheeks in rage over the rudeness of those overgrown ogres who can't ever let a little boy have his doggie....Ah, me, I guess I'll give it back.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

A BISHOP'S HISTORIC VISITATION

On this date, in 1844, ninety years ago, there set out from Lachine an episcopal expedition historic in its importance. The third Anglican Bishop of Quebec, Rt. Rev. George J. Jountain, whose diocese extended from the eastern boundary of Quebec to the Rocky Mountains, and who had already made a record by travelling 2,500 miles in Upper Canada, then mostly in the wilds, had decided that it was his duty to visit the mission on the Red River and see for himself both the condition of the people and the potentialities of the country. His plans were well thought out and well matured before he left Lachine in what was quite a cavalcade. He himself and his chaplain travelled in a birch canoe, thirty-six feet long, with fourteen paddlers, by eight French Canadians and six Iroquois Indians. Mile by mile the water was traversed up the Ottawa, down the French river into Georgian Bay, past the Soo and across Lake Superior to Fort William, then by the Kaministiqua (spelled by the bishop in his thrilling narrative, Kanenistiquoia), the Rainy and Wood Lakes, the Winnipeg River and Lake to the Red River and the Red River settlement.

He reached the church and mission house of the Indian settlement at nine o'clock on a Sunday morning and himself left his impression of the event: "After travelling for upwards of a month through an inhospitable wilderness and encountering at intervals specimens of the heathen savage, we came at once, and without any intermediate graduation in the aspect of things, upon the establisment formed upon the low margin of the river for the same race of people in their Christian state; and there on the morning of the Lord's own blessed day we saw them gathering already around the pastor, who was before his door; their children collecting in the same manner, with their books in their hands, all decently clothed from head to foot, a repose and a steadiness in their deportment. Around were their humble dwellings, with the commencement of farms and cattle grazing in the meadow the neat modest parsonage or mission house with its garden, and the simple but decent church, with the school house as its appendage. We were amply rewarded for all the toils and exposure of the nights."

After his first service 250 Indians were present and he found a Sunday school with 153 pupils enrolled. Bishop Mountain held confirmation at the lower, middle and upper churches, laying hands on 846 persons, most of whom were Indians or half-breeds. He left on the return journey determined that the Red River should be the centre of a great missionary station from which Christianity might be propagated throughout the north and delighted with the loyalty of the Indian converts both to church and queen. Five years later, on Whit Sunday, 1849, David Anderson was consecrated in Canterbury cathedral as the first Bishop of Rupert's Land.

Bishop Mountain made the journey to Montreal by easy stages but was back in Quebec early in September, again taking up his work of ministering to the poor and sick, proving in the typhus epidemic of 1847, as he had in the cholera of '32 and '34, that he was indeed a minister to the bodies as well as to the souls of men and women.

PLAN MERGER OF MILITARY DISTRICTS

Cavalry Units to Become Armed Car Units Under New Plan.

OTTAWA, May 16 (C.P.).—Complete reorganization of the non-permanent active militia of Canada on modern lines is understood to be under consideration by the Department of National Defence, but the changes effected will likely be made gradually and the process may extend over a period of several years.

As the development of the armored car and the tank has caused great changes in methods of warfare, some of the present cavalry regiments may be changed into armored car units and a number of infantry battalions may be made over into tank formations. Where possible all the units in the present service will be fitted into the new scheme, but considerable regrouping may be done.

The scheme in its broad sense when it becomes operative may involve geographical changes in military districts as now constituted. Though official confirmation is lacking, the realignment of the districts may involve the amalgamation of Toronto and London military districts, Montreal and Quebec districts and absorption of Regina district by Winnipeg and Alberta by British Columbia. Saint John, N.B., military district, it is expected, will be absorbed by Halifax.

It is understood that though the changes contemplated in the Canadian militia will be based on the most modern British model and will fit into a large scheme of Imperial defence, Canadian control will everywhere be the keynote.

Call Is Extended To Belleville Pastor

CAMPBELLFORD, May 16 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—A call has been extended the Rev. Harold B. Neal of Holloway Street United Church, Bellville, to fill the charge of St. John's United Church, Campbellford, which falls vacant in July. The call was extended at a recent meeting of the official board of the church.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

SWIFT CURRENT, SASK.

Since this city is situated on the banks of a rapid stream of water and since the word "Saskatchewan" has the same meaning in the Cree language, it was only natural that settlers adopted the only logical name. Long before the white man came the Indians had called it Swift Current, so when the first white cabins were erected there was never any doubt about the name of the new settlement.

The settement of the Swift Current district is bound up in the colonizing venture of Sir John Lister Kaye, an Englishman, who purchased 100,000 acres of land from the C.P.R. at one dollar an acre. He brought families from England and settled them on small farms. The colony prospered for a few years and then anthrax attacked their sheep holdings and the company was closed out. But the settlers remained and in many cases bought their holdings and established their own homes.

NEW YORK May 16.—The latest move on the part of the Administration to stimulate home building and the construction trade, is one which may have very important effects upon our economic situation. In fact, the mere announcement of the plan may have a sufficient psychological effect to cause an immediate reversal of the downtrend in the securities market.

For many years mortgage financing has been done on an unsound basis. The issuance of first mortgages maturing in 3 to 5 years on buildings which could not possibly "pay out" in less than 20 years has been proven unsound and unwise. Long term mortgages with reasonable amortization provisions will do much to improve conditions in the real estate and building industry.

Stimulation in home building will directly and indirectly help many heavy industries, such as lumber, steel, cement, paint, glass, paper, and of course the railroads Marketwise, the issues which stand to benefit most are Johns-Manville, American Radiator, International Cement, and Portland Cement. Incidentally both Sears and Montgomery Ward sell in large volume building material plumbing supplies and in some cases complete houses.

The market has needed some new stimulus to check its present decline. The supply of stocks over the market is thin and the first rally is bound to share. After so extensive a decline, however, some kind of a secondary correction will be needed to prove that the base is substantial, and it would be best to wait for that kind of a test before employing more than 50 per cent of one's buying power.

It is not likely that U. S. Steel will long be available at current levels. The technical position of the stock has improved substantially and we believe that purchases around current levels will result in worthwhile profits before many weeks have passed.

BROKERS' OPINIONS.

Eighteen reviewed. Bullish 9, Bearish 0, Non-committal 9.

Clarke, Childs & Keech: We continue of the belief that the end of the reaction, which has really been in progress since February, is in the making, and that an important intermediate advance, good for one or perhaps two months, is not far away. Purchases are now in order.

Pierce & Co.: Possibly the development of an improved tone in the bond market particularly in the medium grade classifications, will precede improvement in the stock market.

John Cruze & Co: A fair substantial rally should not be long in coming.

Theodore Prince & Co.: The market will have to show several days of comparative steadiness and reasonable support during weakness before we can make any constructive recommendations.

Steel Production Is Higher For Week

NEW YORK, May 16. (AP). — The rate of steel production made a further gain of one point this week to 61 percent of capacity, but the peak of operations is believed to be near and the outlook for coming months is obscure," said Iron Age to-day.

"Foremost among factors contributing to waning confidence" asserted the review, "Is the belief that current accumulations of material, prompted by recent price advances, will rob the third quarter of tonnage.

"The common apprehension of a sharp drop in mill operations after June 30 is reflected in the uninterrupted fall in scrap prices, which this week declined from $11.92 to $11.67 a ton, or only slightly above the year's low of $11.33 registerde on January 2."

TWO PICCARDS PILOT BALLOON

Professor, Wife Drift Over Michigan Preparing For Stratosphere Flight.

12 HOUR TEST.

THAMESVILLE, Ont., May 16.—(CP)—A balloon piloted by Edward J. Hill and carrying Prof. Jean Piccard and his wife landed safely on the farm of John Oliver near here late this afternoon.

DETROIT, May 16 (A.P.).—Provisioned with oranges, bananas, rolls and an angelfood cake, a racing balloon was somewhere over Michigan or Canada to-day, carrying Prof. and Mrs. Jean Piccard on a training flight for their ascent into the stratosphere this summer.

The balloon, which took off at 5.15 a.m., was piloted by Edward J. Hill, its owner, a veteran of the international balloon races. The trio expected to stay up for about 12 hours.

The big bag drifted slowly to the north-east at the take-off.

To-day's flight primarily is for the benefit of Mrs. Piccard, who hopes to earn a balloonist's license in time to pilot the stratospheric balloon for her husband. It was her first balloon ascension and Piccard's second.

Prof. Piccard is the twin of Prof. Auguste Piccard, of Brussels, Belgium, the first man to pilot a balloon into the stratosphere.

Mrs. Piccard explained the inclusion of dessert in the balloon's larder by saying, "Jean loves angelcake."

$80,029,968 Is Spent Ontario By Tourists

OTTAWA, May 16 (CP)—Moneys returned directly to the Ontario Provincial Treasury by tourists last year aggregated $610,011, according to a memoradum submitted to-day to the Senate Tourist Committee. Of this total the gasoline tax accounted for $400,000; non-resident angling licenses, $131,961; non-resident liquor permits, $52,950, and non-resident hunting licenses, $35,-060.

The total expenditure of tourists in Ontario last year was $80,029,968, which was approximately 78 per cent of all moneys spent in this business in Canada.

Since 1930 the number of tourists entering Ontario declined gradually from 13,882,010 to 7,796,990 last year. In those years expenditures by the Ontario Provincial Bureau declined from $86,047 to $60,000. These expenditures were comprised of salaries, advertising and publicity.

PRICE CHANGES MINE SECTION ON THE UPSIDE

Gains Up to 50 Cents Recorded in Senior Golds and Interlisteds.

NORANDA LEADS METALS.

TORONTO, May 16.—(C.P.)— A dribble of investment buying was apparent in the mining section of the Toronto exchange this afternoon and price changes at the end of the day were mainly on the upside. A firming tendency on the New York Board in the afternoon supported the local list, particularly the interlisted shares. Gains up to to 50 cents were recorded in the senior gold group and Noranda, leading the base metals, advanced 50 cents to $40.

Through the early part of the session some of the penny shares, including Bagamac, Sudbury Mines, Aldermac and Maple Leaf, held the main interest. These all advanced under good volume except Aldermac which weakened a point. In the leaders, Dome Advanced $1 and Hollinger, Lake Shore, McIntyre, Bralorne, Teck and Wright Hargeraves finished the day unchanged.

Took to Hills After Leader Forced Release From Jail With Gun.

STOLE $61, CLOTHES.

ST. JEROME, Que., May 16.—(CP)—Three prisoners who escaped yesterday from the St. Jerome jail were captured today. They are Lucien Larocque, Albert Gobeil and a juvenile delinquent whose name was withheld.

The capture was made after police officers and farmers of the neighborhood had spent the night in combing the countryside.

According to the story told by A. Nadon, a turnkey, Larocque was permitted last night to leave his cell ostensibly to get a drink of water. As soon as the cell door was opened Larocque produced a revolver, the turnkey said, took the keys and released the other prisoners.

Jail officials said the three had obtained clothes from the prison office and had taken $61. They then fled into the hills near here. Nadon succeeded after 20 minutes in releasing himself from the bonds with which he had been tied and gave the alarm.

Larocque and Gobeil had been convicted of robbery. The boy had been sent to the jail for punishment from the boys' farm near here.

BRITISH HOUSE

instead of damaging Sir Oswald Mosley's Fascist Blackshirts, would be more likely to confer on them the political advantage of "martyrdom."

The bill would not have prevented the wearing of party badges.

Lampson's Argument.

Locker-Lampson said that all believers in true democracy must resent tendencies towards substitution of force for persuasion. The introduction of the political uniform into British political life must mean the gradual extinction of government by consent, and substitution of government by coercion.

He scoffed alike at the would-be "Soviet dictatorship" of Sir Stafford Cripps, leader of the Left Wing Laborites, and the "spurious nationalism" of Sir Oswald Mosley.

Most clashes recently had been owing to the presence at meetings in the streets "of ominous dusky figures in garish regimentals," said Commander Locker-Lampson. Nineteen Fascists had left London with orders to break the law and were arrested under orders, not of a Socialist magistrate, "but, thank God, by a peer of the realm," he said while the House laughed.

He referred to the arrest of 19 Fascists who had appointed themselves defender of a farmer in a tithe-war some weeks ago.

Warming up, Commander Locker-Sampson declared Mosley, dressed up like a continental dancing master, was masquerading as a Mussolini in a dirty shirt. He had gone to Italy for the name of his organisation, and to Germany for its "bullying spirit," he concluded.

Bill Impractical.

Lord Winterton, however, argued that the bill was impracticable because a uniform for political purposes could not be defined.

A Conservative who fought in Gallipoli, Palestine and Arabia, Lord Winterton said that instead of damaging Mosley, the bill would give him just the advertisement he desired. It would confer a sense of martyrdom on all his followers.

"Bill Smith of England is a very different person from August Schmidt of Germany," said the Earl.

"He won't let anybody walk over him—either in peace or war."

And with shouts of "No," the House declined to receive the bill.

In the street outside a lone girl was trying to sell copies of "The Blackshirt Weekly."

WILL REORGANIZE POLICE IN NINE "SCOTLAND YARDS"

Best Criminal Investigation "Brains" of Britain To Be Pooled

SPEED UP SERVICE

London.—A home office crime commission—the first of its kind in the history of the country—is drawing up plans for a complete reorganization and modernization of criminal investigation departments throughout England and Wales.

The chairman of the commission is A. L. Dixon, permanent undersecretary of the home office. The members include Major-General Sir Llewellyn Atcherley and Colonel Allan, the inspectors of constabulary, three representatives of Scotland Yard, Sir Hugh Turnbull, the commissioner of the city of London police, and the chief constables of most of the important forces in the provinces.

These men have been at work behind closed doors. Their aim is to pool all the best ideas of the best police forces in the country in order to formulate a national scheme to bring every police force up to the highest level of efficiency and to ensure that the most modern scientific methods of crime investigation shall be available in every part of the country.

Close Roads to Yeggs

Sub-committees of the commission have been to various provincial centres and have absorbed many new ideas.

It is certain the commission will recommend that other police organizations—not excluding Scotland Yard—should follow the lead given by more enterprising forces. All England and Wales has been divided into nine districts for the purpose of the scheme—the London Metropolitan and eight provincial districts.

A scheme has been worked out and is now in operation to speed up communication between all police forces and to close the roads in any section of the country against criminals escaping by motor car.

The commission is likely to recommend that crime laboratories should be maintained at regional or divisional headquarters.

Each of these headquarters would be a miniature Scotland Yard—a clearing house for criminal records, and a centre on which all police forces in the district could draw for expert, scientific assistance in difficult cases.

If and when the expected recommendations of the crime commission are put into effect there will no longer be police forces hopelessly behind others in equipment and technique.

"WAR BABIES" UNFIT FOR ARMY SERVICE

Seventy-Five Per Cent. Rejected as Recruits—Idleness Takes Toll

London.—Out of the thousands of young men who present themselves for possible recruitment to the army, 75 per cent. are rejected because they are unfit.

That was one of several amazing facts given by a highly-placed war office recruiting official.

At least 25 per cent. of them are rejected "on sight" because their unfitness is so obvious. The others go forward for medical examination and then they are "turned down" by the thousand.

Take the official figures for the recruiting year 1933. The total number of "inquiries," that is, men who look into the possibilities of enlistment, was 95,270. About 24,000 of them were rejected "on sight," and of the 71,688 who went forward for further examination, only 28,841 were finally approved.

"The wonder is," said the official, "that so many of them even bother to come."

One of his explanations was that the recruiting authorities are now dealing with the young men who were "war babies," those who, in their first year or two of life, as he phrased it, "didn't get a chance" because of lack of proper nutriment.

But there are other reasons, and the decay and wastage due to unemployment is the chief among them.

"Birmingham, Wolverhampton and Coventry," an official said, "are busy. One report we have had says that in some factories treble shifts are being worked. And the supply of recruits from those towns has practically stopped. Our biggest recruiting fields just now are in South Wales, Tyneside, Scotland and Northern Ireland."

DISCOVER ANCIENT STAIRS

London.—Part of a staircase, built seven centuries ago, has just been discovered in the south transept of Westminster Abbey, during an extensive cleaning and renovation.

The ancient steps, three in number, belonged to the staircase which led to the monks' dormitory and was used by them when attending night services.

They were discovered in the south-west corner, behind Roubiliac's memorial to the Duke of Argyll, and it is believed that still further remains of the stairway may exist behind the monument.

Renovations are also being carried out in the most ancient chamber in the abbey—the long-vaulted and massive-pillared Norman undercroft. This work was made possible by a legacy from Miss Ada Micklethwaite, who desired that the undercroft museum should be maintained as a memorial to her brother, John Thomas Micklethwaite, fabric surveyor of the abbey from 1896 to 1906.

PHOTO PROVES GUILT

Sofia.—Because Gheorghi Madjaroff found that the till of his photography shop in Samokov was periodically pilfered, he hid himself in the dark room on successive nights and waited for the thief. The thief had skeleton keys to the shop. On the third night he came, and as he was in the act of opening the till, Madjaroff threw open the door of the dark room and took a flashlight photograph of him.

CHOSE DEATH TO DENTIST

Budapest.—Andras Deak, a farmer of Nagykoros, suffered from toothache. Yet he was so afraid of dentists that when his neighbors urged him to have the tooth extracted he hanged himself to a tree in his garden.

HEIR TO BARONY HAPPY AS SAILOR

'Always Wanted to Go to Sea,' Says Hon. Allanson-Winn

Newcastle.—Hon. Rowland Patrick John George Allanson-Winn is mate of a small oil tanker berthed at Hepburn-on-Tyne.

Heir to Lord Headley, head of the Mohammedan faith in Great Britain, this sailor-peer is quite content with his position. "It seems," he said as he sat in the congested cabin of the boat, "to be my job in life. That's all there is to it." The prospect of holding the ancient barony has very little allure for him. "I always wanted to go to sea and do real work," he told a reporter.

'DISCHARGED, RELIEVED' AFTER ASYLUM ESCAPE

Boy Kept Diary of Experiences to Occupy Time

London.—Seventeen years of age . . . locked up in a lunatic asylum . . . fourteen months of it . . . keeping a diary to occupy his time . . . then escape—freedom.

This is the story of Cecil Stone, of Leathwaite Rd., Battersea. He escaped from Colney Hatch asylum recently. Because he escaped, he has been "discharged, relieved".

"That means", his mother said, "that they can take him back on the slightest pretext. I have fought for his freedom. I shall fight on until I get his full discharge".

Following are extracts from the boy's diary:

Undated—Now that a year has been wasted in this infernal dug-out, I ask myself "When is my sentence going to end?" How long, O Lord, how long?

Tuesday—Interview with doctor. Spoke confidently and answered all questions properly. Ought to have created a sane and healthy impression. Fog again. Cinema in hall at 5 p.m. Good program, slightly spoiled, as usual, by rowdy, unruly patients.

Wednesday—Bathing day. Daily newspapers are a godsend in a place like this. Reading helps one to forget—dreary and miserable.

Thursday—A cold, damp day. Received letter from mother saying that my leave had been cancelled again. Disappointing. But I am not worrying or fretting.

Friday—Rain. In football shed all morning . . . In the dormitory one of the patients giggles inanely all the time, and passes remarks about his bed-fellows.

Undated—Donned my new blue serge suit. Dance in the hall at 5.30. . . . Same old tunes. Hitherto found difficulty in securing partner. Now I have a Russian Jewess who dances beautifully . . . she smiles when I tread on her toes or stumble awkwardly . . . I like her . . . friendship, not love . . . beautiful girls are scarce down here.

GOLF BALL KILLS MAN

Wound in Cheek Turns to Fatal Poisoning

Newcastle-under-Lyme. — Walter Ireland, assistant solicitor of Stoke-on-Trent corporation, "sliced" his drive while playing golf on Wolstanton links.

A carter, 130 yards away from the tee, taking a load of hay along a road which cuts through the links, was struck on the cheek. Acute sepsis set in. A few days later he died in hospital.

"Accidental death" was the verdict returned at the inquest on the man, John Bennett.

HARD WORK REWARDED

London.—For thirty years Miss Mary Ida Harley acted as housekeeper for William Henry Jones at his mansion, Holbeck, in Merrilocks Rd., Blundellsands.

Mr. Jones died. She will still run the house—but it will be her own. Mr. Jones left it to her, together with £2,100 a year for life.

To a maid, Miss Elizabeth Parr, he left £500, with the hope that she would serve Miss Harley for at least a year. Miss Harley has been an invalid for four years.

HER DREAD OF OBESITY CAUSED WOMAN TO DIE

Former Nurse Ends Life After Taking Drugs to Reduce

Ilford.—How a beautiful Irish woman caused her own death in an almost insane desire for slimming was revealed by her husband.

The woman was Mrs. Maude Ethel Daphne Austin, aged forty-three, of Aldborough road, Ilford, Essex, who was found dead with her head in a gas oven.

Her husband, Mr. Charles Ernest Austin, a greengrocer, said his wife was a really pretty woman with a finely proportioned and shapely figure. People in the street often turned round to look at her when she went walking, he said.

"About three years ago she had the idea that she was getting fat," he stated. "Nothing anybody said could shake this conviction, and she began to take various slimming preparations. She tried pretty nearly everything, and she got thinner and thinner. She was rapidly reducing herself to a skeleton.

"Every night she would take four or five lemons in hot water. She was also taking some kind of drug, but I could never find out what it was.

"She had been a nurse, and knew a lot about medicines. Her father was formerly a doctor in Ireland. I think she must have had a secret store of drugs left over from the time when she was a nurse."

At the inquest at Barking the coroner, Dr. F. B. Skeels, said: "I think Mrs. Austin committed suicide while in a state of unsound mind, brought about by taking slimming preparations."

LOST ON WEDDING EVE

Believe Prospective Bridegroom Has Memory Lapse

Brighton. — A tramcar driver, Thomas Dingle, has mysteriously disappeared on the eve of his marriage.

He was last seen at the railway station when he took a through ticket for Llandovery, in Carmarthen, his fiancee's home. But he never reached there.

His daughter said he seemed happy and it was her belief that he had been taken ill and had lost his memory.

FIND 300,000 SWEEP TICKETS HIDDEN IN OLD MAGAZINES

Customs' Haul Has Face Value of $750,000 in Irish "Chances"

WELL DISGUISED

Holyhead.—Three hundred thousand Irish sweepstake tickets for the Derby were seized here by the customs authorities.

The greatest secrecy is being observed, but it is believed that the tickets were being shipped through this port to London. The tickets were hidden in old novels, magazines and waste paper which had been packed in large bales. They were brought to the harbor here by one of the cross-channel boats which had loaded the packages at Dun Laoghaire. The hidden tickets were being placed in a railway wagon when they were discovered by a customs waterguard officer.

The discovery of the 300,000 sweepstake tickets, of a face value of $750,000, was considered to be so serious that the facts were reported to the customs commissioners.

There have been many seizures of banned Irish Free State sweep tickets in the past, but this is the most spectacular haul ever made.

Since the plans of the government were made to stamp out the sale of sweepstake tickets in Great Britain special officers have been placed on night duty at Holyhead to search for any tickets that might be smuggled through from Ireland.

A customs officer inspecting the packages took out an old magazine to look at it. As soon as he opened the pages several books of tickets fluttered to the ground. He at once searched the bale and found hundreds of other tickets. He reported his discovery to the chief preventive officer, and an order was made for all the packages to be thoroughly searched. There were 300,000 tickets, all cleverly hidden.

"PARK YOUR PRAM"

London.—Perambulator sheds at a rent of fourpence a week are to be provided for the tennants of new flats which the Hornsey council, N.W., will erect at Turnpike-lane.

'DINNER-TIME' THIEVES PRECEDED BY SPIES

Nearly Million Dollars Worth of Jewels Stolen From Famous Homes

Hawkhurst.—The gang of dinner-time jewel thieves who have made hauls of nearly a million dollars from large country residences during the past year are at work again in southern England.

The recent daring robbery at Ellerslie house here—the home of Admiral Sir Reginald Tyrwhitt—is similar in almost every respect to the frequent raids in other parts of the country now being investigated by Scotland Yard.

These are the methods: First a spy is sent to take stock of the residence, which is usually situated in a quiet rural locality. He calls at the house and learns what he can of the movements of the family.

The raid, which takes places when the victims are at dinner, is usually completed within fifteen minutes.

Entrance is generally effected by a bedroom window, and ladders obtained from neighboring farm buildings play an important part in the gang's operations.

All these methods were adopted by the intruders at Sir Reginald's home.

The raid differs from the previous robberies only in the fact that the thieves miscalculated the value of the articles which they removed.

They took away a Chinese cabinet containing a small amount of jewelry, worth less than $500, from Lady Tyrwhitt's bedroom and failed to notice on the dressing table an unlocked jewel case in which there were valuables worth hundreds of pounds.

Admiral Tyrwhitt is principal naval aide-de-camp to the King and took part in the Heligoland and Dogger Bank actions in the great war.

OVERSEAS VISITS POPULAR

London.—The home office return of tourists from overseas countries to the United Kingdom for February shows an increase of more than 25 per cent. on the figures for February last year.

PEACEMAKER STABBED BY FIGHTING NATIVES

Suggests "Talk-Talk" to End Controversy Over Stolen Woman

Melbourne.—A missionary has been speared at Groote Eylandt while trying to stop a fight among aborigines. He is Rev. H. E. Warren, a member of the Arnhem Land Expedition to teach the ways of peace to aborigines.

When Mr. Warren heard that a fight had started among fifty aborigines, he rushed out from the mission and tried to stop it. One aborigine had "stolen a woman"—hence the trouble.

The "battle" was in full swing when Mr. Warren arrived. Men were waving spears and hitting each other on the head. Mr. Warren got a thump or two by mistake, and a slight spear wound in the leg. Eventually he managed to shout above the din: "How about a talk-talk?"

The aborigines heard him, the fighting ceased—and negotiations were opened. Eventually, the "stolen" woman was returned. Later, Mr. Warren's wound became septic and he had to go into hospital at Burke town.

BLUE'S WIFE SHOT

Husband Slips, Causing Gun To Go Off

Hereford.—Mrs. Mary Andrews, wife of J. Trevor Andrews, the Oxford running blue and member of a well-known hunting family of Stretton Court, Herefordshire, was admitted to hospital suffering from gunshot wounds.

Mrs. Andrews, who was one of a shooting party at Stretton Court, was shot in the back when crossing a stream on stepping stones.

She had given her gun to her husband, who was following her across when the stepping stones slipped and the gun exploded.

MAY REINSTATE WINNER

London.—Albert Davis of Swindon, the Salvation Army member who drew Egremont in the Irish sweep on the Grand National and thus won $3,425, may be reinstated. Davis, a railwayman, had to give up his membership, as the purchase of the ticket broke the "Army's" rule against gambling.

TRADE HORIZON BRIGHTENS TAKING MEN OFF THE DOLE

Unemployed Down by 116,332, Greatest Cut in Many Months

BUILDING BOOMS

London.—After the encouraging budget, "Full-steam ahead" is the slogan of British industries, with the happy result that men and women are returning to work following years of unemployment, in some cases.

There was a decrease of 116,332 in the number of unemployed in Great Britain during the four weeks ended March 19. This is the biggest monthly drop since last June.

Compared with a year ago there are now 574,607 fewer persons on the dole—the total of unemployed men, women, boys and girls on the registers of employment exchanges being 2,201,577. This is the lowest total of unemployed in the British Isles since October 20, 1930.

Evidence of the general improvement in trade is afforded by statistics which reveal that there are now 10,058,000 insured persons between the ages of 16 and 64 in work—an increase of 117,000 on the previous month and of 664,000 compared with a year ago.

This good news was made known in the official returns issued by the minister of labor.

All the principal industries have shared in providing more work, but the improvement is most marked in the building trade and iron and steel manufacture. Ship-building and ship-repairing, the motor-car, coal and cotton industries, and hotel and boarding-house services also show improvement.

The following table shows the monthly decreases in the number of unemployed since March last year:

	Decrease
April, 1933	78,550
May	144,755
June	144,771
August	31,038
September	74,410
October	37,974
November	18,736
December	85,938
February, 1934	71,159
March	116,332

There was an increase of 4,067 on the month in July last year, and of 164,989 in January this year.

TOTTENHAM REJOICES AS WEE TOT GROWS

Life Despaired of, Child Reared in Home-Made Incubator

London.—Tottenham will rejoice when the vicar of Christ church, West Green Rd., baptizes the tiny auburn-haired Joan, child of a coffee shop keeper's wife.

Tottenham knows Joan as the baby reared in a home-made incubator whom nobody expected to live. Now she is a bonny infant of three and a half months.

Joan came into the world nearly three months before she was expected.

"Of course, the child can't possibly live," said the sympathizing Tottenham people when they heard of the tiny human miracle, swathed in cotton wool in the incubator which its father had made with electric lamps.

But they did not know Joan's mother—reckoned without a woman's indomitable will to rear the child that nearly cost her own life.

Joan's head was smaller than the electric light bulbs of her incubator. She was fed with a pipette—an instrument like a fountain pen filler. It took an hour to give her a meal. She then slept an hour, woke up, had another hour's feeding, and so on.

Now the incubator has been cast aside and Joan has taken possession of a wicker cot.

FRENCH BIRTH RATE LOW

Paris. — Only thirteen out of France's 90 departments have a surplus of births over deaths, according to an article by Fernand Boverat in the Review for the Increase of the French Population. M. Bovert states that the Seine department and Paris are the least prolific departments in France.

DEATH ENDS JOY OF NEWLY-WEDS

Show Goes On After Woman Suffers Fatal Seizure

London.—A young, newly-wedded couple sat in a crowded "house" at the Finsbury Park Empire. They had gone to hear their favorite radio "stars."

The packed audience roared with laughter at the quips of a famous pair of humorists. The newly-weds, hands entwined, laughed too.

Suddenly the bride fainted in her husband's arms. Quietly she was helped out. The show went on.

Outside, a taxicab was hastily summoned; there was a frantic rush to hospital, and a second collapse as the young wife was assisted from the cab.

A minute later she died. In the theatre, laughter rang out from a thousand throats.

The dead woman was Mrs. Florence Mount, age twenty-one, of Sutton St., Caledonian Rd., Holloway.

CLUBMEN PROTESTING LOTTERY RESTRICTION

"Might as Well Take Our Finger-Prints," Suggests Secretary

London.—All clubland, from Pall Mall to the homely working-men's club is joining the fight against the government's betting and lotteries bill.

Particular resentment is felt against the provision which, if it becomes law, will compel the promoters of club stakes to notify the police of their intentions and to register their names. Even the office clerk will have to inform the police that he is organizing a six-penny "sweep" on the Derby.

Clubmen in the Midlands are giving a lead to the rest of the country. They are organizing great protest petitions, which will call on local members of parliament to fight the bill tooth and nail.

"A definite impertinence," was the comment of the secretary of a Birmingham club on the suggested registration of club sweepstakes.

Mr. Boyce, secretary of the Eccentric club, London, said: "This is a most ridiculous provision. We run sweeps. They add a little zest to the club life. They hurt nobody. Only members may participate. Why shouldn't they?"

At the Bachelor's Club a member of the committee said: "It seems to be forgotten that a club is a part of a man's home. To put us under police supervision is intolerable. It might as well be proposed to take our fingerprints."

LAW CONVICTS VETERAN ON 21-YEAR-OLD COUNT

British Legion Wins Release for Man Who Blocked Road With Barrow

Cardiff.—John Merriman, a disabled ex-service man with six children, unemployed for seven years, was arrested and sent to prison for an offence committed twenty-one years ago. He was released and carried in triumph to the local headquarters of the British Legion.

In 1913, Merriman, an army reservist, was summoned for obstructing the highway at Ogmore Vale with a barrow, and in his absence the magistrate imposed a fine and costs totalling sixteen shillings.

He failed to pay this, and, when the reservists were called up, rejoined the Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry. He was wounded in France, and when he came home was met by a large procession—headed by the policeman who had served him with the summons in 1913!

Merriman reminded him about the fine, and says he was told to forget all about it.

When recently he was sent to Cardiff jail for seven days for contempt of court the prison governor immediately got into touch with the British Legion. The money was paid, and the man who had obstructed a highway in Ogmore Vale twenty-one years ago was a free man.

POOR FARMER UNEARTHS GOLD WORTH $100,000

Find Starts Discussion as to Who Buried Gems

OFFERING TO GODS?

Kaunas.—In the small village of Upyte in Lithuania, a poor farmer, while engaged in his annual spring operations, was amply rewarded by bringing to the surface a chest filled with highly ornamented swords and other weapons and gold of an estimated value of more than $100,000. The character of the weapons indicated that they were about five hundred years old.

Some experts place them in the latter part of the Vaza dynasty, the last member of which, King John Kazimir Vaza, ruled Lithuania and Poland in the turbulent years of 1648 to 1668. Because of his pretensions to the Swedish throne this country was invaded by King Charles X of Sweden. He came so swiftly and so unexpectedly that King John Kazimir was compelled to abandon his estates near Upyte and flee for safety to Silesia. It is thought he buried some of his valuables at that time.

Other experts, however, are of a different opinion. They refer to a similar discovery a few years ago near the town of Apulia, which, they say, was undoubtedly named after the ancient god Apollo. They point out that the question now arises whether, upon acceptance of Christianity by the people of this Baltic country five hundred years ago, these treasures were not offerings to the gods, which had to be buried or destroyed at that time as well as the statues of the gods themselves.

Apollo was frequently mentioned in connection with gold and as the "gold-sworded one," and "upele," from which Upyte may be derived, was used as a Lithuanian term of endearment for a river. Therefore, the recently recovered treasure may have been an offering to river gods and may also have some bearing on the mystery of the origin of Apollo's name itself.

CROP OF WHISKERS FALLS IN 11 SECONDS

Tramp Gets Free Shave as Barber Breaks Record

Belgrade.—The record as the world's quickest shaver is claimed by Josef Piray in Murasszombat, Yugoslavia.

A burly tramp, his face covered with a healthy growth of stubble, volunteered to act as raw material, first signing a certificate stating that he absolved the barber of all blame for any possible damage inflicted.

Two valuable seconds were taken up with lathering. In nine seconds more, with nine strokes, the tramp was shaved. He arose smooth and unscathed from the barber's chair as the stopwatch clicked at eleven seconds amid shouts of "bravo!"

GANDHI IS OPPOSED TO CIVIL RESISTANCE

India Surprised as Leader Asks Free Hand

Bombay.—Mr. Gandhi has surprised India by announcing the abandonment of the civil disobedience movement.

"I must advise all congressmen to suspend civil resistance for Swaraj (Home Rule) as distinguished from specific grievances. "They should leave it to me alone," was his declaration.

His only aim, he said, was to purge the movement of any possibility of internal decay. This could only be secured if civil resistance was confined to the one person most versed therein.

As the author of Satyagraha (civil resistance) he might not suspend the movement as regards himself, except in circumstances discrediting it, such as violence by Satyagrahis. He emphasized that his action had no connection whatever with the congress leader's recent decision to contest the forthcoming elections for the legislative assembly, his statement having been drafted last month.

In September last Mr. Gandhi pledged himself not to court imprisonment by offering civil resistance until August of this year. He left civil disobedience to individual initiative.

RENTED CLOSED BANK

Pittsburg.—A new use has been found for closed banks. The downtown office of one of Pittsburg's folded banks has been rented as a showroom by a motor company for a permanent display.

OLDEN DAYS RECALLED AS SMUGGLERS ACTIVE

Antwerp.—Whiskey smugglers are engaged in a frenzied race against time to land large consignments of spirits at carefully selected spots on the Belgian cost.

The most important gang is under the direction of a Latvian, with headquarters here.

Recently a ship flying the Panama flag has made two journeys from Leith, near Edinburgh, to a lonely part of the Belgian coast between Ostend and Nieuport, where it has delivered a thousand cases of whiskey.

The ship was navigated by an Englishman with an unrivalled knowledge of "safe" spots and little-used channels there.

This intensive activity is due to the fact that the Belgian government is now considering the abolition of the prohibition of spirits and liqueurs, as a means of wiping out a deficit of nearly $15,000,000 in the 1935 budget.

While the prohibition lasts, the smugglers can still make their immense profits.

A perfect organization for the distribution of the whiskey has been built up. Both cargoes brought from Leith were taken off by lighters four miles off the Belgian coast, landed, and then conveyed by motor car to Brussels, Malines, and the outskirts of Antwerp and Ostend.

British customs authorities have no control over these activities, for the spirits were legally bought. Once aboard ship, they pass out of their jurisdiction. They are, however, watching the situation closely.

DEMANDS AND GETS TRIAL TO CLEAR NAME IN MURDER

Chauffeur Faces Judge and Jury Protesting Innocence

MANOR LORD DEAD

Berlin.—A murder trial reminiscent of an Edgar Wallace novel is being held before a court at Schweinfurt, in Bavaria, and appears likely to have a dramatic denouement.

Karl Liebig, chauffeur, is on trial at his own request for the murder of Captain Werther, Lord of the Manor of Waltershausen, who was found dead in bed with a bullet in his skull.

His wife, Baroness Werther, was found wounded in five places, but none of the wounds was serious.

Both she and Liebig were arrested on suspicion, but were released for lack of evidence. Liebig, however, to clear his character demanded his trial, as is permissible under German law. He protests his innocence.

In evidence Dr. Fischer, of Wurzburg University, pointed to the fact that suicides had the strange habit of removing their clothes from the spot at which they fired and this had been done in the case of the Baroness whose nightgown showed no bullet holes.

His theory was that the Baroness tried to kill herself with a shot in the chest and, when that failed, inflicted the other wounds in order to throw suspicion upon somebody else.

Another doctor who saw the baroness in hysterics after the murder was asked whether she was acting, and replied that she certainly appeared to have something theatrical about her.

Liebig's counsel declared that the baroness was a morphinist and that she had once promised a complete stranger her hand in marriage and the Manor of Waltershausen if he would murder her husband.

Liebig's story is that early in the morning after the murder a servant girl told him that the baroness had gone mad and he found her before the door of the manor, holding a revolver and covered with blood.

The baroness' story is that she was roused during the night by a shot and rushed into her husband's room and there saw Liebig with her revolver, which he fired at her.

She seized her husband's revolver and fired three shots to give the alarm, she says.

GERMANY BOASTS INCREASE IN SETS

Berlin.—Germany had 5,424,755 radio receiving sets in operation on April 1, an increase of 60,196 over March 1. Broadcasting in Germany is a government enterprise; nobody can legally listen in unless he subscribes with the post-office, which supervises the radio as it does the telephone and telegraph, and pays two marks a month for this privilege.

There is an extended free list, supposed to be available first of all for the unemployed. According to the official returns 477,513 out of the five million-odd radio owners were freed of their fees for March.

GIPSY'S WIDOW AIDED BY WINSTON CHURCHILL

Will Provide Shelter for Aged Woman Ordered From Common

Westerham.—Winston Churchill is to provide sanctuary for a gipsy's widow, who has been ordered out of her home of logs and tarpaulin on Hosey Common, near here.

The woman, the 70-year-old widow of "Donkey Jack", a well-known local gipsy, occupied the hut on what is common ground.

"Jack" died a year ago, and Mr. Churchill paid for his funeral and for the building of the hut.

This was an offence, as no permanent structure may be erected on common land.

As a result, the steward of the Hundred of Westerham gave the old woman notice to quit by June 30, as her act was considered one of trespass.

Mrs. Smith said she was ready to resist all attempts to remove her, as she had nowhere else to go, but Mr. Churchill has promised to find a piece of land on his own ground where she can build another hut.

EXPLOSION ROCKS TOWN

Ambleside.—This whole town in Westmorland was shaken when a compressed air cylinder exploded at Skirrow's Garage.

R. W. Turner, a piano tuner, had his leg smashed and an artery severed when he was struck by the cylinder head, weighing about 20 pounds. A van and a car were damaged and a motorcycle blown over.

SPRINGVILLE W.M.S. OBSERVES SPECIAL MOTHER'S DAY SERVICE

Mesdames Whitfield and Murray Give Interesting Talk on Pioneer Mothers.

LUNCH IS SERVED.

SPRINGVILLE, May 16. (Examiner Correspondence).—Springville W.M.S. met on Wednesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. A. Hunter, by whom a beautiful Mother's Day service was conducted.

The roll call met with united response in the singing of the old favourite hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." The Scripture lesson found in Proverbs was read by Mrs. Douglas. Mrs. Hunter introduced the program by talking of the Home and the worth of the Bible in the home.

Interesting papers were given by Mrs. Johnston on "Mothers of China," Mrs. S. S. Staples on "The Mother-in-law of India" by Miss Esma Johnston on life in Korea and by Miss J. Schaffer on Women of Africa. These papers had as their 'keynote' the life of the mothers in these foreign lands.

A temperance reading was given by Mrs. W. Bowles and in conclusion Mrs. Wm. Whitfield and Mrs. A. Murray dealt in novel manner with the life of the "Pioneer Mothers of our own land." By means of questions and answers supplemented by short stories they told of actual experiences of pioneer days.

A well rendered solo wos given by Mrs. Vincent Whittington of Peterborough who is an ever welcome guest at Springville.

During the business session Mrs. A. Murray extended an invitation to the ladies to her home for the June meeting. The lunch committee was appointed consisting of Mrs. Bothwell, Mrs. H. Brown, Mrs. A. Bowles, Mrs. G. Whitfield. The Stranger's secretary, Mrs. Wm. Whitfield reported having receiving a letter from Mrs. Solomon expressing [illegible]ude for letter and fruit receiv[illegible]uring her recent illness—the letter to be carried over until next meeting.

The meeting was closed by prayer led by the president.

Lunch was served by the lunch committee assisted by the host and hostess, Mr. Hunter having provided a delicious treat of ice cream in honor of his mother.

Votes of thanks were tendered the host and hostess, lunch committee and soloist.

WARSAW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

WARSAW, May 16 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Presbyterian Church was prettily decorated with white flowers and red for Mother's Day. The church program for Sunday schools was closely followed by Dr. Munro, superintendent. Mrs. Munro sang "My Mother's Old Bible is True," and a member of the Bible class read the address.

In the evening, Rev. Mr. Barker preached a sermon on "Mother Care," which seemed far too short to those who heard it.

The United Church Sunday School followed the O.R.E.C. program. Four little girls, Lenore McTivena, Mary Payne, Eva Bolton and Dorothy Payne, led by their teacher, Mrs. Fred. Crowe, gave the acrostic the meaning of joy and sang "I would be True."

In the evening Rev. J. W. Wilkinson preached from "Woman Behold Thy Son, and Son Behold Thy Mother." The choir was mothers from the congregation. The special music was a duet by Mrs. Roland Payne and Mrs. Arthur Payne, and choruses by the other mothers in the choir, and a solo by Mrs. O. B. McIlwena, with chorus. Floral decorations were red flowers and white and jonquils.

There was no service in the Baptist Church owing to Miss Kidd's funeral.

In the Anglican Church, Rural Dean Rev. Mr. Bousfield spoke on "Mothers and Children." Decorations were white lilies.

CENTREVILLE

CENTREVILLE, May 16 (Examiner Correspondence) — Mother's Day was observed last Sunday in Centreville Presbyterian Sabbath School and also at the regular church service. A special printed program was followed in the Sunday School.

Two added features were an interesting talk on "Mother" by Miss Darling and a duet by Miss Grace Johnson and Miss Katie Anderson.

At the regular church service Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A. delivered a helpful sermon on the mutual obligations of mothers and children.

The choir rendered an anthem, Mrs. O. B. Johnson and Miss Jessie Deyell taking the duet. Miss Allie Berry sang a solo. There was a large congregation and a profusion of flowers adorned the pulpit platform.

WARKWORTH UNITED CHURCH

Mother's Day service was held in St. Paul's United Church Sunday morning. O. E. Kelly, Sunday School superintendent conducted the service which was as follows: quartet, Mother's Story, by Messrs. Owen and Ronald Hawkey, Charles Mallory and Edgar Allen; Mother's Day, a paper given by O. E. Kelly; Acrostic, the meaning of joy, by Rose Fields, Mary Insley, Mabel and Myrtle Dudley. After the dedication of the offering a prayer, hymn, Father we bring to Thee gifts of Thy love. Rev. Dr. Cooper gave a splendid address after which the choir sang "Your Mother was Praying for You." Hymn, "Just as I am Thine own to be," and benediction closed the service.

Everything's Lost

Jenny, one of the internationally famous dancing Dolly Sisters, sadly shows a Paris ocurt her disfigured face as she is tried on charge of neglecting to pay luxury tax on 4,000,000-franc ring bought in 1928. Since then she has suffered severe injuries in an auto crash, lost her wealth and her stage career.

RHEUMATISM?

Lame Back? Painful Hip?

Captain W. J. Duncan, Chatham, N.B., wrote: "My Rheumatism started to come on 7 years ago. It has been very painful. Recently I haven't been able to raise my hand. But in the last three weeks I've had great relief—thanks to T-R-C's. They've made a new man out of me." Stop needless misery—take T-R-C's. No harmful drugs. 50c and $1 everywhere. 266

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday School celebrated Mother's Day this year with the use of an order of service prepared by the department, Mr. Robert Walker, superintendent officiating and Rev. G. R. Duncan, minister giving the address on "What our Mothers expect from us." He made use of the blackboard and asked various questions of the scholars. This year's observance of the day was one of the best ever held and was entered into with enthusiasm. At the public service which was held in the auditorium following the Sunday School, Mr. Duncan spoke briefly on Mother's Day and then took for his text the golden text of lesson for the day, Matthew 22: 37 to 39: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul and with all they mind and thy neighbour as thy self," which he showed was the basis of all true temperance and good citizenship.

INCREASE IN SALES OF REFRIGERATORS

Factories Producing Norge Refrigerators Now Working Full Capacity.

TORONTO, May 16.—"Ever since the introduction of the New Norge Refrigerator Models, sales have steadily mounted," comments B. A. Trestrail, Director of Sales and Advertising for the Rogers-Majestic Corporation, who handle Norge in Canada, in a statement recently issued to the press.

"The enthusiasm of dealers when the new Norge line was first presented augured well for 1934 business," continues Mr. Trestrail. "Sales to date, however, have been beyond our expectations with the result that every wheel is now turning in our factories, production schedules have been increased and with our plants working at full capacity steady employment is assured a considerable number of Canadian workers.

"The Norge is, of course, a very well-known refrigerator, backed by resources of something like $30,000,000. Its new convenience features and increased food capacity this year have captured the public imagination and dealers everywhere report a widespread interest."

Success in States

In the United States, the success of Norge refrigeration is equally outstanding, the month of March—according to Howard E. Blood, president — being the greatest sales month in the history of the Norge corporation. Shipments for the first quarter of 1934 set a new record, being approximately three and a half times those for the same period in 1933. All American plants are working at full capacity, trying to cope with orders, and the wage scale in factories is higher even than that of 1928 and 1929, the boom years of industry in the U.S.

2 SUSPECTS WIN MURDER APPEAL

Make Only Third Dismissal Since Court Opened in 1908.

WOMAN STRANGLED.

LONDON, May 16 (C.P. Cable)—Two out of three men sentenced to death for murder won their appeals in the court of criminal appeals yesterday, and for only the third time since the court was instituted in 1908, the convictions were quashed. The appeal of the third was dismissed.

The trio, Albert Ansell, 29, Walter Ross, 24, and Leslie Martin, 32, were found guilty at the Old Bailey of murdering an old woman at Croydon while engaged in robbery. Martin arranged the robbery and in a statement at the trial, while incriminating the others, said he had only kept watch outside the house.

The Lord Chief Justice dismissed Martin's appeal but said the only direct evidence against the others was contained in his insufficiently corroborated statement. The Old Bailey judge by what was obviously a momentary slip treated as corroboration matter inadmissable as evidence, he found, and therefore Ansell and Ross were freed.

The Croydon murder case, as it was known, had aroused unusual interest throughout the country. The victim was found dead the morning after the robbery, having been suffocated by a gag.

RICHARD HALL LIMITED

matic League of the district, James Price, acting as chairman, and a draw made for placing, the first competitor was the branch from St. Luke's Church, presenting "Tommy Says Hello," a very brief, entertaining sketch by Paul D. Gantt. This was almost too short an entry, but was very well acted.

"Tommy Says Hello"

Members of the cast were Bernard Pammett, as John Jones, M.D.; Miss Margaret Guthrie, as Mrs. Jones; Miss Muriel Krant, as Mrs. Hubbard; Miss Margaret Bethune, as a captivating maid, Annie Rooney; Norman Heath, as Tommy Tucker. Director, W. Hepburn.

Millbrook's A.Y.P.A., with the winning play, came second, in one of the most entertaining bits of drama seen here in many moons. It was splendidly enacted, with pantomimic action by the star of the piece, who said never a word throughout, but provoked more hilarity in the audience than many a big-time comedian.

W. T. McCamus had the stellar role in this piece, as the silent, weary, bundle-burdened gent who goes to the movies and sleeps throughout the filming of a lurid romance. Mr. McCamus covered himself with glory in the role, while the other parts were equally well done, with special mention for H. Jordan, as George Griggs, who had seen the play before. Mrs. A. Ford was Mrs. Griggs, Miss Mary Nattress and Miss Winifred Lord were Clarice and Nell, who carried most of the clever dialogue, and the pair of silent boys in the rear were George Gray and Harold McCamus.

Miss Margaret Simpson acted as pianist for the illustrative music of the play, and Mrs. Jordan was the director. "At the Movies" was the title of the play, by Harold B. Allen and Joseph Upper.

"Sunset," by Jerome K. Jerome, was the title of the one-act play chosen by St. John's Church, and directed by Jim Morley.

Miss Ena Young had the main role as the heroine of a somewhat unhappy romantic drama, Lois Rivers; Miss Hilda Phillips was her little half-sister Joan Jasper; Miss Florence Hutchinson was the managing aunt; Jim Morley had the part of Mr. Rivers; Walter Howell was Lawrence Leigh and Bill Coleman did some especially good work in the difficult role of Amariah Stodd.

"Which is Which?" written by Theyre Smith, and enacted by Omemee A.Y.P.A., was the fourth and last of the series. There was some very fine acting in the main part of this play, that of the artist, Robert Capper, in which H. W. Hill gave one of his very fine presentations. The part of Annie, the maid, was another oustanding bit in the hands of Miss L. Jamieson. Other roles were those of Mrs. Mills, taken by Mrs. S. Nurse; Bertha, taken by Miss M. Thorne; Uncle Gargle, taken by George Stevenson, and 'Paddles', taken by H. Bent. Director: Mrs. T. C. Stevenson. There was a quality of naturalness in the acting of Mr. Hill that made his part very interesting.

The cup was presented to the winning branch by Miss Queenie Hope, and Mr. Price extended thanks to all who had helped in any way to make the evening a success.

ONLY 4 MEMBERS LIGHTSHIP CREW SURVIVE CRASH

low—not to sleep, but to sit down a bit."

He was in his quarters reading, when the Olympic approached.

"I rushed on deck" he related. "When I saw the Olympic she was porting her helm, but I knew it would be too late.

She struck us hard. I remember struggling in the water, then nothing."

Capt. W. J. Binks of the Olympic wirelessed the Coastguard immediately after the accident and put out two lifeboats and a motorboat for the Nantucket's crew, whose cries could be heard through the fog.

Olympic's Skipper's Report

In his report to the White Star Line Binks said:

"While in thick weather proceeding at low speed, collided with Nantucket light vessel at 1.06 a.m., light vessel sank. Two boats lowered at 10.09 and 10.12. Seven survivors rescued, four of the crew missing. Of survivors, three have since died. Later, motorboat fitted with wireless was lowered to assist and to bring back two boats. Ship anchored at 10.36 till boats returned, then proceeded at 11.29."

The Department of Commerce at Washington, investigating the disaster, suggested that possibly the Nantucket was a victim of its own radio beam.

Radio beacons of the lightship were so accurate, it was pointed out, that a few weeks ago a steamer following the Nantucket's beam in a fog scraped the side of the lightship.

At the end of the year the member having the greatest number of points will receive a worth while prize. All ladies of the district who are interested in this contest are asked to notify the president or secretary.

A pleasant program was given at the close of the meeting, this including a reading, "Moving the Clothesline" one of Peter McArthur's works, given by Miss Maggie Waddell, and a violin number by Miss Mary Rutherford of West's School, who played a selection of national anthems and old songs. An alphabet contest was staged, for which the winners were Mrs. Cliff Anderson, Mrs. Thomas Campbell, Mrs. Fred Rutherford, and Mrs. H. Clark. A splendid lunch was served by the hostesses.

knowledge of the head office of the company.

Some Charges.

Changes were made representatives of the Imperial Company, controlling an estimated 70 per cent of the trade, had:

1. Removed window streamers of competitors in Toronto and Hull, Que.

2. Torn down outside dispays of competitors and had placed Imperial displays over outside displays of competitors, to be replaced by Imperial displays.

4. Forced independent retailers' buying and indirect to give Imperial counter, window and truck displays by holding out the "bait." These retailers would be placed on the "direct" list which would enable them to buy 10 per cent. cheaper.

5. Placed Imperial inside retail store displays in a front position, removing competitors' displays to a rear position.

The practices of the Imperial Company militated against the independent manufacturers and existed from coast to coast, the witnesses told the committee.

"It is just a matter of a very short time when the independent manufacturer will be thrown out of business," said A. Gaston Munich, president of Benson and Hedges, Canada, Ltd.

FLAMES BREAK IN FOUR PLACES

memories of the 1932 riots drew crowds to the institution.

Roads Blocked.

The police blocked the roads and guards threw a cordon around the penitentiary as the fight to check the fire, fanned by strong winds off Lake Ontario, continued. The thick stone walls and iron doors helped the smoke-choked fire-fighters to keep the flames from spreading to other parts of the institution.

The thick smoke kept the guards and firemen from entering the change room and they climbed atip the boiler room and played the hose on the seething mass of flames in an attempt to block the conflagration from advancing. Clothing, laundry shop, and barber shop equipment fell prey to the fire

The roof of the change room buckled from the heat and about 8.20 o'clock it plunged in, breaking rafters that tumbled against the huge iron doors.

An official statement made at Ottawa declared convicts employed in the mail bags and tin and paint shops were marched out in orderly fashion and there was no demonstration of any kind. Convicts were in cells north-west of the south dome and were unaffected by the smoke

Hoses from Kingston Fire Department pumpers on the lake shot streams into the blaze as successful efforts were made to keep the flames from spreading to the engine room and paint shops.

On May 6 the fire-threat rumors were heard, and convict baseball games were reported cancelled as a disciplinary measure.

FULL INVESTIGATION.

OTTAWA, May 16 (C.P.). — Prompt and full investigation of the serious fire which occurred last night at Portsmouth Penitentiary will be made. The blaze broke out almost simultaneously in four different places, three of them in the change room, the large room in which convicts come to change their clothes, bathe and receive the attentions of the barber.

Brig.-General D. M. Ormond Superintendent of Penitentiaries was fully advised of the fire last night and kept Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, informed.

A survey was under way to-day to determine full extent of the damage and until its completion officials declined to make an estimate.

The damage, however, is heavy, as the roof of the change room fell in and considerable quantities of clothing were stored in it. Penitentiary officers were compelled to call the Kingston City Fire Department to their aid to bring the blaze under control.

MOTHER'S DAY, FEATURE THEME

BRIEF BUSINESS SESSION.

"Mother's Day" was commemorated again by the girls of the X.L. Mission Circle, St. James' United Church, when they met for their May meeting at the home of Mrs. E. J. Wagar, Lock street, last night.

Occupying the chair, the president, Jean Hammond, opened the meeting with a hymn followed by a devotional responsive service, paying tribute to Motherhood. Continuing this theme a group of beautiful little poems were read in turn by Jessie Martin, Marjorie Reddick, Jean Rose, and Mabel Copson.

An interesting and helpful report of Mrs. Smyth's recent address to Circle workers was brought to the girls by Nina Andrews, who pointed out the inspiration derived from hearing such a fine speaker, with a real missionary message.

"Stewardship" was presented to the members in a pithy and challenging talk by Miss M. Kidd, who emphasized consecration to Christ as the first essential, out of which stewardship was a natural growth.

Gladys Langton gave a most interesting synopsis of the last chapter of the study book, "Lady Fourth Daughter of China," which deals with the unfinished tasks in that land and the great necessity for our continued efforts there in behalf of the Gospel of Christ.

Brief Business Session

During the brief business session, fees and freewill offerings were received and reports given by secretary and treasurer. Other items discussed concerned the proposed Summer School at Whitby, the ordering of the annual reports, and plans for the Circle's share in the Fall rally.

Concluding this part of the program with the Benediction, the girls remained for a social hour, when two jolly contests were enjoyed. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses of the evening, Mrs. William Anderson, Marjorie Kennedy, M. Spencely and Lillian Baldry. Announcement was made of the June meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. P. Vannest, 216 Reid street.

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL SCHOOL.

Owing to the absence of the president, Mrs. Wilfred Boorman presided over a large attendance of members, teachers and friends at the regular monthly meeting of Central Home and School Association, which was held Monday evening at the school. A splendid program of music and two guest speakers in the persons of Mrs. Bell and Reg. N. Piper, as well as a business session made up the evening's entertainment.

The meeting opened with the Lord's Prayer, after which Mrs. Boorman read a letter from Mrs. Stanton explaining her absence. Reports from the secretary and treasurer were read. Mrs. N. Stanger gave a splendid account of the Women's Council.

A paper collection in order to augment the treasury was decided upon, and it is hoped the parents will help the children to make it a success.

Another meeting will be held in June in order to complete plans for the annual picnic. Mr. Windrim's room again carried off the honors for having the largest representation of parents at the meeting.

The musical program included violin solos by John McMillan (pupil of Stanley Northrop), "Invitation to the Dance" (Weber), and an encore, which received great applause.

C. Rice, accompanied by Mrs. Rice, delighted with the very appropriate vocal numbers, "Eugene Field's Little Boy Blue," "The Shadow March," by Robert Louis Stephenson, and "Gettin' Lickin's."

Mr. Piper gave a most inspiring educational talk, basing his remarks on the influence of motherhood and the home.

Mrs. Bell spoke on "Girl Guides," and in a clear and lucid manner gave a brief resume of their activities since their inception 25 years ago. "Guides," said the speaker, "include three groups, namely, Brownies, whose watchword is 'Lend a Hand'; Guides, whose watchword is 'Render Service,' and Rangers, whose watchword is 'Be Prepared.' The main aim of the Guides is international friendship."

D. Munroe proposed a vote of thanks to the speakers and others taking part in the program, and the hearty handclap by the audience evidenced the appreciation of those present for the splendid program organized by Mrs. Philipps, the program convenor.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, with Mrs. Boorman at the piano.

Barn Threatened By Grass Fire

Believed to have been started by a vagrant spark from a passing locomotive, fire yesterday afternoon swept a 6-acre field in the vicinity of Auburn Woollen Mills threatening serious damage to the residence of Miles Hamilton on River Road.

Responding to an alarm, firefighters from the City Fire Department beat out the flames just as it appeared inevitable that a large barn on the Hamilton property was about to become ignited. When the brigade arrived, it is stated, Mr. Hamilton was keeping the flames at bay with buckets of water which he was sluicing onto the side of the barn.

Favorable Financial Reports Read at Regular Meeting of Y.W.C.A. Board.

CAMP PREPARATIONS.

The regular meeting of the Y.W.C.A. Board of Directors was held on Monday. Mrs. E. E. Harvey, president, opened the meeting with prayer and devotional exercises. The announcements included a reminder to all "Y" members and friends of the annual meeting to be held Tuesday evening, May 22. The meeting promises to be interesting and will include reports of the year's work, musical program, numbers from the gymnasium pageant.

An invitation to Peterborough "Y" members to attend a meeting of the National Council in Toronto, May 21, when Miss Van Arch Van Wych, World's General Secretary, will be guest speaker, and also a notice of the Tea and Sale of Cooking under the auspices of the Local Council of Women at the Y.W.C.A. Thursday afternoon.

The financial reports presented by Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, chairman of the finance committee were most encouraging and showed a splendid balance from the recent pageant and a balanced statement at the close of the year. This report was commented on most favorably by the president, who spoke of some of the worries during the year, but the thankfulness and satisfaction of not having to face a deficit at the close. Appreciation was expressed to the staff of the Y.W.C.A. who had tried in every way to carry on an even larger program of service and education and to extend the work in every department even though the work really called for a larger staff.

The convenor of each department presented the budgets for next year and these were accepted by the board. Considerable repairs are needed in each department and will require increased finances for the association.

Miss M. Hamilton reported for the Camp Committee. Everything points to a happy season again at inglestane and many girls have already indicated their intention of spending their holidays at camp. Each year new equipment is added and Peterborough "Y" camp ranks as one of the best in Canada. Its location, accommodation and program make it ideal for the business girl, and its summer sports, handcraft, swimming and boating appeal equally to the juniors. The first two weeks of July will be Junior with special arrangements for Seniors who take their holidays then. The second week of July will be C.G.I.T. week, when the Girls' Work Board of Peterborough arrange a special program and extra leadership. The balance of the summer is Senior Camp, with some Juniors if there is accommodation. The camp staff this season will include Miss Esme Thomlinson camp hostess and supervisor; Miss Jane Coventry, director and sports officer; and Miss Florrie Lugadin, camp councillor. Mrs. Peace will again have charge of the splendid camp meals, and J. Ridyard will look after the grounds, boats and repairs.

Mrs. E. Morrison reported for the residence, showing a year of appreciation on behalf of the girls in residence. While the residence has not been filled this past winter, and while coal bills have been larger, still this department has been able to meet all expenses and has as well to its credit free service to a number who have come to Peterborough looking for work. The sympathy of those in residence, staff and board was mentioned in the feeling of loss to the association in the death of the late Miss Lizzie Houren, who had served the Y.W.C.A. for the past 14 years.

Miss Littlefield reported on the Pageant, emphasizing the help given by the women's organizations of the churches in the sewing; the merchants of the city; The Peterborough Examiner, Board and Committee members. The swimming pool opened the last week in April for swimmers, and lessons commenced right after the pageant. The classes are all filling up very nicely and before summer a new group of swimming enthusiasts will be enjoying this healthy recreation.

The General Secretary, Miss Brownscombe, spoke of the splendid co-operation of the staff, board and committees, girls of the "Y" and the enthusiasm and willingness to help which was shared in every phase of the year's work.

PARIS CAFE REDECORATED

Joining fully in the city's paint-up campaign, Sam Hum, proprietor of the Paris Cafe, has had this most popular dining establishment completely redecorated. The smart-looking front of the cafe is glistening in its new paint, while the appearance of the interior has been greatly improved, the walls and ceilings having been redecorated and the woodwork newly varnished. H. Kellar, 404 Dublin street, painter and decorator, did the work.

Obituary

MRS. JOSEPH FARNELL

The funeral of Raphael Farnell, wife of Joseph Farnell, was held on Tuesday morning from the residence, 495 Albert street, to the Church of the Sacred Heart where Requiem Mass was sung by Rev. C. J. Moloney.

Father Moloney also delivered an eloquent sermon in which he touched upon the importance of life as a means of preparation for the next life. He referred to the life of the late Mrs. Farnell as having been a splendid example to the parish, and remarked that during her long residence in the city she had been practically a daily attendant at church.

The large number of spiritual and floral tokens gave testimony of the esteem she held in the community, as also did the large congregation in attendance at the services. Pall-bearers were: Messrs. N. Giardino, N. DeNoble, D. Stant, C. Giardino, J. Delessaro, and C. Mattuci. Grandchildren of the deceased acted as flower bearers. Interment was made at St. Peter's Cemetery.

Mrs. Farnell is survived by her aged husband, Joseph Farnell, one daughter, Mrs. Mary DeCarlo of this city and a step daughter, Mrs. Brown of Detroit.

MISS HARRIET HALL.

The death occurred on Tuesday evening of Harriet Hall, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hall, at her residence, 373 Queen Street, following upon a brief illness. She was 82 years of age.

A native of England, the late Miss Hall had resided in this city for eighty years, where her father was at one time proprietor of a confectionery business. She is survived by three cousins, Fred W. Hall of Toronto, Mrs. A. E. Brundette of Kitchener, and Mrs. William Maude of Englehcart.

The late Miss Hall was a lifelong member of St. John's Church.

Funeral services are to be held on Friday at 2 p.m. from St. John's Church, with interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

PRESENTS PRIZES

At the conclusion of the meeting of the Young People's Society of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church last evening, prizes were presented to Miss Marion Armstrong of the Devotional committee, Miss Ann Young, Missionary; Miss Ciara Patterson, Social, and Mr. Jack Bennett, Literary, by the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, who presented the prizes for the leader of the committee sponsoring the most outstanding programmes between New Year's and Easter. The major prize went to Miss Armstrong. Taking part in the program were Miss Elizabeth Walker, the new Deaconess to St. Paul's, who has a fine reputation as an elocutionist and Miss Alma Rutherford. A vote of thanks was moved to Dr. Barr by the president, Miss Violet Davidson.

CIRCLE PLANS PICNIC

Mrs. D. Brown took the Study hour at the regular meeting this week of the Alpha Mission Circle of St. Andrew's United Church.

Miss Helen Tremain presided and reports of various secretaries were received.

Arrangements were discussed for the Circle picnic and the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Household Hints

Broiled Steak Baked Potatoes
Carrot and Ripe Olive Salad
Orange Biscuits Jam
Coffee

This new salad should intrigue you if you are one of those who serve a salad with almost every dinner, and occasionally run out of ideas. The hot biscuits may be served with the meat course, and jam added for dessert.

Today's Recipes

Carrot and Ripe Olive Salad—One-half cup sliced, uncooked carrots, one cup cooked peas, one-half cup diced celery, one-half cup chopped ripe olives, one green onion, minced; French dressing. Combine ingredients in order named, tossing them together lightly. If the bowl in which the vegetables are mixed has been rubbed with a cut clove of garlic so much the better. Pour French dressing over vegetables and chill an hour or so in the refrigerator. Drain well, pile lightly on lettuce, top with a spoonful of mayonnaise and sprinkle it lightly with chopped parsley or with thin strips of green pepper. Slices of cucumber arranged around the base of this salad lend crispness and flavor.

Orange Biscuit—Two cups pastry flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one tablespoon sugar, four teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons butter, three-fourths cup milk. Sift dry ingredients together, cut in shortening, add liquid slowly to make soft dough. Roll out or pat about one-fourth inch thickness and cut into rounds. In center of each round place one teaspoon orange marmalade and a small piece of butter. Moisten edges and cover with another round. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and bake fifteen minutes at 475 degrees.

Lemon Snow Cake.—Two cups sugar, two cups flour, one-half cup cornstarch, three-fourths cup butter, one cup milk, two teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon vanilla, whites of seven eggs. Sift sugar, flour, cornstarch, flour, baking powder and salt together four times. Cream butter, add sugar a little at a time, creaming in well. Add dry ingredients alternately with the milk. When blended fold in the egg whites beaten stiff. Pour into three layer cake pans, bake in moderate oven (350 to 375 degrees) for 25 minutes. Allow to cool. Put layers together with lemon filling. Lemon Filling.—One cup sugar, one egg, one-half cup water, one tablespoon butter, two tablespoons flour, juice and rind of two lemons. Melt butter and stir until well blended. Add sugar, egg, water and grated rind and lemon juice; mix all together Cook in double boiler until it thickens, about 30 minutes. Place between layers of cake.

Pineapple Pie.—Combine one-half cup sugar with four tablespoons cornstarch in a double boiler. Add one cup boiling water and cook 15 minutes. Beat two egg yolks, add three-fourths cup syrup from canned pineapple and stir into the first mixture. Cook five minutes longer, add two teaspoons butter and two tablespoons lemon juice. Cool slightly, pour into a baked shell covered with meringue made of two egg whites and four tablespoons sugar. Bake at 300 degrees about 15 minutes.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

The charming Norma Shearer, who has won more awards for her talented acting than any other Hollywood star, is considered one of the cleverest make-up artists in the entire cinema world. Norma's make-up always looks delightfully smooth and natural. And she claims that one important reason for this is because she knows how to prepare her skin properly for the reception of her cosmetics.

There's a good deal in what Norma says, of course. For blotchy make-ups often result from improper treatment of the skin previous to the application. However, even skillful use of cosmetics can't cover faults of neglect. If you don't give your skin care, don't keep it clear and smooth, all the cosmetics in the world won't conceal its blemishes. That's the first thing you must do if you want your make-lup to look perfect. You must give your skin a break, keep it clear and flawless.

A knowledge of powder bases, however, really is important. Norma has a normal skin, and she believes that this type of skin really has little need of any foundation. If it is cleaned thoroughly with a good, liquefying cleansing cream, and the pores closed with a soothing astringent, it should be in proper condition for the reception of cosmetics. This is the method that Norma herself uses.

If the skin is flaky, dry and rough, however, Norma feels that some sort of a creamy powder base is necessary, in order to hold the powder and keep the skin looking smooth. For this purpose, a special foundation cream that does not clog the pores may be used, or a wispy film of nourishing cream. The latter is best in winter, to protect a dry skin from chapping, and in summer to protect it from the burning rays of the sun.

An oily foundation, however, shouldn't be used on an oily skin, as it is likely to reappear through the powder and make the skin look greasy. If you have an oily skin cleanse your face thoroughly first employing your usual cleansing method. Then pat a good astringent over your face. This should remove any excess oil from your skin and give it just the right firmness and texture to make your cosmetics smooth and lasting.

About two hundred and fifty guests, members and friends of the Golden Link Rebekah Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, sat down last night to a sumptuous banquet held under the auspices of the Rebekahs, in the dining-room of the Odd Fellow's Temple. Decorations were carried out in pink and green and the head table was done very attractively with a large bouquet of pink tulips and pink candles in green candlesticks. The members of the Women's Association of Murray Street Baptist Church, with the president, Mrs. R. G. Gavine, in charge, did the catering in a very satisfactory manner. The Noble Grand of the Rebekah Lodge, Miss Reta Head, acted as toastmistress and proposed the toast to "The King," which was acknowledge in the usual manner. Eloquent toasts followed, with Miss Birdie Dawson proposing "The Mothers," and response by Mrs. J. Londerville; Mrs. G. Worboy proposing "The Daughters," with response by Miss Leta Ruth, and Miss Head proposing "The Order," responded to by the District Deputy president, Mrs. W. H. Morton. Mrs. Booth also mentioned the gratification of Rebekah mothers when their daughters chose to follow in their footsteps by taking a part in the efforts of the Order. Interesting interludes in the program were the sing-sing, led by Miss Viola Martin and Miss Margaret Johnston; a piano solo by Mrs. H. McGinness; a vocal solo by Mrs. G. F. Just Between Us Women

The picnic season is here, and those who delight in life out-of-doors rejoice. In cool days the warmth of the sunshine is welcome, and one can bask in it. When days are hot, there is shade from trees in fresh green foliage. And all the time there is that peculiarly delicious fragrance of Spring air with its flower-scented perfume.

* * * * * * *

To enjoy the picnic after it is over is of importance as well as during the pleasant hours in the open air. There should be a benefit from it. To insure this, three things are necessary. First—the preparations should not have been too tiring. Often a woman becomes so weary getting ready for the outing, that, in spite of the pleasure, she gets little or no recuperative good from it. Sometimes she is too weary even to enjoy the picnic. So don't exhaust your power of enjoyment before starting off.

* * * * * * *

Second—be dressed for the occasion. Wear simple sport clothes, avoid appearing in party frocks. They don't make you look your best, because they are unsuitable, and attention is attracted to that element critically not to the person. Also suit your clothes to the weather. To wear garmens too heavy for the temperature is uncomfortable, and those too thin are scarcely less so. In either instance colds may result. A lightweight frock with a sweater, or "woolly" as the English say, is a good combination.

* * * * * * *

And last in order of comment, although not in account is the proper food. Just what this should be cannot be decided at random, for picnics vary in style. There are some at which hearty sandwiches, cookies or cake, and fruit, with cold or hot beverages are just the thing. There are other picnics where slices of meat, buttered rolls, a salad, hot or cold beverages, ice cream and cake, fruit, etc., are desirable. Whatever the food, have enough but not a lavish quantity. Left-over picnic food is not tempting. Remember that appetites crave main course foods rather than frills.

THE MAGICIAN

Perhaps bidding might not have gone so high had not South known how well his partner played, pulling tricks out of hands as a magician pulls rabbits from a silk hat. North played the hand as if inspired. He never hesitated over any play, just as is he saw the adverse cards.

Bidding was a bit weird. It went: South, 1-no trump; West, passed; North, 2-diamonds; South, 2-hearts; West, 2-spades; North, 3-diamonds; South, 4-diamonds; North, 4-hearts; South, 6-diamonds, which was doubled by East.

The opening lead was the 2 of spades, which every player at the table knew was a singleton. North's ace won the trick.

Instead of leading trumps, as almost any other player would have done, the declarer led his two hearts, overtook the second heart with dummy's ace, and led the J, knowing that in all probability the seven adverse cards of that suit were divided 4-3. Upon dummy's J of hearts North discarded his lowest club.

Dummy's ace of clubs was led, followed by the Q. West hesitated about covering with the K, but finally did so. North trumped. Then he led a trump, and East was in with his ace, and West hadn't another trump left to ruff a heart, while East could not lead a spade. East had to choose between leading a trump or a club. He decided upon a heart, it was barely possible that West held a trump. North let go one losing spade. He discarded his last losing spade upon dummy's 10 of clubs, then he spread his hand, having lost only a single trick, and holding only top trumps.

Unless East's double made North credit East with possession of the ace of trumps, and West with the spade honors and the K of clubs, it is impossible to say how the declarer appeared to know just how adverse cards were held, but his rapid fire play made it appear that he knew where every important card was.

Just how well North manipulated his cards will be better appreciated if one tries to go contract in any other manner. He needed two spade discards and a club discard. He provided for the latter by leading hearts before any other suit. He provided for the discard of two spades by leaving one established club and one good heart in dummy before touching trumps.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

We frequently have been reminded of late years that heart disease is very much on the increase in our day and age. Whether this is due to an actual increase, or simply due to the fact that the number of heart deaths reported results from the fact that the span of life is lengthened, cannot exactly be determined. Certainly death from heart disease is an incident of advanced age. It affects few people under 25 years of age, indeed, few people under 45 years of age.

It must be remembered that the death rate among infants 50 years ago was three times as great as it is today. People who reached the age of 10 years had almost as good a life expectancy in 1850 as they have today. The actual figures are that in 1850 a 10-year-old child had a life expectancy of 55 years. When we come to the age of 40, we find that in 1850 a man had an expectancy of 27 years, and in 1930 of 29 years. The improvement has occurred, then, in the younger period of life, and we must expect that if our population is to reach higher ages in great numbers, that the diseases of old age will consequently increase.

But in the case of one heart disease, angina pectoris, even this reasoning does not serve to explain the increase in the number of cases. For instance, from 1910 to 1919, in the same relative section of population, there were 18 per cent of cases of angina pectoris, and 30 per cent from 1920 to 1931. Since there seems to be no special reason why this disease should increase in the latter period, we must assume that it is an apparent increase due to improvement in our methods of recognizing its presence.

There is no doubt of this improvement. Physicians are more on the lookout for it than they were before, the symptoms are better known, methods of confirmation are more widely employed, such as the use of the electrical instrument for examining heart tracing, the electrocardiograph. And even, recently, the X-ray has been employed to show that it is possible to make out calcification of the arteries of the heart.

The angina pectoris is not a new disease, however, is evident in abundance. Several physicians claim to have found the earliest recorded case. Dr. Riesman, in Philadelphia, has found in Homer's "Odyssey" that Phrontis, son of Onetor, Menelaus' navigator, "dropped dead with the steering oar of the moving ship within his hands."

HAVEN'T you noticed that your happiest hours occur on days when you feel your best?

Have more of these happy days. You and all your family. Guard health while you have it. Keep on the sunny side of life.

The greatest enemy of health is common constipation. It may cause loss of appetite and energy. Certainly it kills enthusiasm! Yet it can be banished by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" and vitamin B to relieve common constipation. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much pleasanter to eat this delicious ready-to-eat cereal than to take patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

IF THIS kind of weather keeps up until Saturday the Woodbine racing strip will be the fastest in history, and some new records should be hung up when the bangtails go into action. The colony at the track is increasing each day and by Friday they expect every available stall to be occupied. Lloyd Gentry who trains the large string for Harry Hatch and who led all trainers the recent Kenilworth meeting has been refused a license by the C.R.A. This means that any of the Hatch horses that will perform at the Woodbine will be saddled by J. Black. The C.R.A. never gave a reason for refusing to grant Gentry a license so we are in the dark but it will mean that most of the Gentry and Hatch will pass up our tracks on this side of the line in favor of Detroit and Chicago.

Horometer, if he is successful in winning the King's plate may be shipped to Detroit to try his hand with open company in the Detroit derby. DICK TOWNROW has been engaged to ride Pitchblende in the plate classic. We hear they are going to introduce the saliva test at Woodbine, but until we get more of the details we will withhold any opinion. It seemed to work fine at Pimlico, but at Hialeah it was very unsatisfactory, both to horsemen and to track officials. J. D. In his day he was one of the most competent and popular jockeys to ever sport the silks.

DODGERS BEAT CARDINALS 6-5

Rally in Eighth Enables Brooklyn to Shorten St. Louis Lead.

RELIEF HURLING COUNTS.

(By The Canadian Press)

Tuesday's triumph left the Giants only a half-game out of third place as Brooklyn's Dodgers also staged a finishing celebration and beat out the Cardinals 6-5. Despite the brilliant efforts of Jack Rathrock, who walloped a homer, a double and three singles and figures in all the scoring that gave the Cards a 5-1 lead, the Dodgers wouldn't be stopped once Jim Mooney began to weaken.

Far behind after five innings, the Dodgers scored a pair in the sixth, drove Mooney off the hill with three straight hits in the eighth and won the game when a double steal by Linus Frey and Danny Taylor produced the third run of the inning.

Although defeated, the Cards ended their home stand with nine victories and only three losses, a record excelled only by Pittsburgh Pirates, who won eight and lost two to end in first place. Although a half-game behind the Cubs in the game count, the Bucs had a .682 average and Chicago .667.

The two games were the only ones played in the major leagues yesterday as rain washed out the entire American League program in the east and the National League contests at Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

Newark Bears Benefit As Big Time Ball Clubs Cut Down Their Squads

Four Players Sent to International League Team, Including Charley Devens.

OTHER DEALS PENDING.

Joe Judge and Burleigh Grimes Receive Unconditional Releases.

NEW YORK, May 16. — The perfunctory business of lopping off rookie heads to bring major league rosters within the twenty-three player limit yesterday was interrupted by the sale of Lyn Lary, much-sought Yankee infielder, to Boston Red Sox, and the evidence of frantic efforts otherwise by most American League managers to strengthen their clubs for the attack on New York's big pennant lead.

Following the apparent return to form of their expensive lefthander, Bob Grove, the Red Sox were willing to hand over approximately $20,000 in cash, besides a rookie infielder, Fred Muller, in exchange for Lary. The Yankees previously had offers for Lary from at least three other clubs, but, besides putting a stiff price on his release, Manager Joe McCarthy was anxious to get a pitcher in any deal.

Bears Obtain Devens

Apparently McCarthy is now satisfied his pitching staff will do for the balance of the season, for he not only agreed to part with Larry, a $50,000 investment, but also announced the release on option of Charles Devens, former Harvard ace righthander, to Newark Internationals.

Meanwhile rumors were rife concerning pending deals calculated to fortify the champion Washington Senators, Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians in their pursuit of the Yankees, who threaten to make another runaway of the American League race. On the National League side of the fence the staggering New York Giants, acting like anything but world champions, were reported dickering for Babe Herman, slugging outfielder of the Cubs, and a former Brooklyn favorite.

Joe Judge Released

The major league landmarks, Joe Judge of the Red Sox, and Burleigh Grimes of the Cardinals, received unconditional releases in the general rush to reduce rosters to the player limit. Judge has spent 19 years in the majors and Grimes, lastof the spitballers, had just started his nineteenth season.

The Yankees' latest acquisition, Muller, who came up last season from Seattle, won't even have a chance to wear a New York uniform for the time being. He joins Devens and Norman Kies, young backstop, on the list of players optioned to the Newark farm.

The Cubs released Pitcher Lynn Nelson to Atlanta; the Browns returned Pitcher Jim Weaver to Newark Internationals; the Brooklyn Dodgers sold Phil Page, southpaw, to Kansas City and Outfielder Glenn Chapman to Albany, while Detroit Tigers released Pitcher Steve Larkin to Toledo.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

During the regular playing season the ordinary wooden peg is long enough to keep the ball at least a half inch above the grass on the teeing ground. The grass is also much shorter than in the early spring.

In the long grass pegs of ordinary length cause the ball to rest almost on the ground.

The player doesn't realize that this low position of the ball forces him to dig after the ball in hitting. It also calls for a cleaner hit. All of which makes a good shot less likely.

A longer peg should be used and the ball kept just as far above the long grass as it is when the tees are closely chopped.

The higher tee means a cleaner hit, and straighter shot.

LEAFS RETAIN SECOND PLACE

Syracuse Pitching Clouted for 16 Hits as Toronto Wins 11 to 9.

BELATED RALLY FAILS.

Toronto Maple Leafs maintained their hold on second place, 3½ games behind Rochester and four percentage points ahead of Newark by outslugging Syracuse Chiefs, 11-9. With Manager Ike Boone contributing a double and four singles to a 14-hit assault, the Leafs scored all their runs off Roger Hanlon and Joe Bloomer in the first five innings. Keith Frazier received credit for the victory, although he was batted out of the box in the ninth, when Syracuse rallied for four runs.

Chad Kimsey kept Baltimore's nine hits well scattered and drove in six runs himself with a home run, double and single as Montreal walked off with a 13-2 decision. Kimsey's homer with the bases filled in the third knocked George Granger out of the box. Granger and his successors, John Krider and Hormidas Aube gave up 15 hits and 12 bases.

CARL HUBELL HURLS GIANTS TO 10-3 WIN

New Yorkers' Victory Snaps Chicago Lead in National Race.

POOR ROAD TOUR.

Terry Clan Stages 15-hit Attack Against Charley Root and Bud Tinning.

By HUGH FULERTON, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

In the course of a disastrous tour through the western sector of the National League, New York Giants have managed to prove that they still are dangerous when Carl Hubbell is pitching and that the danger may increase after they return home to-morrow.

What started as a joyous jaunt through the hinterlands for the league leaders ended with the Giants in fourth place after losing eight games and winning five. But they managed to find one bright spot in the picture yesterday when they celebrated their release from the terrors of the road by smashing out a 10-3 decision behind Hubbell's hurling and knocked Chicago Cubs right out of the lead.

The slender Oklahoman, whose left arm bore much of the pitching burden of the 1933 campaign, bore down once he got past a bad first inning and gave only five hits and one in the remainder of the game. And it was an error by Travis Jackson, the 21st of 22 the giants made in 13 western games, that caused part of the trouble in the first.

To back him up ,the Giants smashed 15 hits, including Mel Ott's seventh homer and his first of the tour, drove Charley Root to the showers in four innings and just breesed through as every player got at least one safe blow. Joe Moore also hit for the circuit as one of his three safeties and Dolph Camilli contributed a chicago homer.

HOMER RECORD FOR SINGLE INNING IS MADE AT BUFFALO

Five Circuits Out of Park in Second Frame as Herdsmen Win From Albany Senators 8-2 For Two-game Lead on Series—Milligan and Jones Are Goats.

A new all-time home-run record was credited to Buffalo Bisons today.

Fighting to keep out of the International League cellar, the Bisons plastered Albany pitching for six home runs yesterday and set up a new record by getting five of these in a single inning. The major league record of four homers in one inning was set by Pittsburg in 1894 and equalled by Chicago Cubs in 1930.

The battle at Buffalo started calmly enough, but in the second the Bisons began to tee off. The score was tied at 1-1 when Mueller walked and then the firing commenced. Meyers clouted the first homer, and, after two men had been retired, Mulleavy, Mallon, Smith and Regan drove the ball over the fence in succession. Art Jones, who had relieved Johnny Milligan in the midst of the bombardment, then hit Jack Plummer, hard-hitting rookie outfielder, on the head with a fast ball and Plummer dropped unconscious to the ground. Tucker ran for him and after Mueller had walked for the second time in the inning, Meyers ended the agony with a pop fly. All told, the Bisons collected six runs in that hectic frame.

Third Setback for Wings.

Newark Bears also took the home run route to hand Rochester Red Wings their third successive setback, 12-4. The Bears' 14 hits included five homers, two each by Dale Alexander and Vince Barton, and one by Jack Saltzgaver. Behind that sort of gunning, Floyd Newkirk pitched his way to an easy triumph.

Unusual Accident In Winnipeg Game

WINNIPEG, May 16. (CP). Harold Bossard, peppery shortstop of the Winnipeg Maroons of the Northern Baseall League, was in hospital last night recovering from head injuries received in one of the most peculiar accidents ever seen on a baseball field.

The accident occurred in the first game of the Northern League season here, when Bossard, attempting to run to second base, was struck on the right temple by a ball thrown by Eddie Schol, Eau Claire Bears' shortstop. Continuing its flight, the ball caromed off Bossard's head and broke the nose of a woman spectator in the stands.

Bossard was taken to hospital, unconscious. Later, however, hospital attendants reported he was "resting well" and was not seriously injured.

McGILL YOUTH, GILBERT NUNNS IN LAST FIGHT

Murray Provides Upset by Defeating Rainville in Straight Sets 7-5, 6-4, 7-5.

MOST IMPROVED PLAYER.

Martin, Rainville and Watt Selected—Will Decide Fourth Position.

(By Elmer Dulmage, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

TORONTO, May 16 (CP)—A young fellow that more observant critics have been looking to for more than a year to win his Davis Cup spurs was on the verge to-day of making a premature appearance. He is 19-year-old McGill undergraduate, Bobby Murray.

Three of the four positions on the Canadian team that will play United States at Wilmington, Del., in the first round of the North American zone Davis Cup playdowns were filled yesterday by Walter Martin, Marcel Rainville and Laird Watt. Either Murray or Gilbert Nunns will get the fourth position.

Provides Upset

It would have been Nunns without an argument had not the tall, stylish Murray, the most improved player of the early-season, stepped into Rainville yesterday and whipped the little Montreal Frenchman in straight sets, 7-5, 6-4, 7-5.

This upset left Nunns and Murray each with three victories and two defeats in the trials. The selection committee ordered the two to play a match to-day to decide which will join the Winlmington-bound squad. Murray was the only victor over Rainville in the series of singles matches that started last Friday.

A Promising Player

Murray was invited to take part in the trials because of his promising play last season. He had won the Canadian Junior title and the McGill championship. Many critics regarded him as the best prospect in the country, but it was not expected he would break through to the Davis Cup team this season.

Nunns whipped him in straight sets and Watt in four sets in the opening matches of the trials, and Murray's chances were considered very slender. He defeated George LeClerc of Ottawa and Ossie Ryall of Vancouver as a build-up for the Rainville contest. Murray's display yesterday was highly impressive.

Trailing 4-0 in the first set, he went to the net at every opportunity and held the upper hand for the rest of the route except for a lapse in the third set, when Rainville made a gallant rally after dropping five straight games. The French star squared the third set at 5-all, but could not keep up the pace.

INDIANS DROP SPENCER

NEW YORK, May 16. —Walter Johnson, manager of the Cleveland Indians, announced last night that he would part with Catcher Roy Spencer in order to come within the 23-player limit. Johnson was dickering with a couple of minor league clubs, names not revealed, regarding optioning out Spencer of selling him outright. Spencer was obtained from Washington for Luke Sewell in 1932. Previously he played with Pittsburgh and Indianapolis. He is 34.

The Losers' End

Toronto Maple Leaf hockey players received their play-off cheques yesterday. It was the smallest amount the Leafs have divided for their play-off efforts since 1931, when Chicago knocked them out of the Stanley Cup series in two games. Each player received $300, the money being divided into 18 shares of that amount each. Irvin Bailey was voted a full share.

The Leafs had to take the loser's end—40 per cent.—of the first three games of their series with Detroit for the National Hockey League title. The money allotted to the players is 40 per cent. of the gate receipts, less expenses for rink, advertising, etc.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer
Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. P.

A lot of fans will be chucking a quick bite or three of victuals into their great open spaces early this eve grabbing a big nickel and ankling up to Central School grounds. It seems there is a softball game due to be played up there, starting right along about six o'clock. It is between C.G.E. and Dunlop Tires, and is the first game of the season. Now, if it doesn't rain, nor come up a severe dust storm or such, the softballers will usher in the season, said ushering being partially aided and abetted by maybe a few aldermen or other prominent men in civic circles. It always requires a few aldermanic heaves to get a sporting league moving in the spring so heave ho, me hearties!

• • • • • • •

What with one thing and another, we have not been in close communication with the team manager of C.G.E. and the Tires by Dunlop. And so we cannot state how good they are—that is, the teams. We did see 'em a week ago and they looked quite promising, but a week is a long time in the spring tryouts of a softball team. Players come and go, there is much rushing about to sign, and many are called but few respond. One night, everyone is on hand and his brother. A smart team is lined up. Next night, there is nothing on the diamond but a couple of second-hand stars, a broken bat and maybe two pr three tin cans! It's very discouraging. However, we imagine two good teams will open it up this eve.

• • • • • • •

A guy by the name of Fred Waghorne, who is president or something of the Ontario Lacrosse Assoc., and another dude called Gene Dopp, whose chief duty is to be secretary of the O.A.L.A., are not playing ball with the lacrossers down this way. We had to bawl them out a bit to stir these lads up last year, and this unpleasant duty again becomes necessary this spring. Every once in a while they clean forget that there is a fairish large chunk of Ontario east of Toronto, said chunk being the headquarters of quite a few good lacrossers. And these players wish for some action, some competition, some league—well, something, anyway. Now, the Messrs. Waghorne, Dopp and Co. were to call a meeting down this way to organize a league, but so far nothing has been done. Is that fair, Messrs. W., D. and Co.? Is it nice? In fact, we will go so far as to ask: Is it cricket?

• • • • • • •

There are still quite a few kicks left in ye local senior baseball exec. We thought after all the work and worry, not to mention grief and battling, they went through to get the old C.O.B.L. in motion last month, they would go fishing for a month or so, or at least forget baseball troubles. But no, they are still very much in there battling to dish up lively senior ball here. And so we have Riverdale Grads of Toronto here May 24th for two games. Kingston was first slated to come here, but since the schedule isn't officially released yet, the local officers asked Kingston to wait till the following Saturday, so the Grads—who recently knocked Oshawa bowlegged—could show their stuff. Kingston, as usual, said: "No, of course not." So the gents from here went to the league prexy and secretary, found out the schedule must be revised anyway, and got permission to have the Grads here the 24th. And the Grads have agreed. Nice work, we call it.

• • • • • • •

Along about now, we imagine a lot of officers of the T.A.B.A. and the Ulster Stadium League are beginning to wonder why they fought so hard early in the spring to get Oshawa into the Ulster Loop. To date, the vaunted Dukes have taken part in four games and have taken, not part, but all of four lickings—four mansized drubbings. For instance last night, Riverdale Grads—yeah, that's the team that'll be here a week Thursday—only beat the Dukes by 11 to 0. And along about now, some of the C.O.B.L. moguls are wondering also why they fought so hard to keep Oshawa.

Tomorrow night, Fashion-Crafts play Brintons at Central at six, and this should be a honey of a softball fixture. Brintons are made up pretty much of last year's champ Sugar Bowlers, while Johnny Russell went out and rounded himself up a classy-looking squad for the Fashion-Craft lineup. He'll have Chuck Butcher and Dobson for his battery, and here is the rest of the team: McDougall, 3b; Gardiner, cf; Wiley, 2b; Foley, lf; Delahaye, rf; Clarke, 1b; Grainey, ss; and Naish, Gray, Grisdale, Russell and Webb.

You'd never recognize the old hockey arena by stepping into the Brock these days. It has been remodelled for summer dancing and Manager Harold LaPlante has worked wonders with the place. It's truly a work of art now, no mistake. We dropped in yesterday, on the eve of its opening, and couldn't believe our eyes. Has to be seen to be believed and even then you're doubtful! The home of a thousand memorable hockey battles has gone artistic on us.

Back in 1912 we had running horse races here—that's where the jocks ride around on the ponies' necks. At the three-day fair, Scotty Duncan formerly of Peterborough, brought down about a dozen good horses from Dufferin Park and they raced twice daily, with books made and plenty of dough changing hands. However, it was never resumed after that as the track isn't banked properly for this type of racing. But there is still a running horse race charter here, one of the very few towns in Ontario that has one.

St. Andrew's Take 36 To 14 Victory

St. Andrew's pounded out a 36-14 victory over Trinity Juveniles in a Church Softball League game last night at Queen Mary School. A cold wind contributed toward some ragged playing before a handful of shivering fans. Although Vallery of Trinity fanned five the first two frames, his support was bad and the Saints piled up the runs. Freeman who finished had little more aid. Phillips hurled steadily for the winners. Pierce, Davern, McKone and Carr led the hitters.

CANUCKS WANT PLAYERS FOR HOWIE MORENZ

Dandurand Decides to Keep Cude and Places Chabot on Auction Block.

NEEDS PLAYING STRENGTH.

Canadiens' Management Not Consider Any Price for Services of Young Goalie.

MONTREAL, May 16. (CP). — Leo Dandurand, managing director of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League arrived home from Syracuse last night to announce:

1—Wilf Cude definitely will play goal for Canadiens next Winter and Lorne Chabot has been placed on the market at an asking price of $10,000.

2—Howie Morens may remain with the Flying Frenchmen next season. "We have received several flattering offers for Morenz but we want players, not money, and if we do not get adequate playing replacements, we will have Morens with us next season. I know that he is still a great player..."

Detroit's Dandurand added, had asked Canadiens to put a price on Cude, who played brilliantly throughout the season with the Red Wings. "They were very anxious to keep him. We did not even bother to set a price. The boy is such a sensational player we believe he can do us a world of good in next season's race. We offered Detroit Chabot's contract but we have not yet heard their decision."

Amplifying his remarks in regard to Howie Morens, Canadiens' veteran centre, Dandurand said: "If we can assure ourselves of playing material over a period of years by trading Morenz we will do so. If we cannot make a satisfactory deal, we will keep Morenz."

PLAY IS PRESENTED BY GRAFTON SCHOOL

Downeyville Audience is Delighted With Presentation of "She Stoops to Conquer."

DOWNEYVILLE, May 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Parish Hall here was crowded Friday evening when St. Mary's Dramatic Club of Grafton presented their splendid play entitled, "She Stoops to Conquer," Rev. Father Galvin accompanied the troupe, and a large crowd from Downeyville and surrounding places was present.

The play was one of Oliver Goldsmith's and the action takes place at an English country mansion and in a neighboring inn during the year 1773.

The first of the play is a room in Mr. Hardcastle's old mansion, also a room in the "Three Pigeons" rooming house in which the two friends, young Marlow and Hastings, come, and are told by Tony they lost their way and they think they are at the inn instead of the mansion.

In Act II they all meet in the parlour of the mansion and the travellers think Miss Harcastle is the barmaid in the inn, and Tony begins to make mischief.

In the third act Miss Hardcastle "Stoops to Conquer," and in the fourth act young Marlow discovers his mistake and finds out Miss Hardcastle is not a maid and complications arise.

Rev. Father McFadden acted as chairman and between the acts John Winn favored the audience with an Irish jig. Thomas Abraham sang a song, Alvin Perdue sang and the Costello orchestra played several selections.

The costumes were very appropriate and beautiful. The play was both interesting and educative from start to finish and each one acted his and her part well. After the play the C.W.L. of the parish served a lunch and a few hours was spent by all in social intercourse.

A Tired, Worn Out Woman Can't Make a Happy Home

There is no happiness inthe home when the mother is sick and worried by the never ending household duties. She gets run down and becomes nervous and irritable, has shortness of breath, faint and dizzy, can't sleep, and gets up in the morning feeling as tired as she went to bed, and is downhearted and discouraged.

Milburn's H. & N. Pills will soon convince women it is not necessary to suffer, as they build up the nervous system and bring back the former health and vigor.

FUNDAMENTALS OF BASEBALL OUTLINED IN GIFT BOOKLET

Canadian Youngsters Given Chance to Learn Intricacies of Summer Pastime.

HOW TO PLAY THE GAME

Canada's ambitious young ball players who look forward to excelling on the school, college or professional diamond have a unique opportunity to learn the fundamentals and intricacies of the game through a new and "different" baseball book published by the Kellogg Co. well-known manufacturers of Pep, Bran Flakes, Corn Flakes and other cereals.

The feature that distinguishes the book and gives it its outstanding value is the graphic and specific manner in which it covers the many factors that contribute to the making of a great ball player. The cover is in full color and the foreword is a message from Mr. W. K. Kellogg, Founder and President of the Company, in which he stresses the importance of "playing the game" in life itself as well as in sports.

The opening article deals with the problem of determining the position you are really best fitted to play. "Study yourself" is the advice given, and it is pointed out that even great players like Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker had to spend years in perfecting the form that was most natural for them. Learn the best way to do everyyour own style, is the equally sound advice given the young player.

The book's forty-eight pages contain more than forty illustrations and diagrams which supplement the text in explaining such factors as the proper stance in batting, how to grip the ball in throwing a curve, how to slide for bases, where players should stand to play a bunt or to prevent a double steal. Practically every play that enters into the game is covered by text or illustrations, or both. Following the instructive articles come interesting information and figures dealing with the records of great players and the history of the game.

The Kellogg Baseball book has been written by a well-known authority on the game who shows that he thoroughly understands the art of teaching others how to play. Copies of the book can be obtained free from grocers with the purchase of two packages of Kellogg's Pep. In any instance where the grocer does not have the book, a copy can be obtained by sending two Pep package tops direct to the Kellogg Company at London, Canada.

COBOURG INTERMEDIATES TO PLAY HERE SATURDAY

Word was received just before noon to-day that Cobourg would be here Saturday to play an exhibition ball game with the Petes at 3.15 in Stevenson Park. This is the team that formerly played in the C.O.B.L., and last year went to the Intermediate "A" finals to lose out to Dundas. Cobourg has a good team and should give the Petes a real battle and possibly a defeat.

Home Circle Hears Medical Missionary

Dr. Jessie Allyn, a Baptist medical missionary now on furlough from India, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Women's Mission Circle of Murray Street Church last night, when some very fine and educational slides of her work among the different classes of the people of India were shown. Dr. Allyn said that the statistics showed that more than 6,000 people a year for the past six years had been baptized and united with the Canadian Baptist Mission of India. She wore a princess costume last night which was given to her as a wedding garment in which she was to attend the wedding of a prince.

Mrs. Bert Jackson, president of the Circle, presided, and Dr. Allyn was introduced by Mrs. L. J. Pettit. Miss E. J. Aldridge and Mrs. H. H. Graham voiced the appreciation of the audience to Dr. Allyn, and Miss M. A. Nicholls closed the meeting with prayer.

BISHOP OPPOSES CHURCH RAFFLES IN SYNOD CHARGE

Anglican Synod of Toronto Opens St. James' Parish Hall.

NO SUMMER CLOSINGS.

Direct Giving is Ideal Method of Raising Money.

TORONTO, May 16.—Disapproval of the raising of funds for Church used by raffles, draws, dances and card parties was expressed yesterday by Right Rev. Derwyn T. Owen, Bishop of Toronto, at the opening of the eighty-second session of he Anglican Synod of the Diocese of Toronto.

In a firm and unequivocal statement of his opinion and wishes on the subject, the Lord Bishop held up "direct giving" as the ideal manner of providing Church funds, and received from the Synod loud and prolonged applause in endorsation of his stand.

"Entirely Undesirable."

"I have been asked several times" said His Lordship, in his charge to the Synod, "as to the methods of raising money for Church purposes. I am quite clear in my own mind that raising money by 'wheels of fortune,' raffles, draws, dances and cards for church purposes is entirely undesirable, and I express the wish that such will not be resorted to as a means of raising money for the Church in this diocese. I am also clear that direct giving is the ideal method, and is the one which should be held before the people as the one to which we should work.

"At the same time, I am aware," His Lordship continued, "of the strength of the argument that there are some people who are ready to give their work and gifts to the Church, and that in offering for sale, or for entertainment the fruits of such work, or such gifts, they are making a genuine and acceptable offering for the work of the Church. I recognize the force of such argument, and I do not express general disapproval of all indirect ways of raising money, but I ask the Church in this diocese to draw the line in the use of such methods at the place which I have marked."

This portion of Bishop Owen's charge proved the feature of the opening session of the Synod, which will continue until Friday in the St. James' Parish Hall, at Church and Adelaide Streets.

St. Alban's Discussion.

Chief interest centres around the expected discussion on Thursday as to whether St. Alban's shall in future be the cathedral church of the Diocese of Toronto. This contentious question has divided the opinion of clergy and laity for some years, but a final and definite decision is expected on Thursday.

Another matter upon which Bishop Owen expressed himself clearly in his charge yesterday was that of the closing of some churches on summer Sunday evenings. "In the face of the accumulated forces of the pressure of modern life upon church attendance," he said, "I believe that the Church should be at special pains to give to those who wish to worship on the Lord's Day, however, few, the opportunity of so honoring God, and of bearing their witness to the community in which they live."

His Lordship suggested the establishment of a Church fund sufficiently large to lift or ease the burden of debt which was oppressing various branches of its work, and was, he said, producing a spirit of listlessness and discouragement in many indebted parishes. He further declared the need of the simplification and revision of some of the financial machinery of the diocese, saying that certain anomalies, overlapping and complications of operation were noticeable under the present system. He called upon all the trained minds in the Synod and other diocesan bodies to concentrate upon this problem.

Need Spiritual Power.

Nor were the diocese's problems all practical ones, continued His Lordship. "We need spiritual power and revival. We may seek for such with confidence. Not only in this gathering, but to all congregations. I make the request that we seek God's face, and pray for power, and light and revival."

Upon the conclusion of the Bishop's charge, the Synod heard the report of the committee upon the revision of the constitution. After a brief debate, it was agreed to accept the revision as recommended, with the understanding that any amendments which might suggest themselves to delegates by next year be then taken up.

A slight flurry occurred when the question of superannuated clergymen's eligibility to attend the Synod and to vote was discussed. After expressing the opinion that the Synod should not heartlessly exclude retired clergy, and while the discussion was still proceeding, one of the men whose case was under discussion, Rev. H. V. Thompson, formerly of Erindale, walked out of the meeting. He said he felt the past attitude of the Synod was tantamount to ostracism.

When the discussion resumed, Bishop Owen expressed the determination that a "license" in his diocese would not become a mere formality, although he was not personally averse to superannuated clergy being allowed to attend the meeting. It was finally decided to refer this question to the committee which had previously considered it.

Amendment Rejected.

An amendment to the constitution offered by H. Briscoe, and providing for an altered method of electing lay delegates to the Synod, was rejected by the Synod as being too complicated.

Following the explanation of F. A. Brewin of an anomalous situation in regard to the legal status of "pewed" and "free" churches, the Synod ordered that whatever action is necessary be taken to correct the situation. It was revealed that by virtue of a Victorian statute, never repealed, every pewholder of a "pewed" church — of which it was said there were a number in the diocese—formed, regardless of the church wardens or other elected or appointed officials. Mr. Brewin, son of Rev. H. P. Brewin, explained that any pewholder in such a church who might wish to create difficulty through jealousy or other motive could take advantage of this provision unless it were removed from the books.

Yesterday morning the Synod officially opened with the celebration of Holy Communion in St. James' Cathedral.

Last night in the Cathedral of St. Alban the Martyr, around whose status will centre Thursday's long-awaited discussion and decision, was held the annual Synod service. With the traditional ceremony, all clergymen of the diocese took part in the procession from the cathedral hall to the church and, gowned in cassock, surplice, hood and scarf, sat in the front of the cathedral during the service. Also in the procession were the lay representatives to the Synod, the choir, the lay readers, the visiting preacher, and Bishop Owen.

WORK AHEAD FOR THE YOUTH OF CANADA IS ROTARY SUBJECT

Donald Toppin, Premier of Older Boys' Parliament, Club Speaker.

AT CAMPBELLFORD

By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 16. — Youth and the work ahead of youth, to make Canada a glorious example to the rest of the world, was told the Campbellford Rotary Club Monday, when Donald Toppin, premier of the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament, addressed the noon-hour luncheon on the subject, "Canada's Challenge to Youth." A student of Albert College, Belleville, this young orator delivered a splendid address, and in a very forceful manner outlined the opportunities that the youth of the country had to-day, to right many of the world's wrongs that have been brought about by an older generation.

"Never before in the history of the world did such immense responsibilities rest upon the youth of the nations," he said and to-day was heard the great cry for leadership especially Christion leadership.

All the great world problems to-day could only be solved by youth; and it was they alone who could lift this country of ours through diligent labor to a foremost place in world affairs. In all parts of the world youth was taking its place, he pointed out, the Facists in Italy, the Nazi in Germany, Communism in Russia, the Crusaders in Australia, and other movements in other lands —but in Canada, apart from a few scattered movements, there was no organized and Dominion-wide move.

The task before the youth of the nation to-day, Mr. Toppin said, was to make Canada a glowing example of peace, liberty and equality, and to prove to the world that Canada was not only Christian in name but in deed, pointing out that such things as the clash of creeds, the unequal distribution of wealth with extreme poverty, were not conditions to lift a country up.

Canada was in the right position to do this at the present time, the speaker said. She had no enemies; she is a nation, but not overstepping the rights belonging to her, no other country fears her, and she can express her opinions freely although she is part of that great British Commonwealth of nations.

Natural Resources

Her natural resources were also a great benefit, he said, declaring "I believe Canada can make a great contribution to civilization without clashing with the contributions made by other countries to the world in the past."

Asking how Canada was facing the facts of the situation to-day, he said that education was not revealing all it should, politicians dare not reveal the truth, even when they knew it, and religion had become dogmatic, with the result that movements had sprung up in a sense of extreme emergency.

"We had been left a great heritage by our forefathers, especially in the realm of the material," Mr. Toppin said, but stressed the fact that they had failed youth. The power of a few to make war and sacrifice the lives of millions of the youth of the country was wrong he declared, and so was the misguided patriotism that was responsible for the Great War in 1914. The capitalists had sought for fame and power and had offered youth a cup that in 1929 was shattered, and then came the great depression, which was responsible for the warping of the lives of thousands, especially of the youth of the nation.

"We as young Canadians are looking over a queer old world," he said, "a world made ugly by the selfishness and greed of man — a world in which two per cent. of the population controls sixty-six per cent. of them. Can we prevent radical thinking, going to the extreme—can we be a Christian country when these conditions exist?" he asked.

Abuse of Authority

It was not the authority given men that lead to all the wrong the speaker stressed, but the abuse of this authority. To-day a new power had sprung up, where all the wealth of the world was in the hands of a few. There was no group of men to whom to go with this great problem, and many silly solutions were offered for it. "If we, the youth of the country, have to face another war, it will be because we are cowards, afraid to face the facts," he said. "Everything in the future depends upon you;" Premier Bennett had told the speaker, he said, "you as youth hold within your hands the power to establish a better country."

Youth was on the march, the speaker said, but which way, depended on their power to raise or lower the standards of society. They could be raised though if there was a willingness to devote themselves to the cause of liberty and justice.

"We must accept the challenge," Mr. Toppin declared, and bequeath to future generations a greater and better Canada—a Christian commonwealth."

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Dwight Bennett, a vote of thanks to him being sponsored by Rotarian Stanley Neale. Present at the luncheon was Master Jack Carr, son of Mayor H. N. Carr of Campbellford, who sold more bonds for the boys' parliament than any other boy in Campbellford, and so gains the silver pin. Rotarian Clarence Williams handled the gavel.

MARYLEBONE, England (C.P.). —H. C. A. Bingley, magistrate for many years, described as "the just but soft-hearted magistrate," is retiring from the bench, and many a "down and outer" will miss his sympathy and kindness.

Millbrook

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mr. E. L. Burnham, and Mrs. H. Nattress motored to Toronto on Thursday to visit Miss Margaret McConnell, who has been ill in the General Hospital for the past three months. Margaret has made many friends locally who will be glade to know that slow progress toward recovery is being made.

The District Executive of the East Durham Women's Institute met at the home of the District Secretary, Mrs. J. R. Eakins, on Wednesday to consider arrangements for the annual meeting; the tentative date being June 19.

The anniversary occasion of the Men's Bible Class of St. Andrew's Sunday School will be observed on Sunday, May 27, afternoon and evening. The speaker for the afternoon will be Rev. Dr. McTavish of Oshawa, and for the evening service, Alex Ross of Toronto. Special music at both services. The usual entertainment on the following Monday evening is being dispensed with this year.

The annual quilting of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Church was held on Wednesday, workers going in the morning and putting three quilts in the frames; a later contingent arriving at 1 p.m. and continuing throughout the afternoon at the task. Twenty-eight women in all were present for the quilting, and the president, Mrs W. W. Jones, led in a brief service of worship at 3 p.m..

The Sunshine Mission Band, under its leader, Mrs. P. Stinson, served tea at 5 o'clock; assistants being Miss Phyllis Kidd, Mrs. F. A. Kidd, Mrs. Jones, and Mrs. Ross Edmunds. An autographed quilt made by the Golden Links Mission Circle, in 1925, with a block set apart in the centre for the officers, and another block for the C.G.I.T. executive of that year, was displayed for sale.

Splinter Is Removed From Dog By Dentist

It is not news when a dog bites a man, but if the man bites the dog that alters the complexion of things and warrants its appearance in type.

Similarly if a man pays a visit to his dentist that is too commonplace an event to warrant even passing interest, except perhaps to the patient himself, but if the patient happens to be a dog that again is news.

Recently a springer spaniel owned by Alex L. Elliott got a large splinter of hardwood securely and painfully embedded between his teeth. Eforts to remove the splinter and relieve the animal's suffering proved futile. As a last resort the dog's master took the suffering animal to Dr. Ralph Honey, and the latter skilfully removed the splinter with a pair of forceps.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

CHICAGO GRAIN

Influenced by reports that a large part of drought-stricken crops Northwest were almost at the point of collapse, wheat prices yesterday scored sharp gains.

At the maximum the wheat market was up 2¼c a bushel overnight, but profit-taking caused some reaction. Field observers said that with every day of continued lack of moisture the damage to spring wheat would become increasingly severe, and that in many places complete failure of plant life appeared probable in three to ten days.

Wheat closed firm, 1c to 1½c above Monday's finish; corn ½c to ¾c up; oats, 1c to 1¼c advanced, and provisions showing a rise of 10c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Fractional price movements prevailed on te Montreal Produce and Dairy Market yesterday.

MISS ETHEL KIDD.

WARSAW, May 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of Miss Ethel Kidd took place on Sunday afternoon. The service was held at the home of her brother, Bruce Kidd, where Rev. The bearers were four nephews: Harold Ray, Hilliard Ray, Arnold Bell, Elmer Bell, Everett Kidd and Raymond Armstrong.

Miss Kidd had been ill for several years. She was a faithful member and active worker in Warsaw Baptist Church, and sang in the choir. Even when health began to fail she did not give up her church work until she could no longer carry on, nor stop her attendance so long as she was able to be there.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kidd, and is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Bert Ray, near Warsaw, and Mrs. William Bell, Warsaw; three brothers: Mr. Bruce Kidd and Mr. Percy Kidd of Dummer and Mr. Gordon Kidd of Renfrew.

The pall-bearers were her sons, John and Michael, Dr. R. Devlin, Dennis Begley, Joseph Towns and William Towns.

The many spiritual tributes received and the largely attended funeral testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

LEGISLATURE IS DISSOLVED BATTLE IS ON

Henry's Manifesto With Grounds of Appeal Not Yet Ready.

NOMINATIONS JUNE 12.

Hepburn Will Resign Seat at Ottawa—Spend Time Campaigning.

TORONTO, May 17 (C.P.)—The men who guide Ontario's political parties to-day scanned their campaign programs and counted the days until the trek to the polls will start to decide those who shall govern the province for another four years. Premier George S. Henry stirred into further activity a band of campaigners when he announced polling day as June 19, earlier than most forecasts.

His announcement was met with "delight" by Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal Leader, who immediately announced he would resign as Liberal member in the House of Commons for West Elgin to devote all his time to his Ontario campaigning. He declared he not only expected to add to his 15 followers in the Legislature, but that the people of the Province would put an end to the "reactionary Tory Government headed by Premier Henry."

Premier George S. Henry, who had 84 supporters in the Government that was dissolved last night by the Lieutenant-Governor through Order-in-Council, set June 12 for the official nominations, and advance polling June 16 and 16. He did not issue his manifesto, which is expected this week-end and may contain important annoucements for farmers of the Province.

It was a brief announcement the

WHEAT PARLEY SOLUTION NEAR

Pact Expected to Allow Argentina 30,000,000 Extra Bushel Export.

AVOID BREAK-DOWN.

LONDON, May 17 (AP)—A definite arrangement whereby the 1933 wheat agreement will be saved from collapse and Argentina will be permitted to export about 30,000,000 more bushels of wheat this year than the agreement calls for was said in wheat circles to-day to be expected momentarily.

An important announcement by the Argentina Government, that it will entirely or virtually cease its heavy outlay of seed loans to wheat farmers and take measures to encourage the production of linseed and corn instead was expected to be made simultaneously, according to the same sources.

The announcement of this new "wheat treaty" was hoped for either from Buenos Aires or by Omas A. Le Breton, of Argentina, in Paris.

It was said that the final approval of this agreement now rests with the government at Buenos Aires and that there are strong indications it will be accepted.

The proposed permission for Argentina to exceed her quote would be arranged through a "loan" of quotas granted Canada, the United States and Australia. The United States and Australia would each yield two parts of the Argentine increase and Canada would yield one part.

Incendiary Fires Break Out in Kingston Penitentiary

Fires starting in at least four different places at Kingston Penitentiary destroyed the great dome in the centre of the prison, the scene of the rioting last year. The fires are believed to have been set by prisoners. No injuries resulted, and no rioting has been reported among the prisoners who were reported housed in ther cells when fire broke out. Great clouds of smoke covered the city and attracted large crowds to the scene. The above picture shows the smoke issuing from over the walls.

150 Year Axe Head

BLIND RIVER, Ont., May 17. (CP).—While walking along an Indian trail, centuries old but now fallen into disuse, near here, Mrs. Susan Niganobe, of Mississauga, found an axe head which Indians claim is at least 150 years old.

When Mrs. Niganobe tried to pick the axe-head up she found that the root of a dead maple tree, two feet in diameter at the base of the trunk, had grown through the eye of it.

When the axe head was retrieved from its resting place by cutting the roots the eye was found to have been considerably enlarged through the pressure of the growing root on it. Provincial constable John Brown, Blind river, is sending it on to Inspector Wm. Stringer, of the Provincial Police, Toronto, to add to his collection of Indian relics.

RUMOR INSULL VISITED BY FORD

World's Fair Discussed in Brief Meet Says Chicago Paper.

SECRET CALL.

CHICAGO, May 17.—(AP)— The Herald and Examiner said Henry Ford Tuesday paid a secret visit to the hospital room of Samuel Insull, deposed utilities magnate.

The Detroit industrial leader, the paper said, spent 15 minutes in a chat with Insull, then boarded his train.

There was no confirmation of the visit at St. Luke's hospital, but the Herald and Examiner said it was understood the conversation turned to the world's fair, the late Thomas A. Edison, who was close to both men, and the Insull affairs in court.

During his tour of the exposition grounds, according to the newspaper, Ford had expressed sympathy for Insull and intimated he felt the former utilities executive was a victim of circumstances in which New York bankers had an important part.

Early in 1932, just before the crash that carried the Insull utilities down, it was rumored but never verified that Insull had sought a loan from Ford, going to the automobile magnate because of his independence of Wall street bankers.
